GOV. SMITH INDICATES HE WILL DENY PLEAS OF SNYDER SLAYERS

Argument That Condemned Pair Were in 'Twilight Zone' of Insanity Is Rejected.

DEFENSE HAS LITTLE HOPE

RELATIVES HEAR APPEALS

Insurance Suit Affords Chance to Delay Execution—Court May Order Mrs. Snyder to Testify.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 5.—Four lawyers made their last appeal to Governor Smith today for the lives of Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray. To all outward appearances the plea was in vain.

The Governor has given no indication when he will make his decision. He will be in New York tomorrow.

For one hour and a half in the Executive Chamber, crowded with legislators, State officials and State Troopers in plain clothes, counsel for the doomed pair argued and pleaded while the Governor listened quietly, impassively, at times nervously swinging his spectacles in his hands. They painted Mrs. Snyder, who with Gray murdered her husband, Albert Snyder, in their Queens Village home last March, as "a wonderful mother and a loving wife." They described Gray as "a Sunday school teacher, kindly and sympathetic."

Then they accounted for "the unaccountable crime" by ascribing it to a "twilight zone" of insanity—symptoms of epilepsy in the case of Mrs. Snyder, strange subjugation to "another world," dominated by Mrs. Snyder, in the case of Gray.

At that point Governor Smith interposed questions. The dialogue between him and the lawyers brought forth a drama of life and death as the fortunes of the two persons in the Sing Sing death house seemed to ebb and flow with the discussion.

Senator Caleb H. Baumes, Chairman of the State Crime Commission, sat at the Governor's left. Almost hidden by the crowd was Mrs. Margaret C. Gray, mother of the prisoner, who sat with her daughter, Mrs. Margaret C. Logan, not far from Mrs. Josephine Brown, mother of Mrs. Snyder. Mrs. Gray wept silently.

Governor Questions Lawyer.

"Was anything put into Gray's defense as to his insanity?" the Governor asked abruptly. William J. Millard, one of Gray's lawyers, admitted there had been nothing of the sort. He explained that the theory of a "dominating spell" and a partial psychosis could not figure in the trial under the law, but should be an element in consideration of a clemency appeal.

Then, more and more plainly as the discussion progressed, the Governor brought out that he could not set on words which the statute did not contemplate and a theory which he thought was in opposition to it.

"Let me say this to you," the Governor asserted, summing up his views for Edgar F. Hazelton, one of Mrs. Snyder's attorneys; "there is always some abnormality about a person who commits a crime. No one should be held accountable for his acts, according to your reasoning, unless he were a strong-minded person, intellectually unyielding and unbending, impervious to influences, and 100 per cent. conscious of right and wrong.

"What about these influences? One attorney comes to me and pleads: This man was brought up on the streets, without a home, without a mother, without education. He never had a chance. Let him go. Then another attorney comes and says: This was a good boy, brought up in a good family with all advantages, a Sunday school teacher, respected, until this terrible, unaccountable thing happened. Let him go. What are we to think?"

"But if there is question of psychosis and mental unaccountability," Mr. Hazelton broke in, "it is just for the Executive to consider it in an appeal for clemency."

Not Concerned With Psychosis.

"I am not concerned with this psychosis business," the Governor replied, "and while you are talking about Executive clemency there is a background for me. Too, and that is the law and my oath of office to uphold it. Keep out all this other stuff."

"But St. Paul says, 'The letter of the law killeth but the spirit giveth life,'" retorted the attorney.

"The Legislature has said something about that, and there is a later expression of the law than St. Paul's," responded the Executive.

"It is an expression but not a later construction of the law. His is the cardinal construction," the lawyer insisted.

The Governor gathered up his papers.

"Well, if there is nothing more the hearing is closed," he said.

The Governor gave no direct replies to the requests of both sides for a thirty-day reprieve in order that he might consult the physicians who originally examined the prisoners before trial or for commutation of the sentence of death, which is to become effective, unless the Gov-

Friends Propose Bill to Let Gov. Smith Practice Law

The suggestion that the present Legislature might pass a bill admitting Governor Smith to the practice of law, to take effect on the expiration of his term of office in 1929, was made yesterday among a group of the Governor's friends in Tammany Hall and received favorable comment. The proviso was made that such a bill, of course, would have to be acceptable to the Governor and that the clash between the present Republican majority in the Legislature and the Governor at this session would not assume an aspect that would make passage of such a bill impossible.

Although a layman, Governor Smith is considered to have an expert knowledge of all law touching the State Government and to be an authority on the State Constitution. It was learned that a prominent law firm would be willing to take the Governor into membership, if he should become qualified, and guarantee him earnings of at least $50,000 a year.

WANTS TO SEIZE I.R.T. IF IT WON'T BUY CARS

ATTACKS ROAD'S FINANCING

Threat of seizure by the city of all or part of the subways now being operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company in case it refused to comply with the expected order of the Transit Commission to buy 432 new cars was made yesterday by Samuel Untermyer, special counsel of the commission, at the final hearing on this matter.

Denouncing the congestion in the Interborough subways as intolerable, indecent and dangerous to public health, Mr. Untermyer declared that he would recommend that the commission issue the order. He said that seizure of the subways by the city under the terms of its contract with the company would be a last resort and declared that testimony before the commission showed that the company, despite its plea of poverty, would have enough money to buy new cars or finance their purchase by the issuance of equipment trust certificates. Mr. Untermyer added that he was confident that, regardless of the company's financial situation, the courts would compel the company to buy the cars anyway, as it had been shown that their purchase was necessary to relieve congestion and that the present congestion was a menace to public health.

Indicates Appeal to Court.

Ralph Norton, of counsel for the Interborough, indicated the intention of the company to appeal to the courts from any car purchase order the commission might issue. Mr. Norton asserted that any such order would be arbitrary and unjust and would prevent the company from getting a fair return on its investments. In the latter contention was seen a move on the part of the company to get a court determination on the rate of fare and possibly an attempt to bring the matter of an increased fare before the United States Supreme Court.

Mr. Norton asserted that there had been no evidence that the Interborough subway service was inadequate. He declared that enforcement of an order to buy new cars would take property of the company without due process of law, in violation of the Constitution of the United States, and would interfere with the company in its right to control its own policy.

Mr. Untermyer, summing up the evidence, said that the Interborough had resisted the purchase of new cars on two grounds, that its financial condition was such that it could not finance their purchase and that additional cars would not improve its service.

He asserted that financial inability, constituted no defense and quoted United States Supreme Court Justice Holmes as having said, in an Erie Railroad case, in which danger to life and limb was involved:

"Even if the railway company is bankrupt, it must discharge this duty or stop operations."

Attacks I. R. T.'s Fiscal Policy.

Mr. Untermyer declared that, if the Interborough was financially unable to furnish the required cars, which he denied, it was because of its absurd financial structure. The original stockholders paid only $31,620,000 for $35,000,000 par value of stock, he said, and the company from 1904 to 1919 "frittered away" $66,625,000 in dividends.

"With only $21,000,000 capital actually paid in by its stockholders it has erected and pyramided over $200,000,000 of bonded debt secured by mortgages covering its entire assets," Mr. Untermyer continued. "It has ample borrowing power on the basis of assets and earning power. After making all interest and sinking fund payments on its entire funded and other debt, the net earnings of its subway division were $6,290,000 for the year ended June 30, 1927, after allowing for an exceptional loss of almost $2,000,000 due to a strike of its employes. For this year the profits are at a still higher rate and they are constantly mounting."

Mr. Untermyer said that the cost

OUR PEACE TREATY PROPOSAL ACCEPTED FORMALLY BY BRIAND

IS WARNED BY COLLEAGUES

BRYAN TREATY PUZZLES

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—It is learned that in a reply which B. Briand sent tonight to Secretary Kellogg through Ambassador Claudel accepting in principle the proposal of the American Secretary of State for a multilateral treaty outlawing war as an instrument of national policy, the French Foreign Minister asked that the formula be framed as a solemn declaration against "wars of aggression."

It is apparent that M. Briand attaches no small importance to this point, and that is easy to understand. The Covenant of the League of Nations provides for wars of assistance by League members to other League members victims of aggression, and, naturally, M. Briand does not wish to join in proposing to members of the League a new obligation which might run contrary to their obligations as League members if they agreed not to go to war in any case.

Furthermore, the point is made that certainly Mr. Kellogg does not mean to have any nation agree not to fight to defend itself if attacked. Therefore, it is contended, the expression "aggressive war" is more fortunate than the simple term "war."

Think Washington Will Accept.

It is believed at the Quai d'Orsay that Washington will be willing to accept the suggestion, since it is argued that war as a national policy, which Mr. Kellogg would ban, means aggressive war.

This same point was argued at considerable length during the last Assembly of the League, with the result that the resolution introduced by Poland and finally voted pledged the League members not to resort to "aggressive war."

The effect of adopting the Briand suggestion would be somewhat equivalent to America subscribing to the Polish resolution voted at Geneva in September.

It is true that this brings up the question of how, in case of war, an aggressor nation would be named and consideration of this will form another chapter in the negotiations between Washington and Paris.

For the first time today other Cabinet members mixed actively in the negotiations by informing M. Briand that they expected him to safeguard all the rights and positions of the League of Nations.

Still Puzzled Over Bryan Treaty.

The attitude of the Washington Government toward the Bryan treaty of 1914, as explained in dispatches from the American capital, is not understood here.

The Washington authorities are quoted as saying that the Bryan treaty provided only for conciliation not binding on the contracting parties, whereas the proposed Kellogg treaty is really an arbitration treaty. But it is pointed out here that the Kellogg treaty proposes to reserve the right of the Senate to accept or reject any arbitration decision, so that in effect it does not provide for binding arbitration.

In other words, it is construed that Mr. Kellogg suggests in reality a conciliation treaty rather than an arbitration treaty, and inasmuch as the Bryan treaty includes all issues

Vessel Grounds in Bahamas; Believed Belgian Naval Ship

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP).—The Tropical Radio Telegraph Company at Hialeah has picked up messages from Nassau saying that the sailing schooner L'Avenir, believed to be the Belgian training ship L'Avenir, was on a sandbank east of Nassau.

A tug has gone from Key West to assist the schooner, radio messages said.

Dispatches received here indicated that the boat was helpless, but not in immediate danger of going to pieces on the rocks.

A message picked up from the steamer W. W. Mills said that it was going to the aid of the stricken vessel.

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP).—L'Avenir, Belgium training bark, left here Dec. 28 for Delfzyl, Holland, with 3,100 tons of phosphate.

The vessel carries sixty-four Belgian naval cadets. She remained here more than a month on her cruise to this country.

COMMANDER'S BODY FOUND

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 5.—The Coast Guard destroyer Paulding was scouting for some 300 rum-running vessels gathered off the New England coast on Dec. 17 when it ran down the submarine S-4 near Provincetown, according to testimony given today at the naval court of inquiry, which is investigating here the loss of the submarine and the failure to rescue any of the forty men aboard.

Commander Leroy Reinberg, head of the Coast Guard destroyer squadron for New England and counsel for Lieut. Commander John Bayliss, commander of the Paulding, revealed the rum-chasing activities of his squadron in a drawl almost confidential in tone. He justified the presence of the Paulding at Provincetown on the fatal day by saying:

"We had knowledge that very day that one of our most astute enemies was in those waters."

Engine Trouble Suspected.

Two other witnesses took the stand today. The examination of one, Lieut. Commander Edmund W. Strother, commander of the submarine division to which the S-4 was attached, brought forward the suggestion that Lieut. Commander Roy K. Jones, commanding officer of the S-4, and Lieutenant Joseph A. McGinley, his chief assistant, whose bodies were found yesterday in the engine room with that of a third man, had gone there because of engine trouble just before the S-4 was struck by the Paulding.

Lieutenant Frank Worden, commander of the S-3, sister ship of the S-4, estimated that while the S-4, running submerged, could have seen the Paulding approaching for six minutes it was possible for the Paulding to have observed the submarine for only two minutes before the crash.

The witness also admitted that the marked out test course for submarines lay in the path of ships entering Provincetown Harbor from several Cape Cod Wireless stations, since 1926, he said, had contained a note telling about the flying of warning signals by submarine tenders while undersea vessels were cruising

E. W. Marland to Marry Adopted Daughter; Oil Man Plans Wedding Within a Month

E. W. Marland, President of the Marland Oil Company, and one of the wealthiest oil men of the Southwest, confirmed yesterday at the Hotel Plaza reports of his engagement to Miss Lydie Miller Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Robert, of Philadelphia. Miss Roberts, who is 28 years old, was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Marland in 1916, and has since borne the name of Marland. Mrs. Marland died two years ago.

The engagement of Mr. Marland, who is 58, and Miss Roberts, it was said, was formally announced over a month ago at Ponca City, Okla., where he resides. They arrived in New York last Monday after spending the holidays in Mississippi, and with them at the Plaza are George Marland, brother of the young woman, also adopted by Mr. Marland and the late Mrs. Marland in 1916, and Colonel and Mrs. Franklin R. Kenney of Los Angeles.

The wedding will take place at the home of the parents of the bride-elect in Philadelphia within the next month.

Mr. Marland's activities have centred in the West ever since oil was found in Oklahoma, but he was born in Pittsburgh. He attended the University of Pittsburgh and was graduated in law at the University of Michigan in 1898. In 1905 he began on his oil career by opening the Congo district in West Virginia. In 1906 he went to Oklahoma and took part in the oil development there.

Recently Mr. Marland commissioned the building of a monument to "The Pioneer Woman" as a gift to the nation, near Ponca City, in the Cherokee Strip, the last land allotted to homesteaders by the Government. Last month the model for the memorial by Bryant Baker of this city was selected.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—News of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Lydie Miller Roberts, to Ernest W. Marland, oil millionaire, came as a shock to Mrs. George F. Roberts, who refused to discuss the coming marriage, at her home on Old Mill Road, in Flourtown, late today. She broke down and wept when she learned of the engagement, regretting particularly Mr. Marland's reference to the adoption of the girl. She refused to discuss her daughter's reasons for leaving her parents.

SENATE SIDETRACKS MOTIONS ATTACKING POLICY IN NICARAGUA

Adjournment Blocks Heflin's Effort to Get Vote on Withdrawing Marines.

HE ASSAILS "SECRET WAR"

Sees Influences of "Wall Street and the Roman Catholic Hierarchy" at Work.

WHEELER ASKS FOR INQUIRY

State Department Denies Heavy Losses by Marines—Rescue Column Reaches Quilali.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—In the face of determined efforts by Senator Heflin, Democrat, of Alabama, to continue debate on the Administration's Nicaraguan policy and force a vote on his resolution to withdraw the marines from that country, Senate leaders today agreed to adjourn until Monday.

Members of a group who charge that the Administration sent the marines to protect American financial investments and is conducting an unjust "war" against that country, were deeply stirred by the action, and declared that adjournment was ordered to check further criticism on the eve of the President's departure for the Pan-American Conference in Cuba.

This was denied by Administration leaders, who answered by stating that a recess was taken merely because there was nothing on the Senate calendar to warrant holding that body in session.

The attacks on the Administration's policy came from two sources. Senator Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana offered a sharply worded resolution directing the Foreign Relations Committee or some other committee to determine how American concessions were obtained in Nicaragua. Senator Heflin, who submitted his resolution for immediate withdrawal of the marines yesterday, supported his stand in a fiery speech.

Fess Reads Record on Heflin.

Senator Fess, Republican, of Ohio, an Administration supporter, sprung a surprise on Senator Heflin, who had accused the White House and State Department of acting to promote war without Congressional authority. Reading from the Congressional Record of April 29, 1914, Mr. Fess quoted Mr. Heflin, then a member of the House, as saying, when President Wilson landed marines at Vera Cruz:

"Now that the Commander-in-Chief has found it necessary to send battleships, it is the duty of every member of Congress and every patriotic American citizen to stand by him."

Mr. Heflin replied that the two cases were not similar. He said that Mr. Wilson sent troops when the President of Mexico, Madero, had been murdered, but withdrew them later.

"Today," Mr. Heflin continued, "Mr. President, started this war while Congress was not in session, and it keeps on while Congress is in session."

Senator Heflin asked unanimous consent for the Senate to remain in session tomorrow and Saturday, but he was reminded that an adjournment agreement had been made early in the day. When he argued that only a few Senators must have heard this agreement, he was sharply rebuked by Senator Robinson, the Democratic floor leader.

Later in the afternoon Mr. Heflin again asked for continuous session, but Senator Willis, Republican, of Ohio, refused consent. Senator Heflin obtained the floor shortly before the time set for adjournment.

"I'm not willing to adjourn until Monday without a protest," he exclaimed. "I don't want another American boy killed down there. Why do we want to adjourn? Is it for the purpose of rushing another 1,000 men there?"

Saying he wanted other Senators to aid him in preventing adjournment and help let "the fathers and mothers of the country know about this secret war," Mr. Heflin added:

"If we permit this to go on, we ought to resign. There are men at home who can come here and won't be controlled by the golden wand of Wall Street."

The two "devilish influences at work," to continue war, he said, were "the money power of Wall Street and the Roman Catholic hierarchy."

Bingham Cites Stimson Agreement.

Replying to Mr. Heflin, Senator Bingham, Republican, of Connecticut, related details of Henry L. Stimson's visit to Nicaragua on a mission for President Coolidge and said that all the Liberal Generals except Sandino agreed to cease hostilities and await the election next August. He stated also that the great majority of the Liberals in Nicaragua looked with satisfaction on the attitude of the United States.

"There is a great deal of misrepresentation about Sandino who, in early twenties, is revitalizing country plantations and selling the coffee at low prices," said Senator Bingham. He added that General Moncada charged Sandino with murdering his enemies, both Liberal and Conservative, and with being cruel to prisoners.

"Sandino," Mr. Bingham stated,

PARIS, Jan. 5.—The International Aeronautical Federation's gold medal for the greatest achievement in aviation in 1927 was unanimously voted to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh for his transatlantic flight, at the semi-annual meeting of the Federation in Paris today. Delegates from twenty nations attended.

At the same time it was announced that June 30 had been set for the James Gordon Bennett balloon race, to be held at Detroit, and that Jacques Schneider, founder of the Schneider Cup race, who was present at the meeting, had endorsed a plan to hold the Schneider race biennally, instead of annually as heretofore. This means that the next Schneider race will be held in England in 1929. The British, through their victory at Venice last September, now hold one leg on the cup, which will be awarded outright to the nation winning three out of five races.

After considerable discussion the Federation decided that it could not recognize officially the altitude record of Captain Hawthorne Gray of the United States Army, who lost his life during an attempt, because he failed to land in possession of his instruments, as provided by the rules. But as recognition of the dead officer's feat the Federation homologated Gray's record "with tribute."

The American delegates to the conference were Sidney B. Veit and Barton S. Young, Military Air Attaché at Paris. Tonight the delegates were guests at a dinner given by the Aero Club of France.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 5.—Today's trip from Tegucigalpa was straight flying with perfect weather and no difficulty of any sort.

I flew high most of the way to Managua because of the mountains and think I averaged about 5,000 feet.

Every day's flight I have had in Latin America has shown me some new phase of the beautiful scenery of which I had always heard and today was no exception.

What interested me most were the volcanoes. I saw several of them after crossing the borders of Honduras and Nicaragua at the River Negro, which runs into the Gulf of Fonseca.

First Flight Over Volcanoes.

It was not my first view of volcanoes, but it was the first time I had a chance to fly over them and I took advantage of the opportunity to do a little sightseeing on the way.

I left Tegucigalpa at 11:35 this morning and planned to be in Managua at 2 o'clock. However, I didn't know there was twenty minutes' difference in time and when I landed I discovered I was behind the schedule planned here.

As Tegucigalpa has an elevation of 3,000 feet and the surrounding mountains have 6,000 feet, it was necessary to climb steadily from the start to clear them.

Keeps 8,000 Feet Altitude.

I went to 8,000 feet and stayed there most of the time until I was well into Nicaragua.

The course followed lay straight from Tegucigalpa to Leon, an important Nicaraguan town near the Pacific Coast where I would be able to pick up the railroad and follow it to my destination.

There was a fairly stiff headwind, but not enough seriously to cut down my running time.

Just as I was getting out of the mountain country, halfway on the flight, I saw the Gulf of Fonseca on my right. It is a picturesque body of water with a volcanic island rising from its midst.

From there on the Pacific was almost continually in sight dimly on the western horizon until I landed.

Circles First Volcano.

After an hour and a half of flying I came to the first volcano, which was extinct. I flew around it and observed it carefully, as it was the first I had ever seen from the air.

It consisted of three concentric craters within one large one. Trees were growing in the craters, so I suppose it must have been long inactive. I looked it up on the map and found it was El Viejo. It has an elevation of 5,800 feet.

The second volcano was only half a mile distant and it was probably about 2,000 feet lower. It had a large crater, probably half a mile in diameter and it was fairly level at the bottom. Inside it was entirely covered by green sod but had no trees.

Smoking Craters Mark Path.

The third volcano was fifteen miles further on and I was extremely interested in it because it was active and smoking heavily. It had no foliage at all, nor any trace of vegetation. It was burning on one side and this side was very yellow, which I took to be sulphur.

It was throwing off dense fumes. I crossed over a thousand feet above it. It might have been possible to go down into it, but I felt I had no time for that.

From then on the route seemed marked by volcanoes which were smoking all around me. The last one was Momotombo, close to Managua.

1,000 Feet Above Leon.

On this journey I flew as high as 11,000 feet, and at Leon came down to 1,000, where I saw the people running to see the plane. I circled around the town two or three times, then went up again, and kept to a high altitude until I was nearing Managua.

Managua is easy to pick up because it is on a lake. The field was well marked and there was plenty of room to land.

I was very glad to meet the marine fliers on my arrival here.

I was not troubled by air currents on the journey and noticed a number of available landing places, more, in fact, than at any time since leaving Mexico City.

An air service between Tegucigalpa and Managua should be entirely feasible.

'A FINE BOY,' SAYS DIAZ

Staff Correspondent of The New York Times. Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.

By Tropical Radio.

MANAGUA, Jan. 5.—Fiery Nicaragua saw a hero today such as it never dreamed could exist.

When news of Lindbergh's conquest of the Atlantic came to Nicaragua last Spring the romantic Spanish Americans pictured him as the sort of a hero they knew—a "bravo," a youth soaring across the ocean to glory or death as one of their own might do. As they heard more of him and his sojourn calm in became a superman and a demi-god to these warm-souled people of the Tropics.

He was a demi-god to them today as the silver-winged Spirit of St. Louis came through the red haze which lay on the Western horizon and manoeuvred as effortlessly as a bird.

Then, after that breathless moment at the landing after the plane had finally come to rest and Colonel Lindbergh had stepped out to the "Bravos" and "Viva Lindberghs" of the 15,000 persons on the flying field, they discovered the same slyly smiling, quietly friendly youth who had won the hearts of the great cities of the world by making no effort to do so.

This Northern conqueror was as different in manner from the exuberant Nicaraguans as can be conceived, yet they understood him in a flash and loved him.

"The City Is Yours."

"He's a fine boy—a fine boy," exclaimed the dignified but beaming President Diaz after he had met the aviator at the Presidential palace.

"Modest, just as they have said," remarked the smiling Mayor José Maria Zelaya, who greeted Colonel Lindbergh on behalf of the municipality.

"The city is yours," added Mayor Zelaya. "If you can't take it away with you, we'll take care of it for you."

"Señor Lindbergh, did you really cross the Atlantic," asked one Nicaraguan journalist, struggling with the obvious unbelief that one so unassuming could have accomplished a feat so courageous.

Managua's Greatest Celebration.

The "Mecca," taking a day off from the coffee plantations, reared with amusement when Colonel Lindbergh in his first public speech from the balcony of the national palace replied in fourteen words of thanks to the elaborate and beautifully worded address of welcome made by former Minister José Andres Urtecho, who received him on behalf of the nation in place of President Diaz, who is too ill for professional responsibilities.

It was undoubtedly the greatest celebration in the history of Managua and Managua existed before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth. The capital's entire population of 35,000 saw Colonel Lindbergh, and as he rode through the gaily decorated streets they did the most picturesque thing to raining Broadway ticker tape on him.

Señoritas threw kisses and raised roses, lilies and scarlet "chains of love." Men tore paper flags to pieces and dropped them on the passing flier. A cheering restaurant man sprinkled the dusty street with champagne.

Couriers Announce Approach.

The 15,000 had gathered at the United States Marine flying field on the volcanic plain two miles east of the city long before Colonel Lindbergh was sighted. Free trains brought hordes of cheering children. When the news came that the flier had hopped off from Tegucigalpa at 11:36 A. M., mounted couriers of the Nicaraguan National Guard rode through the streets, shouting through megaphones "Lindbergh's on the way!" and a motor cavalcade of Nicaragua's most prominent citizens, high officers, cabinet and leaders of the American and European colonies started for the field.

The throng strained its eyes for an hour against the cloudless sky and mopped its faces in the blistering sun. There was a heavy head wind, and the crowd was anxious as 2 o'clock passed without the spirit of St. Louis appearing.

Then at 2:20 a shout went up as a few persons saw the plane soaring from the northwest over the mountains which embrace Managua and its rippling lake, coming on past the steaming volcano Monotombo and pausing to circle over Managua.

Zeoats Up in Salute.

Colonel Lindbergh came down gently to within a few feet of the ground, then shot almost straight aloft in the zooming salute he so loves to give.

The thousands watched breathlessly as he straightened out, veered around the field and then brought the plane to earth so softly that he stirred no more dust than a passing breeze.

The official landing time was 2:25. Marines rushed forward to guard the plane and only a few privileged ones got near Colonel Lindbergh until the United States Chargé d'Affaires, Dana G. Munro, Nicaraguan officials and the marine commanders had greeted him.

Colonel Lindbergh then entered a car with Mr. Munro and the official Nicaraguan welcomers and rode to the city in an avenue lined with mangoes and palms, while the marine planes roared a salute overhead and the thousands who had seen him land trudged through the dust to Managua for another glimpse of the hero.

Avoids the Zone of Hostilities.

By The Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Jan. 5.—Laying a course from Tegucigalpa which carried him down the western border of Nicaragua to Leon and thence to Managua, thus avoiding the zone of hostilities between United States marines and Sandino's guerrillas, Colonel Lindbergh flew more than the 185 miles of air line distance between the two capitals when he came down at Managua this afternoon.

The thousands who had assembled at the flying field, most of whom had been there since early morning to watch the coming of the "Lone Eagle," which is the name above all others that Nicaraguans prefer to call him, shouted themselves hoarse when they saw the Spirit of St. Louis approaching.

Small children struggled and tugged in the arms of their parents to get a better view, and beautiful señoritas, modishly gowned, forgot the dust and their fine clothes and joined the sprinting masses in the rush to be there the plane when it came to earth.

Diaz Welcome in English.

A beautifully decorated field greeted the airman. In a prominent place a huge sign in white block letters stood out clearly, the inscription, "Republica de Nicaragua Bienvenido"—being Nicaragua's welcome. The great field of more than 100 acres was marked with flags and banners.

After greetings at the field Colonel Lindbergh was taken directly to the historic Campo de Marte, the home of President Adolfo Diaz, who was waiting. The President greeted the flier most cordially, expressing his pleasure at his safe arrival and promising that the Nicaraguans would do everything to make his visit worth while.

The President and the "unofficial Ambassador" chatted for a few minutes in English, as Señor Diaz speaks English fluently. Then came introductions to the members of the Cabinet, and after that Colonel Lindbergh appeared on the balcony of the Congressional Hall in the National Palace and addressed the people.

Record Crowd Hears Flier.

The crowd assembled before the Congressional Hall was estimated to be the largest that had ever gathered in Managua.

Jose Andres Urtecho, Minister of War and Foreign Affairs, presented the American flier to the Nicaraguan Republic. He described Colonel Lindbergh's feats as "without parallel" and said that Nicaragua felt exceedingly honored in having the opportunity to entertain a man whose name was on every tongue. Colonel Lindbergh replied in English, Roscoe R. Hill of the American High Commission of Nicaragua translating his words into Spanish.

Colonel Lindbergh's speech was:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I want to thank you all for the welcome I have received here today."

After the Congressional reception he went to the American Legation, to the accompaniment of wild cheering in the streets, the booming of distant cannon in salute and the firing of rockets.

In the streets aristocrat and peon were crowded together, pushing and scuffling good-naturedly. Men, women and children had come from many parts of Nicaragua to join in the celebration. They were dressed in holiday attire. Many of the better classes wore fancy dresses and the peons disported bright-colored garments and shawls, lending picturesqueness to the scene.

Those who came in from various sections of the republic and joined Managuans in greeting Colonel Lindbergh had laid aside all idea of revolution and politics. Liberal and Conservative forgot their differences.

Reception at International Club.

The Municipal Government gave a reception for Colonel Lindbergh late in the afternoon, Major José María Zelaya presenting him with a scroll, describing him as the guest of the city, and a commemorative medal. The reception was at the International Club, which was profusely decorated with Nicaraguan and American flags and flowers.

A large crowd, including practically all of the Nicaraguan capital's socially prominent, was at the club. When the flier entered he was cheered long and loudly. The crowd was orderly and many of its members were presented to Colonel Lindbergh who shook hands with them, smiling as usual. The orchestra played popular airs and many of the crowd danced but the non-dancing aviator chatted with some Americans who gathered around him.

Answering Mayor Zelaya's speech when he presented the medal, Colonel Lindbergh said that he would like to spend weeks in Managua instead of days, but that his time was limited, since he must be in Havana while the Pan-American Conference was in session. He thanked the Mayor for honors and courtesies shown to him.

Many aged Nicaraguans among those who shook hands with him were visibly affected by the meeting.

PUT LINDBERGH TO FLIGHT.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Jan. 5.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off at 11:38 Central Time this morning from Toncontin Field, bound for Managua, Nicaragua, his next stop in his good-will flight through Central America. The last three days he had spent in the capital of Honduras, where he received honors greater than have been given to any other man.

Going with United States Minister Summerlin to the field soon after 10 o'clock, the flier spent nearly an hour inspecting the engine of the Spirit of St. Louis and filling the gasoline tank, while the crowd of 2,000 at the hangar gates peered at him.

At 11 o'clock President Paz Baraona and the Ministers of the republic arrived to bid him farewell and to present to him a gold medal set with a large diamond which the people of Honduras had specially made in New Orleans. A delay in its arrival had prevented the presentation previously.

Pins Medal on Flier.

"It gives me great pleasure to present this to you as a token of the appreciation of the people of Honduras of your visit here. We hope you will come back soon and visit us longer."

Colonel Lindbergh replied:

"I thank you very much. This is fine."

The crowd that had gathered shouted "vivas" for the flier, for the United States, for Honduras and for President Baraona. Then scores rushed up to shake Colonel Lindbergh's hand. Meanwhile the engine had been tuned and, marshalled by soldiers, the crowd fell back to give room for the start of the Spirit of St. Louis and the border escort plane, a Fokker, bearing Public Works Minister Moncado and Under Secretary of War Pineda and piloted by Sumner Morgan, a former New York police reserve pilot.

As Minister Summerlin bade boodbye to Colonel Lindbergh President Baraona broke through the crowd in which he had been caught, rushed between the two planes and shook Colonel Lindbergh's hand. A score of girls ran up and pushed through the broken ranks.

Ex-New Yorker His Air Escort.

Colonel Lindbergh had started saying good-byes, but when he caught sight of the girls he broke away and ran to the door of the plane's cockpit. Officials waved the girls back.

Then, following the Fokker, Colonel Lindbergh taxied to the south end of the field and took off against the northerly breeze.

The skies were clear and sunny and after circling the city to gain altitude he soared skyward to the south toward the Bay of Fonseca, whence he intended to head for Nicaragua, the crowd yelling lustily all the while. The Spirit of St. Louis disappeared from sight at 11:45.

In his plane Colonel Lindbergh carried not only gifts to himself but also one for his mother, a casket of gold nuggets washed by native women of Ojancho in the method used by the Indians prior to the Spanish conquest and presented by Major E. A. Burke, an American mine owner, resident in Honduras since 1881.

Hondurans said today that never in the history of the country had any one so stirred the imagination and affection of the people as Colonel Lindbergh. Every demonstration was spontaneous and affecting in its simplicity, whether led by President Baraona, who insisted that the flier sit in his chair at the palace reception, or the barefooted boys who paraded with torchlights, crying "Viva Lindbergh."

Although the Government had commandeered automobiles and trucks to carry persons to the field for the American's arrival, hundreds walked five miles of dusty roads there and back, and today, save for a few who hired automobiles, nearly all walked to Toncontin Field to bid him good-bye.

La Tribuna Urges Amity.

La Tribuna, the leading opposition newspaper of the Nationalist Party now in power in an editorial published this afternoon said the reception of Colonel Lindbergh was "one of the greatest manifestations of sympathy Hondurans have ever bestowed on a foreigner," adding:

"This fact proves that the enmities do not exist between the peoples but that the errors of Governments in the conduct of international relations are the source of disagreement. In this sense, the visit of Colonel Lindbergh will serve the diplomacy of the United States in its search for better policies more in harmony with the peculiarities of the Indo-Spanish peoples. And the moment is propitious, the mission of good-will Colonel Lindbergh leaves behind him, is itself the open hearts of our people toward a frank, just cordiality with the people of the United States.

"If Mexico, considered anti-Yankee for historic reasons, felt so moved by the arrival of Colonel Lindbergh as to cede a point which it has always considered its most legitimate right, the immense value that sympathy and understanding have in the conduct of diplomatic business and the cultivation of sincerity and the permanence of international relations can easily be seen.

"We hope this young and glorious aviator accomplishes his mission to our sister republics of Central America, as has to our own country and the republics he already has visited."

Called "The Marvel Child."

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Jan. 5 (AP).—Hondurans regretted today that "The Marvel Child" had to leave them.

To the people, Colonel Lindbergh has become "el nino prodigio" (the marvel child) and his friendly smile has conquered them.

Girls Vote "Lindy" Most Admired.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 5 (AP).—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is not only the United States ambassador of good-will, but is the ideal of American youth, a model for the present generation, the Rev. G. Pitt Beers, local pastor, told the high school girls of the city at a gathering today after the students had unanimously voted "Lindy" as the most admired of all Americans.

COSTA RICAN FIELD READY FOR LINDBERGH

By Tropical Radio.

SAN JOSE, C. R., Jan. 5.—With Colonel Lindbergh's expected arrival only two days removed, the capital here is taking on a festive appearance. The streets are lined with colored lamps to greet the flier, and his name and picture are in many shop windows. Already trains from the provinces are bringing in hundreds who will join in the ovation at Sabana Flying Field when the Spirit of St. Louis glides down over the peaks of the Cordilleras.

The Sabana field was inspected today by American Minister Roy T. Davis and Issac Cohen, Acting Military Attaché. They found numerous ruts in the field, not all of which have been filled in, but since there are three large clear spaces on which the plane might land and since the Spirit of St. Louis has landed on worse fields than this during its Central American flight, they concluded there was no cause for anxiety.

Mr. Davis wired the American Chargé d'Affaires, Mr. Munro, at Managua this morning in an effort to have Colonel Lindbergh leave there Saturday earlier in the day than has been his practice in his Central American hops. The reason is that Ricardo Castro, the Foreign Minister, who has charge of the Lindbergh reception, is scheduled to leave Saturday for Havana to represent Costa Rica at the Pan American Congress. He has already engaged a special train and has arranged to hold his steamship, solely in order to be present to greet Lindbergh, but despite these arrangements, if the flier does not arrive before 11 A. M., Señor Castro will be obliged to leave without seeing him, possibly creating an embarrassing situation, according to Mr. Davis.

The number of functions dedicated to Lindbergh continues to mount, until he would have to stay here a week to attend them all. As it is, nearly every moment of his time here is already commandered. The latest addition to his schedule, as arranged by Mr. Davis, is a football match between Costa Rica and Peru. Soccer is a popular sport here and Lindbergh's presence is keenly desired by the fans.

MONUMENT TO LINDBERGH.

Vittor's Work to Be Presented to France for Le Bourget Field.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.—Frank Vittor, Pittsburgh sculptor, has immortalized Lindbergh's flight across the Atlantic in a monument that he has executed to be cast in bronze and presented to France as a memorial of the flight.

The French Embassy will accept the monument on behalf of the French nation and if Congress approves the bill which will be presented soon by Representative Clyde Kelley, it will be cast and erected on Le Bourget field, Paris, where the first New York-Paris non-stop flight ended.

The dominating figure of the work is Youth, who on outstretched wings spans the ocean between the United States and Europe, the spirit hovering over the Statue of Liberty and a wing tip touching the sands of France near the Eiffel Tower.

Rising out of the United States, in relief on the Northern Hemisphere, which forms the base of the work, are the busts of Presidents Washington, Lincoln, Jackson and Coolidge; Langley, the Wright brothers and Curtiss, pioneers of aviation in this country, and the figure of Liberty, symbolic of America.

FALSE LINDBERGH RUMOR.

Report of Flier's Death Causes Flood of Inquiries in Jersey.

Starting in some unexplainable way, a rumor that Colonel Lindbergh had been killed traveled rapidly over New Jersey early last night, with the result that at 10 o'clock hundreds of telephone inquiries had been received at newspaper offices and radio stations.

It was said by some people that the report had originated in a broadcast from a New Jersey radio station, but WOR and other stations in Newark and Jersey City denied putting any such statement on the air.

As calls continued to come to WOR, the Bamberger station in Newark, an announcement was made that Lindbergh was safe in Managua.

The same unfounded rumor gained currency in Manhattan one night last week and numerous inquiries were received by THE TIMES.

BALBOA, Jan. 5.—The program for Lindbergh Day in the Canal Zone has been approved by the Acting Governor, Colonel Harry Burgess. Colonel Lindbergh will leave the American Legation in Panama at 9 in the morning and drive about the Canal Zone on a call to the Governor, visits to the mechanical division, to the military headquarters, a call on General William Graves, commanding the department, then to Fort Amador to review troops and inspect the fortified islands guarding the Pacific entrance to the canal.

He will witness an exhibition by the famous red, white and blue troop of juvenile swimmers, and will have lunch with Admiral H. H. Christy, Commandant of the Fifteenth Naval District. In the afternoon Colonel Lindbergh will go to Pedro Miguel locks, inspect the control tower and witness the locking of ships. At 4 o'clock there will be a public reception in the Canal Administration Building on Balboa Heights. Then there will be a reception by Colonel Burgess. Colonel Lindbergh will dine at 8 o'clock with General Graves. Dinner will be followed by a reception on Quarry Heights by junior officers of the army and navy and their wives.

Work on the landing field for Colonel Lindbergh is being rushed, after tests by army airplanes, and the runway and landing are being scraped and leveled. A double barbed wire fence is being built around the entire field to control the crowd and an enclosure for the protection of the Spirit of St. Louis has been begun.

The grandstand and boxes for the reception committee, President and Diplomatic Corps are going up rapidly.

Commenting on the use of the field as a permanent airdrome, El Tiempo suggests naming it after Colonel Lindbergh, adding:

"To name our airdrome Lindbergh is at least an act of justice to this genius of the air."

Should Colonel Lindbergh be forced down in Panama he would be in the hands of friends. People consider airplanes messengers of mercy instead of enemies. The United States Army Aviators at France Field are responsible for this attitude, having often flown on errands of mercy and having saved many lives by transporting the sick and injured from remote interior points to local hospitals.

These flights, made only at the request of the Panama Government in cases of extreme emergency, can be classed with the use of naval vessels in rescues at sea. In the past year the France Field aviators have made eleven flights on errands of mercy.

In April Lieutenant W. T. Larsen flew an ambulance plane to David, 240 miles away, and brought to the hospital José Loeller, a boy, and a nurse. The boy had been struck senseless by a falling beam. His life was saved. The same month three planes carried smallpox virus to Chiriqui to check an epidemic there. In October a hospital plane was flown to David to bring back Private Tom H. Moore, a deserter, who was on the point of death from malaria after exposure in the jungles for many days. At the same time a Panaman school teacher was critically ill of malaria. Both were saved.

In the same month Captain A. F. Herold and Lieutenant S. G. Skemp flew amphibians to Port Limon, Costa Rica, and carried a doctor to Almirante to save the life of a baby stricken with an acute intestinal infection.

In November a sick baby and its mother were brought to a hospital from David. The aged Señora D. M. Arias, who was fatally ill in a hospital here, wanted to return home to Sanitago to die, and she was flown there by Captain William Randolph in a Martin bomber. Possibly as a result of the exhilaration of the flight she lived for three months afterward.

Panamans are delighted that Colonel Lindbergh will land on Panaman soil. Landing tests made by United States Army planes indicate that the field at Panama City will be ready for the reception of the "Lone Eagle" early next week.

SEES DIESEL ENGINE IN FUTURE PLANES

Col. Drigg Says Sperry Has Invented New Motor—Tells of Anti-Crash Device.

PREDICTS DEADLY WARFARE

Aviators Will Spray Poisons in Next Conflict, He Declares—Navy Denies Sperry Contract.

Airplanes propelled at phenomenal speed by Diesel engines, airplanes that flutter to the ground like a wounded bird, and airplanes that drop deadly liquids which kill all life are in the process of development, according to Colonel Lawrence La Tourette Drigg, President of the American Flying Club and a director of the Colonial Air Transport Company.

Speaking at the weekly luncheon of the Exchange Club at the Hotel McAlpin yesterday, Colonel Drigg depicted the airplane of the future as a safe, fast and inexpensive means of transportation in times of peace and a terrible instrument of destruction in war. He said Elmer Sperry had developed a Diesel engine which uses no flame, consumes three-fifths of the amount of fuel now used in airplane motors and is light and durable.

An English inventor, he said, is working on a device which pushes up the nose of a plane when it starts a nose dive. This invention, he said, would serve to eliminate crashes caused by the stalling of the motor. The airplane would flutter down, he declared.

With the establishment of a New York-to-Toronto air line, now under consideration by his company, he asserted, Schenectady, N. Y., would become the centre of air travel in the East.

The Sperry Development Company declined yesterday to discuss the airplane Diesel engine. Edward G. Sperry, son of Elmer Sperry, said that of all the developments upon which the company is experimenting that was the last it cared to disclose. Mr. Sperry said his father had been working on the engine for some time and he believed that he had solved the fire hazard and other problems, but that the engine was not perfected.

His principal reason for refusing to discuss the invention, Mr. Sperry said, was that the Navy Department had provided some funds for the work and had insisted that no publicity be given to the experiment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The Navy Department said tonight it had no contract with Elmer Sperry, inventor of the stabilizer, for a Diesel engine to be used in airplanes and said it had no knowledge of the development by any one of such an engine in a form that it contemplated utilising. It is understood that at one time the navy had a contract with Mr. Sperry for such development work, but that the contract no longer exists.

WESTCHESTER BOARD TO LOOK FOR AIRPORTS

F. W. Dalrymple Urges Purchase of Three Fields to Promote Flying in the County.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 5.—The Budget and Appropriations Committee of the Westchester County Board of Supervisors was authorized today to investigate and report on recommendations that at least three airports be established in the county.

Recommendations that fields be established in the northern part of the county, probably at Mohansic Park, one along the Saw Mill River valley near Yonkers, and one in the Saxon Woods Park district between White Plains, Mamaroneck and Harrison, were made by F. W. Dalrymple of New Rochelle, President of the Atlantic Airways, Inc., who operates a private flying field.

Asserting that many residents of the county would own and operate planes if landing fields were available, Mr. Dalrymple said, the Bureau of Civil Aeronautics of the Department of Commerce was awaiting local action by the county authorities before establishing an emergency landing field in the county.

"Financing such fields is not an expense," he said, "as a considerable revenue is to be derived from the operation of the fields, which will be more than enough to pay the carrying charges on any bond issue that might be required to start the operation of the fields."

Preliminary plans for the construction and equipment of a new psychopathic hospital and tuberculosis ward at Grasslands Hospital, which was recommended several months ago by Commissioner of Public Welfare George J. Werner, were referred to the committee on additional quarters.

HALTS WOMAN'S STUNT HOP

Government Refuses to Let Miss Brown Fly Under Bridge.

Miss Myrtle Brown, sister-in-law of Giuseppe M. Bellanca, airplane designer, who lives at 388 Hart Avenue, West Brighton, Staten Island, was prevented yesterday from carrying out her intention of flying under the Brooklyn Bridge in a land plane by the refusal of the Department of Commerce to grant a permit to attempt the dangerous stunt in anything but a plane equipped to land on water.

Miss Brown, with William Wincapaw as pilot of his Waco biplane, had planned to hop off from Hadley Field at New Brunswick, N. J., at noon, but after receiving word from Washington she announced that the flight will be postponed until early next week when she hopes to have a seaplane available. Miss Brown is not a pilot and will go only as a passenger.

Fragment Seven Feet Long Found on Prince Edward Island.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Jan. 5 (by the Canadian Press).—A piece of wreckage said to be part of an airplane wing was found yesterday at Mimnegash Harbor, about seven miles from Tignish, on the northeast coast of the island. The piece found was seven feet long, in five sections fastened together by copper screws, with copper sheathing on the end. There were more than a dozen numbers on the wreckage.

RECEIVER IS ASKED FOR MUSIC WEEK BODY

Printing House Wants Receipts From 'Night in St. Moritz' Seized to Pay $16,872 Bill.

An application for the appointment of a receiver for the New York Music Week Association because a judgment for $16,872 for printing obtained on Feb. 5, 1927, has not been paid, was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by the Terminal Printing and Publishing Company, Inc. The suit is brought because the association will receive large receipts from the skating carnival being arranged in its interest at Madison Square Garden on Jan. 11 under the name of "A Night in St. Moritz."

The complaint asks that an injunction be issued restraining the disposition of any of the money received by the association until the present creditors have been paid. C. Stanley Mitchell, banker, who is director, and John McE. Bowman, Chairman of the Ticket Committee, are named as defendants on the ground that the funds will pass through their hands. It is declared that boxes are being sold for $1,000 and tickets for from $12.50 to $1. The plaintiff says that Miss Isabel Lowden, President of the association, was examined in supplementary proceedings, but that she could not tell of any property owned by the debtor from which the judgment could be collected. For this reason a receiver to take charge of the money collected next week should be appointed, the plaintiff says.

Gustavus A. Rogers, counsel for the defendants, said last night that the application for a receivership and an injunction would be opposed today on the ground that the coming carnival had been arranged primarily to raise funds to send an Olympic figure skating team to Europe, and that the St. Moritz fete was being sponsored by the national amateur skating organization for this reason. If the court grants an injunction which will tie up the receipts of the carnival indefinitely, the affair is likely to be called off, Mr. Rogers said.

A 'JOKE' ON THE PRINCE DISPLEASES LONDON

Australian Weekly Has Article on 'Finding a Bride' Called in Questionable Taste.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—A purported joke on the Prince of Wales is published in Smith's Weekly, an Australian paper whose chief owner is Sir Joynton Smith.

The Weekly publishes an article headed "Finding a Wife for the Bachelor Prince," in which it sends the Prince from Cape Town to Cape Cod, from Buluwayo to Burma, from Woolloomooloo to Wapping, from Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strands, and says the competitors are required to say if they can recite, play the ukulele, pianola or autoharp, and are promised that a wedding ceremony will be performed in Westminster Abbey by the Archbishop of Canterbury and that for the honeymoon a warship will be provided.

The article says:

"As he cannot or will not choose for himself, The London Times must run a 'Prince's Bride' competition."

An imaginary leading article from The London Times follows, with details of this spoof competition. The conditions state that no color line will be drawn and that the competition is open to every unmarried girl throughout the empire. It says second and third place winners have the choice of remaining unmarried members of the royal family, and so on, with other details intended to be humorous.

The Daily News, which brings this spoof on the Prince to the notice of its readers, says:

"We are all out for humor, but this is going a bit too far."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—A great Anglo-American airship company, with a capital of $25,000,000, may be the outcome of the visit to America of Commander C. D. Burney, managing director of the Airship Guarantee Company, according to The Westminster Gazette.

Commander Burney, who will sail for New York on Wednesday to complete arrangements for the initial flight of the giant airship R-100 across the Atlantic, will also, it is stated, discuss with American financiers the formation of this Anglo-American company to operate a fleet of passenger airships in a regular service between London and New York.

The R-100 will be capable of carrying 100 passengers and it is expected to make its first transatlantic voyage this Spring.

LINDBERGH TO VISIT HAITI.

He Accepts an Invitation From President of That Republic.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Colonel Lindbergh will visit Haiti on his present good-will flight.

The State Department was advised today by the American Legation at Tegucigalpa that he had accepted an invitation from the President of Haiti to visit that country. The date will be determined later. His safe arrival at Managua was reported by Dana G. Munro, the American Chargé d'Affaires.

"Lindbergh arrived today at 2:32 P. M.," he said, "and was given an unparalleled ovation at the field and on the streets through which he passed on the way to the Executive Mansion."

Earlier advices from Minister Summerlin at Tegucigalpa reported Lindbergh's departure. He cabled:

"Great enthusiasm attended Colonel Lindbergh's departure at 12:38 (Eastern Standard Time) for Managua. Weather clear but windy. Large crowd on field, President Paz Baraona, Cabinet and other high officials, diplomatic corps. Before hopping off President presented Lindbergh in name of people of Honduras special commemorative gold medal of his visit.

"Colonel Lindbergh expressed appreciation all honors and courtesies shown him, praising admirable arrangements at all functions and particularly those at aviation field.

"Colonel Lindbergh's visit aroused interest and popular enthusiasm unprecedented in memory of living Hondurians."

DENIES BIG LOSSES BY MARINE FORCES

NICARAGUAN DEAD UNLISTED

Reports of 500 or More Called Only Approximate—Sandino Still Viewed as "Outlaw."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The assertion of Pedro Zepeda, former representative of the Secasa régime of Nicaragua in Mexico City, that 100 or more American marines have been killed in Nicaragua, was denied by the State Department today as "absurd." Accurate figures as to the number of Nicaraguan guerrillas killed by the marines since the Stimson truce of last May 15, it was added, are not known to the Government. The marines, it was explained, can not penetrate the jungles to check up casualty lists of the enemy.

Reports of more than 500 Nicaraguans killed in the period were described as approximate at best. In the same period, officials said, sixteen marines had been killed.

State Department officials reiterated that they consider Sandino merely an "outlaw" and that every party in Nicaragua is "against him." He has no support outside of the northern jungles, officials added, and they did not believe, they said, that the stevedores' strike at Corinto was due to the influence of Sandino, as reported by Major Robert J. Jordan, Collector of Customs at Corinto.

Casualties in Nicaragua Fighting.

Casualties as reported in the Departments of State and the Navy from May 15 to Oct. 9, are as follows:

May 16, La Paz Centro—Fourteen Nicaraguans killed, number of wounded unknown; two marines killed, including Captain Richard B. Jackson.

July 16, Ocotal—300 to 500 Nicaraguans killed, more than 100 wounded; one marine killed.

July 26, San Fernando—Six Nicaraguans killed, fifteen to twenty wounded; one marine killed.

July 27, San Fernando—During pursuit by American planes of fugitives from battle of July 26, twenty Nicaraguans killed or wounded.

Aug. 16—Along northern border, two Nicaraguans killed.

Sept. 2—Telpaneco, five Nicaraguans killed or wounded.

Sept. 8—Sanate, five Nicaraguans killed.

Sept. 19—Telpaneco, unreported number of Nicaraguans killed and wounded.

Oct. 9—Sixty-seven Nicaraguans killed or wounded; four members of native National Guard killed.

Sandino's Account of a Battle.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 5 (AP).—In support of his previous statement as to the large number of United States marines killed in the fighting in Nicaragua in the past six months, Pedro Zepeda, formerly the representative in Mexico City of Dr. Juan Sacasa, Nicaraguan Liberal leader, has made public the account by General Sandino of a battle at Telpaneca of Sept. 18-19. This account, he says, was printed by the newspaper El Centro Americano of Leon, Nicaragua.

On that occasion, the forces of Sandino, against whom the United States is sending marines in conjunction with Nicaraguan constabulary, opened fire and gradually forced the marines and constabulary from their positions outside of the town, the account says. The marines retreated to a group of fortified houses, from where they kept up a continuous fire until daybreak. Sandino's forces then withdrew with booty, consisting of three machine guns, forty-two rifles and about 50,000 rounds of machine gun and rifle ammunition.

Sandino did not mention the number of casualties in his own force, but said "the enemy dead numbered eighty, between Yankees and constabularies."

Vaca Defends Sandino's Efforts.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5 (AP).—Dr. T. S. Vaca, former confidential agent in the United States of Dr. Juan Sacasa, Nicaraguan Liberal, today asserted that the uprising in Nicaragua is the direct outcome of the "imposition of the Diaz régime" upon the people of that country last May.

Denouncing American intervention in Nicaraguan affairs, Dr. Vaca said he was reliably informed that the forces of General Sandino, rebel leader, were well equipped. Dr. Vaca asserted that these forces numbered several times those that fought at Quilali within the past week and that Sandino had the support of the inhabitants of the Northern and Eastern district, where he is operating.

"When Colonel Henry L. Stimson disregarding the most fundamental principles of equity, decreed that 'the honor and prestige of the United States Government' required the upholding of Diaz in the Presidency of Nicaragua and declared the United States forces were ready to disarm the victorious armies of the Constitutional Government of Dr. Juan B. Sacasa," Dr. Veca said, "he definitely committed the United States to an unprecedented and indefensible act of tyranny against another nation, and tyranny will always bring violence and the shedding of human blood.

"Sandino is a young man in his thirties. He vows he will fight it out to the last and declares that, though he realizes the seriousness of the odds against him in defying the power of the Stars and Stripes, he is comforted by the conviction that he is defending his native soil and his own people against unwarranted exploitation and conquest by a foreign invader.

"'Marines are being hurried to Nicaragua in order to crush Sandino. It will be a grim and sad setting for the official talk of amity and fellowship at the Pan-American Conference at Havana this month."

COLUMN REINFORCES MARINES AT QUILALI

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—A rescue column of marines under the command of Lieutenant Hunt today reached Quilali, where serious fighting has taken place between marines and Nicaraguan rebels under the command of Augustino Sandino.

Radio advices to the Navy Department said that the column had marched through the rough country around Quilali without meeting any of Sandino's forces. The situation at Quilali, which marine headquarters here considered to be dangerous, has been relieved by the arrival of Lieutenant Hunt and his men. The message did not give the number of men in the rescue force.

The Navy Department has ordered a three-motored transport plane made ready for a flight to Nicaragua, the plane to take the course used by Major Brainard in his recent flight from Miami to Managua. Next Tuesday was set as a tentative date for the take-off from Washington.

The plane, which has recently been fitted out with radio, will be used for transport of supplies and men to the inaccessible portions of Northwest Nicaragua.

Sandino Keeps Under Cover.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 5 (AP).—Hard hit by clashes with American marines last Friday and on Sunday, the rebel forces of Augustino Sandino are keeping well under cover and no battle is regarded imminent at El Chipote, the rebel stronghold, for the present, Colonel Louis Mason Gulick, commander of the marine forces here, said today that the rebels had not been seen for the past few days and that their defeat appeared more severe than was first reported.

Reinforcements have arrived at all the marine garrisons in Nueva Segovia, scene of the fighting, and all is reported quiet in that region. The American wounded will be evacuated soon.

General José Maria Moncada, the Liberal leader, started for Corinto today to try to settle the strike of the stevedores there. The strike is thought in some quarters to have been caused by outside influences in sympathy with the Sandino movement. Corinto is an important Nicaraguan port and a tie-up there would possibly impede military operations against the rebels.

MARINE CONTINGENT GOES FROM BROOKLYN

Twenty-six Sail for Nicaragua Via Norfolk—Father of One Assails Fighting.

A contingent of twenty-six marines from the Brooklyn Navy Yard sailed yesterday at noon on the Old Dominion liner Jefferson for Norfolk, Va., to join other marine contingents who will sail from Norfolk for Nicaragua. The marines were moved promptly on instructions received here by radio from Washington.

Orders for the movement of the marines from here called for men "with at least six months more to serve," and further said that extension of enlistments for a year had been authorized. In the detachment, under the command of Lieutenant Sherman L. Zea, were one first sergeant, two line sergeants, four corporals and nineteen privates.

Harold Leavey Jr., 158 Avenue O, Brooklyn, father of Harold Leavey, one of the men in the contingent, when he learned that his son and other marines had been ordered to Nicaragua asserted that the dispatch of American forces there was "nothing else but plain murder," adding:

"The boys are being sent to fight for the Wall Street brokers, not Uncle Sam. I'm only a poor milkman and I need my boy more than they do."

While the marines were embarking a group of educators, labor leaders, clergymen, professional and business men who recently signed a statement addressed to Secretary Kellogg opposing intervention in Latin-American countries, was asked to attend a conference to consider the Nicaraguan situation.

A formal call for the conference will be sent out tomorrow, according to David H. Robbins, secretary to William English Walling, who arranged for the statement against intervention which was published on Dec. 19. Signers of the original statement, who also asked for a reinterpretation of the Monroe Doctrine, included Professor Stephen P. Duggan, William Allen White, Everett Colby, Miss Julia Lothrop, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Raymond B. Fosdick, George Foster Peabody, Potteast John B. Clark, Bishop Thomas F. Gailor and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

"The call has been prompted, according to Mr. Robbins, by a letter from Tr. Tijerino, 10 Bridge Street, formerly secretary to the President of Nicaragua, who asserted that "military intervention is being carried on in Nicaragua on a large scale."

NICARAGUAN DESCRIBES SANDINO AS 'BANDIT'

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA CITY, Jan. 5.—The statements of Dr. T. S. Vaca, former Nicaraguan Liberal agent in the United States, that General Sandino is a patriot and that his rebellion represents resentment on the part of the Nicaraguan people at the imposition of the Diaz Government by the United States were denied here today by Dr. Carlos Cuadra Pasos, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who is en route with Dr. Joaquin Gomez to Havana as Nicaraguan delegate to the Pan-American Conference.

"Sandino is a bandit, and his principal business is now robbery, murder and assassination," said Dr. Pasos. "In one month alone, Sandino killed eighty-two Conservative leaders."

That the present activities of Sandino may be inspired by interests opposed to the Pan American Union in order to bring the Nicaraguan case before the Havana sessions, is Dr. Pasos's opinion. Asked whether he considered the situation one for discussion there, he replied:

"No, it is purely the affair of Nicaragua. The Pan American Union has no authority to discuss and decide on such a matter. If it is brought up, the Nicaraguan delegates will refuse to discuss it. However, we have documents and proofs and will discuss the case privately with any one interested, but never officially before the union."

Dr. Pasos said that, after the Liberal General Moncada surrendered, Sandino had 500 men well armed, with ten machine guns and considerable ammunition, and later discovered 200 rifles buried by the Liberals before the surrender. Since then, Sandino had received assistance from sources suspected, but not definitely known. Recently eight Mexican expert machine gunners had joined Sandino and possibly they were the ones to score hits on marine airplanes, Dr. Pasos added.

Neither Dr. Vaca nor Dr. Pedro Zepeda, the Liberal representative in Mexico, had sufficient personal resources to support Sandino, Dr. Pasos asserted.

Asked whether, with reinforcements the marines could overcome Sandino Dr. Pasos replied that they could disperse his band, but due to the character of the country roving bands of bandits would remain. Part of the difficulty of the marines in combating the bandits appeared due to the apathy of the authorities in the department [of Neuva Segovia] in which Sandino operates.

Dr. Pasos explained that both Liberals and Conservatives accepted the supervision of the elections by the United States, and that no Liberal in Nicaragua considered Sandino as other than a bandit, but that Liberals outside the country had different opinions.

"Sandino is not identified with any political party in Nicaragua," he said. "He does not represent the opinion of any group of people, but is only a bandit whose business is robbery and murder."

Under the heading, "Sandino No Bandit," El Tiempo says:

"According to the viewpoint of North Americans, Sandino is a bandit without the law and consequently deserving of no consideration. According to Nicaraguan opinion, Sandino is certainly a rebel, but a patriot according to his view. That is, he is a man who fights for his country, misguidedly, according to many, but determined to fight endlessly to the ultimate sacrifice for his ideas."

The paper says his valor must be admitted. "Bandit for some, hero for others, one thing is certain, he is causing trouble for one of the best-trained and best-equipped forces in the world, an accomplishment not without merit."

SAYS SANDINO SERVED WITH VILLA IN MEXICO

General Lejeune Calls Him 'Small-Time Caesar'—He Was in Columbus (N.M.) Raid.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—Augustino Sandino, the Nicaraguan, was described today by Major Gen. Lejeune, commandant of the Marine Corps, as a "small time Caesar, who would rather be a big frog in a little puddle up in Northwest Nicaragua than a respected but otherwise unimportant citizen in Managua."

General Lejeune said Sandino was a "brave man, but has a shady record, having served at one time with Pancho Villa in Mexico," according to Marine Corps reports.

"After a wild life in Mexico, the General said, Sandino returned to Nicaragua and worked in the mines until he joined the Liberal Army. He has a brother on the west coast of Nicaragua who is a respected citizen and a member of an American business firm, General Lejeune declared.

Sandino described himself in a proclamation, a copy of which has been sent to Marine Corps headquarters, as "Augusto Caesar Sandino, an Indian, bloodthirst" and cruel, and anxious to kill some Americans."

Sandino is about 28 years old and has been convicted of a violent crime in Masaya, Marine Corps intelligence records say. He escaped into Mexico after his conviction and joined Villa and was a member of Villa's raiding party at Columbus, N. M.

Marine Corps reports say that he carries many flags, all with a black and red background with skull and crossbones worked into the red and black. He has trumpeters who worry marine patrols by sounding regular army calls close to encampments, often causing the entire detachment to fall in ready for action by sounding "To arms" almost under the marine tents.

The young bandit has earned the wholesome respect of the men who are trying to capture him, marine officers say. He has unusual power over the illiterate Nicaraguans and habitually makes long speeches to them. His proclamations are full of military terms and have a strong appeal to the Indians and negroes among the population of Northwest Nicaragua.

According to Marine Corps intelligence officers, Sandino has 3,000 rifles and 60,000 rounds of ammunition for his force. He has three machine guns and two riot guns of 45 calibre. He has a quantity of ammunition for the machine guns and riot guns and these have been indications that he has several pieces of artillery.

The recent battles with Sandino reveal that his men have had unusual training from some source, and have a thorough knowledge of marine methods, intelligence officers say. There has been almost a 25 per cent. casualty list in the recent brushes, marine officers point out, which is about the same as that suffered by the marines in the most bitter battles of the World War.

IDENTIFIES FOUR WOUNDED.

Navy Department Lists Marines Hurt in Fighting Sunday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—The Navy Department late today identified from its records the four marines reported wounded Sunday in press dispatches from Nicaragua, as follows:

Private L. H. Hooks; mother, Mrs. Elisabeth Hooks, 2,217 Tonti Street, New Orleans.

Private John T. Coyle, who, in grant of mishap, had asked that Mrs. Mary O'Leary, 29 School Street, Weymouth, Mass., be notified.

HIGHER OCEAN FARES URGED AT CONFERENCE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Increased rates, particularly in the second and third classes, occupied the attention of the opening session of the North Atlantic Steamships Conference at Hotel Majestic here today. Although the White Star Line, the Canadian Pacific and the French Line protested against the recent regrading of a number of Cunard Line ships from first to cabin class, the general tone of the conference indicated that all companies were desirous of cooperating and adjusting up the differences which had caused the withdrawal of the Canadian Pacific Line from the conference within the last six months.

Most of today's session was devoted to company conferences. The United States Lines are concerned principally with the need of new ships. They are convinced that they cannot hope to compete with foreign companies, particularly the British, unless they have more modern ships coming forth to take the place of those which, because of age, have been reduced to the cabin class.

While the Cunard and White Star lines are considering building new 60,000-ton ships, the United States representatives pointed out that they have only one ship of this type, the Leviathan, which was built before the war and which, within a few years will be comparatively antiquated.

There is a general demand among all companies to increase the rates, but it is not likely that any scale will be agreed upon before tomorrow. The increases advocated range from $5 to $10 per passenger.

The principal complaint of the Canadian company about the recent regrading of Cunard ships, particularly on Canadian routes, is that it plays havoc with second class business. The White Star Line is supporting the Canadian Pacific. Although the Cunard delegates at first were disinclined to heed rival threats of rate cutting in order to meet the competition of cabin class ships, their attitude today is more conciliatory and it is believed that a settlement will be reached tomorrow to the satisfaction of all concerned.

SENATE SIDETRACKS NICARAGUA ATTACK

"has been elevated by a misinformed group who picture him as a Liberal hero striking at the Conservatives. But he is a bandit, whom, Moncada says, broke his word."

Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, asked why, if the majority of the Liberals were satisfied with the Stimson arrangement, the United States should dispatch marines to settle the internal dissensions of Nicaragua?

"Most of the people are satisfied," Senator Bingham replied. "But here in Washington there are a few hundred dissatisfied people, and we have to keep a police force. The bitterness between the two factions in Nicaragua is intense."

Wheeler Resolution.

The Wheeler resolution, which was referred to the Foreign Relations Committee, called on that or any other committee to investigate the terms and conditions under which Nicaraguan concessions had been secured by American citizens and corporations and other associations in which Americans were financially interested.

It called for an inquiry into the nature and extent of the concessions, particularly with regard to their sources and sanction and "the principal aspects of public policy involved in the treatment of property rights for purposes of diplomatic protection of such concessions." An appropriation of $30,000 would be given to the investigating committee.

The preamble to the resolution asserted that the executive branches of the Government were conducting a war in Nicaragua without Congressional consent; that American marines were being killed because of mismanagement and inadequate protection, and that, whereas the executive branch of the Government said the marines were in Nicaragua to protect American investments and concessions, it was claimed in other quarters that some of the investments were based on concessions obtained "by questionable and unconscionable methods."

The preamble stated also that American concessions abroad amounting to many millions of dollars were rapidly increasing, and that controversies about concessions became an increasing part of American foreign relations and "produce tensions which may easily lead to war." It added that, although statements from the executive branches or "the White House spokesman" said the marines were to be strictly neutral, events have clearly showed this to be untrue.

M'CLINTIC ATTACKS WILBUR AT INQUIRY

He Charges Secretary Told Navy Men to Shun Hearing While Magruder Testified.

AIDE WILL BE QUESTIONED

House Committee Votes to Query Him—Wilbur Admits Suggestion—Admiral Tells Recommendations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The charge that naval officers were instructed by Secretary Wilbur to give Admiral Magruder the "absent treatment" during the present hearing of the Magruder charges before the House Naval Committee was made at today's session by Representative McClintic, an Oklahoma Democrat.

At the outset Mr. McClintic asked Admiral Magruder whether he had heard that the department had issued an order that no naval officer should visit the committee room during his presence as a witness.

The Admiral replied that he had been informed that an order was issued setting forth "that the Secretary does not desire any officers to attend the hearings of the House Committee while Rear Admiral Magruder is a witness before that committee."

"This is the first time such an order has been issued," observed Mr. McClintic. "If the Secretary can make such an order he can prevent naval officers from appearing to testify. I recommend that the Secretary be asked why such an order was issued."

Chairman Butler suggested it would not be appropriate for the committee to address such a question to the Secretary, but the committee adopted a motion made by Mr. McClintic that Captain D. E. Theleen, aide to Mr. Wilbur, be called as a witness on the point in controversy.

Wilbur Admits Suggestion.

When asked later concerning Mr. McClintic's charge, Secretary Wilbur said:

"No formal order was issued, but I suggested to the officers of the department that it would be the proper thing to remain away as I felt that Admiral Magruder should have a clear field, without interruption from officers, to appear before the committee and present his case."

It is understood the Secretary's word was passed along orally in the department.

Today's examination of Admiral Magruder ranged far afield from his charges of lac of economy in the navy.

Questions dealing with the sinking of the S-4 and the advisability of transferring the submarine base from New London to Southern waters were asked by Mr. McClintic, who wanted to know if periscopes were of value for sighting in the rough waters off Provincetown at the time of collision. Admiral Magruder stated that he had been informed that both periscopes of the S-4 were visible to the Paulding, which sank her.

"Very little traffic frequents the trial course off Provincetown," he said. "I know no better place for standardizing tests, not only for submarines but other ships."

Mr. McClintic asked if it would be better to conduct ship activities in warmer climates.

Admiral Magruder thought that "a good deal of the tactics should be in cold areas to stimulate operations in Northern waters in actual warfare."

He said that while it might be better to conduct operations in warmer waters it was not essential. It would be a good thing to have a major submarine base in the South and smaller bases in the North, he agreed.

Mr. McClintic asked whether Key West was adaptable for such a major base.

The Admiral replied that it was used as such during the war. Submarines manoeuvring there could be "entirely protected from merchant ships," he said.

Mr. McClintic asked if a base in the South would result in economies and Admiral Magruder replied in the affirmative.

Merchant Fleet Stressed.

The value of the merchant marine as an auxiliary in war was stressed by the Admiral. He said that the present merchant marine was inadequate as a naval auxiliary and that "warships are but one of the small elements of sea power." The merchant marine should be built in this country with provisions for mounting guns. Most of the merchant ships, he declared, had been built abroad and without such provisions.

When Mr. McClintic asked whether it would be advisable to build six or eight large merchant ships now, the Admiral replied that the "navy would be benefited" and that building a fleet of merchant ships "is just as important as the building of light cruisers."

The Admiral said that if the 160 destroyers now laid up were commissioned this would obviate the need for building a "certain number" of cruisers.

Representative Vinson, Democrat, of Georgia asked if the Admiral recommended decommissioning battleships to man laid-up destroyers.

The officer replied that he would not recommend that because battleships were literally the "backbone" of the navy. He merely recommended use of destroyers now idle.

Cross-Examined by Miller.

Representative Miller, Republican, of Washington, cross-examined the Admiral, asking about publication of his Saturday Evening Post articles.

The Admiral said two articles had already been printed and that another on destroyers would soon be published. Two others on "Battleships and Battle Cruisers" and "Sea power and the Merchant Marine" were being prepared.

The Admiral said the articles already printed were parts of an "educational series."

Representative Miller asked if the Admiral knew his article on economy was "misleading."

Admiral Magruder replied that he was not so aware.

"It may have been misleading to you but not to others," he said.

Questions regarding the Admiral's recommendation for closing down three navy yards on the Atlantic coast and regarding the shipping industry was put by Mr. Miller.

Admiral Magruder said he still was of the opinion that economies could be effected by closing certain yards, building warships at private yards and repairing ships at Government yards.

Let us eliminate all of the threadbare and shiny adjectives and speak for a moment about a building that is well built, sensibly priced, and operated as efficiently as we know how.
NOTHING which we could claim for the new Court Square Building has not already been repeatedly claimed for many others, except perhaps its location in the heart of New York's $50,000,000 Civic Center.

2 BID GRAY GOOD-BYE, THEN DIE IN CHAIR

Doran and Mason Executed for Murders in Albany and Buffalo.

SMITH DENIES DORAN PLEA

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Charles Doran, 21 years old, who was convicted in Albany for the murder of Raymond Jackson in a hold-up, and Louis Mason, 30 years old, a negro, who was found guilty in Buffalo for participating in the slaying of David Karam, were put to death in the electric chair here tonight, a few minutes after each had shaken hands with Henry Judd Gray, slayer of Albert W. Snyder in Queens Village, Queens County.

Doran was the first to be taken to the death chamber. As he passed the cells of the death house he also shook hands with the other condemned men as they bade him good-bye. He made no statement before the current was turned on at 11:04 P. M. He was pronounced dead six minutes later.

Mason waved good-bye to all the inmates of the death house as he was led through the door to the electric chair at 11:13 P. M. Just before he was strapped to the chair and the current turned on, he said to the witnesses assembled before him: "Good-bye, fellows. I'm innocent." He was pronounced dead by the physicians five minutes later.

Both men appeared to be in high spirits as the time approached for their executions. Each fervently wished Gray good luck in his plea to Governor Smith to escape the electric chair. Mrs. Ruth Snyder, widow of the man whom Gray killed with a sashweight and who was jointly convicted of first degree murder with Gray, did not see the men as they passed on their way to the death chamber. She is in another section of the death house; but when she was informed that in the afternoon Governor Smith had refused clemency to Doran and that the death penalty would be exacted in each man's case, she remarked: "Two more going and no hope, apparently."

This remark was taken to mean that Mrs. Snyder really had given up hope of the Governor interfering with the execution of the death sentence in her case. She had received fragmentary reports of the appeal proceeding before Governor Smith in behalf of Gray and herself, and when informed that Doran and Mason must go to the electric chair in a few hours became very nervous.

SMITH BREAKS PRECEDENT.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 5.—Breaking all precedents, Governor Smith issued late today a memorandum giving his reasons why he denied Executive clemency to Charles J. Doran, youthful Albany murderer.

Declaring that there was widespread misunderstanding of the law relating to murder growing out of the commission of a felony, the Governor said he wanted to take this opportunity to explain it so every citizen would understand it.

"I am prompted to this," the Governor wrote, "by the very clear evidence before me of what seems to be a lack of understanding even on the part of jurors as to what constitutes murder in the first degree when committed during the progress of a felony. When one or more persons engage in robbery, or in any other felony, and during the progress of such crime some one is killed, under the laws of our State all those engaged in the commission of said crime are guilty of murder, first degree."

Doran was tried with Theodore Harrington, another Albany youth, for the murder in November, 1926, of Raymond E. Jackson, World War veteran, who conducted a gas filling station on the city's outskirts. The jury acquitted Harrington and convicted Doran. A third youth, Floyd Damp, who figured in the killing, turned State's evidence. He recently was sentenced to Clinton Prison for fifteen years for robbery.

At the recent hearing before the Governor, when clemency was asked for Doran, counsel stressed the point that there was some doubt as to whether Doran fired the shot that killed Jackson, and that Harrington and Damp were either not punished at all or not punished equally with Doran.

"This is a matter with which I cannot deal; it is for the local authorities of Albany to handle," the Governor said in commenting on the plea that Doran is the only one who must pay with his life.

"In the case before me," the Governor wrote, "it would make no difference whether or not Doran fired the fatal shot. If he was at the Jackston store that night, engaged in the commission of a felony, and Jackson was murdered, he is guilty of first degree murder.

"I am writing this memorandum with the hope that there will be a better understanding of what constitutes murder, first degree, when committed under circumstances similar to those surrounding the murder of Jackson. Men who engage upon the commission of felonies, although not armed themselves, stand in a position to be indicted for murder, first degree, if by the action of any of their companions death results while the crime is in progress."

INDICTS DR. M'MILLAN IN SACK MURDER

Los Angeles Grand Jury Acts on Charge He Caused Mrs. Appleby's Death.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP).—The county Grand Jury today indicted Dr. Charles M. McMillan, 57-year-old physician, for the murder of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, rich widow of a Chicago inventor, whose body was found sewn in a sack at a roadside between Los Angeles and San Fernando on Dec. 26.

Dr. McMillan, who was the woman's business agent, has repeatedly denied he killed Mrs. Appleby, but the authorities have weaved a net of circumstantial evidence to unmesh the physician. The Coroner's Jury Wednesday found that Mrs. Appleby died of lung congestion resulting from exposure.

Detectives, in reconstructing the crime, charged that the physician first hit the woman on the head with a hammer or a baseball bat, then bound her arms and legs behind her, sewed her in a canvas sack and threw the body from an automobile along the San Fernando road where she suffered from exposure and died. The body lay unclaimed in the morgue for several days before friends identified the victim as Mrs. Appleby.

Many of Mrs. Appleby's private papers, together with some of her jewels and a will leaving her fortune, estimated to be worth between $250,000 and $500,000, to the physician, were found in Dr. McMillan's apartments. Investigators have characterized the will as a forgery.

HICKMAN INDICTED FOR THOMS MURDER

Pleads 'Not Guilty and Not Guilty by Reason of Insanity' of Slaying of Druggist.

INDICTMENT INCLUDES HUNT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 5 (AP).—Another murder indictment was returned today against William E. Hickman and a plea of "not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity" was immediately made in his defense, the same as in his fight against a death sentence for the murder of Marian Parker.

The county Grand Jury returned a charge naming Hickman and his chum, Welby Hunt, aged 16, as legally responsible for the death of C. Ivy Thoms, a druggist of Rose Hill, a suburb, on Christmas Eve of 1926.

Only a few hours after the indictment, Hickman, who is 19, was taken into the same court room where the groundwork was laid for his defense in the Parker case, and entered his plea. Trial on the new charge was set for Feb. 1 by Superior Judge Carlos Hardy.

While announcement of the Grand Jury's action was awaited today, Hickman spent his time muttering in his cell and feverishly reading a Bible, his jailers reported. Yesterday he related the story of the Thoms killing to the Grand Jury, but his alleged partner in crime, young Hunt, stood on his constitutional rights and refused to testify. Hunt also is in jail.

Thoms was killed when Hickman and Hunt exchanged shots with a policeman while the two youths were holding up the Thoms drug store, Hickman confessed. The officer had opened fire and they returned the shots, it was alleged, although Hunt has contended he did not fire a shot. Thoms was killed by a .38-calibre bullet, the size of the pistol carried by Hunt. Hickman's weapon was of .32 calibre.

Jerome Walsh, Hickman's attorney, visited him in his jail cell and prepared to leave for the East, probably tonight or tomorrow, to assemble evidence to support the insanity plea.

Frank Dewar, County Jailer, said his attention had been directed to the peculiar actions of Hickman in his cell and added that it appears to him the youth is feigning insanity. Hickman pleaded not guilty "by reason of insanity" to the two counts of kidnapping and slaying the Parker child, and his sanity trial was set for Jan. 25.

Legal authorities predicted that Hickman and Hunt might be enemies when tried for the murder of Thoms. When Hunt's attorney announced that the boy would plead guilty to the charges, court attaches interpreted this to mean that the youth, three years Hickman's junior, would testify against the latter in the trial.

Hunt's attorney declared he would insist on a separate trial and that he would attempt to have the youth tried in Juvenile Court. He lost in his first move, however, when the case, referred to the Juvenile Court, was referred back to Superior Court for action, and Judge Hardy set Hunt's arraignment for Jan. 10.

The maximum sentence which could be given Hunt if found guilty would be life imprisonment, since California law does not permit the hanging of persons under 18 years of age.

The much-discussed question of procedure in the Hickman case, inasmuch as it involves as yet little-tested phases of the new California Criminal Code, has been cleared somewhat by a statement by Walter K. Tuller, Chairman of the Commission for the Revision of the Code of Criminal Procedure which drew up the new law.

"A defendant may plead 'not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity,' or may plead only 'not guilty by reason of insanity,'" Mr. Tuller explained. "In the latter case, the law specifically provides that he thereby admits the commission of the offense charged. This was Hickman's plea. "If it is determined that he was sane, he is to be sentenced as if he pleaded guilty. If it is determined he was insane, he is to be sentenced, unless the Court shall determine he has fully recovered his sanity, to the State hospital for life."

FORESEE DIFFICULTIES IN HAVANA CONFERENCE

Madrid, Mexico City and Buenos Aires Papers Criticize Our Position in Nicaragua.

MADRID, Jan. 5 (AP).—Pacifist ideals and imperialistic realities are being dangerously shuffled by the Government of the United States, in the opinion of El Imparcial, local newspaper, in an editorial published today on American activities in Nicaragua.

Discussing possible effects on the forthcoming Pan-American Conference in the light of recent events in Nicaragua, El Imparcial expresses regret at "active intervention" on the part of the United States and declares that such intervention is an error.

"Pacifist ideals and imperialistic realities are being shuffled with bold temerity," says the paper. "This dangerous game is even more bold on account of the Pan-American Conference, and it is unknown which of its two faces the United States will show. Will it show its own face or a mask?"

Thinks Coolidge May Cancel Trip.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 5 (AP).—Commenting editorially on the Nicaraguan situation, El Universal today doubts whether the Pan-American Conference will be a success and sees the possibility that President Coolidge may cancel his trip to Havana unless fighting is stopped in Nicaragua, because Latin American opinion is already unified on the subject.

After reviewing American editorial opinion in regard to the happenings occurring on the eve of the Pan-American Congress, the paper asserts that the campaign against the rebel General Sandino is unpopular in the United States. It regrets that consternation in the United States is only due to the fact that several marines were killed in the last combats.

El Universal says the best possible solution is for the United States to place the conflict before the Pan-American Conference and let all Latin-American countries share in the responsibility and solve the question in accordance with the ideal of continental understanding.

Argentina Sees "Discordant Note."

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 5 (AP).—Criticism of the American policy in Nicaragua is expressed editorially in most of the newspapers here. Referring to the recent fighting between American marines and Sandino rebels, El Diario says:

"These events will strike a discordant note in the hall of the Pan-American Conference at Havana."

La Nacion says that "the position of the United States in this emergency disintegrates within the ideals of international justice and sound Pan-Americanism."

The Latin-American Union today made public a protest against the policy of the United States in Nicaragua saying that, "while dollar diplomacy prides itself on its electoral impartiality and democratic efficiency, it organizes at the same time a war against a handful of patriots whom it depicts as bandits."

KING OF THE BELGIANS IN PERIL AT ST. MORITZ

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Jan. 5.—Royalty, in the person of King Albert of Belgium, essayed the famous bobsled run at St. Moritz today and escaped serious injury only through the firm grip of an Englishman on the seat of its trousers when the sled overturned in making a corner at forty miles an hour. The King liked it, however, and said he intended to try it again.

Royal personages have often patronized the tamer sports of St. Moritz, but when King Albert appeared at the top of the smaller of the bobsled runs it was said to be the first time a monarch had tried that sort of sport.

Colonel Warwick Wright, an Englishman, was pilot of the sled, with King Albert and Dudley De La Vigne as passengers and the Earl of Northesk seated last as brakeman.

All went well for two runs at breakneck speed down the smooth slide, but the third time the sled started out it skidded at a corner near the top and partly overturned in a cloud of ice and snow.

The Earl of Northesk was thrown twenty feet into a pile of snow, wrenching his back. The King was about to follow suit, despite his efforts to hold on, but Mr. De La Vigne decided just in time "not to stand on ceremony" and grasped the King's old green hunting suit firmly by the seat of the trousers.

Meanwhile, frantic efforts made to stop the sled by Colonel Wright were unsuccessful and he was forced to desert his royal guest and travel alone to the end of the long run.

"It was the thrill of my life," King Albert declared as he brushed the snow from his clothing. "Nothing I ever experienced during the war or in motorcycling equaled this."

Mr. De La Vigne said, "I simply wasn't standing on ceremony on an occasion like that," and the Earl of Northesk stiffly hobbled up to congratulate the King on his narrow escape.

Queen Elizabeth was to have tried the bobsled with her husband, but he insisted on trying it first. Despite the accident, the royal couple declared their intention of trying the longer and steeper Cresta run for a greater thrill.

The Belgian royal family has been pronounced the greatest of all blue-blooded sportsmen who have visited Switzerland.

Ohio Will Execute 17-Year-Old Boy

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 5 (AP).—Ohio's electric chair will have its youngest victim Friday night when Floyd Hewitt, aged 17, is executed for the slaying of Mrs. Fred Drown and her 5-year-old son at Conneaut. The final avenue of escape for the youthful murderer closed today when the State Board of Clemency, after hearing arguments in the case, recommended to Governor Donahey that no commutation of the death sentence be given. The Governor had previously announced he would follow the Clemency Board's recommendation.

SMITH INDICATES SNYDER PLEA DENIAL

Hopeless After Hearing.

The defense lawyers and the relatives were almost hopless after the hearing. There was even more gloom among them when word came later that the Governor had denied the appeal for clemency of Charles J. Doran, Albany murderer, who like Gray and Mrs. Snyder was convicted in a joint trial. There was supposed to have been more chance for him because two Judges of the Court of Appeals had dissented from the affirmation of his conviction. He was executed at Sing Sing tonight.

One glimmer of hope for the defense lay in action they are already contemplating to rush a bill for the abolition of capital punishment through the Legislature. It will be introduced Monday night by Assemblyman Christopher C. McGrath, Democrat of the Bronx, and the attorneys may ask again for a reprieve from the Governor on the chance of its passage. Time after time such a bill has been killed in committee and there seemed to be no disposition among the legislators to be more sympathetic to the proposition on the strength of the hearing today. The Crime Commission is known to have considered the subject but came to the conclusion that the time is not ripe for advocacy of such a bill.

Executive Chamber Guarded.

From early in the morning the executive chamber was the centre of interest at the Capitol. Plain clothes State troopers were on guard at the doorways under supervision of Major John A. Warner, the Governor's son-in-law, scrutinizing those who had the privilege of coming and going and keeping out to the last few minutes before noon the crowd of the curious. Mrs. Snyder's mother came early, dressed in a black coat trimmed with black fur, and took a seat halfway back in the room, but in front of the Governor's desk.

The counsel, Mr. Hazelton and Dana Wallace for Mrs. Snyder, Mr. Millard and Samuel L. Miller for Gray, took seats directly facing the desk. They were followed by District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe of Queens and his special assistant, Charles Froessel, who sat beside the lawyers. Shortly after noon Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Logan, both in black, arrived and were placed near Mrs. Brown. From the inner executive rooms Mrs. Smith, Mrs. John F. Gilchrist, wife of the Transit Commissioner, and several friends entered. At 12:10 the assemblage rose to greet the Governor, who at once asked that the argument begin.

Hazelton Opens Argument.

Mr. Hazelton opened with the acknowledgment that the Governor was in a trying position which he had no desire to make more difficult in presenting the plea for Mrs. Snyder.

"She is a woman 35 years of age," he continued. "At the age of 19 she married a man ten years her senior. They had one child, 10 years old. She sent the child to Sunday school and taught her to say her prayers. She worked about the house. It is a pathetic sight to go out and see as I did the vines she planted at the house and the evidences of her home handicraft. She made her home a shining example of thrift and good work."

Declaring he would not go into the harrowing details of the crime, he insisted that no avarice on the part of his client had been proved, that only weak evidence pointed to the desire for insurance money as a motive.

Main Point of Appeal.

Taking up the main line of his appeal, he said:

"We have learned certain facts only recently after pains-taking investigation impeded by the condemned herself. We learned her life had been very different from what we or even her mother thought. In early childhood she suffered from severe sunstroke and also from a fall the marks of which she still bears on her head, concealed by her hair.

"She has moments of exhilaration or joy and then melancholy amounting almost to a breakdown. There follow fits of hysteria, almost epilepsy. Although those things would not be a complete defense, I believe they would be proper to submit to you. There are diagnoses I should like to present showing she is suffering from a psychosis. I am told that these conditions would render her only partly accountable for her actions.

"I know that the definitions of insanity under the law do not comprehend them. There is no provision for those twilight cases on the borderline approaching the legal definition of insanity. Here is a limited responsibility. Although legally and psychiatrically sane, she is irresponsible."

He asked the Governor to examine into her mental condition and hear also the testimony of the four doctors, two for the State and two for the defense, who, he had learned, only lately, had examined Gray before trial and "compromised" by finding him "not insane" in their report to the District Attorney. He asked that the Governor question also George V. McLaughlin, who as Police Commissioner cross-examined Mrs. Snyder when she was first arrested.

He pointed out finally that capital punishment was on the wane and that the trial Judge and the Sing Sing Warden were against it.

"No matter what the crime, the execution of a woman is revolting, and if there is any possible way to save her you will be the last person in the land to refuse her. We all hear of you as a Governor whose heart is overflowing with the milk of human kindness, rather than a high-geared mentality who does not understand his people," he concluded.

After Mr. Wallace had supported Mr. Hazelton on the score of sentiment against capital punishment, Mr. Millard made the principal plea for Gray, describing much the same sort of mentality ascribed to Mrs. Snyder. Gray had told the exact truth, he said, ever since he had emerged from "that hazy, spell-bound mind, that peculiar other world in which he was merely the shell of his former self." He was a model son and husband, beloved by all, until he met Mrs. Snyder, Mr. Millard said.

"Then those two souls met, strangely and pathetically. Just as a fire in a building will distort and twist the strongest steel rafters," he went on, "the unquenchable fire within the body of Ruth Snyder so distorted her moral and psychiatric being that she should have been in an institution or in the hands of a doctor long ago.

"Judd Gray fell into that, and when once that fire in its insatiable search for a victim touched Gray he gradually became her victim, and through drink and drugs and association with her became no longer a free agent, but a mannikin. As soon as he was isolated in a cell he became his normal self."

Like Mr. Hazelton, he appealed to the Governor to examine the four alienists who could "tell better than the Court of Appeals or you or myself" why Judd Gray killed a man he had never even seen before. Mr. Miller joined in this appeal, saying that Gray, now in his right mind and absolutely truthful, could not account for his act.

Newcombe Demands Penalty.

There was a short recess before District Attorney Newcombe took the floor and in strong terms demanded that the law take its course. He retraced the crime, arguing that the $95,000 death benefit for Mrs. Snyder was secretly planned. He told of the long series of ste s leading to the murder and branded it "the most vicious and atrocious in the history of New York, committed for avarice, greed and lust."

As an unexpected blow to the defense he pulled from his pocket a letter dated Jan. 4, from Dr. Thomas S. Leary and signed also by Dr. Stephen Jewett and Dr. Thomas S. Cusack, three of the alienists who examined Gray before trial, saying that they had found him to be "sane at the time of the examination and also at the time of the commission of the crime and had full knowledge of the nature and consequence of his act." He explained that the fourth doctor, Siegfried Block, was in Florida.

As he finished Governor Smith began his questioning. When the lawyers insisted upon consideration for the theory of border line mentality he said:

"The statute very clearly says a person may not be excused as a lunatic or insane person unless he does not know the nature and consequences of his act. If you thought he did not know its nature, why didn't you put that into your defense in court?"

Mr. Millard replied that the physicians acting under the terms of the law had previously ruled that Gray did comprehend his crime, so that introduction of such a defense would have been useless. Partial incomprehension and uncontrollableness, however, were something the Governor might consider, he argued. Gray, he said, was not acting freely when the crime was committed.

Question on Free Action.

"What do you mean by acting freely?" demanded the Governor.

"By his relations with Mrs. Snyder, drugs and continual drinking, his resistance power was weakened until he was in another world," was the reply.

"Then when a man wanted to commit a crime," remarked the Governor, "he could do these things and act this way and never be guilty. The question of mentality that you raise does not enter into it. He could be a ninny, an imbecile, a lunatic, but if he knew the quality of his act he could not be excused under the law."

To the plea that the words of the statute were out of date and that the Governor should consider the amount of the responsibility actually borne by the condemned, the Governor asked why that matter had not been put to the alienists.

"We did not have the right under the law," was the reply.

"You didn't have the right to do any of this," the Governor asserted, "but you did it. Why did you not get this question before them? Why did you not put in this defense of a twilight zone? Why did you not raise before the jury your doubt as to the defendants' knowledge of the quality of their acts?"

"Because the doctors had reported on that," Mr. Hazelton answered.

"Then what are we talking about? Why put the matter before me?" said the Governor. As the lawyers continued to press upon him the plea that he consider what the courts could not and the law did not consider, the Governor summed up his views and closed the hearing.

SUIT MAY HALT EXECUTION.

Court Has Power to Order Mrs. Snyder to Testify on Insurance.

A possible attempt to delay the execution of Mrs. Ruth Snyder by means of the suit over the $96,000 insurance on the life of her murdered husband, Albert E. Snyder, was disclosed yesterday when Edgar F. Hazelton, attorney for Mrs. Snyder, applied to have the action brought by the Prudential Insurance Company to cancel the policies on the ground that they were obtained by Mrs. Snyder without the knowledge of her husband decided by a jury.

Justice Levy, who will hear the application today, would have power to rule that issues of fact are involved which should be heard by a jury and could also suggest in his ruling that the testimony of Mrs. Snyder on these points is vital to the interests of her daughter, Lorraine, to whom she has assigned the policies.

Mr. Hazelton submitted twelve questions which he said covered the facts in the case, and which should be submitted to a jury instead of to a Judge alone as an issue of law. He indicated that he would attempt to prove that the dead man knew all about the policies and attached his signature to the applications with full knowledge as to what they were. The question, on which the court might rule the testimony of Mrs. Snyder was required in behalf of her daughter, reads:

"Were all or any of the acts with reference to these policies done by Albert E. Snyder, or were all or any of these acts done by defendant, Ruth Snyder, or through her connivance for the fraudulent purpose of obtaining insurance on the life of Albert E. Snyder and of profiting by his death?"

The statement that Gray was sane in the ordinary sense of the term at the time he murdered Albert Snyder with the help of Mrs. Ruth Snyder was reiterated yesterday by the four alienists who examined him, coincident with the making public of the text of their report, despite the contention of Mr. Hazelton that the finding was a compromise between professional conscience and the legal definition of insanity.

"We, the undersigned," the report reads, "having made an intensified examination of Henry Judd Gray, including mental, physical, neurological, pathological and X-ray, are of the opinion that he is not now insane and was not insane at the time of the commission of the crime with which he is charged and that he knew the nature and quality of this act."

Mr. Hazelton made much of the fact that the alienists did not find Gray sane but found him "not insane."

"We were not concerned with the particular phrasing of our findings," Dr. Stephen P. Jewett, one of the alienists, said yesterday, "we were asked to report as to his sanity. That is all we were asked about. We agreed that he was sane. There is no significance in the exact manner of the wording of the finding."

Dr. Thomas S. Cusack also said that they were not sparing professional conscience and that the wording of the report was not intended to offer a loophole of misunderstanding.

"Henry Judd Gray was sane and normal," he said. "We were not sparing professional conscience, nor were we concerned with legalistic phraseology. We were putting into plain words our scientific findings."

Dr. Cusack and Dr. Siegfried Block were alienists for the defense who cooperated with Drs. Jewett and Sylvester B. Leahy for the State in an impartial report of the result of their joint examination. This was a new procedure in criminal law for the prosecution and defense to join forces in the psychiatric examination and agree to stand by the findings regardless of the outcome.

A plan to have a delegation of 100 or more members of the New Jersey League for the Abolition of Capital Punishment visit Governor Smith to plead with him for Mr. Imprisonment for Mrs. Snyder and Gray was abandoned yesterday after a conference of the league's executives. Miss Anna E. Hogan, a Jersey City lawyer, who is President of the league, explained that the sentiment of the conference was that such an act would jeopardize rather than aid the chances of the condemned prisoners.

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 5 (AP).—Mrs. Ruth Snyder, awaiting execution in the Sing Sing death house, has made her will, leaving her property to her 9-year-old daughter and her mother, it was learned today.

The will disposed of the insurance on her murdered husband, although payment has been contested in the courts, and property consisting of an automobile, clothing and jewelry. She left the bulk to her daughter, Lorraine.

S-4'S TRAGIC TAPS REVEALED BY NAVY

LAST HEARD ON THIRD DAY

Other Sounds Showed Some Men Alive 75 Hours After Submarine Was Sunk.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The gripping story of the grim but losing struggle of Lieutenant Graham Fitch and the five enlisted men who awaited certain death in the forward torpedo room of the sunken submarine S-4 was disclosed today by the Navy Department in the complete record of the tapped messages that passed between the doomed men and divers seeking to save them.

A log of the signals, given out by Secretary Wilbur, showed that communication with Lieutenant Fitch was maintained for three days after the submarine sank on Dec. 17, or until 6:30 P. M. Dec. 20, when the last faint and random taps were heard from within the torpedo room.

The communication with Lieutenant Fitch and his comrades was made possible, and greatly facilitated, by his knowledge of naval signal codes, and this fact also greatly expedited the "tapping" conversations.

The log shows that the message from the wife and mother of Lieutenant Fitch, telling of their prayers for his safety, was acknowledged faintly at 6:15 A. M., Dec. 20, but whether the indistinct taps came from his companions or himself will never be definitely known. A copy of the log has been sent to Lieutenant Fitch's parents, Colonel and Mrs. Graham D. Fitch, in this city.

Relied on International Code.

The men in the torpedo room were in darkness, and the water stood eighteen inches deep in the compartment, but, notwithstanding these difficulties, communications were carried on through oscillating signaling devices effectively. One of the last messages to the S-4 said divers were prepared to attach air lines to the "SC," or listening device on the sunken vessel. This subsequently was done, but too late to save the lives of those imprisoned.

The signals were first made in an arbitrary code improvised by the submarine S-8, on the surface over the S-4, but when it was found that Lieutenant Fitch, who was familiar with the international code, was in the torpedo compartment, the latter code was relied upon.

The record shows, however, that the last message received from the sunken craft in international code was at 3 P. M. Monday, Dec. 19, nearly forty-eight hours after the collision which sent the S-4 to the bottom. This is interpreted as meaning that Lieutenant Fitch was too weak to longer engage in intelligent conversation, or that he had succumbed.

That faint taps were heard seventy-five hours after the accident is regarded as bearing out the belief of navy medical officers that, with reserve air in the torpedo and an oxygen flask in the compartment, the trapped men could maintain life for approximately eighty hours.

Log of the Conversations.

A sister vessel, the S-8, first established communication with the S-4 by answering signals sent from the surface by a system of knocks from the S-4 on the hull as follows:

Yes—Answer with three taps.
No—Answer with five taps.
I don't know—Answer with seven taps.

Q. 1—Is the control room flooded?
A.—Seven taps, at 5 P. M. on Dec. 18.

Q. 2—Is water in torpedo room?
A.—Three taps, sent at 5:11 P. M. on Dec. 18.

Q. 3—Are you in torpedo room?
A.—Three taps, sent at 5:30 P. M., Dec. 18.

Due to the ability with which signals were received in the torpedo room, it was figured that Lieutenant Fitch was there, as he was torpedo officer, so that a better system was started by telling the S-4 to signal by International code, using two knocks for a dash and one knock for a dot.

At this time the U. S. S. Falcon took over the communication by using an oscillator for communicating:

Q. 1—Is there any gas?
A.—No, but the air is bad. How long will you be now? [Sent at 6 P. M., Dec. 18.]

Q. 2—How many are there?
A.—There are six; please hurry. [Sent at 6:10 P. M., Dec. 18. Compartment salvage air is being hooked up now. [Sent at 6:43 P. M., Dec. 18, from Falcon.]

Q. 3—Will you raise us soon?
A.—We are doing everything possible.

Taps heard at 8:25 and at 10:18 P. M. on Dec. 18. U. S. S. Falcon made no signals, as diver was down.

Q. 4—Is water still coming in?
A.—Slow. Hurry. [Sent at 11:51 P. M. on Dec. 18.]

Q. 5—We are working as fast as possible. Have you light?
A.—We have no light. The air is very bad. [Sent at 12:02 A. M., Dec. 19.]

Q. 6—Can you tell us the names of those with you?
A.—Names are Fitch, Short, Crabb, Palmer, Snizek, Stevens. [Sent at 12:50 A. M., Dec. 19.]

Report Air Has Become "Very Bad."

Q. 7—Have you tried removing gas from compartment salvage air line?
A.—Salvage air line is flooded. [Sent at 1:20 A. M., Dec. 19.]
Q. 8—How deep is water in compartment?
A.—Water is about eighteen inches deep. Air is very bad. [Sent at 5:00 A. M., Dec. 19.]

At this time the Falcon had to leave the scene of the operations with Diver Michels, injured when he was imprisoned in the wreckage during the rescue operations. The S-8 was ordered to keep in communication with the S-4. At this time the weather conditions on the surface made diving impracticable.

Q. 9—Oxygen bottle empty. Can you send down a couple? [Received at 9:36 A. M., Dec. 19, from S-4.]

S-8 asked S-4 to make more space between letters. S-8 told S-4 to make ten taps if they did not receive message.

At 9:40 A. M., Dec. 19, the S-8 again received a message: "Can you send down a couple?"

During this period the S-8 had difficulty in reception, due no doubt to the weakness of the personnel on the S-4.

An intermittent conversation was kept up by the S-8, now hoping that by concentrating on the signals the time would pass easier for the imprisoned men.

From S-8—Two floating cranes are on the way now.
From S-8—From New York.
From S-4—Will not last until [illegible] tonight.
A.—It will last until 6 tonight.
From S-8—Much noise. Will call you in ten minutes. Time is now a quarter of eleven, Monday A. M.
From S-4—How is weather?
From S-8—Is there any hope? [Sent at 3 A. M. Monday.]
A.—There is hope. Everything possible will be done.

Taps Grow Very Indistinct.

From S-8—How many torpedoes on board and where stowed? [Sent at 5 P. M.]

The S-8 could not get an answer to this message.

From S-8—There is hope.
From S-8—Did you get last message? [Sent at 5:45 P. M. Monday.]

The S-4 answered with a number of taps very distinct.

From S-8—Will call you in a few minutes. Water splashing against boat drowns out our taps.
From S-8—Can you hear me now?

The S-8 then heard taps, but unable to make them out.

From S-8—Everything possible has been and will be done.
From S-8—S-51 pontoons have arrived. Time is 5:15 Thursday morning.

S-4 answered by three groups of three taps each.

From S-8—Have you a message?

The S-8 then heard sounds like some one moving something around. At 10:50 Monday night the S-8 received the following from the commander in control of the force:

Transmit if possible the following message for Lieutenant Fitch on the S-4: "Your wife and mother constantly praying for you."

This was sent to the S-4 at 12:10 A. M., Dec. 20.

From S-8—If you receive this, send taps until I stop you. If not, send taps like this: 1. . . . . AR.
From S-8—Did you get that? [Sent at 12:30 A. M.]

No answer from S-4.

From S-8—Did you get that message?

Sent message for Lieutenant Fitch again. No answer. [Sent at 12:45 A. M., Dec. 20.]

Listening by S-8 has been difficult since 10:30 P. M., Dec. 19.

At 2 A. M., Dec. 20, repeated message for Lieutenant Fitch.

Did you get last message? Send taps.

No answer from S-4. This message was sent at intervals until at 6:10 Tuesday morning, Dec. 20, when the message was sent again with request that three taps be given for yes and five for no.

At 6:15 A. M., Dec. 20, from S-4 three groups of three dots each were received, indicating yes.

Final Random Taps Heard.

From S-8 [At 6:20 P. M., Dec. 20]—Diver will try to connect air to S. C. tube. Three taps for yes; five for no.

At 6:20 A. M. the S-4 answered yes.

From S-8 [at 7:40 A. M., Dec. 20]—Weather slightly calmer than last night. Force four. Still choppy, but calming down slowly.

[Time 7:45.] No answer from S-4. At 8:15 A. M., Dec. 20, the S-8 thought that they heard taps, but were not certain. At 10:15 A. M. from S-8:

Cranes are here. [Time 10:20.]

The S-8 heard faint, indistinct tappings occasionally. The S-8 now tried to call the S-4 intermittently, but could get no answer, until at 4:05 P. M., the 20th of December, the S-8 sent:

Are you all right O. K.?

The S-8 then heard three taps very distinctly. At 4:30 P. M., Dec. 20:

Are you all right O. K.?

The S-8 was sure that an answer of three taps was heard.

At 6:30 P. M., Dec. 20, the S-8 heard taps at random.

At 6:35 P. M., Dec. 20, the S-8 quit sending so as to listen to determine if taps continued.

At 2 A. M., Dec. 21, called S-4 for ten minutes, but no answer. Nothing was heard during the remainder of the night.

THREE BODIES IDENTIFIED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The first three bodies recovered from the submarine S-4, all found in the engine room, have been identified as those of Lieut. Commander R. K. Jones, commanding officer of the submarine; Lieutenant Joseph McGinley and Chief Machinist's Mate Aron Albert Hodges. Identification was established from fingerprints. The next of kin were notified today by the Navy Department as follows:

Lieut. Commander R. K. Jones, home, Hennessey, Okla. Next of kin, Mrs. Jones (wife), Halethorpe, Md.

Chief Machinist's Mate Hodges. Next of kin, brother, John S. Hodges, Riverside, Cal.

COOLIDGE INQUIRY ON S-4 IS PRESSED

House Agrees to Take Up Resolution Saturday as Charges Fly Against Navy.

GRIFFIN SEES INACTION

Assails Lack of Safety Devices—Criticizes LaGuardia, Who Hotly Defends Service.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Prompt action will be taken by the House on President Coolidge's recommendation that a special board of five experts be named to investigate the sinking of the S-4 and consider development of safety devices for submarines.

On motion of Representative Snell of New York, Chairman of the Rules Committee, the House today agreed to take up Saturday the Butler resolution drafted in conformity with the recommendation in the President's special message on the request.

In prosecution of its work, the board would be empowered to subpoena witnesses, compel attendance, and enforce production of books and papers, and $20,000 would be available to pay the expenses of investigation.

Today's developments indicate the House debate on the Butler resolution may be stormy, although indications are it will be adopted by a large vote.

Criticising Navy operations on the S-4, Representative Griffin of New York was sarcastic over yesterday's defense of the navy by Representative La Guardia, following the latter's visit to Provincetown. Mr. Griffin wanted to know why Mr. La Guardia was so confirmed in his belief that the Navy had done "everything possible."

"Was it because they treated him so nicely?" asked Mr. Griffin. "That is a common thing for the Navy nowadays. They are anxious for experts to confirm their contentions. A couple of weeks ago they entertained a garage keeper, with distinguished consideration, as an expert.

"They found he never saw a submarine before his visit to Provincetown. There was an expert. I am wondering whether my colleague wants to have himself put in that category."

Assails Navy Bureaucrats.

Representative O'Connor, Democrat, of New York interrupted to ask:

"Have you observed the attitude of the public mind in this whole situation to be, as we in New York gather it is, that this bureaucratic crowd in the navy, or what somebody has referred to as our militaristic caste, have gotten into the habit of treating the American public so curtly and so discourteously, in effect telling them that it is none of their business? Are not the members of this caste now due for a spanking from our people?"

Mr. Griffin resumed:

"I have intimations from many sources, and large correspondence, tending to show the attitude of the American people is very resentful."

He recalled the failure of efforts to save members of the crew in the disasters to the submarines F-4, in 1915, and the S-51 in 1925.

"Had the navy done anything meantime to make submarines secure?" he asked. "Had they put shackles, bolts, eyelets or rings on the submarine to enable them to attach the pontoons? Even if they did feel it was impossible to lift the submarine, did they do anything to expedite and facilitate attachment of the chains and pontoons to submarines? Nothing.

Blames Navy Obstinacy.

"The navy persistently, obstinately refuses to make them safe, because they are wedded to the notion they are military devices and that life-saving considerations should be subordinate to their military purposes.

"I have never heard of any Admirals who go to sea in battleships or cruisers getting rid of life-rafts, life preserevrs, the radio systems oscillators or other devices that render navigation secure. Why should the submarine be put in this anomalous, peculiar position of being purposely made unsafe? Between 1915, when the F-4 sank, and 1925, when the S-51 sank, not a planed thing was done to render these submarines safe.

Mr. Griffin insisted that if the navy possessed "adequate safety devices" such as the German Navy had used since 1911 the S-4 might have been lifted on one end so that its crew might have escaped through the torpedo tubes. He scored the navy for alleged failure to profit by other submarine tragedies.

"I besought them two years ago," he said, "when the S-51 sank, to request Congress to authorize salvage vessels.

"Germany has the Vulcan. France has a salvage ship of that kind. Italy has the best and largest salvage machine. It would have paid us to request the loan of these salvage vessels. What a shame and reflection it is upon the Navy Department that we should be compelled to confess our indecency and inefficiency where human life is at stake!"

LaGuardia Answers Critic.

Mr. LaGuardia denied the charge of lavish entertainment on his submarine inspection trip. He said he had one meal with the crew and four other meals during the thirty-six hours, costing twenty-four cents apiece, declaring Mr. Griffin's suggestions and charges ill-advised and malicious.

"I have never made such a childish, stupid, silly, unworthy charge as to say that officers of the navy have purposely made the submarines unsafe," Mr. LaGuardia said.

"I have criticised the navy, and in most instances have assumed the role of attack, but I never came before this House unless I knew what I was talking about.

"If the gentleman ignores the depth to which the vessel sinks and seeks to make comparison between a vessel in forty feet and one in 100 feet of water, I submit to an elementary class in physics whether such a comparison is of value.

"The gentleman says that he is going to appy shackles, eyes and rings to submarines and lift them out under all circumstances, but when asked what he is going to do if it sinks in 300 or 400 feet of water he makes no reply.

"If a submarine sinks in 400 feet you simply have to forget it. There is nothing that can reach it or pull it out of water. You can use a telephone buoy only under ideal conditions. The U-3 was not sunk as the result of a collision, as were the S-51 and S-4.

"There you have a terrific collision, and in such a case every appliance is put out of commission, and we saw that in the ballast air tubes, compartment air tubes and every device on board the S-4."

Puts Questions to the Navy.

Mr. Griffin submitted a series of sixteen questions to be put to the Navy Department. He wanted to know, among other things, if the S-4 was equipped with an oscillator and if it was manned at the time of the accident.

"Has the Navy Department issued any orders requiring a member of the crew of the submarine to be always on duty at this device while the vessel is submerged?" said another question. Others included the following:

"What orders of the Navy Department have been issued, if any, with respect to the attendance of a warning escort vessel while a submarine is navigating submerged?

"What has become of the order of Franklin Roosevelt respecting installation of signal smoke bombs intended to warn shipping that a submarine is about to rise to the surface?"

"Why not have grappling rings, hooks, eyelets or shackles been in stalled on submarines to facilitate their prompt raising either by pontoons or direct lifting tackle?

"What steps have been taken by the navy to designs appropriate salvage vessels equipped with all modern devices for prompt salvage of submarines in distress?

"What steps have been taken by the navy to study the operation of certain diving suits devised in Germany and adopted by the navies of Germany, Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Spain?

"What steps have been taken by the navy to provide an airlock escape chamber or a diving chamber such as is used in certain types of submarines?

"Why cannot submarines be employed in salvage operations where they can work on the sea bottom without disturbance from either wind or wave?"

Troy Man Declines Dry Post.

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 5 (AP).—Hans C. Dahl of Troy today declined the post of Assistant Administrator of the Northern District, Prohibition Bureau, in charge of permissive work. He is now Deputy Internal Revenue Collector. The new post would force his removal to Buffalo and Mr. Dahl said he preferred to remain here.

Both Lieutenant Worden and Lieut. Commander Strother put into the record high praise of the commander of the S-4 whose body, with that of Lieutenant McGinley, was removed tonight from the navy yard at Charlestown to be transferred to Arlington National Cemetery.

Commander Strother also was questioned briefly concerning the attempt to rescue the six men who died in the forward torpedo compartment of the S-4 after signaling in vain for help for more than sixty hours. It was the first time that the testimony turned toward that phase of the inquiry, but tomorrow the attempt at rescue is likely to be a leading subject. Lieut. Commander Edward Ellsberg, who came out of retirement to try to help save the men, is to take the stand.

Members of the court, composed of Rear Admiral Richard H. Jackson, the President; Rear Admiral Julian L. Latimer and Captain Joseph V. Ogan, seemed more serious than usual when Commander Rainberg followed the two navy men on the stand. The Judge Advocate, Lieut. Commander Leslie Bratton, asked the Coast Guard officer concerning the orders which sent the Paulding into the vicinity of Provincetown.

Denying he knew that submarines held diving tests on the course at this time of the year, he was asked if he had ever been warned to be on the lookout for submarines around Cape Cod. His reply caused a laugh.

"We received an order from the State Department that a German submarine was trying to smuggle liquor into the country," he said. "We receive many reports. Nothing came of it."

Upholds Paulding's Commander.

Commander Rainberg said that the Paulding, with Lieut. Commander Baylis as commanding officer, left Boston at 9 o'clock Dec. 17 with several other vessels to search the districts assigned to them. There were about 200 vessels to be examined or seized." The sea experience of Commander Baylis, he said, began more than twenty-five years ago, and he was "one of our most capable commanding officers."

During his own examination, Commander Reinberg said that if a ship such as the Bushnell, flagship of the twelfth submarine division, was visible where submarines were operating submerged, he would take special precautions.

Lieutenant Worden who yesterday declared that if a tender were on hand during a dive it would be "just one more ship to watch," reiterated that he saw no necessity for any warning vessel and when Commander Reinberg confronted him with the note on the chart, he said that, despite the note, the practice of stationing warning vessels near the scene of a "dive" no longer prevailed, except where a number of submarines were running submerged.

Rear Admiral Jackson elicited from Lieutenant Worden that since the note about the warning flag had been put on the charts in 1908, efficiency in handling submarines had increased greatly.

Admiral Jackson drew from the young officer a statement that few except small fishing vessels were seen in the neighborhood; that the test course could not be considered to be in a "steamer lane," and that Lieut. Commander W. F. Callaway, of the Board of Inspection and Survey, who lost his life on the S-4 while ship rvising the fatal test, had said that the course was "the best along the Atlantic coast."

Conditions on the S-4 for hearing the Paulding were not very good, Lieutenant Worden believed, because in a choppy sea such as that which prevailed the oscillator of the listening device on his own ship had barely been able to pick up signals 200 feet away.

Lieutenant Worden said the commanding officer should be at the periscope during an operation like that being performed by the S-4 and Commander Strother added that both the commanding officer and the diving officer, Lieutenant McGinley, should remain in the control room. There has been considerable mystery as to why those on the S-4 failed to see the Paulding through the periscopes.

It was not until after a recess that Commander Strother corrected his testimony to say that when he said Commander Jones and Lieutenant McGinley should not have left the control room, he meant under "normal diving conditions."

The questions suggesting the cause of the officers' visit to the engine room, where their bodies were found, came from Lieut. Commander T. J. Doyle, representing "the deceased members of the crew of the S-4."

He asked if Commander Jones might not have left the control room to "investigate trouble in another part of the ship," and if it were not possible that both the commanding officer and the diving officer, Lieutenant McGinley, would leave the control room during a dive. Commander Strother replied in the affirmative.

Rear Admiral Jackson later wanted to know if "in case of accident the commanding officer might consider the manning of the periscope for a few moments a matter of minor importance and if his duties might not take him away from his regular post." Again Commander Strother agreed.

Commander Strother, in his testimony regarding the early rescue work, told about the rough weather early on the morning of Dec. 18, which prevented diving. He also related how the men trapped in the S-4 had asked for soda lime to absorb carbon dioxide that might accumulate in the submarine, and read a statement from the Bureau of Construction and Repair announcing that installation of lime and containers was "contemplated for the fiscal year 1929."

Commander Strother said of Commander Jones that "he was more careful than the usual commanding officer." Lieutenant Worden had said: "We considered him very cautious, very careful and in fact in my own mind I have had occasion to think he might be overly cautious at times."

Reports from the salvage fleet at Provincetown trying to raise the S-4 told of another day of inactivity because of bad weather. An effort to get more bodies from the hull will be made as soon as weather permits.

The bodies of Lieut. Commander Jones and Lieutenant McGinley were accompanied by a guard of honor tonight when they were taken to the South Station to be transported to Arlington. Eight bluejackets acted as pallbearers and a squad of police men cleared the way through the crowds for the passage of the flag-draped coffin. The guard stood at salute until the last car of the express train had passed.

The body of the man found with the two officers in the engine room, Chief Machinist's Mate Aaron Albert Hodges, was still at the Naval Hospital late tonight.

THREE S-4 DIVERS CITED FOR BRAVERY

TELLS OF GREAT RISK RUN

Michels, Man Saved, and Carr, Who Attached Air Hose, Are Named for Navy Crosses.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Heroic work performed by three navy divers at the scene of the disaster to the submarine S-4 was recognized today in recommendations for decorations.

Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby, in charge of salvage operations, recommended a Medal of Honor for Thomas Eadie, and Navy Crosses for William J. Carr and Fred G. Michels. The recommendations were referred to the Board of Decorations to signify its attitude to Congress.

"Thomas Eadie, Chief Gunner's Mate, U. S. N.—Medal of Honor:

"On Dec. 18, 1927, the Falcon moored over what was presumed to be the U. S. S. S-4 after a grapnel caught on some object on bottom. Eadie was sent down to make examination.

"Sounded with hammer and reported life in torpedo room. On reaching the limiting time on bottom, he was brought to the surface and work proceeded on the information he gave. Later, F. G. Michels, chief torpedoman, went down to attempt to attach air hose to S-4 compartments for breathing purposes.

Michels Becomes Trapped Below.

"Diving conditions were very bad and would have been discontinued except for the reason that life was involved. After about three-quarters of an hour on bottom, Michels reported that he was badly fouled, and from the difficulty he was having to talk over the 'phone the condition of the foul was apparently serious.

"Eadie was asked to make a second dive within a period of five hours to rescue Michels.

"Well knowing the grave risk to his own life he was taking, he readily consented and descended, carrying a diver's lamp, cutting pliers, hammer and large wire cutter. Eadie found Michels' lifeline and hose foul of a broken part of S-4, starboard side, where rammed by the Paulding, and also on starboard side by parts of Paulding's plating torn off by the collision. He was lying down and could not rise.

"Eadie cleared one side, but could not find where the hose passed in and around some twisted and bent metal. He found a most likely place to cut away this metal, and asked that a hacksaw be sent down to him. Working with hacksaw and metal, Eadie was able to cut away a piece of metal after working for about forty minutes.

Works an Hour and 45 Minutes.

"Eadie was then able to trace Michels's air hose and complete clearing him.

"Eadie's total time on bottom to clear Michels, one hour and forty-five minutes. Temperature of water 34 deg. F., depth 102 feet."

William J. Carr, chief boatswain's mate, U. S. N.—Navy Cross:

"With the force of wind 7 to 8, Buford scale, temperature of air 25 Fahrenheit, Carr, an expert diver, and well aware of the conditions under which the dive was to be made, willingly and promptly descended 102 feet and attached an air-blowing hose to S-4's salvage tank air connection. In doing this Carr freely exposed himself to grave danger."

"Fred G. Michels, chief torpedoman, U. S. N.—Navy Cross:

"Although it was dark, cold, sea rough and wind rising, and nothing but the endeavor to save life warranted sending a diver down, Michels, thoroughly aware of all circumstances and fully appreciating the grave risk he was taking, responded promptly and willingly to descend and attempt to attach an air hose to the S-4 compartment salvage air line.

"The yaw and lift of the Falcon was so great, due to rough sea, that Michels's lifeline and hose became foul after about forty-five minutes working on the bottom.

"He was rescued after being down three hours and twenty minutes."

DOWLING HEARING DELAYED.

Assets of Man Who Died a Week Ago to Be Investigated Feb. 7.

Oscar W. Ehrhorn, referee in bankruptcy for the estate of Mark Temple Dowling, who died Dec. 29, a week before his assets and liabilities were to have been investigated, announced yesterday that the hearing had been postponed until Feb. 7 at the referee's office, 220 Broadway.

Leo Wechsler of 261 Broadway, attorney for the late Mr. Dowling, said yesterday that there was no set procedure in dealing with the estate of a deceased bankrupt. Creditors might continue their search for assets, he declared, or the estate could apply for a discharge of the bankruptcy proceedings. Mr. Wechsler added that he would not apply for such a discharge of the $300,000 liabilities of the Dowling estate.

At a hearing before Mr. Ehrhorn some time ago Mr. Dowling testified that his assets were nominal and that he had kept no accounts of his debts. His business affairs were left to his secretary, Miss H. M. Raymond, whose address he said he did not know. He promised to have her appear at the hearing which was scheduled for yesterday. Among his creditors are the General Bond and Share Corporation, claiming $104,000; Robert A. Shaw of 50 Church Street, $52,527, and the Metropolitan Realty Corporation, $75,000.

Asbury Park Horse Stirs Thief.

ASBURY PARK, Jan. 5 (AP).—A horse thief was sought by police of Asbury Park today for the first time in many years. Willis Pascko of Wayside came to town yesterday with his black mare, which has a white face, and rig. Both were stolen from their parking place in the business section, he reported.

COSGRAVE TO BRING THANKS FROM IRISH

In Farewell Dublin Banquet He Says "Free State Independence Due to America."

HAS NO PARTISAN MISSION

He Plans to Express Gratitude to Coolidge, Promote Commerce and Attract Tourists.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 5.—A eulogy of the United States for the help given to Ireland in "winning the independence of the Free State" and for the millions of pounds spent annually in relieving its poor was delivered by President Cosgrave tonight at a banquet extended by the citizens of Dublin in honor of his forthcoming visit to America.

President Cosgrave declared the purpose of his visit would not be political nor partisan, but would be a mission of thanks to Americans for their many kindnesses to Ireland.

"For many years during our struggle for independence," he said, "we received moral and financial support in large measure from the American public. They watched our troubles and triumphs with practical sympathy. It is due in no small measure to America that the long drawn out struggle for national independence ultimately was brought to a successful issue."

Mr. Cosgrave recalled America's early contributions to the Home Rule Party, later to the Gaelic League, and since 1916 to the National Aid and Prisoners' Defense Fund of the Irish White Cross. He said more than $3,000,000 in American money had arrived every Christmas to brighten the Irish holiday. He remembered that $6,000,000 had been subscribed in America to the bonds floated by the Dail Eireann during the war for independence, and American banks recently had taken the second national loan in a few hours.

Besides thanking the American people, through President Coolidge, he said he hoped to meet as many Americans as possible and make the real status of Ireland since the war for independence better known. He also hoped to foster closer commercial relations and arouse interest in Ireland's attractions for tourists in scenery, hunting and fishing.

Wainwright Abbot, Secretary of the American Legation, responded to Mr. Cosgrave's speech in the absence of Minister Sterling, who has been ill since the recent injury to his arm sustained in hunting. Mr. and Mrs. Sterling will sail on Saturday for New York so Mr. Sterling can help welcome the Cosgrave party in Washington.

French Woman Writes Mrs. Coolidge for Aid; DoughboysPledgedHelpWhenTragedyCame

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Somewhere en route, in Mrs. Coolidge's mail bag, is a letter from Madame Angele Heboud asking help for herself and her son Lucien. It is not an ordinary begging letter such as probably frequently reach the first lady of America. It is the letter of an honest, hard-working French woman, who thinks that while her legal claims have been settled she has a sentimental claim on America. Her story, as told to the Quotidien by Huguette Godin, strongly supports that claim.

When the war began Madame Heboud and her husband ran a successful little hotel near Macon, where their boy Lucien went to school. They were lucky in that M. Heboud served throughout the whole war and was never wounded. But in April, 1918, he was accidentally killed at Raon-Letape by an American military policeman.

M. Heboud was standing sixty feet away from a group of Americans when a row started, during which the policeman drew his revolver. M. Heboud was shot through the chest, and as he lay dying the doughboys around him promised that America would never let his wife and son want. The promise was kept to the extent that Madame Heboud, in the general settlement of French claims, received $55 pension, the equivalent of the amount she would have received had her husband been killed in action.

She did not complain. By hard work and with the aid of her pension she sent her son to an engineering college, where he was graduated. It seemed that she had overcome her difficulties. Then the lad Lucien, just when he could begin to support her, caught pleurisy, which developed into tuberculosis. Except for the pension Madame Heboud has no resources with which to send him to a sanatorium.

It was then she wrote to Mrs. Coolidge. Legally, she admits, her claims have been satisfied, yet the promises made that day by the doughboys at Raon-Letape, who saw her husband killed, seem to give her something more than a legal claim.

WARMER WEATHER IS PROMISED TODAY

Following the promised rise in temperature for yesterday, the mercury hovered between 18 degrees at 8 o'clock in the morning and 33 shortly before 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It began to drop at that hour, but at 9 o'clock had fallen only to 31.

Reports received in Washington indicated a rise in the temperature in most of the country, although near-zero conditions continued in parts of Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Weather predictions for this city were that it would be partly cloudy today and tomorrow with slowly rising temperature.

Despite the rise in the mercury in this city, about 600 men and women appeared at the Municipal Lodging House last night for shelter. Many of them were found to be from other cities, and as they had received shelter elsewhere last week were refused admittance in accordance with the policy of Commissioner of Welfare Coler to grant only one night's lodging a month to such applicants.

All of those who applied for lodging were questioned by I. James Brody, Secretary of the Public Welfare Department, and several patrolmen, who had been assigned to assist him. Seven men were recognized during the day as "repeaters" and were arrested by the patrolmen as vagrants. Mr. Brody said that he believed many of those from out of town who had applied were under the mistaken impression that shelter would be provided every night they called.

One of those standing in line, Charles Kermick, 25 years old, attempted suicide by drinking the contents of a three-ounce bottle of iodine. He told the police that he drank the poison because he feared that he would be denied a night's lodging, as he had obtained shelter there two months before. He was removed to Bellevue Hospital in a serious condition.

ENVOY SAYS JAPAN WANTS ONLY PEACE

CALLS POLICY A FIXED ONE

Points to Participation in Arms Conferences as Proof—Denies Aggression in China.

Japan seeks to live in peace with all the world for all time, Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese Ambassador to the United States, declared at the annual dinner of the Japan Society at the Hotel Astor last night.

With the end of the period of mourning for the late Emperor, Japan is entering upon an era which it calls "sho-wa," or enlightened peace, the Ambassador said. It is particularly the desire of the Japanese people and their Government to continue the friendly relations which have existed with the United States, he said.

Recalling that his country had participated enthusiastically in all the international conferences since the end of the World War, he expressed "genuine regret" that the Geneva naval armament conference had failed of its object. The frank discussions at that conference, however, would eventually result in a satisfactory agreement between the naval powers, he predicted.

Denies Imperialistic Aims.

Ambassador Matsudaira likewise disavowed for his country imperialistic aims in China. Japan seeks merely to protect its citizens and their property in that country, he said.

Thomas W. Lamont, member of J. P. Morgan & Co. and a director of the society, said he found Japan recovering her business stride on his recent visit to the country. He also declared that war between Japan and the United States was unthinkable.

The Japanese Ambassador was accompanied by Mme. Matsudaira.

"We stand at the threshold of a new year—a year, let us hope, which will bring still further progress in peace, prosperity and general enlightenment," he began. "Japanese greet it with festivities and ceremonies prompted by light and joyous hearts but especially is this true of the dawn of the present year, for this is with us not only the dawn of a new year but the opening of a fresh chapter in our national life.

"The one-year period of national mourning for the late and revered Emperor is ended. The new Emperor, young, progressive, broadminded, has ascended to the throne. Under his leadership the people of Japan will spare no efforts in the cultivation of the arts of peace and the promotion of friendly relations with other nations. Indicative of the policy that shall characterize it, this new era upon which Japan has entered is already called 'sho-wa,' which means 'enlightened peace.'"

Japan's policy is definitely one of peace and the failure of the naval conference will make no difference in this attitude, he said. Japan's is a settled policy of avoiding naval competition.

"As regards China," he went on, "our policy has been guided by moderation and conciliation, tempered with genuine respect for China's independence and integrity.

Respects China's Aspirations.

"As has been repeatedly declared by the responsible leaders of my country, Japan's policy toward China has been dictated by her desire to preserve peace in the Orient in harmonious cooperation with the other powers concerned, while respecting in all sincerity the just aspirations of the Chinese people."

Although the Japanese Government has announced that adequate protection will be given to Japanese residents in China, there is no intention to carry out a policy of aggression, he said.

Reiterating Japan's desire for friendly relations with the United States, the Ambassador said he was "delighted to observe that in recent years there has been a steady growth on the part of the American people in the understanding of Japan and in the appreciation of things Japanese, and that the people of both countries are bent upon seizing every possible opportunity of friendly interchange."

He referred to the sending of dolls by American children to Japanese children as one of the signs of this new spirit. The school children of Japan have also sent their "doll ambassadors," he said, some of them being displayed in the banquet hall.

"It is my sincere hope that following the exchange of the doll ambassadors, other embassies than those of conventional or regular diplomats will cross and recross the Pacific," he continued. "In these times the people determine to a great extent what international relations shall be. Improvement of these relations will be expedited more than anything else by the enlightenment of popular will through the freer and easier intercourse of the people."

Lamont Tells of His Trip.

Mr. Lamont said his visit to Japan had no connection with any loan or business transaction. However, he did devote much of his time to an appraisal of business conditions in the country. Within the last few years Japan had three crises to surmount, he said. These were the business slump of 1920, the earthquake and fire of 1923 and the banking panic of last Spring.

The financier said he could hardly speak with too extravagant praise of the manner in which the country had recovered from the earthquake disaster. Reconstruction was going on speedily, he declared, with a "marvelous spirit of cooperation."

The worst was over with respect to the bank failures, he reported, though it was not yet plain sailing.

"No people can go through such storms of nature and of human affairs and the next moment come out unscathed," Mr. Lamont said. "There is no one of the great nations upon which it is more incumbent to practice thrift in government expenditure and a rigid balancing of the budget than Japan. I have confidence enough in the leading men there to believe that both these policies will be followed."

Japan's foreign policy seemed to be one of friendship for America and conciliation with China, he said, basing his opinion on talks with Government leaders and leaders of the Opposition. He said he had found a change of opinion with respect to China since his last visit eight years ago. This change he interpreted as a realization that China offered to Japan her best market and a further realization that international understanding could best be reached through friendly discussion.

Japanese-American relations were founded on a sound basis, Mr. Lamont declared.

"It is almost as unthinkable that we should enter armed conflict with our nearest neighbors across the Pacific as it is that we should go to war with our nearest neighbors across the Atlantic," he said.

Yusuki Tsurumi, representative of the Japanese Liberal Party, explained the significance of this year's general elections in Japan. For the first time full suffrage has been extended to males of all classes and four times as many will be entitled to vote as formerly. With the extension of suffrage, he said, the influence of the common people would be felt, a more liberal Government would result and radical tendencies be lessened, because the labor movement could substitute the ballot box for the general strike in seeking reforms.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Even the Republic of Andorra, where taxes are so small they amount to nothing and where there are neither soldiers nor policemen, is not without its troubles. To Paris there has come a deputation of Andorrans to plead their case with the Prince of Andorra, who also has the title of President of the French Republic. By virtue of being a successor to Henry IV as head of the French State, President Doumergue shares with the Bishop of Urgel, in Spain, the titular sovereignty over the little Pyrennean principality, which otherwise enjoys complete independence.

But Andorra has begun to feel that encroachments are being made on its sovereignty. Formerly its postal service was assured by France, which tactfully appointed Andorrans as postmen. Now the distribution of the mails is being undertaken by Spain and the Spaniards are employing Spanish postmen for the task.

It might appear a small matter, but the Andorrans regard it with suspicion. It may mean, they say, that there is going to be a censorship on their incoming and outgoing mails, for in Spain the censorship is severe, and since two recent attempts at revolt started near the frontier Andorra is under suspicion. Even so, such interference with the principality's full independence is not to be tolerated.

It was the case of Schoolmaster Armengol which started this Spanish suspicion of Andorra. Armengol was discovered to have relations with Colonel Macia's ill-fated expedition against Spain. He was banished from Andorra and remains banished, though the Andorrans badly want their schoolmaster back.

In making their complaint here the Andorrans have been exceedingly discreet and tactful. It is not a complaint, they declare, but just a small matter for attention which they are confident Prince Gaston Doumergue and the Bishop of Urgel will arrange to everybody's satisfaction.

When a State has not even a police, and has two big neighbors, its diplomats must be exceedingly diplomatic.

RUSSIANS CULTIVATE TOKIO RAPPROCHEMENT

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Jan. 5.—The soirée at the Soviet Business Men's Club given by the official "Society for Cultural Relations With Abroad" in honor of Baron Shimpei Goto of Tokio before his recent departure for Leningrad further illustrated the Soviet's present tendency to favor a rapprochement with Japan which may change the direction of Russia's Chinese policy.

Baron Goto, in a subtle speech, mingled Asiatic flattery with reserve, but he dropped one hint.

"Even the greatest States," he said, "cannot afford to remain perpetually isolated from the world."

This seems to contain a suggestion that Japan is unwilling to draw near the Soviet Union unless accompanied by the Western powers, although she is, perhaps, ready to arrive at profitable local arrangements regarding trade in Siberia and the railways of Manchuria.

On their side, while avoiding direct political arguments, the Russians were much more emphatic. Mme. Kameneff, Leon Trotsky's sister and the director of the Cultural Relations Society, who was the official hostess, said that Baron Goto was "a most important public and political worker," and M. Lunarsharsky, described him as "one of Japan's most famous men."

"His visit is an important fact in history," the Russian added. He insisted that the Soviet had esteem and tolerance for the culture of other nations and added:

"We wish a rapprochement with Japan. The contact would be most useful to both countries. I do not refer to political relations, but it is necessary to state that this kind of relationship is in the interest of both countries and a proper form for it will be found.

"Baron Goto came here to get better acquainted. This will be very helpful for our future relations, for he will not take a superficial view."

SEEK GUARDIANSHIP FOR GERMAN EX-DUKE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 5.—The troubles are multiplying of the former reigning Duke Joachim Albrecht of Anhalt, who last Summer married an actress, the daughter of a theatrical manager.

Suit for 500,000 marks was started against him recently by a Berlin art dealer, Fritz Gurlitt, and has been followed by a legal move on the part of his brother and sister to have him placed under a guardianship.

The plaintiffs in this case are Prince Eugene of Anhalt and Baroness Marie Auguste Von Laen, the former wife of Prince Joachim of Prussia.

Their reasons for desiring to have the ex-ruler declared incompetent to manage his affairs are kept secret for the present, but it is understood that his nearest relatives fear that he is squandering the wealth of the House of Ascania, which was formerly one of the richest in the German Empire.

His sister, it is alleged, claims that a monthly allowance of 2,500 marks guaranteed to her when she married her present husband has never been paid.

According to Dessau reports, the real cause of the sensational step against the ex-Duke is the fact that the fortunes of his brother and sister have greatly diminished in the past few years, while he lives happily with his young wife in good circumstances and in the ancestral Dessau castle.

A rumor that he tried to sell art treasures confiscated during the revolution and now the property of the State, has been denied by the Anhalt authorities.

BRITISH INTERESTED IN TREATY REVISION

MAY MAKE RESERVATIONS

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The British Government has now been informed, it was stated at the Foreign Office today, that the text of Secretary Kellogg's note to France suggesting a multilateral treaty against war and announcing a new Franco-American draft treaty to replace the expiring Root Arbitration Treaty, has been received. While the matter therefore is due for official consideration, it is maintained that the proposal is still one for discussion between the United States and France and calls at this stage for no expression of opinion from Downing Street.

It is noted, however, that the United States Government apparently intends to enlarge the scope of the Bryce-Root Treaty when it comes up for revision this year, and it is hinted unofficially that this may provide an opportunity to advance the cause of Anglo-American arbitration.

Secretary Kellogg's suggestion of a multilateral treaty outlawing war, while its value as a moral gesture is admitted, does not seem to be regarded here so far as a very practical proposal. This is due principally to the fact that Mr. Kellogg's note makes no reference to any administrative clauses. As hitherto defined, therefore, it is suggested the treaty would seem to impose only a moral obligation on the powers signing it and thus fall short of the existing League Covenant.

The proposed new Franco-American arbitration compact, however, is admitted here to be much wider in scope than the Root type treaty it replaces, since its limitations are fewer. Nominally it would seem to commit the United States more deeply than any previous treaty she has signed. It is asked here, however, whether the American constitutional provision reserving the right of declaring war to Congress will not constitute an inherent limitation that will make the treaty mean one thing to the United States and another to the other signatories.

It is admitted that in practice the Congress would be certain to use its discretion against rather than for war. But in principle Britain will probably feel bound to make equivalent reservations.

To return to the suggested multilateral treaty, it has probably not commended itself to British eyes because of the procedure adopted to put it before the world. Paris newspaper inferences that the selection of France instead of Britain as the nation with which the United States proposes to cooperate in an effort to end war meant the end of "Anglo-Saxon hegemony," &c., have been read here.

It is denied in official circles that any notice has been taken or importance attached to these Gallic insinuations and there have been no newspaper expressions of resentment at Britain being lumped with Poland, Haiti and other unnamed nations in the proposed world-wide extension of a principle which Britain claims to have long recognized in the settlement of her disputes with the United States.

It is recognized that Mr. Kellogg's proposal follows naturally out of the necessity of replying to Mr. Briand's original suggestion for outlawry of war between America and France. In fact, cynics affect to discern in it an attempt by Mr. Kellogg to find a way out of his own trouble by proposing a cure for those of the whole world. However, simultaneous notification to other great powers or a preliminary sounding of their views before publication of the text of the note to France might have been a more acceptable method in commending its proposal to them.

The multilateral treaty found a defender today in Viscount Cecil who said:

"I am, of course, very glad to hear of any move in favor of peace by so great a country as the United States, but it is impossible to express any real opinion on Mr. Kellogg's note until M. Briand's reply is available. I must confess, however, I do not quite understand the statement he is reported to have made that the proposed world treaty would be contrary to the spirit of the Covenant of the League of Nations.

"I do not see that it is impossible to reconcile the idea of the League with that of Mr. Kellogg's world treaty. It seems to me that such a treaty would be quite in accordance with the principles of the League. There is nothing to prevent an engagement for peace from being entered into by any country outside the League with one inside, provided it is in accordance with the principles of the League.

"Nonetheless, I think it will be found that M. Briand has a really interesting and important statement to make."

TELLS DEVELOPMENT OF SCHNEIDER RACER

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The construction of one of the British planes for the Schneider Cup races in Venice is described today in the Gloster Aircraft Company's magazine. The Gloster plane was forced to give up in the last lap of the race, but before doing so it attained a speed of 291 miles an hour, and it is claimed it may have been the fastest machine in the race.

The magazine announces that the company is not satisfied with even this speed and now is laboriously studying methods of developing even greater speed. It is said considerable improvement is still possible.

The Gloster-4 in the last Schneider race was developed, according to the magazine, from an old model, which was taken to pieces bit by bit and each bit studied anew for possibilities of improvement. In this way the wind resistance of the fuselage and the floats was reduced almost by half, and when the model was tested in the wind tunnel it was found that the wings gave 15 per cent. more lifting power.

The new plane finally was constructed after many months of patient research, and proved to be seventy miles an hour faster than the previous year's model. It had gained thirty-seven miles an hour by the reduction of head resistance, twenty miles by increased engine power, nine miles by increased airscrew efficiency and four miles by increased landing speed.

OUR PEACE TREATY PROPOSAL ACCEPTED

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

which may arise it is considered that it has a very important bearing on the situation.

Under the Kellogg treaty an international body would consider an issue arising and render an opinion, which the Senate could or could not accept. The difference lies in the circumstance that the Kellogg draft excepts various questions relating to national honor, the Monroe Doctrine, and so on, whereas the Bryan treaty excepts nothing.

Nicaragua Cited as Example.

In other words, if Nicaragua had a treaty with America along the lines of the Kellogg proposal she could not therein find an opportunity to ask an international review of our activities there, whereas if Nicaragua had a treaty with America along the lines of the Bryan treaty she could ask for an international review of our electioneering efforts there which we would be bound to grant.

As the Temps points out today, it is a question of dealing with a situation which results not only from the Root treaty but from the Bryan treaty, and it is a very pertinent point whether or not the Bryan treaty stands.

The Matin expresses the hope that the Bryan treaty will remain in force. Furthermore the Quai d'Orsay has now asked the American Government whether in making the Kellogg treaty it wishes to renounce the Bryan compact.

Press Swings in Line With Briand.

Meanwhile the serious French press today swings glibly into line with the newly-assumed attitude of the Quai d'Orsay toward the American proposal for a world-wide compact against war.

The position that the French Foreign Office has now taken, as was indicated in these dispatches last night, is that, far from representing a movement which might damage the League of Nations, it represents a real movement in the United States in the direction of the League, therefore lessening the distance between Washington and Geneva, and offers a real contribution to the work of peace which, started nearly a decade ago on American inspiration, has so much suffered meanwhile through American abstention.

The Temps, which only this time yesterday was pointing out that Secretary Kellogg might be trying to torpedo the League, today finds that, after all, that version was wrong.

"This fear was unfounded," it says, "for it stands to reason that the members of the League of Nations will remain bound by the obligations they contracted toward the League and that they cannot sign the Kellogg compact or any other which would in the least weaken the League. On the contrary the United States, which is not a member of the League and which up to the present has not wished to take any engagement for the future, is now going to adhere to the essential principle of outlawing war, which principle is the base of the Geneva structure.

"For the first time the United States joins with the powers who have constituted themselves the guardians of the peace of the world. Of course, the United States will not be bound, as other nations are, by the Covenant of Geneva. The legal duty to help nations who have been attacked will not apply to her, but it is certain that from the instant the Americans join with other peoples of the world to repudiate war they have assumed a sort of moral obligation to intervene alongside other nations carrying out their duties as League members against whoever shall trouble peace.

"That is what we must not forget, for it establishes that so far from being directed against the League, the initiative of Mr. Kellogg may have the direct effect of bringing the United States close to the international institution at Geneva, or at least to engage her on a path running parallel to that of the League."

Some Questions Asked.

The Nationalist Journal des Débats shows some difficulty in getting into line. With regard to Mr. Kellogg's proposal to the nations to renounce war as an instrument of national policy, this paper wants to know what nation proclaims war as a national policy. It thinks in view of the commitments of other nations under the League Mr. Kellogg's proposal is very superfluous with regard to all countries except America. It finds that it is the same thing as the resolution voted by the last Assembly of the League.

"In view of the reservations the Americans must inevitably make, their signature will not have much legal value," it says, "but it is, after all, progress that the Americans should sign such a treaty, for it will permit nations attacked to plead for intervention by the United States. Whether that appeal will be heard is another question. All in all, we think we ought to be satisfied with the Kellogg proposal."

The Liberté thinks Secretary Kellogg "is like a preacher marrying a couple when he asks them if they are always going to be good. The divorce court records notwithstanding, they always answer yes, and so it figures that Mr. Kellogg will collect a lot of signatures."

"The American proposition will be accepted," it goes on, "because there are not any countries which wish to say they are for war. It is worth about as much as most New Year resolutions."

"But after all, let us be charitable. Let us admit that the Republican Party on the eve of the Presidential election seeks valiantly to escape the reproach of having done nothing for peace and to take away from the Democrats the monopoly of intentions of international good-will. We say that, being kind.

"If we wished to be unkind we would ask why the United States does not make with Nicaragua a proposition not to fight. And that leads us to ask what, if this engagement were broken, Nicaragua could do about it under the Kellogg plan."

The liberal Quotidien surprisingly sees in the American move an effort to put one more strand of barbed wire on the Monroe Doctrine fence and it calls on the Quai d'Orsay to have nothing to do with the proposition. At least it asks that the initiative be left entirely to the United States and that France exercise benevolent neutrality.

Washington Will Examine Request.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—M. Briand's reported acceptance in principle of the Kellogg treaty proposals had not reached Washington tonight, according to officials of both the State Department and the French Embassy.

The suggestion that the draft be framed as a solemn declaration against "wars of aggression" will be examined carefully in the hope that through it there will be possible a meeting of minds on the part of the two nations. A difficulty seen in it, however, is in the inference that it would require the definition in advance of what constitutes an "aggressor" nation. This is something that the State Department from the first has contended was impossible in practice to do.

Whatever the immediate reaction to the Briand suggestion the communication will form the basis for further negotiations with both nations agreed on the fundamentals of what is being sought. In this, it is held, there real ground for encouragement.

TREATY PLEASES BELGIANS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 5.—Extension of the proposed Franco-American compact outlawing war to other countries is seen today by the Independence Belge, the Government mouthpiece, as a possible realization of the compact of guarantee to which the United States refused to adhere after the armistice and the "non-realization of which is responsible for the precarious state of peace in Europe in the last nine years."

If the compact is accepted, it says, America will be forced to interest herself in any war existing. If the compact is refused the nations will then know which powers want to stir up trouble.

Belgium has hopes that much of value will come from the compact and thoroughly favors acceptance.

CHARGE DUC DE DURCAL BROKE FRENCH LIEN LAW

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Don Fernando de Bourbon, Duc de Durcal, and reported to be a cousin of the King of Spain, is again in difficulties with the French authorities. This time he is charged with going out to a dance in his own dress suit upon which a Sheriff's lien had been placed.

According to the charges, Baron Intellade, a wealthy and thoroughly respectable Spanish nobleman, on meeting Fernando socially loaned him 40,000 francs, the borrower giving his family connection with King Alfonso as security.

When months elapsed without payment of the loan, the Baron sent the Sheriff's officers to visit Fernando's hotel, where they discovered that the scion of Spanish royalty possessed, in addition to the objects on his person, just one dress suit as his "goods and chattels." They attached the dress suit, but left it in Fernando's possession. The complaint filed against him technically charged that he was seen on a dance floor the same evening wearing the self-same dress suit.

Gay Colours, Natural Tones Join Forces

AND play a fascinating game in the season that is already in full swing at all southern resorts.

IT is the game Dame Nature is so fond of playing in fair months—that of using soft tans, browns, yellows or greys as the background for vivid colours.

COME see! Ensembles in new novelty tweeds, silk, worsted and other soft fabrics, have coats that vary from hip- to full-length—plain or printed frocks, $29.50 to $95.

Tennis Frocks Are Again Sleeveless

AND their increased popularity with spectators as well as players has inspired couturieres and fabric makers to new efforts.

FABRICS for these frocks—washable, of course—are delightful! Outstanding among them is a pussy willow silk in tints with hunt or polo designs woven in the self-colour. Frocks, $25.

YOU will also find frocks of white silk crepe with tie and pipings in deeper contrasting colours, $16.75.

FROCKS—SECOND FLOOR

"Miss Junior"— When You Go South

FROCKS present an endless variety, but every "Miss-Junior" of you will be interested in those of silk crepe with gay hand-blocked scarfs at $29.50.

HATS are here in great variety of rough or smooth straws and in sizes to suit every taste and occasion.

YOU may wisely choose several snug little felts such as the one shown, $18.50, which come in travel, sports or afternoon shades—and at least one very large hat is necessary. The one sketched is flame-colour sisol straw, $18.50.

HATS—SECOND FLOOR

SANDALS for the South come in a soft beige tone that will blend with a variety of frocks, $10.50.

SHOES—SECOND FLOOR

YOU will be glad you let Altman assemble your wardrobe—for our collections are chosen to specially emphasize all those subtle gradations in styles and fabrics that are so important to even young girls who must wait several seasons yet before making their social bows. If you plan weeks of travel, sports or leisure—we are ready to help!

NEW OIL INQUIRY VOTED BY SENATE

KIDWELLS SUPPORT SON

Parents of "Talkative" Juror Charge Prosecutor Put Untrue Statements in Affidavits.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Without a dissenting vote the Senate today adopted the Norris resolution directing the Public Lands Committee to continue the Teapot Dome inquiry, particularly with reference to what became of the Continental Trading Company's profit, except $230,000 alleged to have passed to ex-Secretary Fall.

The company's profit through a resale of oil was to have totaled $8,000,000, it is alleged, but following the disclosures the resale was stopped with what was said to be a profit of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000.

Immediately after the resolution's passage Mr. Norris asked for reconsideration of the vote to allow the resolution to go to the Audit and Control Committee and thus avoid any technical difficulty. It is expected that the resolution will be reported by the latter committee Monday.

Kidwell Parents Back Son.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—The parents of Edward J. Kidwell Jr., the so-called talkative juror in the Teapot Dome oil conspiracy trial, joined him today in accusing James J. O'Leary, Assistant District Attorney, of writing untrue statements into affidavits intended for use against Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and their four associates, on trial for criminal contempt of court.

Mrs. Mary Pearl Kidwell took the stand in the court inquiry into charges that Mr. O'Leary intimidated Government witnesses, which has superseded the actual contempt hearing, and asserted that the prosecutor obtained her signature to affidavits without her having a clear understanding of what they contained.

She declared untrue a statement that her son had expressed the opinion he was being shadowed by private detectives to see if he was the kind of a man who would accept a bribe. Further, she denied he had said that Sinclair and Fall had millions and would go to any length to bring about a mistrial in the conspiracy case if they believed they were going to be convicted.

The juror, she said, had told Mr. O'Leary he reached this conclusion after the mistrial had been declared and had not mentioned either incident while the case was actually in court. Mrs. Kidwell insisted the names Fall and Sinclair were not mentioned by her or her son.

Witness Reads Affidavit.

Mrs. Kidwell, dressed in black, with an old-style black plush hat, seemed completely at ease and read an affidavit she had made and which she said was "true to the best of my knowledge." Her son, she said, also signed an affidavit, saying it was true. Later the witness said the affidavit was read to her again and she again attested it. Kidwell had charged O'Leary had written his own version into affidavits regarding the shadowing of the Fall-Sinclair oil jury by Burns detectives.

On cross-examination Mrs. Kidwell said she first affirmed the affidavit after only glancing over it and that it had not been read to her before she affixed her signature.

Her second affidavit was made Dec. 2, the day her son turned on the Government with charges that Mr. O'Leary had threatened and intimidated him. She said Mr. O'Leary had written into the affidavit only what she had said, but she testified that Mr. O'Leary did not put in her statement that she could not identify a man who called at her home during the oil trial. Previous testimony had identified the man as a Burns detective employed by Sinclair.

Mrs. Kidwell's testimony was supported by her husband, who followed her on the stand.

Tells Police Robber Grabbed Hotel Elysee Payroll and Fled.

George Meiler, 17-year-old assistant auditor of the Hotel Elysee, 56 East Fifty-fourth Street, was walking along Fifty-fourth Street between Eighth and Ninth Avenues yesterday afternoon, carrying under his arm a brief case containing the hotel's $3,000 weekly payroll. When he was only a few paces from the West Side Court building, he told the police, a dark man in a gray hat stepped out from behind an automobile, hit him twice in the jaw, grabbed the brief case and ran.

The young auditor found a traffic patrolman, who advised him to go to the West Forty-seventh Street Station. He did so and from there brought Detective Maskiell and Walsh to the scene of the theft to look for witnesses. A railroad man working in the neighborhood said he had seen one man strike another, but thinking it only a fist fight, had gone about his business.

Meiler was taken to headquarters to look over the Rogues' Gallery, but failed to identify any picture as that of the robber. He had brought the payroll money from the Colonial Bank, Eighty-first Street and Columbus Avenue, traveling by the Ninth Avenue elevated to Fiftieth Street. He said he had meant to take a Sixth Avenue train, but had boarded the wrong one by mistake.

At the hotel Meiler's friends seemed to regard him more in the light of a hero than that of a "goat." Max a Haering, manager of the hotel, said "the whole thing is very much of a mystery."

Klan Must Pay City Taxes in Iowa.

GREENFIELD, Iowa, Jan. 5 (AP).—Under a ruling by Judge E. W. Dingwell the Ku Klux Klan of Adair County must pay city taxes upon its local headquarters, the Judge deciding that evidence presented failed to uphold the Klan's contention that it is a "charitable, benevolent and fraternal" organization, and therefore exempt from taxation. State Klan headquarters regarded the case as a test applicable to other Klan organizations in Iowa.

RECEPTION OPENS NEW CATHOLIC CLUB

500 AT THE GATHERING

Cardinal Hayes thanked the Building Committee of the Catholic Club for reconstructing and refurnishing that building, in a public address last evening at a formal reception at the club, 120 Central Park South, which marked its reopening after having been closed for six months to undergo interior remodeling at a cost of $300,000. The Cardinal was the guest of honor at the function, which was attended by more than 500.

Cardinal Hayes was presented by Judge Martin T. Manton, President of the club. The prelate especially thanked William J. Barrett, President of the American Express Company, for his work as Chairman of the Building Committee. The Cardinal declared the Catholic Club was a place where people could enjoy themselves and love God at the same time.

"The Church expects us to be happy even in this vale of tears," said the Cardinal. "To be happy and joyous in the right way is one of the fruits of the Holy Spirit. So I am delighted that you have made all these renovations. I am particularly pleased with the library.

"There has never been such hospitality all down through the centuries as in the Church. In the old days the monasteries were the hotels of today. But no traveler for God was ever charged anything for stopping in one. The Church throws wide her doors to those in all walks of life and welcomes them. So have a Catholic tone in your hospitality. Have a Catholic tone in your recreation.

"Wherever I go I hear praise of the Catholic Club of New York. I am deeply thankful that the Church in New York has such a monument. I pray that you will make this home a gateway for many to come nearer to the Church."

A reception to Cardinal Hayes followed the speaking. Every guest passed in single file before the Cardinal, knelt and kissed his ring. Next to the Cardinal stood Judge Manton. The others in the receiving line were: Judge Jerry B. Sullivan, Arthur H. Gannon, secretary of the club; William J. Colihan, treasurer. John F. Crosby was Chairman of the Reception Committee.

MOVIE CEILING FALLS; TEN SLIGHTLY INJURED

Ten persons received slight bruises on the head and body last night when a small part of the ceiling of the Kingsway motion picture theatre fell among the spectators in the orchestra seats. The crash of the plaster, which was about five feet in diameter, caused considerable excitement, but order was restored in a few minutes after Joseph H. Hanley, the manager, assured the spectatory from the stage that there was no cause for alarm.

The accident happened at about 10:15 P. M. while 2,200 men, women and children were viewing the motion picture "Sailor Izzy Murphy." Fireman Peter S. Reynolds of Hook and Ladder 156, who had been assigned to duty in the theatre, ordered the eight exits thrown open when about forty of the men and women patrons started to run up the aisles, but with the aid of the six ushers and other men present the rush for the doors was stopped, and then all but the injured resumed their seats and watched the picture to the end.

Several physicians among the spectators attended to the injured until the arrival of two ambulances from the Coney Island Hospital. It was found, however, that only a few of those who had been injured needed medical attention. Some of these remained to see the picture finished.

The theatre was reopened nine days ago after undergoing repairs since the latter part of the Summer. It was the belief of the manager that the part of the ceiling which fell had been disturbed by painters.

JUSTICES ASSUME DUTIES.

Municipal and Supreme Court Officials Praised by Friends.

Supreme Court Justice Henry L. Sherman, elected to the bench for fourteen years at the last election, took his seat in the court yesterday. Justice McGoldrick and several attorneys delivered addresses of welcome to the new Justice. A group of admirers in the McKeever Democratic Club presented to him a desk set, Louis Felix making the presentation. Justice Sherman's wife and their three children, John A., Ruth T. and Herbert H. Sherman were present.

Municipal Court Justice William P. Wiener was inducted into office in the Fifth District municipal court at Rockaway Beach, Queens, yesterday in a court room filled with friends, including political leaders of the borough. Speakers who lauded Justice Wiener included Alderman Jeremiah O'Leary, Joseph P. Powers, Democratic leader, and David Eisenberg, Republican leader, in the Rockaways; Richard M. Gipson, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the Rockaways and Andrew J. Kenny, President of the Rockaway Board of Trade.

Held in Death of His 5 Children.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 5 (AP).—W. G. Dendy, railroad shop worker, was held in jail on suspicion of arson today while a Coroner investigated the death of five of Dendy's children, whose charred bodies were found in the ruins of the Dendy farm home near here yesterday. Dendy expressed surprise at his arrest and said he did all he could to rescue the children.

ITALO-GREEK COMPACT ALARMS YUGOSLAVIA

Ostensible Trade Treaty Has a Secret Military Angle, Belgrade Report Says.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, Jan. 4.—The newspaper Novosti today has published a story from its Rome correspondent concerning a political treaty which it says the Greek Foreign Minister, Michalakopoulos, is now in Rome negotiating with Mussolini. Michalakopoulos went to Rome after the League of Nations session at Geneva officially to arrange a commercial treaty, but, according to Novosti, the negotiations actually concern a political alliance which would give Italy further influence in the Balkans and, what is more important to Yugoslavia, would further increase the Italian ring about her borders.

Novosti writes that the treaty will be partly secret, partly public, similar to the Italian-Albanian alliance. Negotiations are said to concern principally the Dodecanese Islands, Saloniki. In case of war between Italy and Yugoslavia, it is reported that Greece has virtually agreed to relinquish temporary control of its coast to Italy, especially Saloniki harbor and city.

It further understood that upon conclusion of the treaty Italy will hand over control of the Dodecanese Islands to Greece.

In the event of war in the Balkans or between Italy and Yugoslavia, the control of Greece's coast would be of the greatest strategic value to Italy, for, with Saloniki, she could prevent supplies from being shipped into the enemy's country or the greater part of the Balkans, for that matter. A small fleet would be able to control the coast and without the aid of an army cut off what Yugoslavia always considered her nearest source of supplies. The Yugoslavian Government since the war has negotiated, frequently without success, for the use of Saloniki as a seaport in the east.

The Dodecanese Islands, which Turkey ceded to Italy after the Tripolitan War in 1912, have been of little use to Italy, whereas Greece has made several attempts to secure possession of them, particularly in negotiations after the war.

The report in Novosti has caused a sensation in political circles and revived bad feeling toward Italy which had been evident since the diplomatic conflict between Yugoslavia and Italy last Spring over the Albanian treaty. The feeling of the Government is understood to be that this latest act of Italy, if true, is an answer to the Franco-Yugoslavian pact.

The Anti-Italian party at Belgrade, which is strong and includes a number of prominent politicians, is planning to bring the matter before Parliament, with a request that the Government ascertain Italy's intentions in the Balkans. A spokesman for the group believes that Italy is doing everything possible to isolate Yugoslavia and intends at the first favorable opportunity to declare war. He lays stress on the discovery on Monday that arms from Italy had entered Hungarian territory as an indication of Italy's intentions.

Thirteen Saved in Mine Cave-in.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 5 (AP).—Thirteen miners, it was revealed today, were trapped in the Gaylord Colliery at Plymouth yesterday and were released uninjured after six hours of anxiety. They were caught behind a fall of coal. The men were warned that the fall was about to occur and were rushing for an exit when the crash came. Rescue crews released them soon after quitting time.

INTELLIGENCE TEST FOR VOTERS URGED

Dr. Hickson, Chicago Psycopathist, Advocates Restricting Franchise to Combat Crime.

YOST DEFINES SUCCESS

Michigan Coach Tells Race Betterment Conference That Service to Humanity Is Test.

Special to The New York Times.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 5.—The right to vote should be given only those of superior intelligence, as a step toward the eradication of crime, asserted Dr. William J. Hickson, director of the psychopathic laboratory of the Municipal Court of Chicago, at the Race Betterment Conference here tonight.

"If we continue with a practical and social system which takes no account of varying degrees of mental endowments, nothing will be done," he said. "If we face the issue bravely and revise and adapt our institutions in such a way that superior intelligence and exact knowledge can function, we will be on the way to riddance from great evils."

Dr. Hickson expressed the belief that "one of the most urgently necessary steps is to restore the balance of political power to where it belongs—to the better endowed mentally," and he favored "granting of the franchise on the basis of the intelligence quotient."

The speaker recommended segregation of congenital defectives before they have any opportunity to commit crimes, and sterilization to make it impossible for defectives to reproduce their kind.

Dr. Hickson shared the evening with Judge Harry Olson, also of the Chicago Municipal Court, and Dr. W. A. Evans of Northwestern University.

Physical education was discussed at the afternoon session today, with speakers approaching the subject from different angles.

Dr. James H. McCurdy, assistant secretary-treasurer of the American Physical Education Association, traced physical education's growth from its inception in 1854, since when, as he put it, "the attitude of objection to physical recreation has changed from one of tolerance to one of actual promotion."

Physical Education Increases.

The growth of physical education in the United States was shown by the fact that 1,848 teachers prepared for the work in 1914 and 12,000 in 1927. There were twenty-three schools preparing teachers of physical education in 1914 and 1,168 schools in 1927. In addition thirty-five States now have compulsory physical education in public schools.

"The object in the development of manhood is to develop a man who is a useful, happy, healthy, normal citizen," Fielding H. Yost, University of Michigan coach, told the delegates.

"Few men really think. They only think they think. There are few men with imagination; most of them are just encyclopedias of information. The competent man in athletics must have both qualities.

"The world is not interested in what a man knows, but in what he does. A man is successful when he has his own self respect, the respect of others and the consciousness of having served humanity."

Mr. Yost defended modern youth, saying, "I know boys and love them and have faith in them. They are better than they are given credit for, and I am not so concerned with the boys as I am with their fathers and with the kind of leadership the older generation is giving them."

Ideas of the "ultra biologist" were scored by Dr. John Sundwall, Professor of Hygiene and Public Health at the University of Michigan, who declared that many of the defects of the subnormal children can be removed by changes in environmental conditions, and that it was impossible for the scientist always to discern between the hopelessly unfit and those who can be salvaged and made useful members of society.

Athletics for Women Discussed.

Miss Mabel Lee of the University of Nebraska discussed the national organization and supervision of women's athletics, declaring that the most unfavorable condition to overcome is the bad influence of men's clubs that are attempting to commercialize women's athletics.

She urged some constructive athletics for girls and women, the main objects being to promote athletics for the majority, rather than for limited numbers chosen for their physical powers, to protect women athletics from exploitation for the enjoyment of spectators, to minimize the emphasis placed on the winning of championships, never to countenance the sacrifice of an individual's health, and to promote the adoption of appropriate costumes for sports.

Henry E. Hull, Commissioner General of Immigration in the Department of Labor, talked on the physical betterment of future citizens through immigration, declaring that every prospective immigrant should be examined physically and mentally before he leaves his native country.

Mr. Hull would place all foreign countries on a stricter quota basis, reducing the number of immigrants each year from 300,000 to 200,000.

"In my opinion it is all that we can safely assimilate," he said. "We must remember that there are approximately 7,000,000 unnaturalized aliens in the United States at the present time."

Crimes Laid to Insanity.

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Chicago Municipal Court denounced the present legal procedure in dealing with crime.

"Legal definitions of insanity should be brought up to the current medical knowledge so that a man emotionally unsound and lacking in normal emotional qualities could be declared insane in the eyes of the law," Judge Olson declared.

Both the Remus and Hickman murder cases were cited by the Judge as illustrations of his contention that such murders are the result of emotional abnormality or actual insanity, in the medical sense of the word.

"The fact that the alienists in the Remus case reported to the Judge that Remus is sane in the legal sense but irresponsible, dangerous and egocentric, that is insane, in the medical sense, is proof of my contention that the legal definition of insanity should be brought up to date with the medical definition," he declared.

The Gray-Snyder murder case was also cited by Judge Olson as evidence of emotional abnormality which was responsible for murder.

The first session today was devoted almost exclusively to light. Dr. J. W. W. Bunker of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, warned that while ultra-violet rays, used in a properly directed and controlled manner have accomplished much for the benefit of mankind, they are not a cure-all, and "enthusiasm over their use must be tempered with reason and a knowledge of their nature and properties."

Our Homes Called Caves.

Dr. William T. Anderson Jr. of Newark, N. J., said that experiments now in progress on pernicious anemia indicated that the blood toxicity experienced in this condition may be completely destroyed by ultra-violet radiations.

Dr. W. T. Bovie of Northwestern University was not as enthusiastic over "artificial sunlight" as some of the other speakers. "We live in veritable caves, as far as the beneficial effects of sunlight are concerned, and must find some substitute for sunlight that will have all the beneficial effects of sunlight," he said.

Dr. Horace Le Grasse of the Department of Public Safety of Buffalo discussed sunlight treatment for tuberculosis and other diseases. He urged more emphasis on curative diseases than on measures for eliminating the unfit, criticising those who would have "huge lethal chambers, which would be working day and night to eliminate the weaklings and the undesirables."

Frederick L. Hoffman of the Prudential Life Insurance Company of New York spoke on the health progress of the American Indian.

Speakers tomorrow are to include Secretary of Labor Davis, Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the Smithsonian Institution, Mrs. Carl Akeley, the expirer, and other notables.

Divorces Rupert Hughes' Foster Son

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP).—Mary Ellen Bissel Hughes, known on the stage at Marion Harris, obtained a divorce today from Rush Hughes, adopted son of Rupert Hughes, the novelist. She testified they were married in 1923 and separated in 1925 and that she supported her husband during their married life. Custody of a two-year-old son was granted to her.

WOLVES EAT 11 GIRLS IN HUNGARIAN VILLAGE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Jan. 5.—Eleven girls were killed and eaten by hunger-maddened wolves which swept at dawn through the village of Maramaros-Sziget, Transylvania, according to a dispatch from there. The heavy snow and extreme cold in the Carpathian Mountains forced hundreds of the animals into the valleys. Though many approached towns, this is the first instance when they have been reported attacking human beings. The girls were traveling from another village into Maramaros-Sziget when the wolves rushed from a small wood near the road. Nine girls escaped to the village but a rescue party found only a few remains of the other eleven.

SCUDDER SUBPOENAS CONTRACTING FIRM

KLEIN DRAFTS NEW CHARGES

Harvey to Offer More Accusations to Governor for Inclusion in Investigation of Connolly.

Supreme Court Justice Townsend Scudder has subpoenaed officials of the Welsh Brothers Contracting Company, Long Island City, it was learned yesterday, to appear before him at 10:30 o'clock this morning in his chambers in the King County Supreme Court, Brooklyn. Robert Welsh, Secretary of the company, admitted that its officials had been served. Emory W. Buckner, special counsel to Justice Scudder, declined to discuss it.

Justice Scudder is expected to question the company officials and to examine their records as to the company's dealings with the Awixa Corporation, contractors, whose offices at Islip, L. I., were robbed last week of all its records dealing with Queens sewer contracts.

Following the robbery, Henry H. Klein, counsel for Alderman George U. Harvey of Flushing, who filed formal charges against Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens in removal proceedings, suggested that part of the evidence lost in the prosecution through the Awixa robbery might be made up by examining the officials and records of three other contracting firms which had received Queens sewer contracts from Connolly and had assigned them to Awixa. The three firms were the Welsh Brothers, the Highway Improvement and Repair Company and the Riverdale Construction Company.

Mr. Klein asserts that the city was charged about $700,000 more than "a fair and reasonable profit" on a contract let to Welsh Brothers and assigned by them to Awixa, for the construction of the Woodhaven sewage disposal plant, part of the $16,300,000 Jamaica sewer system, the assessments for which brought about the investigation. Welsh Brothers and Awixa were the only bidders on the job. The contract price was $1,679,404, or considerably more than the borough engineer's preliminary estimate of $751,000 and the final estimate of $980,500, Mr. Klein declared.

Including the Woodhaven contract, Awixa held contracts either directly or by assignment for about $4,000,000, or one-fourth of the Jamaica system.

Asked why his company had assigned the contract to Awixa, Robert Welsh was quoted yesterday as having replied:

"We saw a chance to make a certain profit and we took it; that's all there is to it."

Richardson Robbed Before.

James F. Richardson, Vice President and Treasurer of Awixa, has been robbed of important papers on the eve of an investigation before, it developed yesterday. Mr. Richardson, who is Democratic leader of Suffolk County and is said to be a close friend of Borough President Connolly, head of the Democratic organization of Queens, and of John Queens sewer ring, was Town Clerk of Islip several years ago when a syndicate was formed to buy Captree Island, near Fire Island, from the village. Despite many protests, a special election resulted in an announcement that the voters had decided to sell the island.

Election frauds were alleged, however, and a John Doe inquiry was ordered. Preparations were being made to subpoena the town poll books—just as preparations were to be made to subpoena the Awixa books last week—when they vanished from Richardson's office. He reported that burglars had stolen them. For lack of the records, the proceedings were dropped, but the village did not sell the island.

On another occasion, when Richardson was Town Supervisor of Islip, his personal office was robbed of $200 in cash and $5,500 in negotiable bonds. By coincidence this robbery was discovered by Charles H. Smisek, then a clerk in Richardson's office, now a clerk in Charles O. Dorsee's real estate office, and discoverer of last week's robbery. Part of the money stolen belonged to a war memorial fund of which Richardson was treasurer.

Mr. Klein announced yesterday that he was drafting from twenty-five to thirty new charges against Connolly, and that Alderman Harvey would file them with Governor Smith tomorrow with the request that they be transmitted to Justice Scudder for incorporation in the inquiry. He said the new charges would deal with paving and other public works as well as sewers, and that they would deal with Connolly's acts throughout the entire sixteen years he has been Borough President.

Names Another Aide.

Mr. Buckner named Clarence King as a member of his legal staff yesterday. Mr. King is the seventh lawyer the special counsel has appointed to his staff. He is 43 years old, and was Deputy Commissioner of Accounts under the late Mayor John Purroy Mitchel. He was formerly counsel for the Bureau of Municipal Research and associate counsel for the legislative drafting bureau of Columbia University.

That Part 1 of the Supreme Court in the Queens County Court House, Long Island City, where Justice Scudder presided over the Snyder-Gray trial, will be the scene of the Connolly hearings became practically certain yesterday.

Supreme Court Justice Rigelman was instructed to hold trial term this month in Part 2 instead of special term as called for by the schedule. This will leave Part 2 open for trial sessions that had been assigned to Part 1 for February, when the Connolly inquiry will be held. The special term actions during February will be held in the law library. The rearrangement will prevent the Connolly inquiry from interfering with the already overcrowded calendar in the Queens County Court.

The court room where Justice Scudder will preside over the Connolly hearings is the largest in New York State and the second largest in the country. It has seating capacity for 300 spectators, besides room for at least 200 witnesses.

News from Islip last night was that Amza W. Biggs, investigating the Awixa robbery for the District Attorney of Suffolk County, had reported no clues except a few fingerprints found on the steel filing cabinets from which the documents were taken.

OPPOSE CONFIRMING OF A FEDERAL JUDGE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—Protests against confirmation by the Senate of Johnson J. Hayes as Federal Judge of the Middle District of North Carolina, now serving under a recess appointment, were filed today with a Senate judiciary subcommittee by a group of North Carolina citizens.

Corruption and extortion while a practicing attorney were alleged together with wrongful use of his office as solicitor of the Seventeenth Judicial District of North Carolina and winking at liquor law violations.

Hayes served as solicitor of the Seventeenth District from 1914 to 1926. At the same time, it was charged, he was a law partner of John R. Jones, practicing under the firm name of Hayes & Jones, which, because of alleged corruption and extortion in settlement of criminal cases, it is contended, became known in that section of North Carolina as the "Hayes-Jones combine."

At a hearing Mrs. L. A. Hauser of North Wilkesboro testified that she and her husband, now dead, were advised in 1921 by the firm of Hayes & Jones to settle a case of what she termed blackmail for $1,000, when Hayes, as solicitor, should have prosecuted the case. S. D. Nestor of Cranberry declared that he purchased liquor in the presence of Hayes while he was solicitor.

Mrs. Mary M. Sloop, a practicing physician of Crossmore, held the centre of the stage with reference to charges of overlooking liquor law violations. She said that she took an active part in obtaining evidence against alleged bootleggers in her county.

BARS JEWISH SANITARIUM.

State Board Upholds Goshen Protest Against Tuberculosis Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Jan. 5.—The State Board of Charities has rendered a decision unanimously disapproving the application of the Jewish Consumptive Relief Association for the establishment of a sanitarium near Goshen for the treatment of tuberculosis.

Some time ago the association purchased a valuable property a short distance from the village, expecting to obtain permission for the establishment of a large institution. The movement was opposed by the village and town authorities, and the State Board, to which the final appeal was made, has sustained the objectors.

The latter contended that such an institution should be established at places where there are others of a like character, including Liberty, Saranac Lake and Otisville.

YOUNG WOMAN WINS SHAKESPEARE PRIZE

Miss Elizabeth Scott of London Is Chosen as Architect for Stratford Theatre.

DIRECTS $750,000 PROJECT

Fete to Add to Fund Will Be Held at Metropolitan Opera House Jan. 29—Many Stars to Appear.

Award of the prize in the architects' competition to design and build the new Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon has been made to a 27-year-old Englishwoman, Miss Elizabeth Scott, the American Shakespeare Foundation, 150 Nassau Street, announced yesterday following the receipt of cable advices from England.

The young woman won from a field of distinguished American and English architects, and gained the distinction of being the first woman ever to handle so notable a building project. Her plans are for a modern theatre of dignified simplicity, to be built at a cost of approximately $750,000.

Will Be on Bank of Avon.

Provision is made for a seating capacity of 1,000. The structure will be erected on the bank of the River Avon in the midst of an immense formal garden. The rear of the new theatre will be the walls and stage of the old Memorial Theatre, which remained standing after fire destroyed the playhouse in 1926. The rear part will be used as a conference hall.

Approach to the theatre will be through a large garden and grove of old trees. A terrace and promenade, from which a number of large doors will lead into the auditorium, rests on the bank of the Avon and is reached by two flights of broad steps leading down to the water. The building probably will be constructed of cream-colored brick and natural stone.

Space will be provided for an interior promenade, refreshment, rest and committee rooms. The stages of the new and old theatres will be separated by a fireproof drop and can be combined when desired, giving a stage depth of more than sixty feet.

Funds for building and endowing the theatre are being raised in English-speaking countries throughout the world. The American fund, which has a quota of $1,000,000, now totals nearly $700,000, obtained from more than 7,000 contributors in donations ranging from a few cents to the $220,000 given by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

Prominent American Donors.

Prominent men and women who have joined in the movement include Edward S. Harkness, Thomas W. Lamont, Charles Evans Hughes, John W. Davis, Elihu Root, Frank L. Polk, Thomas F. Ryan, Solomon R. Guggenheim, Clarence H. Mackay, Archer Huntington, Mrs. August Belmont, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Rogers, Myron C. Taylor, Mrs. Vincent Astor and Miss Jane Addams. The names of all American contributors will be entered in a large American book, which will be placed on display in the Memorial Library at Stratford.

Plans have been made for a Shakespearean celebration at the Metropolitan Opera House on Jan. 29, the proceeds from which will be added to the American fund. Virtually every star playing on Broadway at that time will be on the program, which will be staged by Winthrop Ames, assisted by Mrs. August Belmont, Frank Gilmore and Miss Katherine Emmet.

Raymond Hood, New York architect, who was a member of the committee which made the award, said yesterday that Miss Scott had shown a "real conception of the Shakespeare idea" in her design of the theatre.

Of Family of Architects.

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP).—"There is no sex in architectural competitions," said the fair-haired Bobbed Miss Scott today. "A woman stands as much chance as a man. Shakespeare has always been my favorite poet. The Stratford Theatre will be the first building for which I am entirely responsible."

Miss Scott is 29 and the daughter of a Bournemouth doctor. She comes from a family of architects.

Her plans are described as a bold and splendid conception, taking full advantage of the beautiful site on the banks of the Avon.

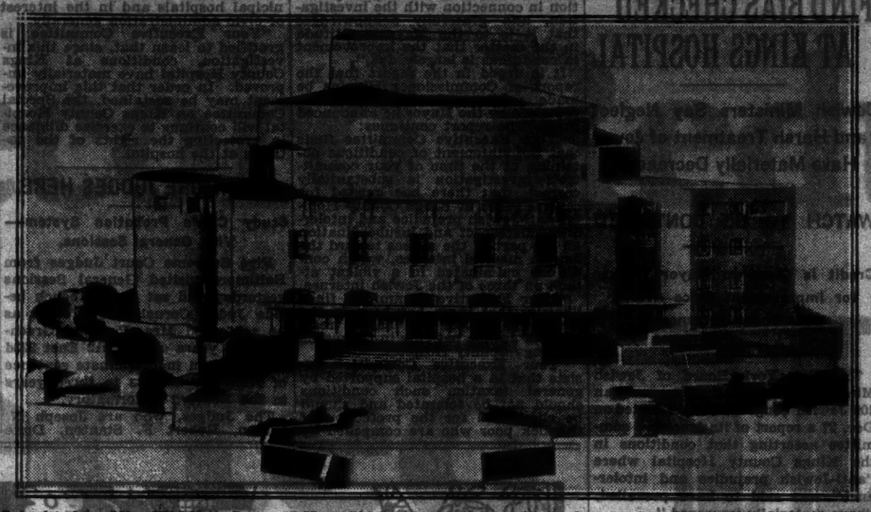
WINNING DESIGN FOR NEW SHAKESPEARE MEMORIAL THEATRE



Submitted by Miss Elizabeth Scott, 27-Year-Old London Architect, in the International Contest for a Design for a Structure to Replace the Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon, Destroyed by Fire in 1926.

HARLEM PAWN BROKER SENTENCED AS FENCE

With the expressed hope that the sentence would be a deterrent to "other crooked pawn brokers," Judge Donellan in General Sessions yesterday sentenced Herbert Roth, 27 years old, of Belle Harbor, L. I., to from one to two years in Sing Sing Prison. Roth, who with his father, Joseph, conducted a chain of pawn shops in the negro section in Harlem, had pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property on June 6, 1927.

Roth was freed in $5,000 bail at that time after representatives of the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company and the State Bank had requested the Court to give him an opportunity to liquidate his affairs. Many other bankers and merchants wrote to Judge Donellan to vouch for the integrity of Roth in spite of his plea.

Municipal Court Justice Abrams appeared at Roth's arraignment yesterday to ask for leniency for him, but Judge Donellan expressed the belief that Roth had on more than one occasion altered the books of his firm to cover up entries of stolen property and in no way merited clemency.

RESPIRATORY DEATHS DROP.

Dr. Harris Predicts Continued Lower Ratio, but Urges Vigilance.

Health Commissioner Harris announced yesterday that respiratory diseases, such as influenza, pneumonia and tuberculosis, were now less prevalent in this city than for some time past. Dr. Harris made this statement after comparing the number of deaths in such cases with the mortality from the diseases in corresponding weeks a year ago.

"The indications are," he said, "that we will continue to have a lower ratio of deaths from these causes during the remainder of the Winter. This does not mean, however, that any one can afford to relax vigilance in avoiding intimate contact with persons who are careless in sneezing or coughing without covering their faces while in public places.

"The splendid record of a lower mortality rate in these diseases must be maintained. This can be accomplished by cooperation on the part of the medical profession and the public in disseminating information that will help individuals in practicing personal hygiene and not exposing themselves to danger."

L. W. Stein Testified as Hearst Expert.

Eldridge W. Stein was referred to in a Washington dispatch printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday as an expert retained by the Government to examine the Mexican documents printed in the Hearst newspapers. Mr. Stein, who agreed with other experts that the documents were spurious, was retained not by the Government but by the Hearst organization.

After Holiday Cheer—after Hearty Eating—

A word to the wise . . .

IF overeating meant simply digestive discomfort, it would not matter greatly, perhaps. The real danger, as everyone knows, is that the system may become clogged with the toxins of decay—that for weeks (for months, even) vitality may be lessened and bodily resistance lowered.

Walker-Gordon Acidophilus Milk was developed by scientists to guard health at the very point where these troubles start: the intestinal tract.

This remarkable drink actually crowds out and eliminates the harmful germs of decay fostered by our soft, rich foods and sedentary modern lives. It replaces them with the health-giving bacillus Acidophilus . . . and assures a clear, rich bloodstream that carries tonic health to every body cell.

The results, as thousands of physicians and users testify, are nothing short of amazing. Not only a banishing of mental and physical depression, but a flooding of new vitality thruout the entire system—a sense of well-being such as you have never known.

For this remarkable beverage is simply made with Certified Milk from the famous Walker-Gordon farms, combined with pure acidophilus cultures from the New Haven Laboratory—and rushed to your door without delay.

Ask your own physician about Walker-Gordon Acidophilus Milk. You can have it at your home or office tomorrow by phoning Walker 7300—or your local Borden branch.

SCHWAB IS HONORED AS AN ARBITRATOR

HE PRAISES BUSINESS MEN

Declares He Has Not Soured on Humanity, Because Carnegie Showed How to Be Happy.

Charles M. Schwab outlined his philosophy of life to 500 members and guests of the Arbitration Society of America at a luncheon given for him yesterday at the Hotel Astor. He said he learned from Andrew Carnegie to approach life in a happy frame of mind and to seek the friendship of his fellow-men.

"I can only wish for all of you that you may have the happiness I have had in fifty years of business life," he said. "After fifty years I have not soured on humanity. The business men of America are a lot of straightforward men, seeking to do business squarely and honestly.

"The most pleasant thing in life is not the accumulation of wealth, but to be able to stand here as I am today, surrounded by my friends after having won their approval."

Carnegie's Lesson Recalled.

Mr. Schwab said Andrew Carnegie received a letter from one of the directors of his steel company complaining that the directors were not serious enough at board meetings. Mr. Carnegie was in Florence at the time, and by way of reply he sent a picture of a laughing monk to be hung in the board room. He accompanied it with the admonition to the directors to look at it whenever they felt serious-minded and to remember that the monk, with nothing but his robe, could still laugh at life.

Recalling that Moses H. Grossman, founder of the Arbitration Society, had explained to him his aim to promote commercial arbitration as a substitute for slow and costly court proceedings, Mr. Schwab said he had told Judge Grossman that he had practiced arbitration all his life. He was the first corporation head to insist that workingmen receive a voice in the management of business, he said, and more than 10,000 complaints of workers had been peacefully settled in his company.

"I have never had a strike and never expect to," he said, "because I think the men feel I'm square and because I have faith in them. Although we have a provision for arbitration of labor disputes, it never yet has been necessary to arbitrate.

"I love the workingmen of this country. The aristocracy of today is not one of birth or wealth, but of those who do things for the welfare of their fellow-men."

Mr. Schwab revealed that he plans to write a book dealing with his philosophy "soon as I get the time and when I can get some one to write it for me."

Warburg Presents Medal to Schwab.

Felix M. Warburg, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the society, then read a memorial from the directors and presented a Commercial Peace Medal to Mr. Schwab.

Judge Grossman said Mr. Schwab had made possible the organization of the society. He said he had gone to Mr. Schwab with his idea and Mr. Schwab handed to him a check for $500 for printing and stationery and later contributed larger amounts until the society had been formed.

Arbitration is bringing about commercial peace in the United States, Lucius R. Eastman, President of the society, said. Millions of business contracts now have arbitration clauses, he declared.

"Many leading business men in this country believe that commercial peace is the forerunner, if not the foundation, of all permanent peace, and that arbitration is the means of attaining that end," he said.

The United States has consistently worked for arbitration of international differences, Irving T. Bush said. Big business, having adopted arbitration in commercial disputes, has been the ambassador seeking to bring about a better international understanding, he asserted.

Haley Fiske, President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, said business men generally "sat at the feet" of Mr. Schwab when commercial relations were concerned.

POSTPONES YOUNG HEARING

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 5.—Mrs. Dorothy R. Campbell Young had her day in court today, when Vice Chancellor Vivian M. Lewis heard her counter-petition against her husband, Courtland Young, wealthy publisher, who is seeking a divorce from the former actress on the ground of infidelity. In her petition Mrs. Young alleged extreme cruelty on the part of her husband in that he denied the paternity of her 3-year-old son, Neal.

Harry Wurts, a private detective employed by Mrs. Young, testified to having seen Young in company with another woman at a Weehawken apartment. Two other detectives who were to have appeared for Mrs. Young failed to appear in court.

FIND BIAS CHECKED AT KINGS HOSPITAL

Credit Is Given to Mayor Walker for Improvement Since Attack on Three Internes.

The New York Board of Jewish Ministers, representing more than 100 Jewish congregations, adopted on Dec. 27 a report of its executive committee asserting that conditions in the Kings County Hospital where "anti-Jewish prejudice and intolerance" was said to have prevailed, "have materially improved."

Announcement of the action by the Board was made yesterday by Dr. Barnett A. Elzas, President of the body and rabbi of the Beth-Miriam Congregation of Long Branch, N. J., and Dr. Louis D. Gross, rabbi of Union Temple, Brooklyn, chairman of the special Kings County Hospital Committee of the organization. The announcement was withheld until a copy of the report had been sent to Mayor Walker.

The report thanks Mayor Walker and James J. Higgins, Commissioner of Accounts, "for their prompt action in connection with the investigation, and gratefully acknowledges that it is to the Mayor's attitude in the matter that the improvement in conditions is largely due."

It is urged in the report that the report of Commissioner Higgins be made public and that the action promised by the Mayor be announced soon. The report continues:

"Your Executive Committee finds that the statement of conditions obtaining at the time of your committee's investigation is substantially correct; that there has existed for several years at Kings County Hospital anti-Jewish prejudice and intolerance, disrespect and insubordination on the part of the nurses toward the Jewish medical internes, which conditions culminated in a violent attack on three of the Jewish internes.

"Your Executive Committee finds likewise that there has been in the past both neglect and harsh treatment of Jewish patients in the wards of Kings County Hospital.

"Your Executive Committee insists that in a hospital supported by general taxation such conditions should not be tolerated and should be eliminated for the protection of the sick poor who are compelled by circumstances to seek the aid of municipal hospitals and in the interest of civic administration generally.

"Your Executive Committee is gratified to learn that, since this investigation, conditions at Kings County Hospital have materially improved. In order that this improvement may be sustained, the Special Committee on Kings County Hospital will continue to exercise diligence in protecting the rights of the patients at the hospital."

BALTIMORE JUDGES HERE.

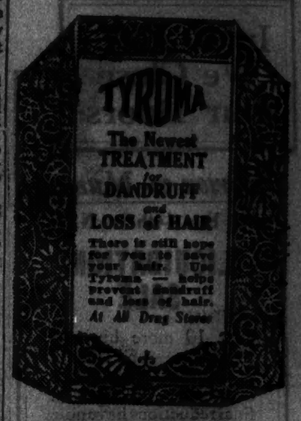
Study City's Probation System—Visit General Sessions.

Five Supreme Court Judges from Baltimore visited General Sessions yesterday and sat on the bench beside Judge Cornelius F. Collins as he sentenced Mrs. Rosalind Greenberg, 24 years old, of 912 East 223d Street, to an indeterminate sentence of from six months to three years in the Bedford Reformatory.

The Judges, who are Joseph N. Ulman, Robert F. Stanton, Duke Bond, Charles F. Stein and George A. Solter, constitute a committee which is studying the New York City probation system. They will visit the Family Court today.

The case to which they listened concerned a woman who had been found legally sane but was referred to in the probation officer's report as a "psychopathic liar." Mrs. Greenberg comes from a well-to-do family and had the benefit of wholesome surroundings, according to Chief Probation Officer Edwin J. Cooley. Nevertheless, she has been arrested repeatedly on charges of forgery, and her father has had to make good between $4,000 and $8,000 in bad checks passed in various department stores.

Mrs. Greenberg was permitted to plead guilty to forgery in the second degree for the alleged cashing of a forged check for $50. Judge Collins in sentencing her pointed out that, while the woman was sane, she needed mental adjustment and that there was no institution in New York for handling cases like hers. He directed Mr. Cooley to ask the Bedford officials to have her case supervised.



The Biggest Overcoat Stock in the World Consisting of One Overcoat!

It may be single or double-breasted, we don't know—it may be an Overcoat or an Ulster, we can't tell—it may be black, blue, brown, gray, or what not, it's hard to say—we don't know exactly what model it is, nor what size you take, nor how little you want to spend—we only know that ours is the biggest Overcoat and Ulster stock it is possible for any store to carry, because it embraces that rare example known as—

Spring Fabrics Make their Debut

FRESH, lovely, colorful! Just to look at these new fabrics transports you to the heart of June. Each one carries the approval of Paris. And they are the very fabrics that are now setting the styles for Summer at the smart Florida and California resorts.

What's new in prints?

Lelong's sheer Prints and Printed Mousseline! On heavier silks, tiny closely packed designs; on chiffons from France, large graceful designs: Florals for the most part, but dots, balloons, fruits and futuristic geometry are all represented. The smartest note of the season is the dark background with bright multi-color designs.

In solid color silks, the smooth and rougher weaves from China and Japan threaten the supremacy of Crepes. Pongee, Rajah, Shantung—and don't omit white Habutai for a tennis frock!

Woolens you'll need

New English Tweeds, light as a feather for frocks; Novelty French Tweeds, soft and warm for coats; knitted Tweeds for sports wear.

A new Wool Crepe from France is sheer yet firm so it tailors beautifully. In all the lovely Spring colors.

Rodier has sent us his new Asperic which is a combination of artificial silk and wool with a frosty gleam. Ajour Woolens from France show how smart a lock stitch can be. Basket Weave Coatings, the smartest for resort wear, in natural and new beige.

New versions in Linens

Handkerchief Linen, sponsored by Chanel, has futuristic conceptions of flowers, natural flowers, diamond checks and all manner of designs. Embroidered, printed, hand-blocked, solid color, drop-stitch—all the new and smart heavier dress Linens, are here.

So many new Cottons!

Liberty's Tana Lawn in new patterns is as bewitching as a Spring posy. And the lovely colors seem even more beautiful in the sunlit South!

Printed Piqué—the smartest new Cotton! Tiny flower pots with climbing roses, polka dots that dance a merry measure over the fine ribs, other designs in the freshest of colors. Solid color and white Piqué, too!

GOVERNORS ISLAND OPPOSED AS AIRPORT

General Ely Declares It Is Too Small for Flying Field and Allows No Expansion.

HE SEES MANY DANGERS

Tells State Commerce Chamber Also That Site Should Remain Army Post as Protection for City.

Governors Island is unsuitable for an airport and moreover is needed for military purposes, it was contended by Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commanding the Second Corps Area, in an address before the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York yesterday, where he was the guest of honor.

General Ely pointed out that Governors Island was only one-third the size of the airport of Croydon in England and Le Bourget in France, and only one-fourth the size of the Tempelhof Field in Germany, and did not fulfill the Department of Commerce requirements that a Class A airport have a minimum of 2,500 feet available in every direction after deducting 100 feet along the boundary of the field. In case there are buildings, 300 or 400 feet more are required, the General said.

"The enlargement of Governors Island to any appreciable extent is impracticable without effectually blocking part of the channels leading to the Port of New York," General Ely said. Among the arguments he advanced were that navigation interests would, in his belief, strongly oppose any enlargement of the island, which might endanger shipping, and that the depth of channels on either side was another factor. Likewise, he said, the River and Harbor act of 1899 required the approval of the Secretary of War to any enlargement of the island. This approval, he thought, would probably not be given.

General Ely added that the prevailing wind was northwest and that it blew more than forty miles an hour for ninety-four days of the year. Fogs, haze and unusual air currents all constituted menaces, and a plane groping for its landing field in a fog might hit shipping or one of the many tall buildings close at hand, he declared.

If the New York airport is to become the hub of a nation-wide net of airlines, he asserted, there must be ample room for growth. He argued also that a military station on the island was necessary to protect Government property in the vicinity.

France Honors Rene Seligman.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Rene Seligman, son of Simon Seligman of New York and Paris, was named a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor by a decree appearing in the official journal this morning. Rene Seligman was decorated by the War Ministry for his services to France during the World War. [There is no Simon Seligman in the telephone book, city directory or other New York record. At the J. & W. Seligman Company, Wall Street, it was said there was no relative of that name to their knowledge.]

MRS. WESTBROOK LEFT $50,000 TO AID BLIND

The New York Association for the Blind will receive eventually about $50,000 from the $100,000 estate of Mrs. Gertrude Westbrook, who died in Paris, Texas, on Dec. 28. Mrs. Westbrook formerly lived in Fifty-seventh Street. She bequeathed her estate to her relatives, a friend, two employes and the organization for the relief of the blind. Her husband is cut off in the will, which was filed for probate yesterday.

A brother, Albert Whittaker McGuire, of Texas, receives his sister's personal effects and the income from the residuary estate. Upon his death half the principal of the residuary trust goes to the association for the blind, while the other half goes to Mrs. Westbrook's niece, Elizabeth Archer Nelson of Jersey City.

The testament says that Mrs. Westbrook does not wish her husband, Charles L. Westbrook of Los Angeles, to share in her estate as he had already obtained a good share of her money when the document was executed in 1924.

Will of Gen. S. Herbert Wolfe.

His widow and children are the principal beneficiaries under the will of Brig. Gen. S. Herbert Wolfe, a Harding appointee in the Officers' Reserve Corps and a prominent actuary. General Wolfe served as an officer in the Quartermasters' Corps in the World War. The value of his estate was not designated.

The Society for Ethical Culture in New York, of which he was a member, receives $5,000 to form a scholarship fund in its school at 2 West Sixty-fourth Street. After several smaller legacies to relatives and friends totaling $3,700 have been paid, the residuary estate is to form a trust for the widow, Flora H. Wolfe. The principal of the residuary trust is to be divided among the three children upon his wife's death. They are Eleanor M., Frances B. and Helen L. Wolfe, all of whom live with their mother at 1,000 Park Avenue.

PLANS LONE ATLANTIC HOP.

French Friend of Lindbergh Means to Return the Visit.

VILLACOUBLAY, Jan. 5 (AP).—The first French birdman to try the westbound Atlantic flight in 1928 probably will be a friend of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. He is Sergeant de Troyat, who is going all alone to pay the "Lone Eagle" a return visit.

The Sergant became acquainted with the American when Lindbergh made his magnificant New York-to-Paris flight, the Sergeant personally meeting the American at Le Bourget.

Sergeant de Troyat accompanied Lindbergh on the latter's surprise flight over Paris a few days after the landing, and the French flier's acrobatics caused his air comrade to pay him the highest compliments as an aviator.

De Troyat's plane, an all-metallic "Avimeta" is powered by a 230-horsepower air-cooled Samson motor and has already undergone test flights at Villacoublay.

De Troyat believes that he will be ready when the first settled weather comes. The plane is a single-seater and is something like the famous Spirit of St. Louis in appearance.

COTILLO CONDEMNS ALIEN AGITATORS

TO ADMIT 10,000 THIS MONTH

Father of Ten, All Born in Bronx, Becomes Citizen—Sergeant of Marines Gets Final Papers.

Communists, Bolshevists and "those Fascisti or anti-Fascisti who cannot approve of the ways of democracy" were denounced by Supreme Court Justice Salvatore A. Cotillo, sitting in Extraordinary Term in the Bronx Supreme Court, in an address to 500 prospective citizens who were naturalized yesterday by him and Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer.

The five hundred new citizens were the advance guard of 10,000 who will be naturalized this month by Justice Cotillo. Justice Cotillo will sit alone during the balance of the month.

Father of Ten Naturalized.

Fabrico Sannicandro, 50 years old, the father of ten children, became a citizen yesterday. He lives at 677 Morris Avenue and arrived in New York from Italy in 1905. Sannicandro, a piano maker by trade, is a native of Naples and the father of seven boys and three girls, between the ages of 2 and 22 years, all born in the Bronx. When informed that Sannicandro was unable to read English, but could speak it fluently, Justice Hammer advised him to familiarize himself with the English language by reading the newspapers.

One of the first to appear before Justice Cotillo was Mrs. Mary Madonna, 30 years old, a widow, of 315 East 187th Street, who was born in America, but lost her citizenship when she married Annielio Madonna, who died fourteen months ago. In order to obtain a State widow's pension Mrs. Madonna, the mother of two children, Patrick, 7 years old, and Anthony, 5, was forced to take out citizenship papers.

In line with the others were three United States Marines in blue dress uniforms. They were Sergeant Maxwell Unvermagt, the new citizen, and two witnesses, Sergeants Herman Freedman and Levy Silvermail. Sergeant Unvermagt, at the time he became a citizen, received permission to change his surname to Dickerson. He is 27 years old and lives with his wife and two-year-old son, Rudolph, at 1,161 Sherman Avenue. He is attached to the United States Marine Corps Recruiting office at 18 East Twenty-third Street. He was born in Canada of German parents, enlisting in the service in 1921.

Alien Agitators Condemned.

In his speech, after denouncing alien agitators, Justice Cotillo said:

"Of late we have had some shameful examples of their willingness to make trouble. In this country, in the very shadow of this court, we have seen men murdered because of their attachment to alien causes, because of their interest in political struggles that are far removed from American soil. This activity cannot and will not be tolerated. There is no room in this country for men of half-way allegiance, and no good American will permit our soil to become a battleground for alien causes.

"But while I am stressing the danger of alien agitation in this country I am not unmindful of the fact that there are equally dangerous forces at work, who, though inspired by a desire to protect America against this agitation, actually endanger the very institution they seek to protect. I refer to those Americans, who, under the banner of bigotry and intolerance, are fostering divisions of race, creed and color in this country. This activity is to be deeply regretted.

"Remember that America expects loyalty above all things, and that, I am sure, she shall have from you."

The naturalization proceedings are being held in the Special Term Court room on the third floor of the County Court Building at Third Avenue and East 161st Street.

'KING OF KINGS' FILM WILL BE REVISED

DeMille to Change Scenes and Titles as Jews Asked and Add a Foreword.

Cecil B. DeMille's motion picture, "The King of Kings," will be immediately revised to meet the objections of Jews, Catholics and others, according to a statement issued yesterday by Alfred M. Cohen of Cincinnati, international president of the Independent Order of B'nai Brith. The agreement on the revisions was made after conferences attended by representatives of the producers, Will H. Hays and a committee of the Anti-Defamation League of the Order of B'nai Brith.

The desired changes were indicated in a letter prepared by Mr. Cohen and Dr. David Philipson, Reform rabbi, and sent to John C. Flinn, Vice President of Pathé Exchange, Inc., which owns the film. Mr. Flinn, in a telegram sent on Wednesday, said Mr. DeMille had agreed to the desired alterations in titles and scenes and they will be made by Jan. 18.

In addition to the revisions, Mr. Cohen said, Mr. DeMille will prepare a foreword in which he will "exculpate the Jews of guilt for the death of Jesus," and put the responsibility on Caiphas, the high priest. Mr. Cohen declined to make public the detailed revisions.

Canadian Pilot Killed in Crash.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Jan. 5 (By The Canadian Press).—Captain F. J. N. Stevenson, senior pilot of the Western Canada Airways, Ltd., was killed today when his plane crashed near The Pas, Manitoba. Details of the accident are lacking. Captain Stenvenson, who has been engaged in commercial flying during the past year, has made regular trips this Winter into the Flin Flon and Herb Lake mining areas.

The phrase that fools: "Only a sore throat!"

Don't underestimate the danger of a cold or sore throat. Neglect of both leads hundreds to serious illness or death every year.

In your own circle of friends no doubt you can recall one such case . . . perhaps a child you loved, gone in a twinkling . . . or a robust friend taken in his prime.

Sore throat is usually a warning that you are in for a cold—or worse. First gargle repeatedly with Listerine used full strength and if immediate improvement is not apparent, consult your physician.

Often Listerine is sufficient. Time and time again it has checked such ailments before they got the upper hand. It is effective because it is antiseptic; immediately attacks disease-producing germs that develop in the mouth.

During "flu" and pneumonia weather, who can gainsay the wisdom of using Listerine systematically every day? Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

If only a new touch here and a refinement there could win the public to a motor car—the success of the Oakland All-American wouldn't mean so much. But American motordom deals in fundamentals—looks for fundamental progress. And that's what they found in the Oakland All-American Six! A new and basic principle of design. All-American engineering, to meet every American motor need . . . symmetry, lines and color, interpreting American ideals of motor car beauty. The public saw it—acclaimed it—and started it off to unprecedented success by saying, "That's the car!" See it at the Automobile Show next week.

POMERENE DRAFTED BY OHIO DEMOCRATS

WHITE IS SECOND CHOICE

Action Follows Agreement Between Governor Donahey and Nominee, Who Is a Smith Supporter.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 5 (AP).—Former Senator Atlee Pomerene and former Representative George White of Marietta will be the first and second choice of Ohio Democrats for the Presidential nomination.

Lacking an avowed candidate for the Presidency in the State and being obliged to have some declared candidate to give authorization for the selection of convention delegates, the former Senator was drafted today by his party to fill the role. Though formally pledged to support Mr. Pomerene, the delegates will have fulfilled their pledge when they cast a complimentary vote for him. They then will be free to support other candidates.

The other candidates, in accordance with a "gentleman's agreement" between friends of Governor Donahey, who is a receptive candidate for President, and friends of Senator Pomerene, an avowed supporter of Governor Smith of New York, and instructions by the State Central and Executive committees, are to receive the State delegation's support so long as they have a chance of being nominated. This agreement is intended to take care of Governor Donahey should his name be presented to the convention.

Presented with a recommendation that Senator Pomerene be endorsed as Ohio's "favorite son," the Central and Executive committees in joint session made quick work of making the endorsement unanimous.

Mr. White's was the only name suggested for second choice. Candidates for delegate must have the written consent of declared candidates before they can formally qualify as candidates, in accordance with the present interpretation of the State primary law.

The matter of endorsing delegates at large was deferred until the National Committee has proportioned delegates to the State, which is expected to be done next week. In the meantime W. A. Julian of Cincinnati, a National Committeeman, was instructed to intercede with the committee to give Ohio eight delegates at large, each with half a vote.

IRAQ JOINS BRITAIN TO FIGHT TRIBESMEN

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BAGDAD, Jan. 5.—The Iraq Government has concurred with the British Government in sending a punitive expedition against the Wahabi tribesmen who have been carrying out raids on Iraq frontier tribes. Making this announcement in Parliament today, Jaffar Pasha El Askari, the Prime Minister, said:

"In co peration with the British military forces, we are preparing a sufficiently powerful punitive expedition to punish the Nedji tribesmen responsible for the outrages. Our military plans have been sanctioned. Operations will not be prolonged for more than a month."

The Prime Minister added that Iraq was not in a state of war with the Wahabi King, who had disclaimed responsibility for the acts of the Sheik Feisal ed Dowish, leader of the raiding tribesmen, and said he would cooperate against the latter with a loyal Wahabi force.

It is possible that the King will find difficulty in raising a large force for his proposed attack on Feisal ed Dowish's headquarters at Artawiyah, as the Sheik's two tribes dominating that locality are believed to sympathize with Feisal ed Dowish.

The latter, for the moment, has vanished into the desert. Survivors of his last raid speak with terror of the barbarous savagery of his tribesmen.

It is understood that the Royal Air Force, in cooperation with the Iraq Army, is preparing to act with the utmost vigor.

AT PANAMA FOR CEREMONY.

Mrs. Gaillard Will Attend Placing of Tablet in Her Husband's Honor.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, Jan. 5.—Mrs. D. D. Gaillard arrived on the Cristobal this morning to be present at the placing of a tablet on the face of Gold Hill, overlooking Gaillard Cut in the Panama Canal, in memory of her husband, Lieut. Col. David Dubose Gaillard, in whose honor the name of the cut was changed from Culebra (snake) by President Wilson.

Colonel Gaillard was the army engineer in charge of the excavation of the cut from March 16, 1907, to Sept. 20, 1913, when failing health made it impossible for him to continue. He died Dec. 3, 1913.

The tablet, made of bronze and 3 feet by 10 in size, bears the legend, "The Third Engineers are proud of their comrade." It was designed by the artist James E. Fraser, who has accompanied Mrs. Gaillard to the isthmus.

Colonel Gaillard cut the largest dry excavation ever made. It forms the strait between Gold and Contractors' Hill, nine miles long.

President Wilson wrote in his Executive order in April, 1913, changing the name Culebra to Gaillard, "I deem it fitting in recognition of Lieut. Col. Gaillard's services to his country to rename in his honor the scene of his life's triumph." The time of placing the tablet has not been announced.

Horse Ties Up Brooklyn Bridge.

All Manhattan-bound traffic on the Brooklyn Bridge was halted for fifteen minutes shortly before 11 o'clock yesterday morning when a dray horse fell near the middle of the bridge and was unable to get up. Several patrolmen finally helped the animal to its feet. Halted automobiles and surface cars reached far beyond the Brooklyn Plaza of the bridge.

REDS LOOT AND KILL IN CHINESE DISORDERS

HANKOW, Jan. 5 (AP).—Chinese reports from various regions of the Province of Hupeh state that sharp Communist disorders have broken out, resulting in a virtual reign of terror, looting and massacre carried out by the Communists.

Local Chinese Communists are being executed almost daily by the garrison of the Wuhan cities (Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang).

Small boat travel on the Yangtse River between Hankow and Wuchang has been virtually halted because of the depredations of pirates who have their headquarters in Wuchang. These pirates have been stopping boats and robbing passengers, killing one Chinese and wounding two others in their latest raid.

The Hupeh Provincial Cigarette and Wine Tax Bureau announced that, effective today, a 50 per cent. ad valorem tax would be placed on cigarettes in conformity with instructions from the Nanking Ministry of Finance.

CANTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—Advices from the Island Tenam, opposite Canton, today told of the execution of a Russian, M. Pfaff. Pfaff was arrested by the anti-Communists on Dec. 27, after his discovery with Russian documents in the Red disorders of Dec. 11.

General Li Chai-sum, whose troops drove General Li Fuk-lan from Canton to Honam on Dec. 29, arrived here from Hongkong. He received an ovation from the merchants, who welcomed his return as a moderate after the recent bloodshed of the anti-Communist disorders.

The attitudes of General Li Chai-sum and his Kwangsi forces toward General Chiang Kai-shek, who has resumed the direction of the Nanking Nationalist movement, is doubtful.

Several radical unions were abolished by the new authorities here. The leaders of the Postoffice Workers' Union were imprisoned and the postal authorities are now able to reestablish discipline and turn the present deficit into a profit.

W. C. T. U. TO MAP CAMPAIGN.

Eastern Organizations Will Meet Here Next Tuesday.

To perfect an organization for the coming national campaign and to launch the "dry planks and dry candidates" movement in the East, the W. C. T. U. of New York, New England, New Jersey and Pennsylvania will confer at the McAlpin Hotel next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Among the speakers will be Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, the Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, President of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, and Mrs. Ella A. Boole. Among the topics to be discussed will be "Current Wet Propaganda," by Mrs. Maurice C. Munns of Evanston, Ill., Treasurer of the National W. C. T. U., and "Why the Wets Want to Elect the Next President," by Mrs. Alice G. Ropes of Boston, President of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U. Maurice Campbell, Federal Prohibition Administrator in New York City, will discuss the problems of law enforcement.

Rio Janeiro Does Honor to Redfern.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 5 (AP).—The Brazilian authorities paid homage today to Paul H. Redfern of Georgia, American aviator who disappeared several months ago while on a nonstop flight from Brunswick, Ga., to Rio Janeiro. One of the streets of the city was named after the American flier by the municipal authorities.

of 432 cars would be about $8,856,000, spread over two years or more, and quoted the sections of the city's contract with the company which require the company to give adequate service and empower the city to supply adequate equipment, in case the company neglected to supply it, and seize all or part of its subway system until reimbursed.

Denounces Elevated Lease.

Mr. Untermyer attacked the unprofitable lease under which the Interborough is now paying $3,087,000 per year as a guarantee of Manhattan elevated dividends, and continued:

"In the face of these drastic provisions, which virtually give to the city a prior lien upon the property and the right to take possession of and hold it until repaid, if it elects to provide the equipment upon the failure of the latter to do so, the company wantonly defies the commission on the ground of inability to raise the money, while it is paying annually to the Manhattan stockholders, although the Manhattan division is not earning its fixed charges, more money than would pay these cars, and upon a contingent guaranty whereby it is payable only if earned!

"That is the difference between its manner of dealing with private interests that know how to assert their rights and the City of New York, whose rights are flouted and ignored on the theory that it never does and will not now protect them. Perhaps when the company finds that this time it has 'reckoned without its host' it will sing a different song.

"Why should even the interest and sinking fund payments on the company's bonds, that are being regularly and readily met, be paid in preference to this prior obligation for equipment under which the city may pay for the equipment for the account of the company and take and hold the entire property for repayment even as against the bondholders? That is precisely what the city will be advised to do if this equipment is ordered to be furnished and these different interests do not find a way, between the company and themselves, of furnishing it, unless the Court summarily forces the company to obey the order, which is expected."

Disputes Company's Figures.

Discussing the financial condition of the company Mr. Untermyer asserted that its cash balance on Jan. 1 last was actually $1,115,005 after total interest requirements and that it had in addition $1,558,000 in its so-called fund for taxes which it did not have to pay, making a total of $2,673,000, instead of $1,130 balance, the first estimate of witnesses for the company. He estimated that the company's cash balance on June 30, 1928, would be $6,790,000, which, he said, would be plenty to enable the company to finance the purchase of new cars by the sale of equipment bonds or notes with the accompanying 20 or 25 per cent. of the cost of the new cars in cash. Mr. Untermyer also attacked the contention of the company that it would require the expenditure of $8,000,000 to furnish power to operate the new cars, and pointed out that it was now selling three times the amount of power that would be needed to the B. M. T. and surface car lines.

"As to whether new cars are needed," Mr. Untermyer continued, "I regret to have to say that a review of the evidence on the part of the company on this point establishes a deliberate and concerted effort to falsify the facts, both by garbled and misleading figures and by oral testimony that may be justly characterized as reckless false swearing on the part of the Assistant General Manager and the expert employed by the company. Such an exposure, as is reflected in this testimony, has rarely been encountered and should not be permitted to pass unrebuked, but even then it fails to make out a semblance of defense against this application.

Mr. Untermyer declared that the financial situation of the Interborough was such that not more than $500,000 or $600,000 would be available after this year to pay the Manhattan stockholders and only between $200,000 and $300,000 to pay the dividends of the 90 per cent. of the Manhattan stockholders who assented to a reduction of their dividends from 7 to 5 per cent.

Would Renew an Offer.

"This seems to be the very utmost that they can ever hereafter receive under this guaranty," Mr. Untermyer said. "And yet, strange to say, when the suggestion was put forth in the report and recommendations of the special counsel to pay these gentlemen $70 per share in 3 per cent. city bonds, they not only spurned the offer but would not even negotiate, although their property, taken alone, is not only not making a penny upon the $60,000,000 of stock, but is actually losing at the rate of fully $5,000,000 a year, and, although the business of their company is steadily declining. Under existing conditions I would not favor renewing that suggestion."

W. Findley Downs, Vice President of Day & Zimmerman of Philadelphia, consulting engineers, the only witness of the day, testified that the Interborough had very poor credit. The company had expected to produce a banker to testify that the company could not sell any bonds except at a ruinous discount. When the hearing ended without such a witness and Mr. Untermyer asked why, Arthur G. Peacock, of counsel for the Interborough, said:

"We could not get a single self-respecting banker to come here and be cross-examined by Mr. Untermyer."

C. E. Kohler attempted to testify, contending that the Commission's hearings were depressing transit securities, of which he said he was a holder, but was checked up by Commissioner Lockwood, who closed the hearing. Both sides were directed to file briefs by next Wednesday.

Don't dope YOUR Cough

IT is not wise to use remedies which depend upon "dope" such as narcotics, chloroform, cannabis or tar products. They may stop your cough temporarily by numbing the tissues, as most cough mixtures do, but this is not enough.

ARCOIL
OIL BURNER

Approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories

$315

Aproved by the New York Board of Standards & Appeals and by local authorities everywhere

Complete with 280-gallon inside tank, pressurestat, Thermostat and all the necessary pipings and fittings

The above price prevails where the purchaser takes care of the installation. If you want us to make the installation there is an additional cost of $60 for labor.

With a 1,000-gallon outside tank, the price is $360 complete. If we are to make the installation the price is $475.

IMPORTANT to people living in New York City! The installation cost will be from $250 to $325 more, according to the installation.

The Jacobson Mfg. Co. has eliminated all the expensive costs of distribution, and now offers the "Arcoil" Oil Burner at a price that is within the means of every one!

Formerly the dealer and distributor got a $250 profit; the salesman got a $100 profit; the financing charges were $75, and the cost of tank installation was at least $80 more. All these profits are now eliminated.

When you buy an "Arcoil" you pay for what you get—a tried and tested burner that is guaranteed to provide perfect heating satisfaction—and not a lot of miscellaneous "extras," or four middlemen, collecting a part of your money.

At the old price, and compared with other oil burners, the "Arcoil" was a good buy. Now, at this new low price, it is a genuine bargain!

This offer is made direct from the factory and we invite you to call or phone. See the "Arcoil" made! See it in actual operation! And make your selection on the spot!

If we install your "Arcoil" we will service it free of charge for two months. If you take care of the installation we will charge $25 for the first year for servicing.

Will burn any oil that flows! An "Arcoil" pump breaks up oil as fine as cigarette smoke. No other pump used for oil burning purposes can do this. Our pressure is twelve times greater than our nearest competitor.

DON'T WAIT!

The change from coal to oil can be made in an hour, without letting your house get cold.

Our factory will be open all day Sunday for those who wish to inspect or select a burner. Open evenings until 8 o'clock.

A single "Arcoil" burner is heating the Centre Court Apartment in Pittsburgh. By means of a simple adjustment it will heat either a small home or a large building.

"WE"

By Colonel Charles A. LINDBERGH

Now for the first time in any newspaper—you can read the greatest story of human daring and one-man achievement ever written—Colonel Lindbergh's story of his life and his famous flight across the Atlantic. In presenting the "Lone Eagle's" amazing story, the New York American has scored the biggest feature "beat" in years.

"WE" is the very embodiment of youth and indomitable spirit. It tells the whole story of Lindbergh's life from infancy to the hour when the universe rang with his name. It tells of the many thrilling events that mark his flying career—his first plane—his training with the U. S. Air Corps—emergency jumps which saved his life—and countless other stirring episodes. Every red-blooded man, woman and child will be eager to read this gripping adventure story—a story taken from life itself—that will live forever!

FRANCES B. PARKER WED TO M. S. PRAY

LARGE GATHERING PRESENT

Miss Frances Bedell Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bedell Parker of 1,150 Fifth Avenue and Larchmont Manor, was married to Malcolm Sheldon Pray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Pray of Rochelle Park, New Rochelle, N. Y., last night in the Italian Garden of the Ambassador.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Edgar Whitaker Work, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The bride's father gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of ivory colored satin embroidered with seed pearls and embellished with old rose point and duchess lace. The gown had been worn by her mother and sister, Mrs. William Schuette Jr., at their marriages. The bride's veil of old point lace was also an heirloom. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids.

Mrs. William Schuette Jr. was matron of honor for her sister. The other bridal attendants were Mrs. John Scott Lansill and Miss Marjorie Mannen of Larchmont. Margaret Swalmon Fountain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Fountain, was flower girl, and John Carloch Alexander, ward and nephew of Mrs. John P. Laflin, was page.

W. Kenneth Pray was best man for his brother. The ushers were William Schuette Jr., John Scott Lansill, Donald M. Shriver, Laird A. Davis, Robert Stafford Edwards, Walter H. Weber and Alexander K. Laing.

The ceremony was followed by a reception. Mr. Pray and his bride will go to Bermuda on their wedding trip. On their return they will live at 17 East Ninety-sixth Street.

Bolton—Schiff.

The marriage of Miss Frances B. Schiff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Schiff of 390 Riverside Drive, to Whitney Bolton, son of Henry S. Bolton of Spartanburg, S. C., and the late Mrs. Bolton, took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott performed the ceremony. Mrs. James E. Leidloff, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the Misses Helen Gould and Geraldine Page were bridesmaids.

A. J. Dillard Jr. of East Orange, N. J., was best man. Mr. Bolton and his bride will go South on their wedding trip. On their return they will live at 42 East Ninth Street.

The bridegroom is on the staff of The New York Herald Tribune.

MRS. E. B. VAN WINKLE WED TO C. H. W. FOSTER

Announcement has been made of the marriage last Saturday in St. Michael's Church, Litchfield, Conn., of Mrs. Edgar B. Van Winkle to Charles H. W. Foster of Castle Farm, Charles River, Mass. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Caleb R. Stetson, rector of Trinity Church, New York, assisted by the Rev. Dr. William J. Brewster of St. Michael's Church.

There were no attendants. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Thomas Hunt of Boston. The ceremony was followed by a small reception at the bride's home, The Little House.

The bride is the widow of Colonel Edgar B. Van Winkle of this city. Mr. Foster's first wife died about two years ago. He was graduated from Harvard in 1881. He is a member of the Harvard Club of New York, the Eastern Yacht Club, New Riding, Norfolk Hunt and Myopia Hunt Clubs. He has several yachts in Marblehead, Mass.

Pirate and American Sextets Battle to Scoreless Tie in Garden

AMERICANS-PIRATES IN SCORELESS DRAW

BURCH'S GOAL DISALLOWED

Cages Disk on Pass From Reise in Third Period, but Off-Side Ruins Shot—Both Goalies Excel.

By SEABURY LAWRENCE.

The New York Americans and Pittsburgh Pirates struggled aimlessly and scorelessly through an overtime hockey game at Madison Square Garden last night, played before a crowd of 5,000 fans who waited in vain for decisive action.

The feature of the game, if any, seemed to be the frequent whistle-blowing of the referees. These shrill pipings always seemed to come along when some brilliant effort threatened by one side or the other and thoroughly disgusted the crowd.

The Americans came close to victory in the third period when Billy Burch caged the disk on a pass from Reise, but the goal was disallowed on an off-side ruling. It was the closest either side came to scoring.

Otherwise, it was a spectacle of two mediocre teams playing even below mediocre speed, which always means agony for a crowd.

The two outstanding figures of the night, outside of the referees, were the goalies, Miller in the New York net, and Worters for Pittsburgh. Miller had fifty-five saves and Worters forty-three.

Worters Busy at Start.

Conacher, American defense man, staged a series of clever individual sprints to start hostilities and Worters in the Pittsburgh net had his troubles blocking these hard drives. Burch, who started at centre for the Americans, combined with McKinnon and Red Green on some nifty team plays in the early minutes.

The short passing game of the Americans was neat here and some of the shots missed by the hair-line margin. Milks, Darragh and McCurry, assisted by Burke, a husky defense man, always carried back wall for the Pirates, but not well enough to beat Miller in the American net.

Altogether it was a rather peaceful period, with the boys doing a good deal of skating but no scoring. A feature, if any, was some fine long-distance shooting by Boucher, substitute American wingman.

White was still in the penalty box when the second period opened and Pittsburgh was momentarily down to five men. The American attack was dull, however, and could not score during the one-man shortage. Things livened a bit as Himes, Bouchard and Boucher came out to relieve Burch, McKinnon and Green. Himes and Bouchard stirred the crowd by driving in close, but could not beat Worters. At the other end, Miller saved brilliantly on drives by Milks and Darragh.

Burke and Smith were penalized for cross-checking and with the Pirates down to four men, the Americans had a golden chance. Burch, McKinnon and Green drove down in torrid attacks, but could not crash through and the second period ended with the score still scoreless.

Burch's Goal Ruled Offside.

Miller had some close calls on drives by Darragh opening the third period, while at the Pittsburgh end Burch caged the disk on a pass from Reise, but this was not allowed, the play being called offside.

The crowd booed this decision generously. Both referees showed a disposition to blow the whistle on any and all occasions. Conacher was put off for roughing and was quickly followed by Himes and Drury.

This left the Americans with four men, but they stalled successfully until Conacher got back. Burch and Conacher attacked heavily in the final minutes but could not solve Worters and the game went into overtime at 0-0.

The line-up:

Penalties—First period: Burch, Drury, Conacher, White, two minutes each. Second period: Bouchard, Burke, Smith, two minutes each. Third period: Conacher, Himes, Drury, McCurry, two minutes each. Overtime: Drury, Milks, two minutes each.

Referees—Billy O'Hara and Lot Berthiquette.

AMERICANS SIGN WINGMAN.

Rothschild to Report to New York Six Tomorrow—Bowcher Released.

Sammy Rothschild, wingman, who played early this season with the Pittsburgh Pirates, was signed yesterday by the New York Americans, according to an announcement last night by Tommy Gorman, Secretary of the local club. Rothschild will report at Ottawa tomorrow and will probably play against the Senators tomorrow night.

Rothschild, a promising youngster, played last season with the Montreal Maroons. He can play on defense as well as on the forward line. Clarence Bowcher, substitute American defense man, has been sent to Niagara Falls.

BRUINS SELL HARRINGTON.

Player Sent to Providence by Boston—New Haven Gets 2 Players.

BOSTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—Sale of Leland (Hago) Harrington to the Providence club of the Canadian-American Hockey League was announced tonight by President Charles F. Adams of the Boston Bruins. The sale was made within a few hours after a decision by Frank Calder, President of the National League, that Harrington was the property of the Boston club and not of the New Haven club of the Canadian-American League.

The Bruins' President also announced that Nobby Clark and Billy Coutu had been sold to New Haven, the Boston club acting as agent for the Minneapolis club in the case of Coutu.

Rochester Sextet Wins, 4 to 2.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 5 (AP).—The Rochester Hockey Club team defeated the Victoria College sextet of Toronto here tonight in a hard-fought game by a score of 4 to 2.

Dempsey Again in Training; Frowns on Elimination Bouts

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP).—Jack Dempsey has begun light training in his downtown gymnasium here, but insists it is only to keep fit and not with any definite plan in mind for another chance at Gene Tunney, to whom he lost the heavyweight boxing championship.

"There's nothing in the wind at all," Dempsey said today. "I don't want to get fat, and the only way to keep from it is to have a regular training diet. Fight Tunney again? Sure. But I'm not in the mood to do any elimination fighting to get another crack at the title."

Dempsey now weighs about 205 pounds and he considers it too much.

DETROIT, Jan. 5 (AP).—The Montreal Canadiens continued their terrific pace in the international group of the National Hockey League by defeating the Detroit Cougars, leaders in the American group, by a score of 2 to 1 here tonight. It was the thirteenth victory of the season for the Flying Frenchmen and their second successive triumph in as many nights.

The game was marked by exceptional speed by both teams and more than 12,000 persons witnessed the battle between the division leaders. The Canadiens have been beaten only once during the season and that defeat had been administered by the Cougars.

Morenz put the Canadiens ahead in the first period with a goal in 14:11, but three minutes later Hay tied the count with a goal for the Cougars. After battling through a scoreless second period, Joliat broke the deadlock in 14:24 in the third period.

Toronto Loses to Maroons, 2-1.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Jan. 5 (AP).—The Montreal Maroons outskated the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 2-to-1 victory in a National Hockey League game here tonight and thereby jumped into a tie for second place with Ottawa in the standing of the international group.

The Maple Leafs were outplayed practically throughout, a more consistent and sustained attack giving the Maroons a distinct edge. A splendid and game display by Roach, visiting goalie, helped to keep down the score.

U. S. SKATERS SAIL; CERTIFIED AS TEAM

Receive Recognition as American Olympic Group, the Committee Announces.

TWO SKATING BODIES AGREE

Both Desire to Keep United Front to Foreign Rivals—Chance to Practice Abroad Welcomed.

Valentine Bialis of Utica, Irving Jaffee of New York, O'Neil Farrell and Eddie Murphy of Chicago, who sailed yesterday on the Scandinavian-American liner Oscar II from Hoboken for Norway, were accredited yesterday as the United States Olympic team. In an official announcement from the American Olympic Committee it was stated that the Amateur Skating Union and the International Speed Skating Association had agreed on these men, making it possible for the committee to certify them as an American Olympic team.

The decision that the men were an accredited Olympic team was reached after communication among Amateur Athletic Union officials and Frederick Rubien, Secretary of the American Olympic Association, and Major General Douglas MacArthur, President of the American Olympic Committee. It remains for one or the other of the two contending organizations to be recognized by the Amateur Athletic Union. However, this recognition will have no bearing on the eligibility of the men now at sea.

Desire United Front.

A desire to keep a united front to foreign countries regardless of what squabbles were going on at home prompted the agreement between the two organizations as to the skaters. The men are leaving for a three weeks' practice period in Oslo, Norway, preparatory to the Olympic Winter sports program, which will be held at St. Moritz in February. They were selected following the receipt of an invitation from the Norwegians.

The chance for practice was very welcome, in that poor ice conditions in this country have always handicapped the skating teams. Bialis was a member of the 1924 Olympic team and in that year the men had comparatively little work before going into action against the skaters of other nations. The men are also expected to gain experience in skating in lanes, which method is not customary in this country but is followed on the Continent.

Gorman to Skate for Canada.

TORONTO, Ontario, Jan. 5 (AP).—Assurance that Charles I. Gorman, world champion skater, will represent Canada in the Olympic speed skating events was expressed today by Arthur Flack, Secretary of the Old Orchard Club of this city. Flack said Gorman would be ready to make the trip abroad when the time came.

Gorman, formerly of St. John, N. B., is now located in Detroit. Gorman and Flack met at a recent conference.

MANHATTAN QUINTET BEATS M'GILL, 44-25

The undefeated Manhattan College basketball team scored its fifth straight victory by triumphing over the McGill University team, 44 to 25, at the Jasper gymnasium last night. Manhattan was at its full strength for the first time this season, and its star, Neil Cohalan, was available for full duty for the first time of the campaign. Although he was not used for the entire game, he was the leading Manhattan player, tallying 7 field and 3 foul goals for 17 points.

Manhattan was far from top form last night and played in streaks, which brought it a quick succession of points for a short period, and then left it on the defensive for another brief session. The Jaspers began raggedly, and after Neil Cohalan had made a foul Munro, the McGill star, sent his team ahead with a field goal. This lead was short-lived, as Shand tied the count with a foul.

Then Manhattan went on a non-scoring streak and the count remained at 2-all for seven minutes. Neil Cohalan broke through with a field goal and Whalen tied the score for McGill when he tapped the ball in the wrong basket. Manhattan got going again and Keber caged the ball twice. McClean made a goal from the field for McGill and Hayes followed with one for Manhattan.

With Neil Cohalan doing the bulk of the scoring Manhattan drew ahead, 19 to 11, at half time. Captain Danny Horan of Manhattan who had confined his efforts to a splendid guarding exhibition scored twice at the start of the second half and with Neil Cohalan caging the ball frequently the Manhattan total rolled steadily upward. A second team was inserted but when it failed to fare well the varsity returned to the game.

Aged Fighters' Fund Urged by Sharkey; Would Give 5 Per Cent. of Title Gates

BOSTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—Jack Sharkey, heavyweight contender, who is to meet Tom Heeney in New York next Friday, thinks it would be a good idea if Tex Rickard and other promoters of championship bouts, were to set aside 5 per cent. of title gates for a fund for aged fighters. And Jack is ready to have a start made when he meets Gene Tunney.

"I have been thinking of the poor fighters who pass away in poverty," Sharkey said, while he gave a sparring partner a rest. "What a finish some of them have had. I propose to suggest to Tex Rickard that he set aside a certain percentage of all championship gate receipts, regardless of the division, to establish a fund for unfortunate fighters.

"The time to lend assistance is when these unfortunates are alive and not when they are dead. If I am named Tunney's opponent I will try to get Rickard and Tunney to agree that a certain percentage be set aside for such a fund.

"I will gladly bear my share. A 5 per cent. fund on a $2,000,000 gate would insure $100,000. Adding to it all the time would soon bring enough to have a home and a hospital erected."

Jack thought that William Muldoon, New York Boxing Commissioner, and Eugene Buckley of the Massachusetts Commission would make good trustees for the fund.

S. A. L. final. Each team had been a divisional winner—Washington in the Manhattan division and Manual Training in the Brooklyn section.

With the stars of both teams breaking several P. S. A. L. records during the season and setting seasonal records frequently, it came as a surprise to the large gathering which thronged the regular stands, as well as the temporary bleachers, that not a single mark was approached by the two best teams of schoolboy swimmers in the city.

Each team captured three first places in the individual events and Washington romped off with the relay honors and the eight points gained in this race clinched its victory. Washington lapped Manual in the process.

Site Was Changed Twice.

The site of the meet was changed twice. The New York Athletic Club was first decided upon, but when this was found to be impracticable the James Monroe pool was selected. This was changed at the last minute and the Washington pool was named. It was here that the New York division held its weekly swims. Manual was confined to a Brooklyn pool for the entire P. S. A. L. campaign.

The closest race of the night was between Walter Johnson of Manual and Andrew Haabanen of Washington in the 220-yard free style. They came down the last length of the pool neck and neck and Johnson won by inches, the judges having difficulty in deciding just who was the victor.

Washington lost a possible victory in the 50-yard back-stroke event when William Nielson misjudged the distance to the end of the pool and made a premature turn. He had been leading by a yard up to this point and lost his advantage to Charles Tilkie of Manual, who came in first.

Tannenbaum Wins Dive.

In the fancy dive competition was extremely close and the winner, Martin Tannenbaum of Washington won by a point from his teammate, William Nigen. Tannenbaum had a score of 50, ten points below a perfect score. The third-place man, Burdett Chevallier of Manual, was right behind Nigen with 46 points.

The summaries:

100-Yard Free Style—Won by Ogden Dalrymple, George Washington; Thomas Coppinger, Manual Training, second; Charles Dilsworth, George Washington, third. Time—1:00 2-5.

50-Yard Back Stroke—Won by Charles Tilke, Manual Training; William Nielsen, George Washington, second; William Maloney, Manual Training, third. Time—0:33 3-5.

200-Yard Relay—Won by George Washington (Wilks, Singer, Osborne and Till); Manual Training (Dincke, Kowalski, O'Connell and Reynolds), second. Time—1:38 1-5.

ST. ANN'S PREP FIVE WINS.

The St. Ann's Prep School basketball team went into a tie for first place in the Catholic Schools Athletic League by defeating the All Hallows Prep quintet in a close struggle on the Good Shepherd Court yesterday, 25 to 22. The winners had to come from behind, as they trailed from the start. The half time score was 12 to 11 in favor of All Hallows. Mulligan of All Hallows, with eleven points, was the high scorer of the game.

CHICAGO TO LAUNCH TUNNEY BOUT BID

Will Start Campaign Monday for Title Fight to Be Held in September.

GENE MAY SIGN TUESDAY

Will Do So if His Contract With Rickard Will Permit It, Says Cermak.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—A campaign to bring Gene Tunney to Chicago next Summer to defend his heavyweight title again in Soldier Field will begin next Monday, A. J. Cermak, head of the Chicago group planning the match, said today. Cermak expects to leave Saturday for Palm Beach, Fla., to meet Tunney and inspect the champion's contract with Rickard, to determine if a provision can be made to permit the titleholder to box here next June in addition to the title fight provided in the agreement with Rickard for a match next September.

Decision on the Chicago match will be announced by next Tuesday, Cermak said. If a bout can be arranged that does not violate the Rickard contract, Tunney will sign then and there for the match, Cermak said.

Edward J. Kelly, President of the South Park Board, which controls Soldier Field; Michael Igoe and George E. Brennan, Democratic National Committeeman, meanwhile are working to land the Democratic National Convention for Chicago, with the idea of making the Tunney fight one of the additional attractions in their bid to the Democratic National Committee.

If this group is able to put over the Tunney match, it will be held regardless of the Democratic convention. The matchmaking will be turned over to Jim Mullen, Chicago's leading promoter, should Tunney's signature be obtained. Tunney's denial in New York that he had under consideration an offer to box on the Pacific Coast, but did have another proposition, was understood here to mean the offer by Cermak and his associates.

FORDHAM TO MEET ST. JOHN'S TONIGHT

Capacity Crowd Expected to See Undefeated Quintets Clash in Annual Fray.

Fordham and St. John's College, both undefeated at basketball this season, will meet in their annual game tonight at the Fordham gymnasium. St. John's has run up a string of seven victories and Fordham has won all of its five games. A keen contest is expected with neither team greatly favored.

Preparations for a capacity crowd in the Maroon gymnasium are being made because of the fine showings of the two teams and the high local interest. The largest gathering ever to witness a game in the gym was 6,000 last season at the City College game and close to that number is expected for the St. John's game.

The efforts of Frank Dougherty and Bo Adams for the Maroon and Wolf of St. John's will be watched with interest. These three have been the scoring stars of their respective teams. A preliminary game which is to start at 8 o'clock will be played between the two freshman teams.

COLUMBIA PLAYS TONIGHT.

Quintet, With 4 Straight Defeats, Will Meet Union Here.

The Columbia University basketball team will play its fifth game of the season tonight when it meets the Union College quintet at 8:30 o'clock in the Columbia gymnasium. The Lions have not scored a victory this season, but Coaches Dan Meenan and Paul Mooney have been drilling their men during the Christmas vacation and it is expected that the Blue and White will place an improved combination on the court against the up-Staters.

The swimming team will open its season at 4 o'clock this afternoon against Fordham in the Columbia pool.

Newtown at Holyoke Tonight.

The Newtown High School basketball team, winner of the New York P. S. A. L. championship in 1927, has canceled its game with the Dickinson High School quintet of Jersey City and will leave this morning for Holyoke, Mass., where it will meet the Holyoke High School team tonight. Tomorrow the Queen's five will play the Rogers High School of Newport, R. I.

School Meets March 23 and 24.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP).—Northwestern's sixteenth annual interscholastic track and swimming meets will be held at Patten Gymnasium March 23 and 24. More than 2,000 high schools have been invited to compete and a record entry is expected.

C. C. N. Y. to Swim Tonight.

The City College swimming team will face its third opponent of the season tonight when the Lavender opposes Brown in the City College pool. The water polo team will engage in its second fray, meeting the N. Y. A. C. sextet.

LOUGHRAN DEFENDS HIS TITLE TONIGHT

Light-Heavyweight Champion Risks Crown Against Lomski in Garden Bout.

CHALLENGER WELL LIKED

Betting, However, Favors Loughran, Who Has Been Installed the 8-to-5 Favorite.

Tommy Loughran, the light-heavyweight champion, will inaugurate the new year tonight in a manner designed to sustain his proclamation that he would be a fighting champion, when he clashes with Leo Lomski at Madison Square Garden in a bout scheduled to go fifteen rounds. It will be the first championship encounter of the year and promises to be interesting from the fans' point of view.

Though Loughran rules the favorite on the eve of the bout at about 8 to 5 there was an undercurrent of short-end money on Lomski. The Aberdeen Assassin has made a lot of friends since his Eastern début last Summer, who figure that he may have just enough strength and willingness to break through the masterful defense that Loughran is expected to put up. There is no question of Lomski's strength or his willingness and there appears to be no doubt that he will be able to take everything that Loughran has to offer without suffering.

The odds in Loughran's favor are based upon his skill as a boxer and the fact that an aggressive fighter of Lomski's type is made to order for his style. The opinion is that Loughran will look better against Lomski than he did against Jimmy Slattery, another boxer.

Chance at Tunney Looms.

At all events there is no gainsaying that the Philadelphian is not stalling as a champion. He is fighting as often as he can and against the best opponents that are offered him. It is more important for him to defeat Lomski than it is for Lomski to defeat Loughran. Should Loughran come tonight his long drive for recognition would come to an early end. For Lomski it would be only a temporary setback.

Loughran won the title by defeating Mike McTigue and subsequently outpointing Slattery. He is ambitious to develop from a light-heavyweight into a full-fledged heavyweight with an eye to a chance at Gene Tunney. Lomski's notable performances of recent date have been victories over Harold Mays and Maxie Rosenbloom and a knockout over Willie Walker.

K. O. Kaplan Meets McGorgary.

The main event over the fifteen-round championship distance will be preceded by three eight that also promise plenty of action. The semi-final will be between K. O. Phil Kaplan and Babe McGorgary. There should be plenty of slugging in this bout. James J. Braddock will meet Paul Swiderski. The first eight-rounder will be between Jimmy Byrne and Jack Warren. A four-round opener will see Tony Ferranto against Mercer Gelman.

LOUGHRAN.		LOMSKI.

WARD REPULSES REID IN SQUASH EXHIBITION

World's Champion Wins Easily by 15-6, 15-5, 15-5; Collins and Coward Triumph.

Playing before a capacity crowd, Frank Ward, the world's open squash tennis champion, representing the City A. C., defeated James Reid, Crescent Athletic Club professional, in the feature squash tennis exhibition match at the Shelton Club last night. The scores were 15—6, 15—5, 15—5.

Reid played with a handicap of three aces per game, but despite that he had no look-in with the City Club professional. Ward set a fast pace to overwhelm the diminutive Brooklyn player, who never had the opportunity to get set.

In the first game Ward scored 12 points before Reid was able to add to his handicap of 3. The Crescent coach started ambitiously in the second game, and managed to stay on even terms to 5—all. The champion then launched an irresistible offensive and scored 10 points in a row. Continuing on in the third, and scoring seven aces, Ward scored 14 points, making it a total of 24 consecutive points. Reid stemmed the tide momentarily, but finally succumbed to the champion's fierce onslaughts.

Leo Collins of the Fraternity Club triumphed over Charles Costello, Crescent A. C., 15—9, 15—10, in another professional match while in an amateur contest Thomas F. Coward of the Yale Club downed Fillmore Hyde, Harvard Club, 16—17, 15—10. Both Coward and Hyde are former champions.

SHAW CONQUERS TAYLOR.

Barney Shaw, 160 pounds, of the 212th Anti-Aircraft Company, scored a decision over Mickey Taylor, 151, of the Thirteenth Infantry of the New Jersey National Guard, in the feature ten-round bout of the boxing show at the 102d Medical Regiment Armory last night.

ALGOL BEATS NOINE IN BUSH HANDICAP

Outsider at $35.22 for $2 Wins Fair Grounds Feature as the Favorite Finishes 4th.

Secondary Number Taken by the Greentree Colt When Florence Mills Gets Off to Bad Start.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—Algol, three-year-old son of The Porter and Surplice, scored the first victory of the meeting for E. B. McLean when he won the Charles H. Bush Handicap at the Fair Grounds this afternoon. This home-bred colt was an outsider in a field of seven three-year-olds and paid $35.22 for each $2 ticket in the mutuels. T. Maguire had the mount, Algol running the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 under the feather of 102 pounds.

While Algol had shown improvement in his two starts at Jefferson Park, he did not get a chance in this company. The Hollow Brook Farm's gelding, Noine, which hadn't been out of the money in five starts at Jefferson, was the red-hot tip, backed to 11 to 10 at post time. But the son of Nassovian received a weak ride by Allen and could do no better than take fourth money. He was away well, was allowed to drop out of the contention, and then was unable to make up the lost ground.

Maguire got Algol away well when the barrier rose and held him back of the pace set by the Idle Hour Farm Stable's Bruno, which had a lot of early speed and showed the way to his opposition to the stretch Algol took the lead in the final furlong, coming on strongly to win by half a length. Bruno held on well to take the place by a length from the Mack Adam Stable's gelding, Blind Cast, which was in the hunt from the snap of the barrier.

Saxon Is Hard Pressed.

The other named number was the Al Jolson Purse, an allowance event for the older horses at a mile and seventy yards. There was an unfortunate start for Florence Mills, O. Visu's mare, which was held by an assistant starter at the break, and her chances ruined when she reared. She ran a grand race, however, and was beaten only a head by the Greentree Stable's colt, Saxon. The mare took the lead from the Greentree home-bred in the stretch, but swerved out, and that cost her the victory. The winner was the odds-on favorite and paid $3.14 for $2.

The players got away to a good start when short-priced favorites easily walked away with the money in the first two races. The opening number was a claiming event for maidens at a mile and seventy yards, in which an even dozen went to the post, Anderson & Kendle's three-year-old filly Cassie being the heavily-played choice. She has been knocking at the door for some time and found this the right spot for graduation.

It was an ordinary lot of maidens, and the filly had their measure almost from the start. She took the lead after running half a mile. Root saved ground with her and she stuck it out nicely to win by ½ length and a half from J. E. Comisky's gelding, Gee Elf Cee. The latter worked his way up under Landolt's guidance and finished fast to take the place from M. Lowenstein's Isaac L. The winner paid $4.98 in the mutuels.

Besom Is Easy Victor.

M. Lowenstein's Golden Broom colt Besom turned in several good performances at Jefferson and was made the 3-to-2 choice in the six-furlong claiming dash for the three-year-olds, second on the program. He won by three lengths from Mrs. J. W. Smith's Seth's Romance and paid $5 for each $2 invested on him in the machines.

Seth's Romance and the Midway Stable's Clear Star fought for the lead in the early part of the race, Pool holding Besom back of the leaders. He brought the colt to the inside and into the contention on the turn. From that point he drew out to win easily. Seth's Romance ran a game race and had a length on Clear Star at the winning post.

The three most heavily played horses took the bulk of the money in the claiming race at a mile and a sixteenth, Mrs. Estopinal's Omar Khayyam gelding Kiyi, M. Lowenstein's veteran gelding Duckweed and C. P. Winfrey's Talladega's finishing in that order. The last-named was the slight choice among the three.

Talladega made the early pace, McDermott holding Kiyi under wraps during the early running. He was given his head at the top of the stretch and he came on with a rush to win by three lengths. There was a bad start, about half the field not being ready, while Duckweed was practically left. He closed a big gap and got up to beat Talladega by a nose for the place, the latter tiring in the stretch drive. The winner paid $7.10 for $2.

Pierce A. A. Rolls 1,033 in Victory.

The Pierce A. A. won two out of three games from the Allied Commercial team at Thum's White Elephant allies in the American National Bowling Tournament last night. Both beat the previous high team score of 997. Pierce A. A. rolled 945, 1,033 and 957, while Allied Commercial tallied 922, 939 and 1,013. J. Humphries had the best average, 218 1-3, and the best game, 242.

CHARM AGAIN WINS ON HAVANA TRACK

KNIGHT OF MERCI II FIRST

Leads Field of Three-Year-Olds in 5½-Furlong Dash—Sleepy Dick Also Scores.

HAVANA, Jan. 5.—Edward Arlington's three-year-old bay filly Charm, which had started three times at the current meeting and had won on one of these occasions, added another victory to her list today when she scored a close decision over Pellegrino in the one mile and fifty yards journey of the Hotel Harrigan Purse, which featured the racing at Oriental Park.

The Arlington filly, with Watters in the saddle, had a neck margin at the wire. Mobos was up to take the short end of the purse. Charm was raced in a special harness device, which was designed to check the filly's habit of running out, and it apparently worked, for Charm ran a true race all the way. The winner was quoted at 8 to 5. McAuliffe was installed the public choice, but was not a contender. Though the weather was threatening, the track was fast and Charm ran the distance in 1:42 3-5.

Two good-priced winners were recorded during the afternoon. In the closer Knight of Merci II beat Ben Bon, Splinter and eight others in the five-and-a-half-furlong claiming affair for three-year-olds and paid the good price of 6 to 1. In the closing race Sleepy Dick proved to be wider awake than it was expected he would be, and he beat Milford by three lengths and paid his backers at the rates of 8 to 1.

Scratched—Bashful Beau and Reignadel.

Besom, much the best, broke slowly, was rushed into the lead and drew out in the stretch to win easily. Seth's Romance made a game effort and held on well. Clear Star, on the outside, was handicapped by the boy not having a whip. He used his hand as a whip. Honeyfish broke last and closed a big gap. Char Lady ran a good race and is worth noting. Capt. Devil had early speed and is rounding into shape.

Owners—1, M. Lowenstein; 2, Mrs. J. W. Smith; 3, Midway Stable; 4, J. Hannle; 5, G. W. Hurst; 6, G. C. Winfrey; 7, G. Philips; 8, C. H. Thieriot; 9, H. Massey; 10, F. V. Elson.

Algol followed the pace to the final furlong, closed fast and won going away. Bruno displayed a world of speed and held on well. Blind Cast, well up from the start, ran a good race. Noine was poorly ridden. He broke well, but was allowed to drop far out of it in the early part and closed gamely on his own courage. Roelmann ran a good race.

Owners—1, E. B. McLean; 2, Idle Hour Farm Stable; 3, Mack Adam Stable; 4, Hollow Brook Farm; 5, Greentree Stable; 6, Royal Stable; 7, H. P. Whitney.

3967 FIFTH RACE—The Al Jolson; purse $1,500; allowances; four-year-olds and upward; one mile and seventy yards. Start bad; won driving; place same. Winner, b. c., 4, by Broomstick—Homely. Trainer, C. Phillips. Time—0:24, 0:48, 1:12⅘, 1:37⅘, 1:44⅘.

Saxon, away well, was rated along in front and outraced Florence Mills at the end. Florence Mills, away to a poor start, was taken back at the three-eighths pole, closed a big gap, took the lead in the stretch and swerved out in the last sixteenth. Leonard was unable to keep her in. Tannic, well up all the way, held on well. Frank McMahon went well.

Owners—1, Greentree Stable; 2, O. Visu; 3, H. Massey; 4, M. Lowenstein; 5, Mrs. M. Hoots; 6, Nugent Brothers & Termini.

St. Augustine Golf Semi-Final Gained by Frankel

FRANKEL ADVANCES IN TRAVIS CUP GOLF

Long Islander Wins Double Victory in Club Champions' Tourney at St. Augustine.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 5.—As a result of his double victory today, David Frankel of the Metropolitan district survived for the semi-final round of the national amateur championship of golf club champions, being played over the St. Augustine links for the first time in history. The New York representative, who is titleholder of the Milburn Country Club at Baldwin, L. I., is conceded a good chance of gaining for his club a leg on the Walter J. Travis Memorial Trophy.

The big upset of the day was the elimination of Albert R. Hakes, the 18-year-old player from the Shorewood C. C. of Dunkirk, N. Y. After winning his first-round match in the morning in handy fashion by turning in a scintillating 73, Hakes, youngest entrant, was put out of the running by the veteran of the field, Dr. William Moffatt of Utica.

Hakes, winner of the biggest tournament at Palm Beach last Winter, was rated as an outstanding favorite and defeated R. G. Garretson, the Ohio entry, by 5 up and 3 to play in the first round of play. Garretson finished only one stroke behind the medalist, Robert Wingate, yesterday. He had a 78 to Wingate's 77.

Hakes Slumps in Afternoon.

In the afternoon, however, Hakes's round was eight strokes higher and he trailed Dr. Moffatt after the eighth hole, the veteran winning by 3 and 1. Moffatt's superior putting and fine approaches decided the match. Hakes was longer from the tees, but his approaching left much to be desired.

Frankel's march to the fore was gained at the expense of the other metropolitan survivor of the qualifying test. After taking the easiest match of the day in the morning from F. J. Rice, the Oklahoma entry, 7 and 5, Frankel went out in the afternoon and defeated Frederick T. Lynch, a Manhattan youngster who is champion of the Deal (N. J.) Golf Club.

The two New York competitors supplied the closest match of the two rounds. First one taking the lead, then the other. Each reached the turn in 39 and on even terms. Frankel's par 3 on the tenth placed him in front, but Lynch tied it up with a par 4 on the twelfth.

Frankel Evens Match.

Another par 4 on the 405-yard thirteenth placed Lynch in the lead, but Frankel evened the match again on the next hole. The next was halved, but on the short sixteenth Lynch took a 4 to Frankel's 3 and the Long Island player clinched the match with a birdie 3 on the 410-yard seventeenth.

Out—
Frankel	4	5	4	5	4	4	5	3	4	—39
Lynch	4	4	5	5	5	5	5	4	4	—39
In—
Frankel	3	4	5	5	4	4	2	3	4	—35—74
Lynch	4	4	4	5	4	4	4	4	4	—37—76

The only foreign entry in the tournament, L. B. Orrell of France, provided a hasty exit when he had the misfortune of being drawn against the medal winner, Robert Wingate of Jacksonville, in the first round, and the latter routed him, 6 and 4. Wingate then turned a 78 in downing H. E. Evans, 4 and 3.

The other semi-finalist is Don MacCallister, champion of the Palatka (Fla.) Golf Club. After beating the former Notre Dame football star, Jack Butler, MacCallister went out in the afternoon and equaled par 71 to beat Donald Swan, 5 and 4, the Michigan representative. Cold and high winds hampered the players today. The pairings tomorrow are Wingate vs. MacCallister and Moffatt vs. Frankel.

First Round—Robert Wingate, Municipal Golf Club, Jacksonville, defeated H. E. Orrell, Streiat Golf Club, 6 and 4; Harry Evans, St. Augustine Links, defeated Benjamin E. Harcave, Tinucuanis Country Club, Jacksonville, 2 up; Don MacCallister, Palatka, (Fla.) Golf Club, defeated Jack Butler, West Palm Beach Country Club, 3 up; Donald Swan, Island Country Club, Grosse Ile, Detroit, defeated H. R. Grainger, Cape Fear Country Club, Wilmington, N. C., 1 up; Albert R. Hakes, Shorewood Country Club, Dunkirk, N. Y., defeated R. G. Garretson, Ashland (Ohio) Country Club, 5 and 3; Dr. William Moffatt, Yahnundasis Country Club, Utica, N. Y., defeated F. J. Cellier, Short Hills (N. J.) Golf Club, Moline, Ill., 1 up, 19 holes; Frederick T. Lynch, Deal (N. J.) Golf Club, defeated Ray Green, Daytona High Lands (Fla.) Golf Club, 1 up; David Frankel, Milburn Country Club, Baldwin, L. I., defeated F. J. Rice, Blackwell, (Okla.) Country Club, 7 and 5.

Second Round—Wingate defeated Evans, 4 and 3; MacCallister defeated Swan, 5 and 4; Moffatt defeated Hakes, 3 and 1; Frankel defeated Lynch, 2 and 1.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

LOUGHRAN versus Lomski. That's the ticket. A championship fight. A master boxer against a slashing slugger. Science against strength, and so on. But Lomski, the ponderous puncher, isn't entirely devoid of science, and Loughran, the boxer, hits hard enough to suit most of his opponents. Few of them complained to the referee that Tommy wasn't hitting them with sufficient vigor and vim.

Of course, Loughran hasn't "a punch." He is not the man to knock a healthy opponent into a neighboring county with one blow of his padded glove. He knocked out some sixteen men during his pugilistic career, but they were known to be fragile before the light-heavyweight champion laid violent hands upon them. He can knock a sparrow off a gate post and probably could knock a bill collector off a suburban porch, but in the upper reaches of the pugilistic pasture land, where punches are punches, Tommy is accounted a light hitter.

What he lacks in vigor, however, he makes up in velocity. He can land three blows and get away before most of his opponents know who hit them. Without being an exponent of that famous French pastime, "la savate," it can be said that Loughran does much of his fighting with his feet. He dances in, out and away. He proved his speed and cleverness all through the long campaign that led him to the light-heavyweight championship. He has ring courage, and more than that. He won the title but a short time ago, and this will be the second time that he has risked it against an outstanding rival.

Jack of All Trades.

This Lomski lad is a Jack of all trades. He has been a sailor, a farmer, a skilled laborer, a lumberman, a "wheat boomer" and what not. He learned to fight in the navy, which is natural enough. He is younger than Loughran and hits harder. This last point has gained him any number of enthusiastic followers among the fight fans. The lad with the punch will carry almost any pugilistic election district by a sweeping vote.

But a punch is of little use unless it lands on the target, and there is some suspicion that Master Lomski will be shooting at a rapidly moving target this evening. Loughran is not one to stick out his chin and wait for the burying squad. It is his custom to slip out of range and then attack from a different direction.

It should be a lively argument, no matter who wins. Lomski is sturdy, and Loughran is fast. Leo can hit, and Tommy can duck. They are not clinchers by instinct or wrestlers by nature. If Lomski can tip over Loughran he will have a fortune in his grasp. And if Loughran can dispose of Lomski, the fighting Philadelphian will feel himself free to plunge into the heavyweight scramble with a shot at Gene Tunney as the ultimate prize.

A Round Shot From the West.

After the defeats sustained on the Pacific Slope by Penn, Pitt and the Eastern All-Stars, there was some comment in this column about the effect of long journeys on the average athlete or team. This roused the ire of at least one stanch defender of California football who took the article as an alibi for the loss of recent games. He was rather bitter about it, too.

It wasn't an alibi. Nor even an explanation. But few sports followers will contend that a 3,000-mile trip to the scene of action is a help to any competing athlete or team. This is recognized when the Coast crews come to the Hudson to row as well as when the Eastern football teams go to California for post-season games. Coast crews have turned in great records at Poughkeepsie, and Coast athletes have scored notable triumphs at the Intercollegiate track and field championships here in the East. They are entitled to just that much added credit.

The irate correspondent mentioned the victories of Bobby Jones in the British open and René Lacoste at Forest Hills and Germantown as instances of stirring triumphs by distinguished travelers. But the same point still holds. These lads reaped greater glory because their victories were gained against such handicaps.

As for those athletes who were adversely affected by changes in climate and diet and the wear and tear of travel, a list of their names would stretch from the Golden Gate to the Khyber Pass. Which is a long distance measured in either direction.

Here's a Go!

Under the caption "What next?" a contributor sends in the following clipping from an English newspaper, the esteemed Manchester Guardian:

"This is a preliminary notice of a new and very interesting feature of the club's (the Stadium Club, London) activities which will be introduced to members in February. Having regard to the widespread interest in greyhound racing, the management have perfected arrangements for providing terrier racing in the club itself.

"The dogs will race after an electrically controlled rat on a track which will be removable, and will, therefore, not interfere in any way with the normal business of the club. There will be three days' racing each week.

"A British electrical pari-mutuel will be used in conjunction with the races, this being the first machine of its kind to be seen in Europe. The dogs are already in training, and the first evening's racing will be held on Monday, Feb. 6, commencing at 8 P. M."

The Pursuit of Natural Prey.

Quite so. What next? The hare is the natural prey of the greyhound. The rat is the natural prey of the terrier. It is assumed that the pursuit of the natural prey of any species will lead to stirring races. This idea should be enlarged and developed.

How about having bulldog races with tattered hoboes (not necessarily electrical) as lures for the dogs? The hoboes would be more at home on a track than the bulldogs.

Newfoundland dogs, by some odd chance, always seem particularly attracted by fish peddlers. There may be an idea in this. And Airedales frequently engage in amateur chases after suburban postmen.

For that matter, why confine the idea to the dog family? Why not race trained mice against a lump of cheese on wheels? What odds on Mosquito No. 89 (with the blue and red sash) against the field in pursuit of a Maine trout fisherman?

And above all, why haven't the various Jockey Clubs perfected some scheme for keeping a fast-flying sack of oats in front of the scampering thoroughbreds on all first-class tracks?

GOLF ASSOCIATION MEETS HERE TODAY

ELECTION DUE TOMORROW

Traylor Heads U. S. G. A. Ticket, Which Will Be Selected at Business Meeting.

A week-end of golf meetings will start this morning when the annual session of the United States Golf Association Green Section opens at the Hotel Astor. The meeting will continue this afternoon and tomorrow morning. The annual business meeting of the U. S. G. A. will be held at the Astor tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

At the green meeting today a number of papers will be read, supplemented by a report of the work of the Green Section during the past year. Chairman Findlay S. Douglas, Vice President of the U. S. G. A., will preside. The annual report to be presented by H. L. Westover of Washington will precede these.

The list of officers of the U. S. G. A. to be elected tomorrow will be headed by Melvin A. Traylor, who replaces the original nominee for President, Charles O. Pfeil, who died recently in Memphis. Findlay S. Douglas and H. H. Ramsey are slated to be elected Vice Presidents; Prescott S. Bush, Secretary; Charles H. Sabin, Treasurer, and Joseph S. Clark, counsel.

The Executive Committee will consist of Roger D. Lapham, H. C. Mackall, Robert T. Jones Jr., Ganson Depew, Harry Potter, George V. Rotan, Herbert Jaques and Rodman E. Griscom. The six sectional, State or recognized golf association directors on the ticket are Roger D. Lapham, California Golf Association; H. C. Mackall, Trans-Mississippi Golf Association; Rodman E. Griscom, Philadelphia Golf Association; Herbert Jaques, New England Golf Association; Ganson Depew, New York State Golf Association; George V. Rotan, Texas Golf Association.

Upon advices from Great Britain that a team of amateur golfers will compete this year for the Walker Cup, the U. S. G. A. has decided upon the Chicago Golf Club of Wheaton, Ill., as the site for the tourney. Other championship awards will be as follows: National Amateur at Brae Burn Country Club, West Newton, Mass., Sept. 10 to 15; National Open at Olympia Fields Country Club, Matteson, Ill., June 21 to 23, with the qualifying round in various districts on June 11; National Women's at Virginia Hot Springs Golf and Country Club, Virginia Hot Springs, Sept. 24 to 29; Public Links at Cobb's Creek Municipal Course, Philadelphia, July 31 to Aug. 5.

SARAZEN EXTENDED TO BEAT VOIGT, 4-2

MIAMI OPEN IS ON TODAY

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5.—Gene Sarazen, former national open golf champion, was pressed to the limit today to win an exhibition match from one of America's leading amateurs, George Voigt of Washington. The professional star pulled out the victory on the afternoon round by 4 up and 2 to play.

Tomorrow Sarazen will begin defense of his laurels in the Miami open for a purse of $5,000. He won the Miami Beach title only yesterday.

Despite the fact that he completed the morning round today two under par, with a brilliant 68, Sarazen was held even by Voigt, whose card was 70. The pro, however, gained his winning margin by taking the first three holes in the afternoon. A driving rain bothered Sarazen until the thirteenth, where Voigt was two down. But Sarazen went right back on his game and ended it officially on the sixteenth.

The cards:

Sarazen.

In the professional best ball competition held today, as a warm-up for the Miami open, a pair of Long Island golfers, Willie Klein and his assistant, Ziggy Mellon of Wheatley Hills, tied for first prize with a collective effort of 67—68—65. The other leaders were Eddie Williams of Lake Placid, N. Y., and Johnny Connell of Chicago.

Other scores were: Fred Canavan, West Point, and Lewis Meyers, Providence, 66; Jack Hutchinson and Alex Ayton, Chicago, 68; Wilfred Reid, Detroit, and Charley Mayo, Jacksonville, Fla., 68; Cyril Walker, Englewood, N. J., and James Thompson, Richmond, Va., 68; Tom Kerrigan, Mount Vernon, N. Y., and Fred Miley of Fort Pierce, Fla., 68.

Cosgrove Beats Hagenlacher.

Joseph Cosgrove won the second block of his special two-block three-cushion billiard match with Eric Hagenlacher at Crawfield's Billiard Academy last night, 50 to 47, in fifty-three innings. The high runs were 9 for Cosgrove and 6 for Hagenlacher. The match was won by Cosgrove, 100 to 73.

Sexton Defeats Goldstein.

John Sexton defeated Abraham Goldstein, 200 to 192, in an 18.2 balkline game at the Fourteenth Street Billiard Academy last night. Sexton had a high run of 52 and Goldstein 39. The game lasted 89 innings.

KIECKHEFER DEFEATS HOPPE AT 3-CUSHIONS

Closes With Run of 9 to Win by 50-37—Layton Beats Reiselt —Wakefield Wins.

A sensational run of nine by Augie Kieckhefer brought about the defeat of Willie Hoppe, leader in the American Three Cushion League, at Dwyer's Broadway Academy last night. Kieckhefer winning, 50 to 37. Johnny Layton defeated Otto Reiselt, 50 to 25, in another league game which was played at the Hoppe's Academy, while Harry Wakefield conquered Clarence Jackson, 50 to 44, at Thum's Academy in another game.

Not a place was changed as a result of the night's play, Hoppe's lead over Allen Hall being decreased and Kieckhefer and Layton moving up on Hall for second place. In the Kieckhefer-Hoppe match Kieckhefer went ahead to an early lead and held his advantage until near the close, when Hoppe drew near at 35 to 37. Prior to this Hoppe had made one high run of six while Kieckhefer had kept in the running with several runs of five. Then Kieckhefer reeled off a brilliant cluster of nine and ran out immediately after.

Reiselt was off form in his match with Layton, and the ex-champions had little difficulty in conquering the present titleholder. This match required forty-three innings. Layton's best run was eight and Reiselt's four.

PONZI VANQUISHES CLARK AND MATURO

Scores First Victories in State Billiard Play—Harmon Turns in Run of 57.

Andrew Ponzi won two games yesterday in the New York State pocket billiard championship tournament at the Forty-third Street Billiard Academy, and drew out of a tie for last place. Ponzi, who previous to yesterday had not broken into the winning column since the start of the tourney, turned in two fine performances.

His first victory was scored over George Clark, 100 to 86, in sixteen innings. Ponzi had a high run of 20, which was duplicated by Clark. In the evening Ponzi defeated James Maturo in four innings, 100 to 36. By perfotming this feat Ponzi received a prize donated by the academy to the player scoring a victory in seven innings or less. The high runs in the contest were 36 for Ponzi and 15 for Maturo.

Charles Harmon, the defending champion, improved his position by triumphing over Leo Silver, 100 to 88, in twenty innings. The match was featured by Harmon's high run of 57, which broke the record for the tourney. Silver's best cluster was a 36.

MAC SMITH CHOICE IN COAST OPEN GOLF

Short, Flat Course Expected to Help New Yorker in Los Angeles $10,000 Tourney.

PLAY WILL START TODAY

130 Will Tee Off In First Eighteen Holes of 72-Hole Test—Greens Are Fast.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—A majority of the leading golf professionals of the United States practiced over the Wilshire Country Club course today in preparation for the Los Angeles $10,000 open championship, the first eighteen holes of which will be played tomorrow.

New contenders returned actual scores in practice, most of them preferring to spend the day familiarizing themselves with the course without paying much attention to their medal scores.

The course which will be used for the championship is not a long one. It measures slightly more than 6,500 yards in length and has a par of 71. Most of the greens are very fast, and it is conceded putting will be a very important factor in determining the winner.

Local enthusiasts have installed Macdonald Smith of New York the favorite, particularly because of his showing in winning the Palos Verdes open last week and partly because it is figured the short, flat course favors his game.

Smith unquestionably is playing some of the most consistent golf shown in practice and is scoring with less effort than Tommy Armour, holder of the national open title, or Bobby Cruickshank, who won this tournament last year.

Another contender highly regarded is Bill Burke, New York professional. Burke and Harold Long, the latter of Oklahoma City, had a best ball of 65 today. It was Burke who led the 260 starters yesterday in the qualifying round, with a card of 69, 68—137 at the Los Angeles Country Club.

In the pairings for the first round of the championship tomorrow, Burke is listed to play with George Von Elm, former amateur champion, and Ed Dudley, Hollywood Country Club professional. Dudley tied for second in this tournament a year ago.

Macdonald Smith is scheduled to play with Joe Turnesa of New York and Leonard Schmutte of Lima, Ohio. Tommy Armour will play with Al Watrous and Dewey Weber.

In all, about 130 players will participate in the first thirty-six holes, eighteen of which will be played today and the second eighteen Saturday. After the first thirty-six holes the field will be reduced to sixty-four players, who will remain for the final thirty-six holes Sunday. First prize will be worth $3,000.

Sterma Billiard Victor.

Howard Sterma defeated Edward Cott, 25 to 18, in forty-five innings at Frank Adams Academy last night in three-cushion billiards. Sterma had a high run of four and Cott of three.

Strauss Beats Shanahan at 18.2.

W. Strauss defeated S. Shanahan, 150 to 133, at the Hoppe Academy last night in the sixth annual 18.2 balkline tournament. Strauss had a high run of 20 and Shanahan of 18. The match required fifty-six innings.

MISS COLLETT VICTOR IN PINEHURST TOURNEY

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 5.—Miss Glenna Collett, former woman's national golf champion, was elected today as a member of the Silver Foils Club and celebrated by winning, with Mrs. Francis T. Keating, Boston, the Scotch foursome tournament of the club. Selected drives were permitted and Miss Collett and Mrs. Keating scored 84 plus one, 85.

Mrs. C. S. Strout, Biddeford, Me., and Mrs. G. M. Howard, Halifax, with 109—22—87 tied for second with Mrs. John D. Chapman, Greenwich, and Miss Dorothy Richards, Cleveland, 89—2—87.

Other scores:

Miss Mary O'Brien, Detroit, and Mrs. Arthur Higgins, Yonkers, 102—15—87; Mrs. E. C. Biles, Pinehurst, and Mrs. F. E. Now, Pittsburgh, 110—18—92; Miss Helen Waring and Miss Carolyn Jamison, Greensburgh, Pa., 103—10—93; Mrs. C. W. Stansell, Philadelphia, and Mrs. H. H. Rackham, Detroit, 100—14—93; Mrs. E. P. Merwin, Stockbridge, and Mrs. W. D. Hyatt, Toledo, 103—14—95; Mrs. A. E. Gilman, Cleveland, and Mrs. G. P. Lemont, Philadelphia, 116—19—100; Miss Hetty Jamison, Greensburgh, Pa., and Mrs. John Marano, New York, 100—0—100.

GREENLEAF INCREASES LEAD OVER ST. JEAN

Ralph Greenleaf continued to draw ahead of Andrew St. Jean in their 1,500-point pocket billiard match at the Strand Academy by triumphing in both of yesterday's blocks to lead his rival by 171 points, 1,008 to 837. Greenleaf was not quite up to the mark he set for himself on Wednesday, but he won in easy fashion in each block, in the afternoon session 124 to 92 and in the evening engagement 132 to 105.

Continuous safety play featured the afternoon block and Greenleaf required forty innings to acquire his total. Action speeded in the evening and Greenleaf ran out in twenty-six innings. The former champion's playing was superior in the evening to the performance he had turned in in the afternoon.

Although Greenleaf's best run, 37, was made in the afternoon he was more consistent at night, making 24, 26, 23 and 21. St. Jean had a high run of 16 in the afternoon and of 25 at night.

NEUSTADT IS CUE VICTOR.

Joseph Neustadt, former champion, defeated Charles Kortman, 150 to 136, in a national amateur Class C 18.2 balkline championship tournament game at Lawler Brothers' Brooklyn Academy last night. The game lasted fifty-two innings and the high runs were 17 for Neustadt and 14 for Kortman.

In another tournament match James Langdon triumphed over Al Hosking, 150 to 66, in fifty-seven innings. Langdon ran 17 and Hosking 10. At Lawler Brothers' Manhattan Academy, where a third tournament contest was played, Richard Goldsticker defeated Nelson B. Mayo, 150 to 116, in thirty-eight innings. The high runs were 26 for Goldsticker and 21 for Mayo.

MULTIFORM AND OTHER FORMS.

ARISTIDE BRIAND has just wriggled out of a hole in the most extraordinary fashion. Last June the French Foreign Minister submitted for our consideration a draft treaty renouncing war as an instrument of policy between the two nations under all circumstances. Six months later Mr. KELLOGG replies, heartily endorsing the outlawry of war, but suggesting that the principle be embodied in a multilateral treaty to which all nations be invited to adhere. Paris read the Kellogg note and hesitated for twenty-four hours. This convinced some observers at Washington and a great many observers in Germany that Mr. KELLOGG had put M. BRIAND in a hole. By this interpretation the original Briand proposal was a trick. It was designed to win America, or at least neutralize American sympathies, while France pursued her militarist policies on the Continent. M. BRIAND's bluff being called, how would he wriggle out? Well, he has done it in a very ingenious manner. He has informed Mr. KELLOGG that the French Government is delighted with the Secretary of State's proposal. This strikes one as a manly and straightforward way of wriggling out of a hole.

Yet it may be that M. BRIAND last June was not playing poker. This is a tenable theory in view of the French statesman's record for peace. It may be that he was quite sincere in offering perpetual friendship to the United States as a beginning toward a general renunciation of war by the nations. In that case Mr. KELLOGG has given M. BRIAND not only the beginning but the fulfillment. He suggests an immediate general mobilization for the outlawry of war. This dwarfs in significance the problem of our particular relations with France. It comes near to rendering meaningless the mass of technical discussion that has surged up about the Root treaty of 1908, the Bryan treaty of 1914, arbitration, conciliation. Whatever the lawyers may say, such a multiform treaty would supersede in spirit all our existing treaties of arbitration and conciliation by taking them up into its broader self.

This does not exhaust the meaning of the Kellogg plan. The Secretary of State has taken a long step toward formulating the answer to the question that has vexed the statesmen at Geneva. How can any European Power, acting under a decree of the League of Nations, proceed to enforce sanctions against an aggressor nation as long as the United States stands aside? Or what force would be a European economic boycott against an aggressor nation if the United States chose to trade with the aggressor? That the United States could not formally bind itself in advance has been taken for granted. But what moral assurance was there of American sympathy with a League of Nations move against a violator of peace? The Kellogg plan now supplies the moral assurance. Our signature, as Mr. JAMES writes from Paris, will be first at the bottom of the multiform compact.

No written instrument or spoken pledge can entirely dispose of the problem of defining the "aggressor" in a crisis. And yet the task is not altogether a hopeless one. Mr. KELLOGG'S proposal implies that the thing is possible. The Burton resolution introduced in the House at the beginning of the present session prohibits the exportation of arms to any country which "engages in aggressive warfare against any other country in violation of a treaty." The Capper resolution in the Senate goes further. It proposes to define an aggressor nation as one which, having subscribed to arbitration, conciliation or judicial settlement, begins hostilities without having met those conditions. It may be difficult to determine who is the aggressor in a border affray. It is not difficult to distinguish between a nation that insists on fighting and one that is willing to listen to reason. Where there is the will to identify the aggressor there should be a way of finding him. The Kellogg proposal expresses this will.

GOVERNOR AND CITY.

Governor SMITH's message reviewing changes in the Government of the State during the past ten years offers a mark for the city to shoot at. Hampered by out-of-date appropriation methods, the city can only envy the freedom and orderliness of the budget machinery now installed at Albany. Reorganization, too, is sure to bring about a more efficient and economical dispatch of business at the capital than is possible in a City Government still hampered by a hodge-podge of bureaus and departments. Against the Governor's report of the way he has purged the State payrolls of politics, reducing the number of exempt positions by one-third in the course of ten years, must be set the exactly opposite record of the city, which has seen these positions increased by that amount in five years.

Naturally, the Governor's message relates only incidentally to New York City affairs, but those who are interested in local problems will nevertheless read it with considerable interest. The Governor goes at length into the State's public improvement burden; the city has one, too. Taxpayers have lately been exhorted to shoulder a larger share of that burden. The Governor is a member of the school which holds that capital improvements must be financed generally from the sale of bonds. "It is unfair to the taxpayers of a single generation," he holds, "to burden them with the cost of public improvements that are designed to have a life of at least a hundred years." However, he is insistent that the burden should be shifted to the public wherever it is possible to make the improvement self-sustaining. The Governor has in mind the tolls charged in the Holland Tunnel and on the Port Authority bridges, but it is obvious that the principle might be given a still wider application. Incidentally the Governor takes sides with the Port Authority in the controversy which seems to be brewing with the Holland Tunnel Commissioners. "All future interstate crossings, whether by bridge or tunnel, should be under the auspices of the Port Authority," he declares.

As to home rule, the Governor agrees with President MCKEE of the Board of Aldermen that the act of 1924 does not confer upon the cities sufficiently broad powers. He shows his usual skill in singling out an instance to give point to his argument. It seems that the Home Rule act requires a mandatory referendum on any local law which in any way curtails the power of an elected city official. The charter provides that auctioneers shall be licensed by the Commissioner of Licenses, but if auction sales are to be conducted after sunset a permit must be secured from the Mayor. Under the present statute, apparently, the Mayor cannot divest himself of this trivial power without submitting the proposition to a city-wide referendum.

THE S-4 INQUIRY.

To bring out the facts of the disaster to S-4 and pass in review what was done under the direction of Admiral BRUMBY to save survivors, there could not be a more competent court of inquiry than that presided over by Rear Admiral RICHARD H. JACKSON, former commander of the Battle Fleet, with whom are associated Rear Admiral J. L. LATIMER, Commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, and Captain J. V. OGAN, who recently commanded the submarine fleet. "We are going to get all the facts," said the Judge Advocate, Lieut. Commander BRATTON, before the first hearing, "no matter who is hurt." Operating a submarine is so highly technical a work that laymen, including members of Congress, naturally know little about it, nor are they well informed concerning methods of salvage when one of these vessels of complicated mechanism is disabled and lies helpless at the bottom of the sea. Such a tragedy as befell S-4, a whole crew lost and beyond rescue (unless somebody blundered), calls not only for an inquiry by a naval court but for scrutiny of what had been done, or omitted, by the department to protect officers and men by installing safety equipment. The latter investigation, it has been announced, will be undertaken by a Submarine Board of Experts, consisting of naval officers and civilians, that will soon convene in Washington.

The testimony already given at Boston leaves no room for doubt that all the facts bearing upon the operation of submarines and the responsibility of the Navy Department for the protection of their crews will be spread upon the record. Thus Lieutenant WORDEN, commander of the sister ship S-6, which had also been going through tests in Massachusetts Bay, stated that neither submarine had soda lime for purifying the air in the compartments, although in July the entire Twelfth Submarine Division had asked for a supply. In the case of S-4, however, the lime would probably have been of no avail, because stormy weather greatly delayed the salvage work. Also, Lieutenant WORDEN admitted that he had never notified Coast Guard stations when S-6 was going to manoeuvre in the vicinity of Provincetown. The significance of such testimony is that the court is determined upon a thorough inquiry that will take up every criticism that has been made.

No better qualified witness than Lieutenant WORDEN could have been called. He had seen six years of submarine service and for three years had commanded. The department was condemned by laymen for allowing submarine tests to be made in northern waters in Winter. "It is necessary work," he said, "and submarines have done it for years." War being war, it is hard to see why submarines should not be manoeuvred in northern as well as in southern waters at all times of the year. With two periscopes in use and sound devices working, this witness thought that usually a submarine should be able to look out for herself and ought not to need a tender. In his opinion the surface vessel might prove to be in the way. As the inquiry proceeds the public will learn what the navy point of view is and be in a better position to judge whether the disaster was avoidable.

A SENSIBLE AMENDMENT.

What is everybody's business is traditionally nobody's business, and therefore probably there will be no popular uprising to urge the House to follow the Senate in submitting Senator NORRIS'S constitutional amendment to eliminate the short session of Congress. Yet few reforms in our business of government have more to recommend them. The amendment would end all "lame-duck" legislation whereby a defeated Congress is given three months in office after the public has retired it. Also the amendment would seat the new President and Vice President Jan. 15 instead of making the country wait until March 4 while the old Congress pays off political debts. Four times now the Senate has passed the Norris bill, and three times it has been rejected by the House. There are no visible signs of any change in the proportion.

Constitutional amendments are things to shy from, but this one has never met an adverse argument of any weight. Even if the House should follow the Senate, and the amendment be submitted, three-fourths of the States would have to ratify it to put it into effect, and if there is anything unsound in the idea, debate in forty-eight State capitals would certainly bring it to light. In an age when California is, at the longest, only five days from New York, there is no need of a four-month preparation for a new Congress.

RADIO ENTERTAINMENT.

Radio entertainment has reached the enviable point of causing all other divertissements to tremble with fear. Not long ago the movies, expensively produced and prodigally embroidered in presentation, frightened the theatre into pale thoughts of its own early demise. However, it has been discovered that there is room for both. New York has never had so many theatres in operation, and the larger towns of other sections are supporting road shows and permanent repertory companies generously. Meantime, the picture houses increase their seating capacity yearly.

Here is comfort for those two branches of the amusement world, in spite of Wednesday night's prodigious radio show. No theatre anywhere could afford to pay its performers $1,000 a minute. Even the extravagant movies could not hire "AL" JOLSON regularly for $7,500 for a few minutes' work, which is what he received for his radio performance. With such competition, and with promises for the near future of drama, seen as well as heard, brought to every fireside, it is not surprising that the more timorous of the theatre and movie magnates quail. Yet they are surviving each other's encroachments with increasing prosperity, and there must be means for squeezing the radio in without squeezing them out.

A prevailing human characteristic on which they can count is the instinct for socializing. It will be pleasant to sit at home on a stormy evening, turn a switch, and see and hear the play. But there will be many evenings when it will be even jollier to fare forth with a congenial companion to see other people to mingle with a crowd, enjoying the contact with the audience as an added filip to a merry show, will still be desirable. Theatres and movie palaces, instead of disappearing from the earth, will probably have to be increased in size or in number to provide for the millions who have heard the voice and seen the shadow of the famous radio performers. Nothing quite takes the place of the personal appearance.

One dramatic critic commenting on the $67,000 hour of radio said that he would never be satisfied with arm-chair entertainment until he could press a button and ANN PENNINGTON would step into the room "in person." Another constant first-nighter, an amateur, thinks that, if the prophecies of song, dance and movies brought into the home come true, he will found a league for saving the home from radio invasion. Between these two types of theatre-lovers all kinds of entertainment should find an ample audience.

THE CHAMPION.

There has long been a newspaper tradition that the best sports editors are scholarly men who find that after dealing all day long with horses and boxers and baseball players their minds are perfectly attuned to relaxation with logarithms and Greek roots. But until recently the world has awaited a scholarly boxing champion. This lack the City of New York seems finally to have supplied in JAMES JOSEPH TUNNEY, popularly styled "Gene," conqueror of DEMPSEY and—as the Mayor says—the Encyclopaedia Britannica as well. His address to the Madison Square Garden Club dinner this week finally demonstrated the fact of his reputed erudition and left a great many business men groggy.

Until Mr. TUNNEY came to the top of his profession, champions' speeches had usually been confined to statements that they could lick anybody in the world, or salutations like this: "Fellers, I'm glad to see you here tonight. I done my best to lick Spike, and I'm glad you 'preciate it." And it must be admitted that the sporting world has been very well pleased with such forensic efforts, feeling that, if a man could sock and take it, oratory and learning need not be expected of him. But the world moves, and progress advances, and the century of the radio is probably the very century when a young New Yorker of Irish birth should be able both to outbox any other big man on earth and talk like an instructor in a Jesuit college as well. Mr. TUNNEY'S remarks on boxing were just the kind an intelligent and muscular young teacher would have made to a class of boys who knew that he had taken a good many smashes himself. He described the cestus of the ancient gladiatorial games, commenting on the fact that these were studded with nails and weighed four pounds and praising his fortune in being born at a time when the heaviest glove leveled against him was smooth and weighed only six ounces. He praised boxing, spoke with becoming anticipation of its increasing financial rewards, and neatly made the point that boxing will never go out of human athletic endeavor.

No other champion at the dinner attempted anything academic, for they were simply cyclists, golfers, tennis players and polo stars. Most of them, perhaps, had been exposed to what Groton and Harvard afford in the way of education, but their textbooks are dusty on the top shelves with Mayor WALKER'S. It is different with Mr. TUNNEY, however. His education having begun later, it is lasting longer, although we do not believe the story that he is to do a monograph shortly on the enclitic "de." Yet it is probably a fact that, the larger his purses become, the more room he will have to make for his library of "de luxe sets."

IMMIGRATION PATROLS.

There is an element of irony in the fact that the opening of the "Peace Bridge" at Buffalo has necessitated an increase of $50,000 in the appropriation for the war against illicit immigration. This is but an item in the large sums required in order to enforce the law. The number of illicit entries is suspected to be great, although there is, of course, no accurate check. From Mexico and from Canada a steady stream of foreigners is trickling in. Rates on immigrants have been quoted, occasionally running as high as $500 a head. For this price the smugglers agree to make safe delivery beyond the suspicion of the law.

To check this the Commissioner of Immigration not only asks for more money for patrols, but also that more drastic punishment be inflicted on those who are caught smuggling or being smuggled. It is the contention of the restrictionists that the best control of all lies in registration of aliens. This measure has been proposed from time to time, on the theory that it makes possible the periodical check on all foreigners with a view to eliminating those who entered the country illegally. Like the entire principle of immigration restriction, this plan has been bitterly assailed by the foreign groups in the country.

There has been a tendency on the part of some of these foreign leaders to discourage the enforcement of the border patrols. This is not only to weaken a law which has the approval of the overwhelming majority of the people, but also is unfair to the foreigners who have come here lawfully. If smuggling is to be made easy, why go to the trouble of abiding by the laws of the prospective adopted country? Certainly those who fail to "play the game" should be discouraged, rather than encouraged.

So long as immigration restriction is the policy of the country the personnel of the immigration service should be sufficient in number and well paid. It has been the custom to make great demands on the immigration officers and give them small compensation. They are the guardians of the future American race. At the same time, through them the prospective citizens first come in contact with American officialdom. It is of utmost importance therefore that the immigration service be as efficient as possible. This cannot be assured unless suitable appropriations are made to meet the new conditions.

A PASSING HAVARCH.

The great ships that are tied up at our wharves periodically, even though many of them are technically foreign territory, are thought of as our own. They give a varying picturesque and rich border to our waterfront, and we count their captains among our most prominent citizens, even though they have no permanent abiding place here. From that splendid group of autocrats of the ocean, whose amphibious life is spent largely on the water or at its edge, the commanding figure of Sir JAMES CHARLES, who is here in port for the last time as captain of the Aquitania and commodore of the Cunard fleet, will be missed by many thousands.

He sailed the seas in the days when the ships were of wood. He himself started "in sail" almost fifty years ago. He survived the hazards of those early years, fire, storm and collision, and has come into the highest command that is given to those who keep the continents tied together in peace. During the war he captained several ships, one of his notable services being the transport of nearly 50,000 American soldiers to the other side, without the loss of a life. He has borne, like an oak, the buffets of the storms, his last voyage being one of the worst he has ever experienced, and has come to the age of retirement still robust and with promise of many years beyond. It must irk him to quit simply because of elapsed time, but it is to be hoped that he will "ship" as a passenger and visit often the port which he entered as master of one of the greatest of ships.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Passing of Burlesque.

The future of the old-fashioned burlesque show is not a rosy one, in the view of a Baltimore official of a company operating a chain of burlesque theatres. He feels that present-day audiences have outgrown their liking for wide-pantalooned comedians with flat derbies crushed over generous ears, and for buxom chorus girls hoofing down lengthy runways.

He attributes the decline to the abundance of theatres where a continuous show of motion pictures and vaudeville is offered at prices much lower than burlesque can afford. Then, too, he suggests that, with the present fashion for extremely short skirts and diaphanous dresses, one often sees in an afternoon's stroll more grotesque and outlandish costumes than a showman could concoct in a week's work.

To his explanations it might be added that burlesque is not the only branch of the show business whose thunder is being stolen. Some musical comedies have drifted away from plots and have become merely glorified vaudeville shows. Others have put the accent on their music and become near-operettas. Straight comedy is flirting with melodrama and problem plays have become just one long talk. And the most popular topsy-turvy of all is to make the play take the audience into its confidence and give them the "inside" on troupers, night clubs, theatres and burlesque shows. Perhaps burlesque is not passing, but simply preparing to take on the tricks and manners of some other line of showmanship.

Pierced Ears for Security.

Predictions from Paris announce that soon pierced ears will be as common as they were fifty years ago. French beauty specialists are finding each day an increasing number of clients asking to have their ears bored for earrings so that they may wear with safety the elaborate and rather heavy ornaments that are now fashionable.

With the passing of such inconvenient feminine fashions as wasp waists, crinolines, bobble skirts, chokers and false hair one might suppose that the modern woman had given up all other styles which interfered with her comfort. But apparently she is finding the discomfort of pierced ears less than her fear of losing some cherished jewel.

One jeweler has estimated that an earring of the screw type is kept by its owner a scant six months. This is good business for jewelers, but makes ear-screws a great extravagance. If some one would only inaugurate a fashion for wearing nateless earrings as pendants, brooches and bangles for bracelets, or set the dashing style of wearing a lone ear ornament, Cossack fashion, many fair ears might be saved from the barbarous needle.

Passengers in Mail Planes.

No one can read the report of the Boeing Air Transport Company, which carries the mails on the western division of the Transcontinental line between Chicago and San Francisco, and entertain the least doubt of the complete success of commercial aviation in a comparatively few years. The report covers the first five months of the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1927. The twenty-four planes in commission were flown 720,000 miles by twenty-five pilots without a single accident. Nothing is published about unfinished flights, but it may be assumed from past records of the air mail service that in fair or foul weather the percentage of failures was negligible.

On the Chicago-San Francisco route 36 per cent. of "the entire mail poundage of the country" was carried. As is allowed under the Kelly law, express matter and passengers were taken. The Postoffice Department could not have transferred its routes and planes to private companies unless passengers as well as express were to be carried for profit. But until the Boeing Company's report was given out, little had been heard of passenger patronage. No less than 525 travelers were transported in the five months.

This is an interesting announcement, for it shows that faith in the safety of air transportation by the private firms carrying the mails is growing. Many of the pilots were formerly employed by the Postoffice Department. They were regarded as pioneers of commercial aviation. They have given character to the new service, and it is not too much to expect that in another year the patronage of these private companies by passengers will require the addition of many new planes.

Slow Death From Steel Traps.

The Anti-Steel Trap League is again endeavoring to interest the legislators in the passage or laws making it unlawful to use any device for taking fur-bearing animals which does not kill them outright or capture them unhurt.

With the humaneness of this plan none will quarrel. Even trappers dislike the suffering caused by their cruel devices. The difficulty lies in convincing lawmakers that there are practical methods of capturing fur-bearing animals without causing them pain. Immediate death should be the lot of the trapped animals, as it is of food animals that are slaughtered for human benefit. Too often traps which capture alive and unharmed cannot be reached in time to prevent the animals suffering from thirst or hunger.

The anti-steel trap campaign has the support of many organizations interested in the welfare of wild life. Its greatest opposition comes from those who make a living by trapping. Heretofore, however, there has not been sufficient coordination among those who would see the steel traps abolished to make possible any effective legislation to this end. It behooves those who believe in this cause to bring the matter before the public and the legislators. The campaign of education has not yet gone far enough.

MORE THAN MERE CHARITY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In behalf of the Board of Managers of the State Charities Aid Association I wish to thank THE NEW YORK TIMES for all that the appeal in behalf of the Hundred Neediest Cases has meant and will mean during the coming year.

We are facing the new year armed for our contest against the forces which lead to misery, girded for the battle and strengthened and inspired by knowledge of the love and sympathy of men and women who responded to your call. The value of your appeal, which extends to four hundred or more needy cases, in relieving human distress and quickening the sense of human brotherhood, impresses every one.

You have concluded a fine piece of work. No one can read the stories of these cases you have printed without being more wise and more tender. It is interesting and informative for those out of touch with social work to know some of the things which happen to men and women and children right in the midst of this most prosperous city in the world. All of these stories are real, they have the ring of the actual, they are as close to truth as we ever get, I think. It is a liberal education to read them. Not only should the pitiful ones lifted from their misery be grateful for this appeal, and not only the big social organizations from whose shoulders so great a burden is lifted, but your general readers may be grateful for this glimpse into reality.

On behalf of the State Charities Aid Association, I would express my warm thanks and appreciation to you for your unique and splendid public service and for its educational value in stimulating benevolent sentiment and benevolent action, and also to the donors for the substantial gifts which come to us through you and enable us to provide for the many pathetic cases of which we have special knowledge. And you are to be especially congratulated that your appeal, presented with the resources of eloquence and of art, evokes a response from all quarters of the world and that a large part of the contributions are given for the benefit of our unfortunate brethren without regard to race or creed.

I have been more impressed with the appeal this year than ever before, and I would add my personal thanks and appreciation of your unique and splendid public service to my thanks as President of the Board of the State Charities Aid Association.

GEORGE F. CANFIELD,
President.

HUSH-A-BABY-BYE . . .

The lullaby tree grows in Lullaby Land.
And it blossoms in dreams every night,
While some are rose-colored and some are of blue
'Tis the sweetest ones shine silver-white.
And never a dream is of spinach or bread,
But lollipops, ices and sweetmeats instead.
Hush-a-baby-bye. . . .

And a-drifting to Lullaby Land,
So softly will hear the lutes and the flutes
That are played by the lullaby band:
The fairies will shake then the lullaby tree,
A bright little dream you will bring home to me.
Hush-a-baby-bye. . . .

GETTING GOOD ROADS.

Bicycle Protagonist Reasserts Claim of L. A. W. Precedence.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As Frank Parker Stockbridge's defense of the far-flung assertion that Henry Ford and his Model T, and not the late Colonel Albert A. Pope, the bicycle and the League of American Wheelmen, "started the good roads movement" is based on belief that there were "some hundreds of thousands" of Ford cars in use prior to 1912, the defense loses its weight at that point. For nothing like "hundreds of thousands" of Fords had been produced in the four preceding years; it is doubtful if the number greatly exceeded, or even exceeded, 100,000.

Available figures prove that in 1909 265 manufacturers turned out only 130,000 cars, an increase of 100 per cent. over the previous year. In 1910 the total was 187,000; in 1911, 210,000. It was not until 1913 that the Ford output reached 100,000, at which time it constituted only slightly more than 20 per cent. of the industry's total. Therefore the influence exerted by "hundreds of thousands" of his cars, which enabled Mr. Ford "unconsciously" to "start the good roads movement" and induced Congress to extend Federal aid, is largely imaginary. At that time there were several other low-priced cars on the market. Even Colonel Pope was producing one, the Pope-Tribune.

As I spent nearly thirty years in intimate touch with first the bicycle and later the automobile industries, most of the time as editor of publications relating thereto, I am reasonably familiar with their development. I trust therefore that I may be permitted to correct several other inaccuracies in Mr. Stockbridge's letter:

1. The League of American Wheelmen was not founded by Colonel Pope "in the interests of his bicycle manufacturing business." It was founded in 1878 by the late Frank W. Weston, a Boston architect, whose enthusiasm led him intermittently to issue what passed for a "bicycle journal." Practically all of the bicycles in use were imported ones. Colonel Pope did not then even own a factory. His first bicycles were made for him by the Weed Sewing Machine Company.

2. The League of American Wheelmen was at all times committed to highway improvement, not to sidepaths, which Mr. Stockbridge rates as its conspicuous accomplishment. The cycle paths, or sidepaths, were usually the results of local or neighborhood effort, and in the light of today it is plainly apparent they were never so badly needed as now, and in the interests of public safety. The age-old laws permitting the "working out" of road taxes were the objects of first and long attack by the L. A. W., and reforms effected led directly to many miles of good roads and made easier subsequent efforts. The "dragging" of dirt roads, the advocacy of wide tires on horsedrawn vehicles, the education of the farmer, distribution of literature, to say nothing of the publication of The Good Roads Magazine, were common features of the L. A. W. campaign and long antedated the automobile movement. Why, the L. A. W. even issued road books and road maps.

3. Amos G. Batcheider, who Mr. Stockbridge finally decides was the real father of good roads, did not organize the American Automobile Association. He did organize the National Cycling Association for the control of professional bicycle racing, but he did not enter into the affairs of the A. A. A. until years after its formation; also he was its Executive Chairman, not its Secretary, in 1911, when Mr. Stockbridge says he "conceived" the idea of Federal aid. I knew Mr. Batcheider long and well. He certainly advanced the good roads movement, but he knew the idea of Federal aid had been the subject of printed urgings long before and shortly before (I myself wrote some of them) he embraced it, and doubtless he would have recalled the monster petition presented to Congress in the '90s containing two or three million names (most of them taxpayers and voters and many of them farmers), which was six miles in length and required a freight car to transport it to Washington. It was one of the wonders of the time, and Colonel Albert A. Pope was the author of it and paid the cost. But the "pork barrel" was then too firmly enchored in rivers and harbors for even such a petition to achieve its purpose. However, I think it was responsible for the creation of the office of road inquiry in the Department of Agriculture.

To the best of my recollection and belief, Henry Ford, either as an individual or as a party to organized effort, never had anything whatsoever to do with any movement for road improvement. Any attempt to make it appear that he "unconsciously" started the movement does not become that gentleman and is in the nature of straining at gnats. He has too many other wonderful and wholly conscious accomplishments to his credit to be drawn into the circle of unconscious or indirect influence which can be made to lead in almost any direction. If ever he had undertaken a good-roads movement it would have been a wholly conscious one and left an impress so deep and distinct as not to require argument.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The last minute rush to obtain automobile license plates is a periodic phenomenon which cannot be alleviated by common-sense appeal, as has been demonstrated.

I therefore offer the following plan: On Dec. 20 add a surcharge of 5 cents to the registration fee and increase this surcharge on a sliding scale up to 55 cents on Dec. 31.

If this is legal, I believe that it would minimize the last-minute congestion.

DR. KLEIN WARNS OF EUROPE'S CARTELS

GOVERNMENTS AID MOVE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Trade combinations in Europe stronger than this country's greatest trusts, supported in large measure by Government subsidies and formed to capture markets in North and South America and the Orient, constitute a pressing problem for solution by the United States, the House Appropriations Committee was told today by Dr. Julius Klein, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Dr. Klein declared that Europe is preparing with a seriousness never before manifested for a drive to win back the trade it lost to the United States during the war. He uttered a warning that the hour has arrived when American business men must fight hard to retain the foreign trade built up in the past decade and a half.

"There are a number of developments," Dr. Klein told the committee, "which will require the most careful attention. The first is the unmistakable evidence of stiffening of European competition, notably in the development of 'cartels' or trade combinations. This is one of the outstanding trade factors of our time and I hope the committee will give it most careful consideration.

"The 'cartel' is a type of trade or industrial combination roughly approximating our trust, but with restrictive features and governmental participations which would never be tolerated in this country.

Cause Concern to Our Industries.

"They are causing deepest concern throughout this country, particularly where steel rails, tubes, aluminum, enamel ware, artificial silk, copper, electric bulbs, plate glass, glass bottles and wire are manufactured.

"All of these fields are now tied up in new cartels in Europe. The various groups in each of these industries have been brought together in trade-restraining setups for purposes of dividing markets, controlling prices and establishing production quotas. Europe, gravely concerned over the enormous advantages we have gained with our possibilities for mass production, is bringing all European factories together."

While trade combinations had existed to some extent in Europe before the war, particularly in Germany, Dr. Klein said, it was not until the past year or two that they began to develop on tremendous international lines as a deliberately planned weapon with which to rout American business from its strongholds in foreign markets.

"The main object of a cartel," he continued, "is to regulate competition. It is not simply an agreement upon quotas or upon markets, nor is it simply fixing prices, all of which, of course, are rather formidable competitive instruments. It extends even to actual interchange of technical personnel, of patent rights, standardization and the establishment of uniformity in replacement of parts and in operations.

"You can see what they are driving at. They are trying to set up, for instance, a European steel industry which would counter-balance the American steel industry, not simply as to uniformity of sales policies and things like that, but also with an agreement as to vital factors of more economical production. It is a formidable new competitive weapon.

England to Enter Chemical Cartel.

"The commodities cartelized are conspicuous on our own field of export. Steel, of course, is one of our biggest exports. Another is glass. Now announcement is made in the press of a billion dollar combination in the chemical industry in Europe. France and Germany already are in the chemical cartel and England is coming in within the next fortnight. You are to see announcements of other combinations.

"This situation has, of course, aroused universal concern in all of the affected industries in this country. As yet, I think the situation can be met by the great advantages we have in this country, but it certainly will have to be watched closely and that is my purpose in bringing it up at this time.

"There is another phase of competitive effort that you should have fully in mind and that is that the individual Governments in Europe are preparing with a seriousness and intensity never manifested before for a new drive for foreign markets. We noticed it at the recent Geneva Economic Conference; it was more evident at the International Chamber of Commerce meeting at Stockholm.

"Throughout all Europe we see an awakening that was not evident at all in previous years. This year, for some reason, they are stepping out and doing such things as this:

"Britain has organized the Imperial Marketing Board, which is to receive $5,000,000 annually for ten years. That board as indicated by Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, is for developing trade between the different parts of the British Empire. The British Empire is easily our largest customer. If my memory serves me, we sell not less than 44 per cent. of our total exports to units of the British Empire and any move like that is of considerable interest to us."

BACKS BERRY ON TRANSIT.

State Commerce Chamber Approves His Action on Subway Bonds.

Controller Berry was "warmly commended" by the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York at a meeting yesterday for his refusal to certify the $18,000,000 item for subway construction in the 1928 budget. The Chamber adopted a resolution to this effect and voted another setting forth its policy on the rapid transit situation, both of which were introduced by James Brown, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Chamber.

"The unification of all lines—those now operating and those to be constructed—with an adequate system of transfers from one line to another.

"Municipal ownership, but not municipal operation.

"No duplication of existing operating lines, especially with reference to new subway construction.

REJECTS PROPOSAL FOR A FORMAL PARK

Herrick Holds That Natural Features Are Chief Beauties of Central Park.

CHILDS OFFERS THE PLAN

Impractical, He Says, to Maintain Area as It Is Now Because of Civilization's Advance.

Park Commissioner Walter H. Herrick has just rejected a proposal to change the natural landscape of Central Park to a formal landscape made by William Childs, President of Childs Company, 200 Fifth Avenue, the restaurant chain Mr. Childs made public yesterday his correspondence with Mr. Herrick.

Mr. Herrick says he does not pretend to be a landscape expert, but that following a tour of foreign parks he was able to appreciate the difference between their formal treatment and the natural treatment of Central Park.

"It was easy to see, even from an inexperienced standpoint," writes Mr. Herrick, "that as far as landscaping was concerned, none of the parks could compare with the beauties of Central Park."

Foreign parks that appealed to Commissioner Herrick did so because of their natural beauties, and they include the Bois de Boulogne in Paris and Phoenix Park, Dublin. Mr. Herrick's letter also says:

"Going further into this matter, I realize that the most important thing is the rehabilitation of Central Park. That should be accomplished as soon as possible, lest even greater deterioration follow, and I feel that it would now attempt a change in the idea of park rehabilitation to a formalization, it would create a public discussion and interest, particularly in view of the favorable receipt of Mr. Merkel's report, and that the actual accomplishment of anything in regard to Central Park would be too much delayed.

Mr. Childs in his letter said:

"Have noted the article in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Dec. 20, covering Herman W. Merkel's report to you on the proposed remodeling of Central Park.

"Permit me to take the liberty at this time of suggesting to you an idea that I have cherished for several years back—that it might be wise to consider the formalization of Central Park. It seems the population is so dense, or rather civilization has advanced so far beyond the rustic point, that it is impractical to try to adhere to the natural. Wild venture life is no more feasible than wild animal life in a region surrounded by such quantities of people. In other words, the environment sets up such an opposition to the natural that it seems as if a formal, crystallized, artistic principle might be developed to take its place.

"No doubt Mr. Merkel's recommendation is very good for sustaining the natural, but I have a very strong idea that the artificial might well be considered for Central Park, and that a natural park might be provided further north in Westchester, on Long Island or at some place within reach by modern transportation, where the environment would be more favorable."

Pole and Lithuanian Students Fight Duel Alone Blindfolded

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Jan. 5.—Two young men, Lieutenant Jokiekhun, an adherent of Premier Pilsudski, and a Lithuanian Nationalist student, Bronislaw Krayzanowski, fought a duel blindfolded at Vilna, it was learned today.

The combatants, who had long been personal friends, quarreled over political matters. With towels wrapped around their heads, they fired at each other in a small room. Neither had seconds.

After five minutes of wild shooting both fighters dropped to the floor unconscious. The officer was shot through the arm and the student was severely wounded.

NOT INVESTIGATING LUCAS.

Immigration Officials Take No Action About 'Chicago May's' Fiance.

Byron S. Uhl, Assistant Immigration Commissioner at Ellis Island, denied last night a statement that the immigration authorities were investigating Netley Lucas, author of criminal "confessions" and fiance of the notorious "Chicago May" Churchill.

Lucas professes in one of his book-length "confessions" to have been imprisoned twice in England for stealing automobiles and passing bad paper, but he has since explained that this and all of his other "confessions" were fraudulent.

"So far as I know Lucas has not come to the attention of the immigration authorities," said Mr. Uhl. "If he actually has a criminal record and it is brought to the attention of the department, he would be deported, but I understand that his confessions are fiction. We are not interested in the kind of a literature a man puts forth. The immigration authorities have too much to do to bother with matters of that kind."

NICHOLAS J. HAYES MOURNED BY THRONG

Many Members of the Bench and City Officials at Commissioner's Funeral.

BIG TAMMANY DELEGATION

Prominent city officials, members of fraternal organizations and other friends, more than 2,000 in all, attended the funeral of Nicholas J. Hayes, Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, and veteran Tammany leader, at the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola yesterday morning. Mr. Hayes died early Tuesday morning at his residence, 57 East Ninetieth Street, at the age of 72.

Because of the large crowd that gathered around the church, the police found it necessary for a time to divert north and southbound traffic. Forty policemen were on duty.

Governor Smith and Mayor Walker had planned to attend the funeral, but were unable to do so. Scores of other city officials paid their respects to the memory of Mr. Hayes at the brief services at the residence and those in the church. More than a hundred members of the Pocasset Club marched at the head of the funeral cortège from the house down Madison Avenue and west to the church at Park Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street. Among other organizations represented by large groups of delegates were the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and the Society of Tammany. The Fire Department, of which Mr. Hayes was a former Commissioner, was represented by many firemen in uniform.

The Rev. James Kearney, pastor of St. Cecilia's Church, conducted the services at the residence and was the celebrant of the mass at the church. He was assisted by the Rev. John Laherty and the Rev. Thomas Delahant, both of the Church of St. Ignatius.

The honorary pallbearers were former Mayor John F. Hylan, Deputy Commissioner of Water Supply John J. Dietz, Commissioner of Records John F. Curry, Commissioner of Purchase Peter J. Dooling, John F. McCooey, former Supreme Court Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, Sheriff H. Warren Hubbard, Deputy Controller John H. O'Brien, Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Churchill, Judge Francis X. Mancuso, former Judge Joseph F. Moss, Charles B. Meyers, Charles J. Brady, Stewart Hirschman, Daniel E. Finn, Surrogate James A. Foley, Supreme Court Justice Salvatore A. Cotillo, Frank Briarly, Mark Leddy and Philip F. Donohue.

Other city officials present included Police Commissioner Joseph W. Warren, Fire Commissioner John J. Dorman, Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson, Park Commissioners Walter Herrick of Manhattan and Joseph P. Hennessy of the Bronx, Borough President John P. O'Brien, Supreme Court Justice Phoenix Ingraham, Judge Max S. Levine, former Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, Magistrate August Dryer, Commissioner of Docks Michael Cosgrove, Supreme Court Justice John V. McAvoy, County Clerk William T. Collins of New York and County Clerk James J. Vail of Richmond.

Also Sheriff Charles W. Culkin, Judge Joseph F. Mulqueen, Deputy Controller Frank W. Prial, Major Patrick McQuilly, James T. Egan, Secretary of Tammany Hall; Commissioner of Licenses William F. Quigley and the following from the Department of Water Supply: Deputy Commissioners Albert H. Liebenan and Harry T. Woods, Chief Engineer William W. Brush and Borough Engineers William Hauck, William Lasse, Charles H. Bull and William V. Barnes.

Other friends present were George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall; George W. Loft, James W. Butler, John F. Sinnott, John Glynn, Secretary Willis Holly of the Park Board, Representative Christopher D. Sullivan, State Senator Martin Kennedy and Colonel Nicholas Engel.

Both services were simple. There were no eulogies, and flowers were omitted at the request of the family.

Mr. Hayes left a wife, Mrs. Mary L. Hayes, and four children, Matthias Hayes and Katherine, Helen and Nora Hayes. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

DAVID T. HANNA.

Superintendent of Harlem and Putnam Divisions of Central Dead at 66.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 5.—David T. Hanna, who during his forty-seven years with the New York Central, rose from trainman to the superintendency of the Harlem and Putnam Divisions, died here at his home in Burling Avenue, early today, after a week's illness of pneumonia.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Stella Fletcher Hanna; three stepsons, E. L. Fletcher of this city, C. C. Fletcher of Mount Vernon, and Harold Fletcher of Larchmont, and a brother, John Hanna of Dover Plains.

Funeral services will be held in Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church on Saturday at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Fred Deming. Burial will be in Pawling.

Mr. Hanna went to work for the New York Central at the age of 14. He after a while became conductor, then night train master and in 1917 assistant superintendent of the Hudson Division. In 1924 he was made superintendent of the Adirondack and Ottawa Divisions with headquarters at Utica, and on Feb. 1, 1926, superintendent of the Harlem and Putnam Divisions.

John H. Forshay.

John H. Forshay, for the last thirty years a clerk in the Bureau of Buildings, died on Wednesday night at his home, 540 East 142d Street, the Bronx. His age was 65. Mr. Forshay was a nephew of the late State Senator George Washington Plunkett of Manhattan. He left a wife and two sons.

Rev. Frank S. Lee.

SERVICES ARE HELD FOR EMILY STEVENS

Only Few Close Stage Friends and Relatives Attend Funeral of the Actress.

The funeral of Emily Stevens, the actress, who died Monday morning, was held yesterday afternoon from her late home at 50 West Sixty-seventh Street, with only a few close friends and relatives in attendance. An Episcopal service was conducted by the Rev. William L. Phillips, after which the body was taken to New Jersey for cremation.

The most immediate relative of the actress at the funeral was her brother, Robert Stevens of Rochester, N. Y. Other relatives were Merle, Grace and Willis Maddern, Richard and Frank Gates, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shepherd, all cousins. Mrs. Fiske, another cousin, was unable to leave Chicago, where she is playing in "The Merry Wives of Windsor," but was represented by her husband, Harrison Grey Fiske.

The friends who were invited to the service are all well known in the theatre and included Charles Hanson Towne, Alice Kauser, Herbert C. Taylor, Donald Macdonald, Jobyna Howland, Charles MacArthur, Alexander Woollcott, Arnold Genthe, Theresa Helburn, Philip Moeller, Helen Westley, Henry Jewett, Albert Carroll, Sam H. Harris, Lawrence Eyre, Zoe Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. S. Nugent, George K. McLeod, Katharine Roberts, Mrs. Susie Bowdin and Muriel Bowdin.

Many floral tributes from her friends and associates in the theatre filled the apartment. The ashes of the actress will be turned over to her brother for burial.

COLONEL JOHN W. GORDON.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 5.—Colonel John W. Gordon, Confederate veteran and prominent insurance man who operated a general agency here for nearly fifty years, died at his home at West Hampton early today, aged 80. He suffered a heart attack last July while visiting one of his daughters, Mrs. Edmund C. Mayo, in Providence, R. I., and was critically ill there for several months. Shortly before Christmas he suffered another attack here.

His widow was Miss Annie Pender of Tarboro, N. C., a niece of General William Dorsey Pender, who was mortally wounded at Gettysburg.

A native of Hertford, N. C., Colonel Gordon enlisted in the Confederate army at the age of 15, joining the Second North Carolina Cavalry. He was wounded twice at Brandy Station and was taken prisoner but was later exchanged at Washington. Subsequently he was promoted to the staff of General W. P. Roberts, whose brigade fired the last shot and made the last charge at Appomattox.

BRIG. GEN. SWEET, FIGHTER, DIES AT 81

SOLDIER AT THE AGE OF 17

Fought in Two Wars and Several Indian Campaigns—Performed Brilliant Feat Under Fire.

Brig. Gen. Owen Jay Sweet, U. S. A., retired, veteran of the Civil and Spanish Wars and of several Indian campaigns, died on Wednesday night at the Officers' Hospital, Fort Totten, L. I., where he had been taken a fortnight before from his home at the Hotel Endicott, Columbus Avenue and Eighty-first Street, Manhattan, suffering with pneumonia.

At the time he retired from the army, in 1909, General Sweet was the only active-list survivor of those who marched with General Sherman "from Atlanta to the sea." He was the first officer to enter the enemy's fortification at Savannah, when that city was captured.

Enlisted as Mere Boy.

General Sweet was born eighty-one years ago in Kent, Conn., a son of the late James S. and Aurilla Duncan Sweet. He was one of seven children. hWile living in Binghamton, N. Y., he enlisted at the age of 17 in the 137th New York Volunteer Infantry as a second lieutenant. In the next year he was transferred to the Twelfth Corps of the Army of the Potomac and made a first lieutenant, and a few months later became a captain. He was wounded at Gettysburg, and took part also in the battles of Chancellorsville and Fredericksburg.

On the march through Georgia with Sherman Captain Sweet forced the passage of a river for his corps train on a bridge of fence rails. For this he received on the field the personal thanks of Major Gen. John W. Geary, his division commander.

In Several Indian Campaigns.

After being honorably mustered out at the close of the Civil War, General Sweet entered the regular army as a Second Lieutenant. He served in Indian campaigns against Cheyennes, Arapahoes, Comanches, Kiowas and Apaches. He also surveyed and marked out the Custer battlefield. While in the Far West he was made a Captain.

He was on recruiting service at St. Louis from 1897 to 1899, during which time he was promoted to be a Major in the Twenty-third Infantry. He joined his regiment at Jolo in the Philippines and in 1900 was appointed Governor of the Third Military District, comprising the Sulu Archipelago.

Major Sweet was promoted to the colonelcy of the Twenty-eighth Infantry in 1903, which he joined in the Philippines. A year later he returned to the United States and for the next two years had charge of the Department of Dakota. In the Autumn of 1906 he went with his regiment to Cuba and was stationed in Matanzas, where he stayed until he retired three years later with the rank of Brigadier General.

General Sweet is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Maria Sweet Baker, with whom he made his home at the Hotel Endicott, and by a grandson, William Sweet Baker; also by two sisters, Mrs. Phoebe Mines of Redondo Beach, Cal., and Mrs. Mary Hunt of Rochester, N. Y., and a brother, Frank B. Sweet of Ithaca, N. Y.

Funeral services will be held at 4 P. M. today in the Officers' Chapel, Fort Totten. Burial will be in the National Cemetery at Arlington Va.

Anthony Farrell, Actor, Dies.

PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Jan. 5 (AP).—Anthony Farrell, known on the stage in the 80s and 90s as "Tony," died at his home here today after a short illness. He was born at Medina, N. FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

No Man or Woman Is Ever Finished with Learning

Sir Isaac Newton, the great student of nature and philosopher, who discovered gravitation by the fall of an apple, said of himself, in his after life, that he felt himself to be a child on the seashore, learning from the shells and pebbles, and that the great ocean of Nature's facts was still flying before him waiting to be discovered. Stop and think of the wondrous inventions in the successful engineery of the air and the thousand little things like air guns, telephones, improved typewriters, kitchen and housekeeping untensils and the Edison discoveries in the application of electricity—what will the next six thousand years produce?

This store is still a wonder to some of the people in its bigness and completeness to visitors who come every day.

SMITH'S MESSAGE IS IN WIDE DEMAND

Copies Are Sent by Air Mail to California in Response to Request by Wire.

SOME WETS FIND FAULT

Express Surprise That Governor Did Not Go Deeper Into the Prohibition Issue.

FISCAL MESSAGE AWAITED

By W. A. WARN.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 5.—Demands for copies of Governor Smith's annual message, transmitted to the 1928 Legislature at its opening session yesterday, are already beginning to reach the Executive chamber. Most of the requests thus far received came from within the State, but at least one was as far as the Pacific Coast. In response to this copies were sent today by air mail to Sacramento, Cal.

George R. Graves, Secretary and assistant to the Governor, made it known also that many messages had been received, commending the accounting the Governor had rendered of how the trust confided to him by the people had been administered during the four terms he has occupied the Governor's chair.

It was said that some of the messages, at least, indicated that the lengthy document had been pretty thoroughly read in the short time that has elapsed since its publication.

Nearly all of the legislators have already left the Capitol after yesterday's brief sessions of the Senate and Assembly. Only some of the Legislative leaders remain.

Those of the Republican majority seemed in no mood to add to the comments made yesterday after the message had been received.

Some Wets Are Disappointed.

From the narrower circle of Tammany legislators who might have been expected to take a wholly uncritical view of what the Republicans conceive to have been a message issued as a "campaign document" came expressions of surprise that the Governor had said no more than he did on prohibition. Among the Democratic delegation from New York City are some who are "wets" even before they are Democrats.

Those of this category, in personal conversation not intended for publication, remarked that the Governor might have gone further in his discussion of the topic nearest and dearest to their hearts and reiterated what he often has said publicly in the past in advocacy of modification of the Volstead law to legalize traffic in light wines and beer.

Some thought that this omission might cause an unfavorable reaction among the wets throughout the country whose knowledge and support of the Governor is limited to the fact that he is a pronounced wet and in the past has made no effort to conceal it.

For the most part, however, the opinion reflected in talks coming from the Tammany circle was that from a viewpoint of political expediency the Governor had stopped at the right moment.

Those taking this view of what the Governor had said with regard to prohibition dismissed the suggestion that it might impair his prestige with the wets with the blunt declaration that no one could take the wet vote away from Governor Smith.

Critics Overlook Court Ruling.

Entirely aside from any consideration that political strategy might prompt, the wet critics, it is pointed out, appeared to have overlooked the Governor's declaration that the decision by the United States Supreme Court that the alcoholic content of beverages is within the purview of the Eighteenth Amendment, had removed modification from the realm of State control and shifted it to Congress, and that under the circumstances modification did not lend itself to public discussion in what was purely a State document.

While many of the recommendations made by Governor Smith in his message undoubtedly are destined to fall on deaf ears in so far as the Republican majority in the Senate and Assembly is concerned, the Republican leaders are waiting for the Governor's financial message and his budget bill, which probably will be submitted soon after the Legislature has reconvened next week, before they fully formulate their line of attack.

Plan Economy Argument.

It is no secret that the Republicans view the Governor's financial policy as the weakest spot in his record. They have already assailed his abandonment of the pay-as-you-go policy and substitution of bond issues for public improvements and are prepared to return to the attack with a view to impairing his prestige throughout the country, unless the financial message should arsel impregnable defences.

They are prepared to draw as vividly as they can the contrast between the rising budgets and growing debt at Albany during the Governor's four terms with the decrease in expenditures and reduction of the public debt under President Coolidge in Washington.

It is expected here, however, that the coming fiscal message will be most thorough in its treatment of a topic the Governor has mastered and that it will be written in his usual aggressive style.

The budget bill is believed by Governor Smith's friends to be proof against cuts in the form .. left the Governor's hands. With the Constitutional Executive budget not in effect as yet, the Republican Legislature would be free to toss the Governor's bill on the scrap heap and frame for the last time hereafter a budget bill made up by the five fiscal committees of the lawmaking body.

But there is no expectation that anything as venturesome as that will be undertaken. As a matter of fact, if there is anything wrong with the Governor's bill, the Republican fiscal leaders would be bound to bear part of the burden for any flaws it may contain, for while it is being heralded as an "Executive" budget, it is no secret that it was formulated in close conference with the fiscal leaders of the Republican opposition.

Plans for new Manhattan structures estimated to cost $259,100,515 were filed during 1927 with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings.

There were 174 structures of all classes projected, the details being given on 567 plans submitted for approval by various architects.

Of the total estimated cost, $46,641,000 is listed for schools, hospitals and other public and semi-public structures. The remainder is about equally divided between housing and business buildings.

During the same year, 2,851 plans covering proposed alterations to 3,118 buildings were submitted. The cost of the alterations was estimated at $31,220,048.

TELL HOW REPORTER GOT SMITH ARTICLE

WANTED TO HELP GOVERNOR

Legal Arguments Retard Trial of F. H. Thompson on Charge of Theft at Concord, N. H.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 5.—Fred H. Thompson, reporter on The Boston Post, went on trial today before Judge Oscar L. Young and a jury in Merrimac County Superior Court charged in two indictments with larceny from the Rumford Press of two copies of Governor Smith's article on "Catholic and Patriot," belonging to The Atlantic Monthly.

The jury was quickly drawn from a panel of eighteen veniremen. The first witness called for the prosecution was Sheriff John T. O'Dowd of Hillsboro County, telling of a visit of Thompson. O'Dowd told Thompson to see Eugene Sullivan, who recommended that William E. Callahan, the night watchman at the Rumford Press, would be the man to get it was testified.

The case is being tried by County Solicitor Herbert W. Raimie, Robert W. Upton of Concord is the defense attorney, assisted by Edmund A. Whitman of Boston.

Counsel for defense attempted to lay a foundation to prove that the eight pages from The Atlantic Monthly, containing the reply of Governor Smith to the letter of Charles E. Marshall of New York, published in the magazine in an earlier number, was merely waste paper, worth from $5 to $20 a ton and consequently had no such value as was attributed to it by the magazine and the Rumford Press.

Evidence was offered by two witnesses that the eight pages were taken openly from the plant by Callahan, who admitted giving the copy to Thompson and declared that he did not think he was doing anything wrong. He said he received nothing from Thompson for the copy.

Much of the opening day of the trial was taken up discussing points of law. As a result of this the State's case was not completed, and it seemed doubtful if the case would be finished tomorrow. The State has eight witnesses, the solicitor said, and only four had testified when adjournment was taken late this afternoon.

Mr. Raimie in his opening said he would show that Thompson came to New Hampshire for the purpose of obtaining Governor Smith's letter to publish in The Post in advance of the issuance of The Atlantic Monthly, and that he used misrepresentation to get possession of the letter.

The opening statement was very brief and Sheriff O'Dowd, Eugene Sullivan of Concord, a former State Pharmacy Commissioner, and Callahan were put on in succession.

O'Dowd testified that Thompson, whom he had met before, in course of a call that lasted an hour or more brought out his desire to get possession of Governor Smith's letter. O'Dowd said he was desirous to do anything he could to help Governor Smith and agreed that his letter should receive wide publication, so he told Thompson to call on Eugene Sullivan.

Sullivan said that Thompson came to him April 15 and mentioned something about Governor Smith, but that this meant little to him, and that he directed Thompson to Callahan's home.

Callahan admitted getting the copy of Governor Smith's letter for Thompson, after the latter had said he was sent there by O'Dowd and Sullivan, and had added that the Ku Klux Klan had taken steps to see that Smith's reply to Mr. Marshall would not be widely distributed. Callahan testified he went with Thompson in the latter's automobile to the printing plant, where he found a copy of the letter and gave it to Thompson.

Rufus P. Weston, manager of the Rumford Press, had been on the stand only a few minutes when Mr. Upton objected to the line of the questioning by the solicitor and the balance of the afternoon was spent by the lawyers in the Judge's chambers.

William Rossiter, the President, and several other officials of the Rumford Press were in the court room expecting to testify, but they were not reached.

DR. GALLARDO VISITS BERLIN

BERLIN, Jan. 5.—Dr. Angelo Gallardo, the Argentinian Foreign Minister, who is also internationally known as a scientist, having held the Chair of Zoology at the University of Buenos Aires for many years, arrived here today from Paris as the guest of the German Government, which sent a special car to the frontier to bring him and his suite to the capital.

The South American statesman was greeted at the station by representatives of the Foreign Office and by members of the Argentine Legation staff. After visiting Under-Secretary of State von Schubert, Dr. Gallardo was the guest at luncheon of the Kaiser Wilhelm Society, and later attended a dinner given for him at the Hotel Esplanade.

Tomorrow Chancellor Marx will entertain him at a luncheon, President von Hindenburg will give a tea in his honor and Foreign Minister Stresemann will be his host at dinner.

TURN $70,000 PROFIT BACK TO TAMMANY

IT GETS ALL GAS CO.'S PRICE

Joseph P. Day and J. Clarence Davies have relinquished the $70,000 profit they made in the resale of Tammany Hall to the Consolidated and have agreed to turn it over to the Tammany Society.

Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by Mr. Day and George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany. The D. & D. Land and Improvement Company, owned by Messrs. Day and Davies, to which the Tammany Society sold the building for $700,000, will drop out of the transaction and the sale in effect will be a direct one to the Consolidated Gas Company by the Tammany Society, which will receive the full $770,000 which the Gas Company had agreed to pay to the D. & D. Co. This arrangement was considered to dispose effectively of rumors, which had been denied, that any leader in Tammany would profit by the transaction.

$575,000 For New Site.

Judge Olvany also announced that the Tammany Society had paid $575,000 for the site of a new wigwam at Union Square and Seventeenth Street, to which it would take title at virtually the same time that Tammany Hall passed to the Consolidated Gas Company. A building will be erected to meet all the requirements of the Tammany Society and the New York County Democratic Committee.

"At the time that the Sachems of the Tammany Society agreed to sell the Wigwam for $700,000, Mr. Day appeared before the Sachems of the society and stated that the Consolidated Gas Company, which for some time had owned property on two sides of the Wigwam and which had just erected a new twenty-six-story building to the east of it, was not interested in the purchase of the Wigwam and would not buy it," Judge Olvany said. "Mr. Day also stated at that time that $700,000 was the top price which he could offer. The name of his client, which at the time of the signing of the contract was named as the D. & D. Land and Improvement Company, was not announced to the Sachems. Mr. Day at the same time stated that the purchasing company was owned by J. Clarence Davies and himself and that they had done an active real estate business under that name for many years."

Shift by Consolidated.

Judge Olvany added that the representatives of the society had been seeking a site for a new home in the vicinity of Union Square and said that the sale of Tammany Hall was precipitated by a desire to buy such a site before it would be compelled to pay a higher price. He continued:

"After publication in the newspapers of the sale of Tammany Hall and that a twenty-one-story office building would probably be erected upon its site, the Consolidated Gas Company realized that its light and air for its present building might be blanketed and that the architectural outlook of its new building would probably be seriously affected and it then got in touch with Joseph P. Day, who had negotiated for the purchase of the Academy of Music for the gas company, and asked if he could get the purchaser to sell it to the company. The D. & D. Land Improvement Company thereafter did make a contract with the gas company at an increase of 5 or 10 per cent. over the price it was to pay to the Tammany Society.

"Immediately after the announcement of the resale to the Consolidated Gas Company a conference was held with Mr. Day, who is an active organization member and also a member of the Tammany Society, and it was arranged that the contract which the D. & D. Land and Improvement Company had with the Consolidated Gas Company be assigned to the Tammany Society without profit to the D. & D. Land and Improvement Company, so that the Tammany Society would get the entire benefit of the increase in purchase price and apply same to the erection of its new building. Mr. Day has generously agreed to waive any profit which the D. & D. Land and Improvement Company was to have made out of the resale and permit the Tammany Society to have the entire amount to be paid by the Consolidated Gas Company.

"Mr. Day pointed out that both Mr. Davies and himself had undertaken the purchase of the Tammany Wigwam as a routine business proposition and when they paid $700,000 in view of the appraisals, the highest of which was $600,000, they were paying a top price for the same and that the sale to the gas company was an ordinary real estate incident on a resale of property to a person interested in other property in the same block.

"While Mr. Davies is not a member of Tammany Hall and is now too ill to attend to his business affairs, Mr. Day has agreed to the elimination of the D. & D. Land and Improvement Company from the sale, in full certainty that Mr. Davies will agree to what he has done."

TO DEBATE PARIS FINANCES

Chamber Will Have Week Beginning Jan. 24 to Discuss Policy.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—France's whole financial position, including her attitude toward the interallied debts, the Dawes plan and her future policy, will be the subject of a full dress debate in the Chamber of Deputies during the last week in January, according to a decision taken by the Government today in arranging the schedule of parliamentary work for the coming session.

Premier Poincaré is willing to devote an entire week to the discussion of the financial policy which he has been pursuing during the past eighteen months.

When the Chamber convenes on Tuesday, several minor matters will be dealt with, and the financial debate will commence probably on Jan. 24. The elections, it is now certain, will take place April 22, with the second ballot, in cases where no clear majority is obtained, on April 29.

Sues S. P. C. A. for a List of Dog Owners; Lawyer Wants It to Aid Animal Hospital

The refusal of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to permit the inspection of its license records so that many of the 209,000 dog owners of New York City may be circularized in aid of a hospital for pet animals resulted in the filing in the Supreme Court yesterday of a test suit. The action will seek to determine whether or not the names of the payers of dog taxes are not public records as are other tax records.

The suit was brought by H. Ely Goldsmith, a public accountant and taxpayer, who said that by the laws of 1894 the society was authorized to issue licenses to dog owners at $2, with $1 a year for each renewal, and that the license fee is paid by more than 200,000 persons yearly. Mr. Goldsmith said that on Sept. 22 last he applied to the attorneys for the society for permission to inspect the records.

A letter from F. K. Sturgis, President of the society, replying to the request, is attached to the petition for the mandamus order. The letter said the organization had always denied the request of manufacturers of dog biscuit, remedies and makes cures for permission to obtain the names of the New York City dog owners.

Mr. Sturgis said he understood the plaintiff was interested in a hospital at Ninety-fourth Street and First Avenue known as the American Hospital and Home for the Care of Pet Animals, which had not been a commercial success; also that the plaintiff planned to send out metal tags to dog owners. The tags were to be attached to the collars of the animals and said, Mr. Sturgis added, that a reward would be paid on the delivery of the dog to the hospital, the plan being that the owner receiving such dog tag would make a contribution to the hospital.

President Sturgis said he objected to the plan because the tags would cause confusion about licenses, and also because "it might encourage the theft of the pet animals for the sake of the rewards offered."

The plaintiff alleges that the refusal of the society is "unlawful, arbitrary, tyrannical and unfair."

$2,500 FOR LOSS OF ASHES.

Parents Win Suit Over Missing Urn That Held Son's Remains.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fuchs of 9,414 Forty-second Avenue, Elmhurst, obtained a verdict of $2,500 from a jury in the Queens Supreme Court yesterday because the United States Cremation Company, Ltd., of Middle Village, L. I., lost the urn containing the ashes of their 3-year-old son, Daniel.

The boy's body was cremated in 1884 and in 1923 the urn was discovered to be missing. The Fuchs sued for $5,000. The action was heard before Justice Selah B. Strong on Wednesday and the sealed verdict was opened yesterday.

FEDERAL ATTORNEY REBUKED BY JUDGE

Inch Charges That Assistant in Brooklyn Made Error Which Threatens Ship Seizure.

DOUBLE PROSECUTION SEEN

Judge Robert A. Inch, sitting in the Federal Court in Brooklyn, criticized yesterday an unnamed assistant in the Federal Attorney's office in that district for bringing criminal proceedings under the Volstead act against four members of the crew of a steamship while civil action for the forfeiture of the vessel under the Customs laws was pending. He declared that his decision forfeiting the vessel to the Government was seriously threatened by the prosecution of the men, because under his interpretation of the law it is not possible to prosecute under both statutes.

The steamship Ansonia was seized with liquor valued at $200,000 last August. Judge Inch declared the vessel forfeited on Dec. 29 and held invalid a $39,250 mortgage held by William A. Nelson, a banker of Ansonia, Conn. On Jan. 3 the four members of the crew were allowed to plead guilty to importing and possessing liquor. Yesterday's hearing was called by Judge Inch for the purpose of getting into the record an explanation of these events in case appeals are filed.

"There is certainly something wrong with the District Attorney's office," Judge Inch said. "It should be remedied quickly."

He said he had been assured by an Assistant District Attorney that no proceedings were pending against the crew under the Volstead act before he declared the vessel forfeited.

"On the same day that I made this decision," Judge Inch said, "some one in the District Attorney's office filed information against the pilot and three members of the crew. On Jan. 3 the men were allowed to plead guilty before Judge Campbell to possession of liquor and were turned loose with nominal fines. No one in the District Attorney's office took the trouble to inform Judge Campbell that these men were found in the custody of $200,000 worth of liquor, and no one concerned with the civil end of the case took the trouble to inform me what was done. I got my information through the newspapers."

Assistant District Attorney Pisciotta, who prosecuted the civil case, and United States Attorney William A. De Groot were exonerated by Judge Inch after they declared that they did not know who was responsible for the filing of the criminal proceedings. The Judge said an unidentified person in the criminal branch of the District Attorney's office was to blame.

Mr. De Groot said later he did not agree with Judge Inch's interpretation of the law covering the case. He declared that the Circuit Court of Appeals had decided in a similar case in Seattle that a seizure under the customs laws was not invalidated by a subsequent criminal action under the Volstead Act.

WALKER SWEARS IN THREE MAGISTRATES

HE ADHERES TO FORECAST

Dropping of Connolly's Aide Not Unduly Influenced by Politics, Mayor Asserts.

Mayor Walker named and swore in last night three appointees to the Magistrates' bench, two in Queens and one in Richmond County. As had been generally expected, he reappointed Magistrate William T. Croak of Staten Island and Magistrate Peter M. Daley of Queens, both for the full term of ten years.

The Mayor did not reappoint Magistrate Harry Miller of Queens, who is a close friend and political associate of Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens, and who has served as a Magistrate in that borough for the last sixteen years, since he succeeded Mr. Connolly at the time the latter went from the police court bench to the Borough Presidency. In place of Mr. Miller the Mayor named for the full ten-year term Benjamin Marvin, former Commissioner of Public Works for Queens.

Although it was generally reported that Mr. Connolly had supported Magistrate Miller for reappointment, Michael J. Shugrue, the present Public Works Commissioner for Queens, was present last night in the City Hall when Mr. Marvin was sworn in, and declared that the selection met with the approval of the Borough President.

In announcing the appointment of Magistrate Marvin, Mayor Walker said he had been warmly recommended by Supreme Court Justice Edward Lazansky of the Appellate Division, by Herman and Victor Ridder, publishers, who have newspaper interests in Queens, and by many other prominent lawyers and citizens.

The Mayor added that, in making the appointments he had not been unduly influenced by political consideration, but that, as a former practicing lawyer himself, he had tried to make the selections in the best interests alike of the lawyers and prospective litigants.

Ignored Opposition of Rendt.

The Mayor named Magistrate Croak of Richmond, in face of the opposition of the Staten Island Democratic organization. David S. Rendt, Democratic leader of that county, had submitted the name of John C. Boyland, an Assistant District Attorney, but Mayor Walker felt that Magistrate Croak's record for the last ten years warranted his reappointment.

Magistrate Marvin, who lives in Forest Hills, was born in Brooklyn, March 7, 1889. He attended Cornell and Fordham universities and was admitted to the bar in June, 1912. He was Commissioner of Public Works in the Borough of Queens from 1922 to 1924 and was formerly a Municipal Court Justice there. He is a member of the Queens County Bar Association, New York State Bar Association, the Elks, Masons, Knights of Pythias and other benevolent and civic organizations.

Daley Filled Unexpired Term.

Magistrate Daley of Queens went to the Magistrate's bench six months ago and served out the unexpired term of former Magistrate James M. Conway, who was elevated to the Children's Court bench in Queens. There was no question about the reappointment of Magistrate Daley. The Mayor said several days ago that he would be reappointed. Magistrate Daley served in the State Senate. When he became a Magistrate six months ago he was serving as Chief Assistant District Attorney of that borough. He lives in Astoria.

Magistrate Croak, who lives at 210 St. Mark's Place, St. George, S. I., was made a Magistrate ten years ago when former Mayor Hylan first took office on Jan. 1, 1918. His appointment at the time was recommended by Joseph O'Grady, late Democratic leader of that borough. Magistrate Croak is a native of Staten Island and a graduate of Manhattan College and New York Law School. His father, the late John Croak, was a Magistrate in the Borough of Richmond at the time of the consolidation of Greater New York. Magistrate Croak was a member of the State Assembly in 1907.

RESCUES WOMAN, SEIZED.

Youth Wanted as Burglar Taken After He Saves Victim of Fire.

Just after he had aided in saving the life of Mrs. Helen Kubineck, 30 years old, of 103 Diamond Street, Brooklyn, when her clothing caught fire yesterday morning, Martin Cigelski, 20 years old, of the same address, was arrested by detectives who were looking for him and were attracted by his efforts to help the woman.

Mrs. Kubineck ran screaming from her apartment with her dress ablaze and Cigelski and Miss Florence Kennedy extinguished the flames by wrapping Mrs. Kubineck in Miss Kennedy's coat. Outside the building, however, Detectives Lynch and Clauer were watching for Cigelski, who was wanted as the "brick-throwing" burglar who robbed two haberdashery stores last month. The detectives heard the screams and entered the building, where they found Cigelski.

Arraigned later in the Bridge Plaza Court Cigelski was held by Magistrate Hirshfield in $3,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

KITTENS BORN UNDER RIVER.

Motorist Enters Tunnel With One Cat—Five in Car Later.

Four kittens born in the Holland vehicular tunnel were the theme of a story related yesterday by Andrew Carley, proprietor of a restaurant at 488 Grove Street, Jersey City.

"Patrick Malloy of Greenwich Village, New York City, visited me on Tuesday," Carley said. "He drove over in a sedan, taking his cat Sally with him. Sally always rides in the rear seat. Driving through the tunnel, my friend Malloy was surprised to see that Sally was not there. He could not stop, of course, and decided to ask tunnel policemen about the cat on his way back. He came to my place and told me about it.

"In the midst of his conversation we heard a faint mewing, and between the seat and the rear of the car we found Sally with a litter of four kittens. We got a box, and Malloy took them all back to New York."

Will Rogers Defends Navy And Would Bar Investigation

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 5.—Everybody is hopping onto the navy as though they purposely had the submarine sunk. They blame the navy for the bad weather. They blame the navy for having a submarine in the water at all.

The Mississippi flood happened last year, and nothing has been done about it yet by Congress. Yet if a boat sinks they think the navy ought to have it lifted to the surface by daylight. Don't you suppose the navy feels worse about it than we do? Why pick on a mourner?

We would rather see it not investigated. Then the causes will be remedied. But anything that is over investigated, nothing is ever done about it.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

THREE DIE IN FIRE IN OSSINING HOTEL

INCENDIARY IS SOUGHT

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Jan. 5.—Three lives were lost early this morning in a fire which destroyed the 100-year-old wooden Weskora Hotel on the Boston Post Road near here. It was the sixth fire on the premises since last March and is believed to have been incendiary.

Those who lost their lives were George E. McKenna, a brush salesman of Hartford, Conn.; an unidentified woman and Albert Albrecht, head waiter at the hotel. Thirty-two guests registered at the hotel, every room of which was occupied, escaped.

Mrs. Charles Fleisch, wife of the proprietor, smelled smoke which was pouring up from the first floor and gave the alarm. Some of the guests were able to escape by the stairs, but others were trapped as the fire raced through the old wooden structure, which was not equipped with fire escapes.

Many were carried down ladders from the front windows when the firemen arrived. Those who died in the flames had fled to the rear windows and had been cut off. The hotel was built on a steep slope and was three stories high in front and five stories high in the rear. The firemen could not use their ladders successfully at the rear.

Although not equipped with gas masks, firemen sought to rush into the building, but were driven back. Several firemen, temporarily overcome by smoke, were helped out by their comrades.

After the fire a witness reported to the police that he saw a man flee from the back of the hotel five minutes before the alarm whistle sounded. In view of the previous series of suspicious fires this was believed to be the work of a pyromaniac and an investigation was started by Assistant District Attorney Frank Coyne, Medical Examiner Amos O. Squire and Chief of Police Frank Mansuetty, who questioned hotel employees and other witnesses. At the end of the hearing the officials were convinced that the fire was deliberately set, either by a pyromaniac seeking a thrill or by some one to wreak a grudge. There was criticism by citizens of the fact that local authorities had not compelled the hotel management to provide fire escapes and had not provided the firemen with gas masks.

STUDENT ARRESTED ON FORGERY CHARGE

Seized in N. Y. U. Evening Class on Bank's Complaint Involving $30,000 Checks.

Detectives under Lieutenant John O'Connell called 20-year-old Emil Ederich of 2,137 Grand Avenue, the Bronx, from his classroom at New York University during last evening's session and placed him under arrest, charged with forging his employer's name to $30,000 checks. Later the police said, $27,500 in cash was found in a smoking cabinet in the youth's home. Ederich was locked up in Police Headquarters for arraignment today.

The Bank of the Manhattan Company is complainant against Ederich, as all the allegedly forged checks were made payable by them. Detectives said that Ederich was employed by the New York Merchandising Company of 27 West Twenty-third Street. Ederich, the police said, had accounts in several banks.

According to the detectives it was Ederich's practice to gain his employer's commendation by arriving early at his office. Before the other workers arrived, he would obtain a few of the firm's numbered checks, and making them out on the firm's stamping machine take them home to be signed that evening. He would present the checks at a telegraph office to be wired to a fictitious person in a nearby city, the detectives said, and would then go to that city and collect the money.

The alleged forgeries date back only to Nov. 30, according to bank officials, and were not noticed until officers of the merchandising company in going over the December checks found too many drawn in favor of unknown payees.

Frees Parents of Frost-Bitten Baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Alice Farley of 201 Ogden Avenue, Jersey City, were arrested yesterday on a charge of neglecting their seven-months-old daughter. Alice, when physicians of Christ's Hospital discovered that its feet and legs were frost-bitten, Judge Sullivan in First Criminal Court dismissed the case against the father and suspended sentence against Mrs. Farley after warning them of the seriousness of the charge that they left the baby out in freezing weather.

STOCK PRICES DROP, SALES NEAR RECORD

DUE TO DECEMBER LOANS

A brief rush of selling, which for its duration has had few parallels in Wall Street, caused a sharp decline yesterday on the New York Stock Exchange, resulting in the third largest market in history. Transactions ran to 3,384,980 shares. This compares with the record of 3,736,111 shares on March 3, 1926, and with the second largest turnover of 3,448,787 shares on Nov. 10, 1927. Trading involved 128 issues.

Yesterday's selling movement appeared to be the result of a money scare growing out of the disclosure by the Stock Exchange after the close of the market on the day before that brokers' loans had increased $341,000,000 in December and had reached the highest level on record, $4,433,907,321. Professional traders seeking to halt the advance in the stock market made effective use of these figures and were able to turn the general list downward after concentrating their selling pressure on a few volatile issues, including Greene Cananea and Midland Steel Products preferred.

Selling Becomes General.

Greene Cananea, which has had a spectacular advance for several weeks, broke precipitately from a high of 134½ to a low of 130 before the stock's sponsors could stem the tide. Midland Steel Products preferred fell from 275 to 252. Both were under pressure from the opening, but it was not until 11 o'clock that the weakness was communicated to the general market. Stocks in almost every group were thrown upon the market in large blocks and for more than an hour the trading facilities of the Exchange were greatly overtaxed. Such stocks as General Motors, U. S. Steel, American Smelting, New York Central, Hudson Motors, Montgomery Ward, Postum, Willys Overland, Texas Gulf Sulphur and Woolworth were freely offered. The losses in many instances ran from 3 to 5 points before the selling subsided.

At 12:21 o'clock the Stock Exchange ticker, although using the abbreviated quotations, was twenty-eight minutes late. It was calculated that the ticker would have been fully an hour late had the Exchange been using the full quotations as it formerly did. The ticker was only four minutes late at the close.

Recovery Comes Abruptly.

The recovery in the market started more abruptly than did the break. Shortly after 12 o'clock the official call money rate was lowered from 4½ to 4 per cent. This had an immediate heartening effect on the trading fraternity, serving to remove to a large extent the apprehensions aroused by the increase in brokers' loans. The reduced call money rate was seized upon as evidence that the credit situation was entirely comfortable notwithstanding the heavy expansion in brokerage borrowings. Stock market commentators also pointed out that a substantial rise in the loan figures was to be expected in view of the vast amount of business done on the Stock Exchange last month.

Greene Cananea was among the first stocks to rally. After touching its low of 130 it began a rapid ascent, finally reaching 138¾ at the close, or only 1½ points below the opening quotation. The net loss was 2¾ points. Midland Steel Products rebounded from its low of 252 to 265¾, showing a net loss of 14¾ points. General Motors recovered a portion of its loss, closing 3¼ points below the final quotation of the day before. Montgomery Ward at the close showed a net loss of only 1¾, Texas Gulf Sulphur of 1¾, U. S. Steel of 2, American Smelting of 3½, Hudson of 2¾, International Combustion of 2, Magma Copper of 3¾ and Wright Aero of 3¾. A few of the rail issues were also off, but the railroad list as a whole held comparatively steady while the heaviest selling was going on. The close showed a considerable sprinkling of plus signs.

Decline Not Wide.

As measured by The New York Times averages, yesterday's decline was not wide. The combined averages, covering fifty representative stocks, showed a net decline of $1.26. The rail averages, embracing twenty-five stocks, showed a decline of 53 cents, and the industrial averages, also covering twenty-five stocks, showed a decline of $1.19.

Yesterday and the day before saw two consecutive markets of more than 3,000,000 shares for the second time in the history of the Stock Exchange. The previous time was on March 2 and 3, 1928. On March 2 the turnover was 3,031,173 shares and on March 3, 3,736,111 shares, the largest on record.

Brokerage houses reported last night that no extraordinarily large number of margin calls were sent out. Most accounts, they indicated, were well margined and were not seriously impaired by yesterday's decline.

RUSH PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

Gets Leave to Change Answer on Charges of $125,575 Thefts.

James T. Rush, former assistant bookkeeper in the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, Fifth Avenue and Forty-first Street, from which he is alleged to have embezzled $129,575 in 1924, pleaded not guilty yesterday before Judge Collins in General Sessions. He is under indictment on one charge of grand larceny and two charges of forgery.

Hyman Bushel of 201 Broadway, who represents Rush, obtained from Judge Collins an adjournment of a week in which to move to inspect the minutes of the Grand Jury which indicted his client, or to change or amend the plea entered by Rush yesterday.

DENY WE PROPOSE NEW DEBT PARLEYS

ALLIED MOVE LOOKED FOR

One Official Declares Many Conferences Must Be Held to Settle Germany's Obligations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—Continued publication of reports that Washington was becoming more sympathetic to a program of coupling reparation with a readjustment of allied war debts finally brought denials today from the State and Treasury Departments.

The latest story, published this morning in a New York newspaper, declared that the State Department was working on plans for participation by this country in an international economic conference, at which reparations and war debts would be considered. When this was called to the attention of department officials it was stated in behalf of Secretary Kellogg that the Department was not preparing for any economic conference or debt conference after the French elections in May, or at any other time.

Secretary Mellon characterized the published story as "bosh."

Since S. Parker Gilbert, Agent General for reparation payments, issued his annual report last month recommending that the total which Germany must pay in reparations be fixed as soon as possible, and Germany then be permitted to carry out the task of meeting her known obligations without outside supervision, there have been numerous stories suggesting that Mr. Gilbert had reflected the position taken by the American Administration and that this Government was being won over to a readjustment downward of the allied debts if France would consent to a cut in reparations.

Stories Are Persistent.

These stories have appeared persistently in certain newspapers, despite the fact that, in commenting on Mr. Gilbert's report and indicating that he believed the total of reparations should be fixed, Secretary Mellon asserted with emphasis that in the viewpoint of the Treasury there was no connection between reparations and the allied war debts.

Dispatches dealing with the reported change in the attitude of the American Government have also been sent to foreign newspapers and have been widely featured.

Until today such developments have been ignored by the State and Treasury Departments, despite the fact that some officials are said to have been concerned because of the general publication in Europe of what was apparently accepted there as an accurate exposition of a new policy here.

The publication today, however, of a direct assertion that the State Department was at work on plans for an economic conference served at last to bring sharp denial.

In the course of the discussion which has been going on, certain newspapers have revived old plans which were rejected by this Government nearly two years ago as impracticable, and have given the impression that adoption of them within a relatively short time was quite possible. Among these was a suggestion that the German reparations total be cut to about $6,000,000,000, and the war debts owed the United States reduced to something below that figure. The program would involve the flotation of a great loan, running into the billions, by an international banking group.

Washington Sees Long Discussion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—Washington officials familiar with the situation believe it will take years to settle the question arising from the recommendations of S. Parker Gilbert that a fixed amount of German war reparations should be set as early as possible, and Germany be allowed to pay it without foreign supervision of her fiscal affairs.

"It is a problem that must be decided by numerous international conferences which must receive the sanction of parliaments," declared one official capable of speaking with authority on the subject, but who declined to be quoted by name.

So far as the United States is concerned, he pointed out, this country is interested only to the point where it is concerned over any important international financial settlement. Germany has settled her debt to the United States, he said, by agreeing to pay the $200,000,000 costs of the Army of Occupation, and is now making payments under the Dawes plan.

Various high officials declared without qualification that the United States will not take the initiative in promoting these conferences destined to agree upon the total which Germany will be expected to pay, and there is no disposition on the part of this Government to agree to terms emanating from France that the French debt to the United States be reduced by the amount that Germany fails to pay France.

The fixing of a definite amount for Germany to pay is specifically provided in the Dawes plan, which was intended only to save Germany from financial chaos and ruin. Under it, he said, Germany never would be able to pay its present obligations, but until a basis of settlement is reached the Dawes plan will continue to operate, as there is no time limit to its operation.

Story Here Surprises France.

PARIS, Jan. 5—Paris was somewhat surprised today to read a dispatch from New York saying The Journal of Commerce published a statement from Washington that in preparation for general reconsideration of international indebtedness the State Department was studying the fixation of the total of German reparations.

Several newspapers remark that the job is not within the realm of activities of the American Government; it being the Allies' task to deal with what the Germans owe them.

The report that America is preparing to review international indebtedness is received with reserve, which would undoubtedly be a measure of satisfaction if the report proved true. However, German reparations represent a European and not an American bargaining point.

RAVEL SAYS POE AIDED HIM IN COMPOSITION

French Musician Asserts He Was Influenced by Poet's Theory of Form.

Maurice Ravel, France's leading composer, who is here for a three months' tour as recitalist and guest conductor of half a dozen of our foremost orchestras, said yesterday that his "greatest teacher in composition was Edgar Allan Poe." The American poet's "Philosophy of Composition," M. Ravel declared, wherein he relates in detail the methodical and almost scientific process which he brought to the conception and development of "The Raven," influenced the French composer more than any other artistic creed in deciding to abandon the vagueness and formlessness of the early French impressionists in favor of a return to classic standards.

Despite his recent statement that he intended to cease his labors of composition to gain renewed inspiration from study of Mozart and the other classic masters, M. Ravel announced that he was planning two lyric works for the stage, one an operetta based on a libretto by Fernand Bousquet, author of "The Mannequin," and an opera of more ambitious character inspired by a work of another French author whose name he would not divulge. "As a matter of fact," he added, "the author himself does not yet know of my intention to use his book." The lighter work, he said, would be somewhat in the spirit of the Italian playwright Pirandello.

As an example of his deliberate and studied method of composition M. Ravel cited his sonata for piano and violin, which has a second movement of "blues." The work, he said, was clearly outlined in his mind before the themes of the first and third movements had taken shape. "One night," he continued, "while I was in a cabaret something in what I heard suggested the themes which later I employed."

Modern composers must steer a middle course between emotion and intellect if they are to create significant and lasting music. "Poe proved that art must strike a balance between these two extremes, for the first leads only to formlessness and the second to the dry and abstract."

American composers are as yet little known in France, said M. Ravel. Jazz has been widely used by musicians throughout the world, he added, and should furnish American composers with a wealth of material for the development of a national school.

M. Ravel will make his first appearance in Boston as guest conductor of the Boston Symphony. His first public appearance here will be on Jan. 15 at the Gallo Theatre.

CRITICIZE WILL ROGERS FOR JOKE ON COOLIDGE

Many Protest His Use of President's Name in Radio Hook-Up for the Dodge Car.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5—President Coolidge, it was said at the White House today, did not hear Will Rogers over the radio in the nation-wide "Victory Hour" hookup last night or know that he had been represented by the latter. The President's attention, moreover, was not called to the criticisms of Mr. Rogers that reached the White House in letters and telephone messages which protested against Mr. Rogers having announced that he would switch to Washington where President Coolidge "would say a few words," then Mr. Rogers imitating the President, whom he had say certain things in Rogeresque style.

Mr. Rogers did not directly explain that this was a "joke," and some persons seemed to have thought the President was speaking in behalf of the new Dodge car. In this, some of those close to the President thought today that Mr. Rogers exceeded good taste.

Mr. Rogers has been the President's guest on several occasions and for that reason his alleged misuse of the President's name in broadcasting last night was considered by many as all the more regrettable.

YOUNG ORGANIST HONORED.

Luncheon for 21-Year-Old Virtuoso and for Corti, Violinist.

Fernando Germani, twenty-one-year-old organ virtuoso of the Augusteo Orchestra of Rome, and Mario Corti, violinist of the St. Cecilia Academy, Rome, were guests of honor yesterday at a luncheon in the Wanamaker Tea Room, Broadway and Ninth Street. Editors, both musical and managing, representing English and foreign language publications, were present.

Germani, it was said at the luncheon, is the youngest organ virtuoso to cross the Atlantic for an American début. Both he and Corti will appear in concert at the Wanamaker Auditorium next week. Corti, who was born in 1883 and became professor at the Royal Conservatory in Parma at the age of 24, will use in the opening concert a violin made in 1757 in Milan by Jean Baptiste Guadagnini. This instrument, which belongs to the Rodman Wanamaker collection, will be played in public in America for the first time on that occasion.

NEW HAVEN SEES 'DIVERSION'

Large Audience Applauds Van Druten Play Directed by Jane Cowl.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 5—The largest audience which was ever present at a Thursday matinee day performance here witnessed the first performance of "Diversion" at the Shubert Theatre this afternoon. New Haven newspapers tomorrow will predict a long run for the play.

A large number of members of the Yale Faculty, including practically all the English department, were present. Following a long series of final curtain calls for the principals, Sir Guy Standing, Richard Bird and Miss Cathleen Nesbitt, the audience insisted on speeches by the author, John Van Druten, and Jane Cowl, who directed the play.

ASSAILS REFEREES IN WORKERS' CASES

URGES HIGHLY TRAINED MEN

Lump Sum System of Payments Also Is Criticized as Offering an Opening for Frauds.

The Industrial Survey Commission, which is conducting hearings into charges of inefficiency and laxity on the part of departmental referees in the State Labor Department, resumed its investigation yesterday at the Bar Association Building, particularly into the administration of the Workmen's Compensation law whereby, it is charged, thousands of lump sum awards have been granted by "highly incompetent and untrained referees."

Henry D. Sayer, Executive Secretary of the Commission, of which Senator James S. Truman is Chairman, called as the first witness Edward A. Willoughby, President of the New York Claim Association, who pointed to "unnecessarily active cases" as responsible for calendar congestion and suggested remedies for "needless continuance of cases before final adjournment."

Mr. Willoughby asserted that many referees hearing compensation cases are highly incompetent, and others are not properly trained and recommended that they be replaced by referees, all of whom, he said, should be lawyers and "men of the highest calibre." Mr. Willoughby added, however, that such men could not be obtained on the present salaries.

The commission also heard the testimony of two claimants whose applications were delayed due to improper medical certificates accompanying them. One case dealt with the failure of the attending physician to obey a subpoena to testify to the injury. The other application was that of an injured elevator operator, George Dingsdale of 461 Audubon Avenue, who received a lump sum award for $2,500 on the declaration that he needed the money for the purchase of a home in Tuckahoe, N. Y. Dingsdale admitted to the commission that he used the money to buy two houses at Edgemere, L. I.

"You bought them for speculation, didn't you?" he was asked by Mr. Sayer.

"Yes," replied Dingsdale, "I might as well say I did."

The witness then told of receiving another lump sum for $1,000 to fit the places with steam heat. He became confused on the details of the transactions but denied that the total award of $3,800 had been obtained under false pretenses.

Another witness was James C. Higgins, assistant auditor in charge of the New York office of the State Insurance Fund, who testified to the payments made in the Dingsdale case. Mr. Higgins said he had objected to the payment in a lump sum and was told by William C. Archer, the referee, that if he was not satisfied to take the matter up with the Chairman of the Industrial Board.

"What construction did you put on that?" asked Mr. Sayer.

"That he intended I should see the futility of opposing the grant," replied Mr. Higgins.

James A. Donahoe, Director of the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, told the commission that he had vigorously opposed the granting of lump sums because he believed that such practices offered a field for frauds. Mr. Donahoe cited a number of cases which he classed as "absolute frauds" in claims for lump sums.

Alfredo San Dominick, a lawyer, of 281 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, was called again and denied that he had received any fee in the case of Giuseppe Del Pezzo of 195 Hamilton Avenue, Brooklyn, in which he is alleged to have been interested.

DOROTHY KENDRICK'S DEBUT

Winner of Honors From Two Foundations Delights Audience.

Dorothy Kendrick, pianist, winner of the Walter W. Naumburg Musical Foundation Prize and a Juilliard Foundation scholarship, made her New York debut last night in a recital at the Town Hall. Her performance of Mozart's "Pastorale Varies," the opening number, revealed a rippling touch and singing tone that brought out the beauty of the music in a way that immediately won the favor of her audience. Mendelssohn's Prelude and Fugue in E minor and Schumann's Toccata also gave her an opportunity to display further pleasing qualities of refinement and sensitive feeling.

Chopin's Sonata in B minor made demands on the young pianist which were beyond her powers, although the slow movement had considerable beauty and variety of tonal coloring. She failed, however, as all but seasoned virtuosos must, to achieve its massive effects of climax and sonority. Debussy's "Reflets dans l'Eau," two pieces by Paul Juon, the Glinka-Balakirew "The Lark" and Liszt's "Campanella" completed the program, to which were added several encores. The audience was lavish in its applause.

SCHORR IN "TANNHAUSER."

Baritone Wins Applause in Season's Initial Role of Wolfram.

"Tannhäuser" was sung at the Metropolitan last evening, Mme. Jeritza and a half dozen of the cast appearing in it for the third time. Mr. Kirchhoff, a more recent addition, reappeared in the title rôle, while Friedrich Schorr made his first entrance for the season as Wolfram.

Mr. Schorr's fresh, virile baritone evoked interruptions of applause long before the "Evening Star" air of the opera's closing hour. Pavel Ludikar was a new Landgrave, Meder led the knights of the song contest in the Wartburg, and Miss Telva sang the siren of the Venusberg. Mr. Bodanzky conducted.

Receiver for Walb's Concern.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 5 (AP).—Frank A. Cutshall, Vice President of the Old National Bank of Fort Wayne, has been appointed receiver for the Walb Construction Company of Lagrange, a dredging concern of which Clyde A. Walb, Republican State Chairman, is President. Walb, former Vice President of the defunct First National Bank of Lagrange, and Valentine Weaver, formerly President of the institution, were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury at Indianapolis Saturday for violation of the national banking laws. Both men were arrested last night and gave bonds of $5,000.

Prima Donna Slapped by Tenor, Falls on Stage, Breaking Arm

SZEGEDIN, Hungary, Jan. 5 (AP).—A commotion was caused at the opera last night when, in full view of the audience, the popular tenor Javor slapped the face of the prima donna Zoeldhegewi three times. She fainted and in falling broke her arm.

Javor had secretly hummed an anti-Semitic song in the prima donna's ear and her reprimand angered him.

MISS ROYDEN PLEADS FOR NATIONAL SPIRIT

Delivers First Address Here—Philadelphia Women Cancel Date There.

In the first lecture of her American tour, delivered before the League for Political Education at the Town Hall yesterday morning, Maude Royden, English evangelist about whose occasional smoking controversy has arisen, spoke on "The Race Question and the Future." Each nation, she said, should foster its own native genius and traditions, its own peculiar gifts, which in turn should be so controlled as to work for the common betterment of humanity.

"To love one's own country best," she said, "to care profoundly that its national genius shall continue to exist. The right way is to have reverence for that gift we possess, and to have an attitude of humility and appreciation for the genius and gifts of the people."

Speaking at the Central Branch Y. W. C. A., 610 Lexington Avenue, in the evening, Miss Royden said that the advocates of companionate marriage and others who are concerned over problems about the relations of the sexes should be commended for criticising the "mess we've got into." She asserted, however, that harmonious family life was the highest achievement of human kind, wherefore trial and companionate marriages by their lack of emphasis on permanence, were likely to prove detrimental to the development of the finest side of the individual.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—Miss A. Maude Royden's contract to appear in this city has been canceled, it was learned today. She had been scheduled to lecture at the jubilee celebration of the Philadelphia Women's Home Missionary Society on Jan. 19. The action was taken here following similar steps by Methodist Women's organizations in Chicago and Boston.

Although Mrs. William H. Peace, Chairman of the committee which canceled Miss Royden's appearance, refused to discuss the matter today, she hinted that "too much notoriety already has been given Miss Royden's views." Other members said that the action was taken because of lack of harmony with the opinion of the woman preacher, which they said condoned drinking in a country where it was forbidden by law.

Miss Royden, however, is scheduled to speak on Jan. 22 at St. Paul's Memorial Episcopal Church, Overbrook, of which Dr. Joseph Fort Newton is pastor.

MOVE AGAINST IRISH OATH.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 5.—The Fianna Fail Party, led by Mr. de Valera, has taken the first step toward obtaining deletion of the oath of allegiance to the King from the Free State Constitution by obtaining the necessary 75,000 signatures to a petition requesting Parliament to establish machinery for popular initiation of legislative measuring in accordance with Article 48 of the Constitution.

The petition will be presented to Parliament immediately after the recess, the object being to enable a bill to be initiated replacing the oath by a declaration making no reference to the King.

The Free State Government last July introduced a bill in the Dail Eireann to abolish Artfcle 48, which got only to the second reading before the dissolution of Parliament. It is likely the bill may be re-introduced and the clause removed from the Constitution.

Smith to Attend Anawanda Ball.

Governor and Mrs. Smith are among those who have accepted invitations to attend the annual ball of the Anawanda Club of 345 Second Avenue in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor tonight. It was announced yesterday for the club that the Mayor and Mrs. Walker would also attend. Supper will be served following the grand march. Others who will attend are State Controller and Mrs. Tremaine, Surrogates Foley and O'Brien and their wives, County Clerk and Mrs. Michael Cruise, and District Attorney Banton and his wife.

MUSIC

By OLIN DOWNES.

Mendelssohn Is Revived.

Mr. Koussevitzky on a recent visit of the Boston Symphony Orchestra to this city distinguished himself and his players by the virtuoso performance of certain modern music, notably the "Daphnis and Chloe" suite of Ravel, which he will play again tomorrow afternoon. The memorable feature of last night's concert in Carnegie Hall was not a modern score nor the novelty which figured on the program. It was the well-nigh perfect rendering of Mendelssohn's "Italian" Symphony. This was a representation such as Mendelssohn seldom receives today. Either he is thought unworthy of the pains or conductors are incapable of attaining the exquisite balance, euphony and silken finish which characterized Mr. Koussevitzky's performance.

Nor were these tonal and technical characteristics the only virtues of the occasion. There was the inner spirit of the interpretation—the vitality of the rhythm, the faultless taste, the inspired choice of tempi, the insight into the nature of the music itself and the expression of certain artistic currents of its period. This symphony is tinged charmingly with the romanticism which just touched Mendelssohn with the tip of its wing. With all his faultless workmanship, his classic contour and elegance of demeanor there is the flash of something warmer, deeper and more personal in the music. As, for example, the third movement.

There Mendelssohn harks back for an instant from Italy's gay and sunny shores to his own German forest—that "Wald" which, they say, caused all romantic German musicians of the nineteenth century to weep whenever they thought of it—and for a moment there emanates from the orchestra the mystery of the forest, the sunlight and shadow of a vista which is not Italian, but nearer Mendelssohn's home. No quality of this music, interior or exterior, was lost upon Mr. Koussevitzky, who expended all his art and his magnificent command of his orchestra in a performance that deserves long memory and unstinted praise.

It is not with a view to magnifying Mendelssohn, who after all needs no praise at this time, or to belittle a young modern composer, that the playing of the Italian Symphony has been dwelt upon. This symphony was the apex of the concert, not because it was old or new or classic or romantic, but only because it was the greatest art of the evening. The symphony was followed by Alexander Tansman's piano concerto, with the composer as pianist. This work was composed last Summer and performed with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, for the first time anywhere, Dec. 29, in Symphony Hall.

The New York première was not impressive. Frankly, we have heard better music from Mr. Tansman. The ideas of this three movement concerto are slender at the best, and most interesting when they follow the curve of Polish melody. Much of the time, however, Mr. Tansman speaks with the voices of other musicians, such as Stravinsky, Ravel and younger Parisians, and he is not particularly fortunate in binding these reminiscent ideas together.

The movement which has the most definiteness and structure is the Scherzo, which is also the most conventional in form and contents. Modernism does not seem to set too comfortably upon Mr. Tansman. His first movement suffers from thick orchestration; the finale mingles suggestions of American jazz with the other items of its grab-bag. And so this concerto, which wanders from the Polish countryside to American cabarets and back again, via Paris, France, presents no convincing physiognomy and betrays creative indecision. It may be the result of a young composer's search for self-realization. On the other hand, it may be the lamentable consequence of a concerto written in hot haste for the exigencies of a tour. Not that we doubt Mr. Tansman's sincerity or his refinement as an artist. But we do not think he has done himself justice in this score. Nor has he commanding qualities as a pianist. Music and composer were cordially received.

It was natural to expect much of the final performance of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade" suite, but this was one of the occasions when Mr. Koussevitzky was apparently calculating effects. Not one of the four movements developed spontaneously under his baton. There were arbitrary charges of pace and nuance, which were not needed, and often seemed unjustified. The same directness of intention—not of procedure, but intention—felt so gratefully in the Mendelssohn symphony, would have made the familiar and picturesque music of Rimsky-Korsakoff as exciting as it seldom fails to be. Last night his suite was an anti-climax, as sometimes happens when Mr. Koussevitzky too deliberately plans his reading.

Recital by Yolanda Mero.

Yolanda Mero, pianist, recently heard with local orchestras in her own compositions for brilliant solo performance, gave an intimate matinee recital before invited subscribers yesterday at Steinway Hall. Beethoven's sonata, Op. 31, in D minor, was the classic start of a profitable afternoon, the interpretation of a well grounded and sincere musician. Besides Chopin and Debussy groups, Miss Mero was heard in an octave study by Carolus Agghazy, one of Schelling's "Silhouettes" and the "Caprice Burlesque" of Gabrilowitsch.

Seeks to Enjoin Zane Grey on Book.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP).—An injunction suit to prevent Zane Grey, the author, from selling any more copies of his book, "The Thundering Herd," has been filed in Federal Court here by Charles A. Maddux of this city. The petition also demanded an accounting of profits, alleging infringement of copyright.

Maddux asserts that Grey's book bears a marked resemblance to one entitled "The Border and the Buffalo," which was written by the late John R. Cook and published in 1907. He declared Cook's widow assigned to Maddux all rights to the book.

THE NEW YORK TIMES
A STANDARD
From Brooklyn Daily Eagle,

The success of The Times indicates clearly enough the public appreciation of the journal, but only practical newspaper men, whose business it is to study every detail of the process and product of the press, can fully appraise all the excellencies represented by The Times. It is rightly used as a standard in judging other newspapers. Its increasing power and influence give satisfaction to all those engaged in the calling of journalism, as well as to the growing number of daily readers.

TUTTLE COMMITTEE TO ACT ON GOUGING

Dr. Cadman, L. R. Eastman, Dr. Wise, Dr. Brown and Conboy Comprise the Committee.

A committee of five was appointed yesterday by United States Attorney Tuttle to confer with representatives of theatrical ticket agencies and possibly with representatives of the theatres, to eliminate evils and abuses that have grown up through charging excessive prices for tickets. The appointment of the committee was suggested by the twenty-four ticket agencies which were convicted last Summer for failing to pay the tax due on all tickets sold for more than 50 cents over the box office price.

Just what the duties of the committee will be was not made thoroughly clear beyond the statement that the members of it will do what they can to see that the agencies adhere to their promise to Mr. Tuttle to keep accurate sets of books, to permit these books to be examined by Hugh McQuillan, Chief of the Intelligence Unit of the Treasury as often as he pleases, and to act generally hereafter within the law. The five members of the committee are:

The Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Lucius R. Eastman, President of the Merchants Association and of the American Arbitration Association; Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue; Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, Chancellor of New York University, and Martin Conboy, former President of the Catholic Club.

The twenty-four agencies, following the failure of their appeal from the conviction of one of their number and in the face of prison sentences made a general admission that Mr. Tuttle was right in his view that the tax law was constitutional and announced that they would make no further effort to escape responsibility for their misdeeds, and then, to prove their sincerity, suggested the appointment of a committee. Mr. Tuttle explained that the committee would have no police or punitive powers, that it would only be expected to establish a plan by which the business of the agencies would hereafter be properly conducted and that if such a plan was not accepted by the agencies, to draft a bill for submission to the Legislature that would accomplish the ends sought.

ASKS SUIT FOR OPERA FUNDS

Philadelphia Taxpayer Says Council Illegally Voted $100,000.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—The City Solicitor today was asked to file suit against members of the City Council and the Civic Opera Company to recover about $100,000 of municipal funds spent for opera since 1923.

Request for the suit was made by Mrs. Wilhelmina Kulp, as a taxpayer, through her attorney, Elton J. Buckley. Mrs. Kulp challenged the $25,000 appropriation the City Council made in 1926 to the Opera Company on the grounds that it furnished money for a private enterprise in violation of the law. The State Supreme Court sustained this petition yesterday, holding the payment to be illegal.

In his request for the suit, Mr. Buckley points out that the City Council withheld payments to the Opera Company last year and in the current budget. He contends that if the payment was illegal in 1926, it was illegal in other years.

To Tally Vote on "2x2—5" Jan. 26.

Results of balloting by members of the Civic Repertory Theatre organization to determine whether or not the production of "2x2—5" should be withdrawn from the repertory will be made public on Jan. 26, it was announced yesterday. Meanwhile, the play, which has been attacked in some quarters as immoral, will remain in the program. The voting to date, it is said, is about 10 to 1 in favor of retaining the play in the repertory.

SCREEN NOTES.

Charlie Chaplin's new comedy, "The Circus," which has been almost two years in the making, is to be presented tonight at a special midnight showing at the Mark Strand. Mr. Chaplin will not be present.

"On Your Toes," one of Reginald Denny's specialties, is booked for the Colony.

"The Private Life of Helen of Troy" is to decorate the Paramount screen.

"The Devil Dancer," with Gilda Gray, continues at the Rivoli.

At the Capitol, the principal attraction will be "Baby Mine," with Karl Dane and George K. Arthur.

Josef von Sternberg, director of the picture, "Underworld," received from Paramount Famous Lasky a gold medal and a check for $10,000, his film having been adjudged by Jesse Lasky, S. R. Kent and Sam Katz, the outstanding feature that has been exhibited at the Paramount Theatre during the past year. Second prize was awarded to Clarence Badger for the direction of his film, "It," and third prize went to Maurits Stiller for his work on "Hotel Imperial."

The first moving pictures made under water by a movable motion picture camera, without the use of glass screens or other protection, will be shown at the Jolson Theatre next Sunday evening by William Beebe for the benefit of the Stonywold Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

DEFIANT OVER 'THE RACKET'

Producer Says He'll Give Play in Chicago Regardless of Authorities.

Telegraphic reports from Chicago that State's Attorney Crowe would take steps to keep "The Racket" from being produced in that city brought an immediate statement yesterday from the producer that the play would be promptly presented there by a special company. The play, which purports to be an expose of Chicago political conditions, is the work of Bartlett Cormack, a former Chicago newspaper man, and was produced at the Ambassador Theatre a few months ago by Alexander McKaig.

Mr. McKaig announced yesterday that he had wired the State's Attorney's office, asking for confirmation of the reports of contemplated suppression and objecting to "arbitrary, un-American, and confiscatory action." In a further statement the producer declared that the play would be acted in Chicago, regardless of the State's Attorney's attitude.

PLANS TO CURB BENEFITS.

Theatrical Agency to Keep From Its List the Undeserving Ones.

An attempt to curb the large number of benefits in which their performers are asked to appear was announced yesterday by Lyons & Lyons, Inc., a theatrical agency with offices in the Paramount Building. The agency has employed Diane De Groot, who is said to be a former social service worker, to weed out the deserving from the non-deserving requests from charitable institutions which intend to give benefits and ask for theatrical participation.

It was further announced that where the cause is worthy Lyons & Lyons will be ready to take full charge of the show and supply entertainers who are under their management without cost.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Ruth Nugent has been engaged for Marry Dolan's "She Feet Under," announced to open here the week of Feb. 6.

Allan Dinehart and Helen Chandler are joining the cast of "The Silent House," coming to New York in a few weeks. The play is now being shown in Philadelphia.

"Restitution," a play by Calvin Johnston and Hugh Brandon, is announced for February presentation by George H. Brennan, producer of "Mongolia."

"Saturday's Children" will be produced in Los Angeles next Monday night.

There will be three weekly matinees of "The Ivory Door" at the Charles Hopkins Theatre hereafter—Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

HOTEL ST. GEORGE
BROOKLYN

Will Modern Wonders Never Cease?

Can you imagine a marvelous, workless home just four minutes from the rush of Lower Manhattan—choicely situated in a fine old residential district and as free from disconcerting noise and confusion as a sanctuary?

The St. George is looking across the East River towards you this minute. Its hospitable doors—so temptingly handy—are open wide in friendly welcome. Just 4 minutes from Wall Street and 15 from Times Square.

IMPORTANT—Some time ago the St. George issued a remarkable book—"Home Through the Ages"—perhaps the most unusual thing of its kind ever done. Three large editions have been exhausted and the fourth is ready. Write or phone for your gratis copy.

Music is played at dinner and through the evening.

AUTO SHOW TO HAVE SETTING OF A PICNIC

CARS INCLUDE 61 TYPES

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED

Hotels Report That Reservations Are Piling Up—Many Meetings and Dinners on Program.

With the makers of forty-three types of passenger cars and eighteen types of trucks busy getting their exhibits into the Grand Central Palace and arranging them, the twenty-eighth Annual National Automobile Show was visibly coming to life yesterday. The two upper floors of the four that will be devoted to the exhibition were well filled and the lower floors were rapidly filling up.

Each floor suggested something of cars parked for a great picnic, as the decorative scheme of the show this year is one of flowers and greenery. Everything indoors is outdoors in appearance. Columns entwined with foliage offer vistas through gardens of roses.

The show will open tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and will continue until Jan. 14, except Sunday. Openings on other days will be at 10 A. M. The makes of passenger cars to be exhibited are:

Auburn, Buick, Cadillac, Chandler, Chevrolet, Chrysler, Cunningham, Diana, Dodge, duPont, Elcar, Erskine, Essex, Falcon, Flint, Franklin, Gardner, Hudson, Hupmobile, Jordan, Kissel, La Salle, Lincoln, Locomobile, Marmon, Moon, Nash, Oakland, Oldsmobile, Packard, Paige, Peerless, Pierce-Arrow, Pontiac, Reo, Star, Stearns-Knight, Studebaker, Stutz, Velie, Whippet, Willys-Knight and Wolverine.

Trucks to Be Exhibited.

Space has also been reserved for the following trucks:

American LaFrance, Chevrolet, Corbitt, Cunningham, Federal, G. M. C., Graham, Larrabee-Devo, Reo, Roamer, Sayers & Scovill, Schacht, Selden, Star, Stewart, Studebaker, Stutz, and Erskine.

In addition there will be fifty-six shop equipment exhibitors and 156 exhibitors of accessories.

Reports from the hotels indicate a record crowd of visitors for the show. So much room space has already been taken up by arrivals and reservations that the Hotel Association has opened a bureau at 221 West Fifty-seventh Street where any one who has difficulty in obtaining accommodations may apply for assistance. The telephone number is Circle 9400.

Many Meetings on Program.

MUSIC FROM LONDON IS REBROADCAST

Short Wave Used for Sending Program Across Atlantic to W. G. Y. in Schenectady.

FOUR STATIONS ON CIRCUIT

Dinner Concert Lasts an Hour—Entertainments to Be on the Air Tonight.

All New York State was entertained last night with an hour of dinner music played in London, broadcast across the Atlantic on short waves and rebroadcast to American listeners from WGY, the General Electric Company's station in Schenectady, WFBL in Syracuse, WHAM in Rochester and WMAK in Buffalo. The signals from WGY's fifty-kilowatt transmitter came into New York City with as much intensity as those of local stations.

The dinner program began at 6:15 P. M., New York time, at the London Music Hall and was carried by land wires from a microphone there to the powerful British Broadcasting Company short-wave transmitter 5SW at Chelmsford, England. The short wave signals were picked up at Schenectady and again fed by land lines to the various American broadcasting stations.

Under the names "Olive Palmer" and "Paul Oliver" a soprano and tenor will be guest artists heard tonight in the musical portrayal of a bull-fight beginning at 10 o'clock tonight over WEAF and twenty-nine stations. Gus Haenschen will direct the orchestra.

The WNYC "Air College" lectures tonight will be a talk on "Current Commerce," at 7:35 o'clock, by Professor G. M. Brett, and "Glimpses of Shakespeare," at 7:55 o'clock, by Professor R. E. Mayne.

Senator Copeland will speak at 10 A. M. today over WEAF on "Health" in the series of daily talks on household topics.

A ringside description of the Tommy Loughran-Leo Lomski light heavyweight championship boxing bout in Madison Square Garden tonight will be broadcast beginning at 9 o'clock over WABC.

"American Leaders of Foreign Birth" is the topic of a talk to be given tonight at 8:45 o'clock over WOR by a speaker presented under the direction of Dr. Robert T. Hill of New York University.

Station WREN, owned and operated by the Jenny Wren Company of Lawrence, Kan., has been added to the WJZ network, according to F. M. Clelland, Vice President of the National Broadcasting Company. WREN utilizes the wave length of 254.1 meters or 1,180 kilocycles, and a power of 750 watts.

Station WLTH of Brooklyn will remain silent on Wednesdays until further notice to facilitate a study of the changes in waves made by the Federal Radio Commission, it was announced yesterday by Samuel J. Gellard, President. Its studios are in the Leverich Towers Hotel. Its programs have been transferred to other days of the week.

GETS RADIO FROM LIBERIA.

Paterson Man Picks Up Message Telling of President's Inaugural.

A radio dispatch to The Associated Press from Monrovia, Liberia, under date of Jan. 4, has been picked up and forwarded by George F. Gaede of Paterson, N. J., a member of the American Radio Relay League. The dispatch follows:

"The President of Liberia, Charles D. King, took the oath of office for his third term at noon today. He is the first three-term President of the republic.

"The special envoys of the United States and Dahomey, the Liberian Ministers of France and England, the Foreign and Liberian Diplomatic Corps, as well as a vast assembly of representatives from all parts of Liberia attended the impressive service. President King made a brief speech."

FOR RADIO ON LIGHT WIRES.

Company Here Puts Project Before Radio Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—Wired Radio, Inc., of 60 Broadway, New York City, has applied to the Federal Radio Commission for permission to rebroadcast programs over electric lighting systems.

The commission responded that the application cannot be granted prior to the short wave hearings scheduled for Jan. 17, since use of short waves is involved in the application. The request was for permission to use three frequencies in the band commencing with 1,500 kilocycles. Programs would be picked up in New York and transmitted by wire to listeners.

The commission regards the application with much interest, since it may offer prospects for a new radio system. If electric lighting systems are used and the plan should become popular, it was declared, the way might be opened for charging users of programs to broadcast.

50 Fined for Lacking 1928 Tags.

Fifty motorists were fined from $1 to $10 by Magistrates Maesery and Renaud in Traffic Court yesterday for failure to obtain and attach 1928 license plates. The Magistrates warned the offenders that henceforth the penalty would be more severe.

Paige Company Changes Name.

Joseph B. Graham, President of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company, announced that at a special meeting of stockholders yesterday the name of the company was changed to Graham-Paige Motors Corporation.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The sweeping decline which occurred in speculative shares on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and which carried prices down 4 to 12 per cent. for a long list of stocks before the break halted, was ascribed by Wall Street to the preceding afternoon's report on brokers' borrowings. It is probable enough that the Stock Exchange's compilation, with the increase of $841,000,000 for the month and of $1,340,000,000 for the whole year 1927, startled and disturbed the speculative community. It may be argued with plausibility that the stock market was in shape that rendered it highly vulnerable to any unpleasant news and that, if the downward reaction had not come because of "brokers' loans," something else would have brought it. Yet the market has refused, during many recent weeks, to pay the least attention to what would ordinarily be construed as unsettling developments, and at the same time it has displayed rather evident uneasiness over any sudden expansion of such credits.

Apparently, the reason for that attitude was Wall Street's doubt as to whether this wholly unprecedented heaping-up of credit on the Stock Exchange would not at some point necessitate action by high banking authorities to control it. Uncertainty on that matter, and recollection of what has in other years followed even a "gesture" of disapproval by the Federal Reserve, have created a sense of nervousness over the heaping-up of "brokers' loans," and yesterday's market was probably governed by that feeling. For various reasons, it is difficult to outline possibilities of action in such a matter and at the present time. It may reasonably be conjectured that the Reserve banks would prefer to see the stock market and the "brokers' loans" readjust themselves. But that is for events to determine. The question which has all along remained to be answered was whether Wall Street's spirit of indifference to all occurrences except those which stimulated speculation for the rise could be indefinitely continued.

Yesterday's decline in prices was naturally most violent in stocks which have been advanced with the greater rapidity of late. Greene-Cananea Copper, which had risen 20 points between Tuesday and the middle of last week, had lost 13 yesterday at its lowest, on top of a 7-point break the day before. Other industrial shares fell 2 to 6 points, and for a time the pressure of sales caused a fall of 3 to 4¾ points in such stocks as United States Steel and General Motors. These stocks, however, and others with them, regained part of the lost ground before the closing.

Call money declined to 4 per cent., no surprising result when the natural tendencies of the week were reinforced by stock market liquidation. Sterling held slightly steadier, and no more gold went out. The Reserve bank's report on brokers' loans partly explained the seeming discrepancy between preceding weekly statements from that source and Wednesday's Stock Exchange calculation. The statement for the week, which included the last three days of December, showed $92,401,000 increase, as against $20,800,000 increase in the corresponding week a year ago, and it made the outstanding total of brokers' loans $901,000,000 larger than at this date in 1927. From the Reserve System's report of its own position, it appeared that it entered the new year with gold holdings $112,900,000 less than a year ago, and its ratio of reserve somewhat lower than in any corresponding week since 1921.

There was little or no other news of financial interest. The report on loadings of railway freight in the week ending Dec. 24 gave slight opportunity for comparisons, because the corresponding week in all other recent years has included the Christmas holiday. The cabled weekly statement of the Bank of France attracted attention because of two striking movements in its accounts. One was the increase of 2,088,000,000 francs in note circulation, which brought that item to its highest recorded figure, greater even than that of August, 1926. The other, possibly connected with the note expansion, was an increase of 1,188,000,000 francs in the item which includes foreign exchange acquired, and which also now stands at its maximum.

$56,601,900 of Straus Bonds Called.

Bond issues amounting to $56,601,900 underwritten by S. W. Straus & Co. were called during 1927, comprising forty-six issues, it was reported yesterday. The premiums paid on the issues amounted to $2,072,210. The largest issue called was the $10,995,000 General Motors Building Corporation first 7s, called at 107½.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and in the Financial Markets.

After a general and, in some stocks, very violent reaction in the middle of the day, the stock market steadied in the later dealings yesterday. The unsettlement began shortly after 11 o'clock, and by noon had extended to all departments of the market. At about 12:15 o'clock the official call money rate was reduced from 4½ per cent. to 4 per cent., while accommodations were offered in the outside market at as low as 3½ per cent. This announcement had the effect of arresting the pace of the declines in stocks. There were desultory attacks on various parts of the market during the remainder of the afternoon, but the trading slowly regained composure and stocks which had suffered the widest break in the middle of the day recovered from 1 to 3 points of their losses.

One Stock's Influence.

It was a precipitate break in Greene Cananea, a highly exploited pool specialty, which gave the signal for yesterday's downrush. It was generally believed in Wall Street that aggressive professional selling was induced by the break in this stock, which has been looked upon as one of the "danger spots" for some time past. Greene Cananea dipped from its high of 154½ to a low of 139 before the reversal came early in the afternoon. The recovery did not stop until the stock had pulled up at 148¾, only a little less than 2 points below the opening price. That the sponsors of the stock were not ready to have the advance checked was evident. American Smelting, the leader of the copper group, dipped 6¼ points from its high, recovering 2 points of the break. General Motors rose ¾ point, fell 4 points and recovered 1¼. United States Steel advanced ⅞, dropped 2⅝ and recovered 1. International Harvester fell 6½ and regained 2½. Wright Aero fell 5¼ and rose 2⅜. There were a few strong spots, among them New Haven Railway, which, in uncommonly heavy trading, showed a net gain of 1¾.

Third Largest Trading Day.

Total transactions on the Stock Exchange yesterday, reaching 2,384,060 shares, were the largest of any day since March 9, 1926, when the high record of 3,786,111 was reached. Yesterday's business stood third on the record, being slightly exceeded by the 2,446,747-share day on Nov. 9, 1925. None of the large days in 1927 approached yesterday's record by 182,000 shares.

Yesterday's Slate Recovery.

The characteristic of the stock market which seemed to attract most attention in Wall Street, next to the tremendous turnover, was the rather impressive manner in which many stocks snapped back when the pressure was lifted from them. Gains of from fractions to as much as 3 points from the lows of the day were established in the leading issues after they had "touched bottom." It was assumed that the support for the market developed from two sources: one of them "institutional buying" for the protection of particular issues; the other, the recapturing of their lines by shorts who had put them out earlier in the day. At any rate, although the market was highly irregular, it showed a fairly steady tone at the close.

The Speculative Position.

It was a matter of comment in the financial district yesterday that an especially "thin market" has developed in many stocks, particularly those issues which were in great popular favor in the latter part of last year. It appeared to these observers that in such issues liquidation was under way and that pools in them were no longer anxious to buy stocks, but were anxious to distribute them. At all events, it was a matter of comment that many of the pools now "back away" from offers when exceptionally large blocks of stock are tendered.

Future Influences on the Market.

In some quarters of Wall Street yesterday's decline started discussion of what adverse influences might arise to affect the market later on. It was considered unlikely that the stock market will run through the year without paying a great deal of attention to politics, but it was also felt that it is a little too early yet to expect attacks of chills and fever because of political developments. It is a strong belief in Wall Street that the market will be strong and active just before election, in order, as Wall Street quaintly puts it, to emphasize "Republican prosperity." There was some conjecture as to what the December-quarter industrial company statements and the December railway returns will show and whether the stock market will react to these statements as it did to those in October.

The Steel Tonnage Figures.

Wall Street forecasters were devoting considerable attention yesterday to the possibility of a large increase in unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, the official statement of which will come out next Tuesday. It was predicted that the increase for December will run above 200,000 and that it may amount to 300,000 tons. Such an increase would be the largest for any month since December, 1925.

MONEY.

THURSDAY, JAN. 5, 1928.

Stock Exchange call money continued extremely easy by reason of the surplus funds on offer. Renewing at 4½ per cent., a drop of a full 1 per cent. from Wednesday's charge for standing loans, it was not long before new money loaned at 4, with street trades at 3½. This is the lowest quotation in two weeks. Time money was slightly more active at 4¼ per cent. for dates from 90 days up. Business money was unchanged.

Increase Last Year Set New Record With Total of $1,574,960,575.

LATIN AMERICA LOSES LEAD

European Interests Forge Ahead in the Placing of Securities in This Market.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—American investments abroad reached the huge total of about $13,000,000,000 at the end of 1927, according to estimates made today by the Department of Commerce. This is exclusive of about $10,000,000,000 of war-time debts owed to the American Government by the allied Governments.

The year 1927 saw a new record established for foreign issues publicly offered in the United States, the total for that period reaching $1,574,960,575. It is the fifth time that flotations for any year have passed the billion-dollar mark, the other instances being in 1916, during the World War, 1924, 1925 and 1926.

The rapid growth in the total owed American investors by foreign Governments and industries was considered here of unusual interest because of the uncertainty concerning the working out of the Dawes plan for the collection of German reparations and the effect of success or failure on the economic fabric of Europe.

Record Expected This Year.

Informed observers here, however, expressed the belief that 1928 might see another record established in the matter of loans floated by foreign interests in this country. In their opinion, issues privately taken probably would increase over 1927. This class of loans includes borrowings by industries which are not offered to the public by participating banking interests. Italy also is expected to seek another loan.

Estimates of total American investments abroad have gone as high as $14,500,000,000, but the Department of Commerce experts are inclined to a more conservative calculation, and believe that a total of $13,000,000,000 nearly represents the actual figure. This total includes public offerings, of which it is possible to obtain a fairly close accounting, and so-called "direct investments," of which it is more difficult to make an accurate estimate.

The survey by the Finance and Investment Division of the Commerce Department, of which Grosvernor M. Jones is head, is the most comprehensive that has been attempted, and endeavors to point out the more significant developments in connection with America's steady growth as a great creditor nation. Says the department:

"During 1927 American underwriters publicly offered foreign capital securities of a total par value of $1,574,960,575 (tentative figures)—8.39 per cent. more than the total amount for 1926 ($1,318,234,850), the previous record year. Deducting refunding issues, the foreign securities offered in this market during the year had an aggregate net value of $1,376,592,875, as compared with $1,134,659,650 for 1926, a net increase of about $242,000,000.

Increase in Last Quarter.

"The par value of foreign securities publicly offered during the October-December quarter of 1927 amounted to $528,373,500, as compared with $428,101,700 for the same quarter last year, each of these quarters being the record quarter of the year. The total of new foreign capital (par value minus refunding) taken by Americans during the quarter was $420,873,500, against $326,801,800 in the corresponding period of last year, a net increase of about $94,000,000.

"Foreign securities publicly offered during October totaled $200,105,000. This figure surpassed that of October last year by $105,865,000. October of both years recorded the heaviest foreign financing of the year and of the quarter. December showed the lightest financing of the quarter, $101,802,000 as compared with $138,665,700 for December, 1926. November offerings totaled $166,366,500, compared with $135,196,000 for the same month of 1926."

A comparison of American foreign financing during 1927 with earlier periods appears in a detailed table (given below). The figures in the table, it is stated, represent probably more than 95 per cent. of the foreign capital issues publicly offered in this country and are indispensable in estimating the growth and activity of America as a creditor nation.

Europe Leads Latin America.

The report then continues:

"The outstanding features of the foreign underwritings of the United States during the fourth quarter were:

"1. Europe Retains Lead Over Latin-America—During the fourth quarter of 1926, Latin-America recovered first place as a borrower in the United States. It continued to hold the lead during the first quarter of 1927, but was replaced during the second, third and fourth quarters by Europe.

"European loans for the third quarter amounted to $93,615,000 as compared with $77,702,000, and in the fourth quarter European loans were $307,341,000 and Latin-American loans were $112,983,500.

"2. England Again in American Market—During the second quarter of 1927 a British company was a borrower in this market, the first appearance of English securities for some periods. During the third quarter two British concerns floated loans here and again in the fourth quarter a British note issue was sold in this market.

"3. Latin America Holds Lead Over Canada—During the second quarter of 1927 Canadian loans were $20,067,500 greater than those to Latin America while in the third quarter loans to Latin America exceeded those to Canada by over $29,000,000 and in the fourth quarter by about $23,000,000.

"4. The Predominance of Governmental Loans—During the fourth quarter of 1926 Governmental issues recovered their traditional lead over corporate issues which it held during all four quarters of 1927.

"5. German Loans Irregular—During the fourth quarter of 1926 German borrowing in this market began to decline and in each of the first two quarters of 1927 only one German loan was floated. During the third quarter the ban on German foreign borrowing was lifted and Germany again entered the American market, obtaining during the quarter a total par value of $87,685,000.

"In October German loans were again heavy, amounting to $104,590,000; in November one German loan of $20,000,000 was sold in this market, while in December no German loan was sold here. German loans during the fourth quarter amounted to $124,590,000.

Large Loans in Last Quarter.

"6. Large Loans Important—During the quarter fifteen different loans for $10,000,000 or over were sold in the American market and thirteen of this number were for $15,000,000 or over. The large loans of the quarter were the important factor in the large total recorded for the fourth quarter.

"7. Scandinavian Offerings Important—During the fourth quarter of 1927 the Scandinavian countries borrowed in the American market for both Governmental and corporate purposes. The par value of the Governmental loans was $13,946,500, while the amount borrowed for corporate purposes amounted to $20,715,500.

"8—Stabilization Loans—The $47,000,000 American portion of the Polish stabilization loan was one of the important features of the quarter's financing. The sum of $4,000,000 of the $50,000,000 Republic of Peru loan was also for stabilization and the $41,500,000 loans to the United States of Brazil, while not definitely for stabilization, certainly can be considered a preliminary step in that direction.

"9—Irish Free State Loan—The December total was increased $15,000,000 by the Irish Free State loan, which is a new feature in American foreign financing.

International Match Issue.

"10—International Match Corporation Loan Used to Refund the French 8s of 1920—The $50,000,000 issue of the International Match Corporation was one of the most interesting in the history of American foreign financing. This issue was sold in this market by the American company and the proceeds immediately turned over to the Swedish Match Company for the purchase of $75,000,000 5 per cent. bonds of the French Republic, who in turn instructed its New York agents to issue redemption notice for the outstanding French 8s of 1920.

"11—Financial Institutions Being Financed in the United States—During the fourth quarter no less than twelve different foreign banking institutions obtained funds in this market through the sale of their securities; in all, they obtained $107,764,000.

"Of the total foreign securities floated during the quarter, governmental issues were valued at $272,864,500 and corporate at $255,509,000. Europe, the largest borrower, accounted for $307,341,000; Latin America came next with a total of $112,983,500; Canada was third with $80,994,000; while the Far East and territorial possessions received $7,650,000 and $10,405,000, respectively.

"The importance of privately taken foreign capital issues of short-term credits to foreigners and of direct investments of American capital abroad was definitely shown in the balance of international payments of the United States in 1926, issued by this division. The study contains a partial list of such investments and gives an estimate of $330,000,000 as the approximate total for the year."

Full Data Hard to Obtain.

"As these transactions are not actively advertised, complete and accurate records of them are especially difficult to obtain. During the first quarter of 1927 the Finance and Investment Division obtained information regarding private and direct investments involving about $10,000,000. In the second quarter these items represented a total of over $70,000,000.

"For the third quarter information was obtained regarding at least twenty different transactions of this type in which over $105,000,000 of American capital was used. In the fourth quarter at least thirty-four of these transactions were recorded in which over $125,000,000 was invested by Americans. In addition to this over $100,000,000 in revolving credits have been put at the disposal of several central banking institutions.

"During the second quarter of 1927 at least $14,000,000 of foreign capital was invested in the United States. During the third quarter no particulars regarding any transactions of this type were received. During the fourth quarter of 1927 the Finance and Investment Division obtained information in regard to several transactions involving foreign capital invested in the United States which is repeated, but should be given liberal reservation for possible errors."

BROKERS' LOANS HIGHEST ON RECORD

Federal Reserve Board Shows Rise of $92,401,000 for the Week, to $3,810,023,000.

EXPANSION SINCE NOVEMBER

Total Is $991,462,000 Higher Than Year Ago and $466,246,000 More Than at End of October.

An increase of $92,401,000 in brokers' loans, resulting in a record-breaking total of $3,810,023,000, was announced yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board. The report, issued after the close of the stock market, created unusual interest in Wall Street, since it followed by only one day the announcement by the Stock Exchange of an increase of more than $341,000,000 in its compilation of brokers' loans for the month of December.

The increase in the Federal Reserve total took place in the face of a falling off of $78,162,000 in the loans made for the account of the group classed as "others," that is, large corporations and wealthy individuals who invest their liquid funds in the collateral loan market. The New York banks increased their loans by $137,641,000 during the week and out-of-town banks by $32,022,000.

Following are the detailed figures on the stock and bond collateral loans made to brokers by the reporting Federal Reserve member banks of New York City:

	Jan. 4.	Dec. 28.
Loans for own account	$1,511,177,000	$1,373,536,000
For others	527,633,000	1,605,705,000

Of the total on Jan. 4, $2,969,942,000 consisted of demand loans and $840,074,000 of time loans, which compared with $2,864,107,000 of demand and $853,515,000 of time loans in the preceding week.

The expansion in brokers' loans has been unbroken since the beginning of November, with the exception of the week of Dec. 14, when a decrease of $4,450,000 took place. The present total is $466,246,000 above that in effect at the end of October. Compared with the first week of January, 1927, the present total shows an increase of $991,462,000.

The present total is the largest ever recorded by the Federal Reserve authorities. The high point of 1927 was $3,717,622,000, reached in the final week of the year, and the high record of 1926 was $3,141,125,000, established on Jan. 5.

Exchange Seat Brings $300,000.

A seven months' profit of $100,000 came yesterday to James B. Williams Jr., who sold his membership in the New York Stock Exchange to H. Duncan Wood for $300,000. Mr. Williams purchased his seat in May, 1927, for $200,000. The price he received was $5,000 less than the last recorded sale and $10,000 below the record high price paid for several seats during the last two months of 1927.

$12,000 Securities Reported Lost.

A package of non-negotiable securities valued at about $12,000, sent by registered mail by the New York Stock Exchange firm of Moore & Schley to a correspondent in Richmond, Va., was reported yesterday as lost. A representative of the firm said he did not know how the securities were lost.

ROCHESTER AWARDS BONDS

Issue of $5,710,000 to Be Placed on Market Today.

The City of Rochester, N. Y., awarded yesterday an issue of $5,710,000 4 per cent. various improvement bonds at a price of 102.379 to a syndicate headed by the First National Bank of New York and including Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co., White, Weld & Co., Redmond & Co., Barr Brothers & Co., the William R. Compton Company, Phelps, Fenn & Co., Salomon Brothers & Hutzler, Clark Williams & Co., Eastman, Dillon & Co., the Detroit Company, Inc., and Sage, Wolcott & Steele of Rochester. The second highest bid was 102.25, made by the Union Trust Company of Rochester.

The bonds, which will mature serially on Feb. 1, 1929 to 1958, will be offered today at prices to yield 3.50 to 3.70 per cent. Proceeds of the issue will be used for water works, school, land purchase, hospital and subway building construction. The city reported an assessed valuation of $521,413,147 for 1927 and a net bonded debt of $47,627,816.

The City of Bridgeport, Conn., has issued a call for bids for an issue of $760,000 4 per cent. bonds, due serially, Feb. 1, 1929 to 1958, to be offered on Wednesday, Jan. 11.

An issue of $270,000 Rockland, Mass., 3¾ per cent. school bonds was awarded yesterday to Eldredge & Co. at 101.387.

(10 East 40th Street Corporation, New York)

First Mortgage 6% Serial Gold Bond Certificates

Dated as of January 1, 1928 — Due Serially from January 1, 1931 to January 1, 1940

Principal payable at the office of Greenebaum Sons Securities Corporation, New York, or at the office of Greenebaum Sons Investment Company, Chicago, or at the office of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Incorporated, in New York or at the office of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Incorporated, in Chicago, and semi-annual interest (January 1st and July 1st) payable at said offices. Certificates in denominations of $1,000 and $500 with interest warrants attached. Certificates are redeemable in whole or in part, on any interest payment date, up to and including January 1, 1933, by payment of principal and accrued interest and a premium of 2% of the principal amount thereof, and thereafter by payment of principal and accrued interest and a premium of 1% of the principal amount thereof, on notice, as provided in said mortgage. Borrower agrees to pay both principal and interest without deduction for any normal Federal income taxes which are not in excess of 2% of the annual interest on said certificates. The Borrower agrees to refund State and District of Columbia taxes, except those in the nature of transfer, inheritance or estate taxes, not exceeding a sum equal to one-half of 1% of the principal of such certificates in any one year, on proper timely application as provided in the trust mortgage.

The Bond and First Mortgage, of which these Certificates are a part, will be the direct obligation of 10 East 40th Street Corporation

THE CHASE NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, CORPORATE TRUSTEE

Arnold, Constable & Company, Incorporated, have leased, for a period extending to September 30, 1957, a substantial portion of space in this building, upon a uniform annual rental basis aggregating $2,625,000 for the first fifteen-year period of this lease, as an addition to space now occupied by them on Fifth Avenue.

Location: The 10 East 40th Street Building now under construction, situated on the south side of Fortieth Street just off Fifth Avenue and running through to and including Nos. 7-11 East Thirty-Ninth Street, will adjoin the present Arnold, Constable Building at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Fortieth Street. This location is one of the most desirable store and office building sites in the midtown Fifth Avenue business center. Its proximity to Fifth Avenue, Grand Central Station and Forty-Second Street offers unusual transportation facilities.

Appraisals: Independent appraisals by recognized authorities have been made. The lowest of these appraisals is as follows:

Land owned in fee and Completed Building:

On the basis of the above appraisal the land and completed building together will have a valuation of 150% of the amount of this loan. These Certificates, in the opinion of counsel, will be legal investments for trust funds under the laws of the State of New York upon completion of the building.

Security: This issue, in the opinion of counsel, will be secured by a First (Closed) Mortgage on land owned in fee and a forty-four story store and office building when completed. The site contains approximately 15,000 square feet fronting 74 feet on East Fortieth Street and 75 feet on East Thirty-Ninth Street with a depth of 197 feet 6 inches. The building will be one of the highest so far erected in this midtown section.

Leases: Arnold, Constable & Company, Incorporated, have leased the first six floors and basement of the building, for a period extending to September 30, 1957, upon a uniform annual rental basis aggregating $2,625,000 for the first fifteen-year period of this lease. The company, which operates one of New York's largest department stores, was established over a hundred years ago and its increased business necessitates enlarging the present quarters.

Earnings: Independent estimate of income and operating expenses of the property by Chas. F. Noyes Company, Inc., is as follows:

Gross Rental (deducting vacancy allowance)	$935,000
Operating Expenses, Taxes and Insurance	260,000
Net Income	$675,000

Borrowing Corporation: This loan will be the direct obligation of 10 East 40th Street Corporation, all of whose stock is owned by Houston Properties Corporation, of which Jesse H. Jones, Esq., is President. Houston Properties Corporation has controlling stock ownership of subsidiary companies owning the following buildings in New York: 200 Madison Avenue, known as the International Combustion Building, 253 Madison Avenue, 257 Madison Avenue, and 24 East 40th Street, and substantial interests in Mayfair House at 65th Street and Park Avenue and 812 Park Avenue.

Offered if, as, and when issued and subject to the approval of Messrs. Stoddard & Mark, of New York, and Messrs. Newman, Poppenhusen, Stern & Johnston, of Chicago, for the bankers, and by White & Case, of New York, for the borrowing corporation.

Concourse Plaza Bond Certificates Called

ON August 1, 1923, the Commonwealth Bond Corporation underwrote a bond issue of $1,500,000 secured by the Concourse Plaza Building, located at No. 900 Grand Concourse, New York City.

On February 1, 1928, an institution loan of $1,600,000 will replace the original loan.

We will be glad to accept any Concourse Plaza bonds in exchange for other securities underwritten by this company and will allow the full call premiums as follows: 105 on bonds maturing up to August 1, 1929; 103 for those maturing thereafter up to August 1, 1934; and 102 for bonds maturing thereafter.

The Concourse Plaza issue was the first serial coupon bond issue secured by a specific building to be Legal for the Investment of Trust Funds under the laws of the State of New York. This particular type of security has met with widespread approval and we are pleased to have been its originators.

MELLON TO REDEEM THIRD LIBERTIES

BONDS ABOVE FACE VALUE

Holders May Get Market Price by an Offset Arrangement in Refunding Other Issues.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Secretary Mellon said today that a plan for redemption of outstanding Third Liberty 4¼ per cent. bonds was being considered by the Treasury Department, and, probably would be made known soon. He indicated that in a general way it would follow along the lines of the plan used last year in refunding more than $8,000,000 of the Second Liberty issue. There were $2,147,653,150 of the Third Liberty loan bonds in the hands of investors on Jan. 1.

The original total of the Third Liberty loan, one of the wartime issues, was $4,175,650,050. They were made redeemable in September, 1928, without any feature which would have permitted the Treasury to call them in at par from time to time before the date of maturity. It was for a time believed that their redemption might prove a serious problem in financing, as the Treasury cannot pay more than par for securities it retires, and in recent years the Thirds have been selling in the market above their face value.

Despite this handicap, however, the Treasury has been able to reduce the original issue of Third's nearly by half, thus cutting to a "manageable size" the total outstanding. This was accomplished largely by a construction of the law which permitted the department to apply to the purchase of securities which were above par a fund accumulated by purchases for retirement of other securities obtained when they were available below par.

As this plan worked out, the money spent for the "purchase of Thirds" and for the securities obtained in the open market below par value represented actual par value of all securities purchased.

Because of the success of its program for retirement of the second Liberty bonds last year the Treasury does not anticipate trouble in retiring the remaining Third Liberty bonds chiefly by obtaining them in exchange for other security issues paying lower interest.

The department cannot force holders of Third Liberty bonds to exchange them, and will have to redeem them in cash by Sept. 15 if they are not voluntarily exchanged. But with the rapid reduction in the total of Government issues outstanding it is believed that the holders of the bulk of the Thirds will be ready to make exchanges.

Whether an early exchange offering will be made, the Secretary would not say. He indicated that when the regular Treasury quarterly financing issues are announced holders of Third Liberty bonds would be given the opportunity to exchange the securities for the new Treasury issues.

The first regular financing program will be carried out in March when money must be obtained, in addition to that received in taxes, to meet the maturity of two issues of Treasury certificates of indebtedness totaling $556,785,500.

FIRST GRADE BONDS FIRM UNDER PRESSURE

Pressure developed in the bond market yesterday as a result of the weakness in stocks, but most of the declines were in convertible and other issues that usually respond quickly to outside developments. The first grade investment issues held firmly throughout most of the day and the volume of transactions continued fairly large. The selling that took place in selected groups resulted in a decline of .15 in THE NEW YORK TIMES'S average of forty domestic bonds and .08 in foreign bonds. Late in the day considerable of a rally was in progress, the result, chiefly, of lower money rates.

The foreign list was highly irregular. Belgium 7½s gained ¾ point, while several other Belgian issues sold off fractionally. German 7s suffered a fractional decline and several other German issues were easier, but Berlin 6½s closed with a small net gain for the day. For the most part, French and Italian bonds were fractionally lower.

There was considerable selling among the domestic bonds that have fluctuated widely in recent weeks. Anaconda 7s and Andes Copper 7s were both under pressure, the latter declining 1¾ points. Brooklyn Union G. 5½s, another active issue, lost 2 points, and there was selling of such issues as Dodge Brothers convertible 6s, Kay. 5½s and Liquid Carbonic 6s. The oil group was decidedly firm, with gains in several of the Sinclair issues, Skelly 5½s and the Standard Oils of New Jersey and New York. There was selling, also, in much of the railroad list, but most of the first grade investment issues in this group held at steady levels.

Cuba Discussing New Loan.

A loan of $50,000,000 to enable Cuba to speed up its road building program may soon be sought in the American market when the republic has completed its study of the project. American bankers are studying the question with officials of the Cuban Government.

Cambria and Indiana Railroad Company

First Mortgage Gold Bonds

4½% Series due 1968

Dated January 1, 1928 — Due January 1, 1968

Interest payable January 1 and July 1, without deduction for normal Federal Income Taxes not exceeding 2%, and for Pennsylvania Taxes not exceeding 4 mills per $1,000 bond annually. Redeemable as a whole at any time or in part on any interest date on 30 days' notice at a premium of 5% on or before January 1, 1933; thereafter at successively reduced premiums; in each case with accrued interest. Coupon Bonds in denomination of $1,000 registerable as to principal only.

GIRARD TRUST COMPANY, PHILADELPHIA, TRUSTEE

Subject to Authorization by the Interstate Commerce Commission

Mr. C. E. Sprout, President of the Company, has summarized as follows his letter to us describing these Bonds:

BUSINESS AND PROPERTY

Cambria and Indiana Railroad Company owns and operates a railroad in the bituminous coal fields of Cambria and Indiana Counties, Pennsylvania, consisting of about 38 miles of main track with 22 miles of yard tracks and sidings. The Company also owns approximately 3,500 freight cars and 13 locomotives, and its business consists chiefly of the transportation of coal. Due to the large volume of traffic which it originates, a considerable portion of its revenue is derived from the use of its cars by other roads. Connection is made at Manver, Pa., with the New York Central Railroad and at Rexis, Pa., with the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Forty per cent. of the Company's stock is owned by the Clearfield Bituminous Coal Corporation, a subsidiary of the New York Central Railroad Company.

SECURITY

The First Mortgage Bonds, of which these $1,800,000 will be outstanding upon completion of this financing, will be secured by a direct first mortgage on all the property and equipment now owned by the Company, subject only to existing equipment trusts on certain of its rolling stock. The Mortgage will also cover all property hereafter acquired by the Company.

The total authorized issue is $6,000,000, of which $495,000 Bonds in addition to these $1,800,000 Bonds may be issued against the property as it existed January 1, 1928.

The Company's investment in road and equipment, as shown by its books, amounted to $8,413,613 as of November 30, 1927, as compared with total funded debt and equipment trusts to be outstanding upon completion of this financing of $3,468,000.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The proceeds of these $1,800,000 Bonds will provide funds for the retirement of all of the outstanding $326,000 First Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds, due 1936, and all of the $1,000,000 General Mortgage 6% Gold Bonds, due 1944 (which will be called for payment on May 1, 1928, and August 1, 1928, respectively) and for the completion of a 5 mile extension of the road.

CAPITALIZATION

In addition to these $1,800,000 First Mortgage Bonds, the Company will have outstanding as of January 1, 1928, after giving effect to this financing, $1,688,000 Equipment Trust Certificates (due 1928 to 1938) and $1,500,000 Capital Stock.

EARNINGS

* Year ended November 30.

Annual Fixed Charges on these $1,800,000 First Mortgage Bonds and on the Equipment Trust Certificates outstanding January 1, 1928, after giving effect to this financing, will be $168,880.

NOTE:—The Interstate Commerce Commission has claimed that part of the earnings of the Company as shown above are subject to recapture under the provisions of the Transportation Act of 1920. The case, however, has not yet been decided.

These Bonds are offered subject to sale and when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to required approval of Governmental authorities, and of our counsel, Messrs. Dickson, Britler and McCouch, of the form and validity of the documents and proceedings. It is expected that Interim Receipts of Drexel & Co. will be available for delivery on or about January 23, 1928.

We recommend these bonds for investment

who desire to make a better connection for the YEAR should begin to look into this opportunity NOW.

In January this old-established Investment Banking House, which for a third of a century has distributed securities in many states, will add several other states to its distribution area. Men residing in or desirous of establishing sales connections in

California	Kentucky	New York
Connecticut	Maine	Ohio
Delaware	Maryland	Pennsylvania
District of Columbia	Massachusetts	Rhode Island
Georgia	Missouri	South Carolina
Indiana	New Jersey	Vermont

will be particularly interested in affiliating with us in the distribution of seasoned securities of national organizations.

We provide, for distributors and their men, unusual sales cooperation in the form of:

- National magazine and newspaper advertising and current publicity
- 115-page loose leaf, leather covered demonstration manual
- Attractive selling literature
- Quarterly house organs to security holders
- Weekly house organ for salesmen and distributors
- Helpful contact of headquarters' field executives
- Annual Quota Club Convention (held last week at Hotel Roosevelt, New York)

This expansion program of an old house affords an opportunity for permanency of connection and unusually attractive earnings to sales executives and salesmen of a very liberal commission spread. It is intended that this advertisement should appeal to the higher type of men desirous of affiliating with an organization such as this.

Write, addressing the house or if you prefer telephone Cortland 6251 asking for Vice-President Brockway. Inquiries will be held in strict confidence.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

PRICES IN PARIS DECLINE

Active Trading Marked by An Up and Down Movement—Berlin Overcomes Slump.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The tone on the Stock Exchange was again irregular today. In the gilt-edge market a further rise to 80 occurred in the 5 per cent. war loan and the 4 per cents. funding loan, but the long-dated British funds were easier. The tendency of the foreign market remained strong, with some sharp rises in various German loans.

A fair amount of support was given the miscellaneous industrial shares and while prices in some cases were affected by the end of account selling the most prominent movements were upward.

Marconi attracted renewed speculative support and at one time reached 47 6, closing at 46 6, showing a rise of 4 over the previous day.

The South African market was strong on Paris buying. Rand Mines rose a sixteenth and De Beers were unchanged.

American exchange, after an early weakness, moved in favor of sterling and New York came in as a buyer of sterling. The rate closed at $4.87⅞.

Day of Fluctuations in Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Fluctuations extremely difficult to interpret agitated the Bourse session today which opened with quotations taking a big jump upward.

As the day advanced, a reaction set in which resulted in a drop below the levels of yesterday, numerous shares falling precipitately much below the ratings of recent meetings. Later new orders received caused most stocks to make recoveries, but the general level at the close was slightly below that of yesterday's highs.

International securities remained high, most of the variations being in French shares. Rentes were less active and somewhat affected by the market tendencies, but closed steady. The 3 per cent. reached 63.95 to close at 63.10. The 4s of 1917 were 68.60; the 4s of 1918, 68.10; 5s, 97.92, and 6s, 93.50.

Speculative Buying in Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 5.—The Stock Exchange today fully recovered from yesterday's slump. Business was stimulated from the start by an easy money market and extensive purchases by speculators. Orders from the Provinces and abroad also were numerous.

The principal reason for the general optimism, however, is the hope placed in the impending Paris visit of S. Parker Gilbert, Agent General for Reparations. It is rumored that a revision of the Dawes plan for a fixation of the German debt and the raising of a foreign loan of 25,000,000,000 marks are near, although no definite basis for these reports is apparent.

Practically all stocks advanced from 4 to 6 points in the first hour a few specialties such as electrics, textiles and potash as much as 10 or 12.

Mining and the heavy industries stocks were boomed by a report that a number of plants had received large foreign orders, especially from Russia.

In the second hour quotations began to fluctuate, but a reduction of the private discount rate to 6½ per cent. soon brought a new upward movement.

The tendency at the closing hour was firm and the highest prices were almost fully maintained.

Foreign stocks were active, Canadians being in special demand. Day-to-day money was plentiful at 4½ to 7 per cent.

LOWER RESERVE RATIO AT BANK OF ENGLAND

But Percentage Is Higher Than Year Ago—Bank Loses £106,000 Gold.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes for the week ended Jan. 4, in pounds sterling:

Gold coin and pullion	decreased	108,009
gold and notes	increased	877,000
Notes in circulation	decreased	983,000
Notes in reserve	increased	927,000
Loans on Govt. securities	decreased	285,000
Loans on other securities	increased	11,500,000
Public deposits	decreased	944,000
Other deposits	increased	18,700,000

The proportion of the Bank's reserve to deposit liabilities this week is 21.96 per cent.; last week it was 24.14 per cent.; two weeks ago, 23.84 per cent. The highest percentage in 1927 was 24.22, on May 18, which was also the highest since Dec. 23, 1914; the lowest was 20.03 per cent., on Jan. 5.

The statement, compared with the corresponding weeks one and two years ago, is as follows:

Public deposits	12,617,000	11,525,013	13,002,444
Other securities	91,710,000	102,202,152	87,401,097
Ratio of reserve	21.05	20.50	15.38

The £164,500,162 gold holdings of the Bank of England on Aug. 5, 1925, were the largest in the history of the institution. The gold holdings on May 18, £153,416,610, were the highest of 1927; the lowest were £147,979,200, on Feb. 16.

The bank's official discount rate remains unchanged at 4½ per cent., to which it was reduced on April 20, 1927.

FRENCH BANK'S NOTE ISSUE AT RECORD

PARIS, Jan. 5.—The statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes for the week ended Jan. 4, in francs:

Gold at home		Unchanged
Gold abroad		Unchanged
Silver in hand	decreased	2,000
Notes in circulation	increased	2,038,336,000
General deposits	decreased	551,399,000
Bills discounted	increased	175,168,000
Advances	increased	26,571,000

"Sundry assets," in which item are included acquisitions of foreign exchange by the bank, increased 1,188,621,000 francs. The item now stands at 27,740,214,000 francs, which is the highest figure ever reached. At this date last year it amounted to less than 6,000,000,000 francs.

The State repaid the bank 650,000,000 francs during the week. Advances to the State now stand at 22,900,000,000 francs, against 35,000,000,000 francs a year ago and 35,650,000,000 francs two years ago. This week's advances are the lowest since May 28, 1925. The advances of 38,500,000,000 francs, reached on July 21, 1926, were the highest on record.

On the basis of the above changes, the principal items in the statement compare as follows with the same date one and two years ago, in thousands of francs:

	Gold.	Circulation.	Discounts &c.

This week's circulation is the highest ever recorded by the Bank of France. The highest of 1927 was 56,550,607,000 in the last week of the year; the lowest was 51,606,645,000 francs on Feb. 23.

26 Miles for a Nickel!

New airplane records and the like stir the imagination, but how many of us give due recognition to the great Public Service rendered by our subways to the people and business interests of this community? This service is only made possible by continual progress in engineering skill and operating genius.

The banker, in facilitating modern commercial transactions, is made to realize every day the priceless value of time and this thought has prompted these observations.

TEXAS CORPORATION PLANS OIL MERGER

$230,000,000 IN NEW UNIT

Beaty Resignation Said to Have Resulted From Disagreement on Plans for Combination.

Negotiations have been resumed looking to the acquisition by the Texas Corporation of the California Petroleum Corporation. R. C. Holmes, President of the former company, is in California to inspect the California Petroleum properties, and it is expected that the transaction will be closed upon his return to New York.

Jacques Vinmont, President of California Petroleum, was quoted in dispatches from Los Angeles yesterday as saying, upon his return from New York, that negotiations were still in the preliminary stage. It was learned here that the deal is well advanced, however, and that no hitch is expected to develop.

At the offices of the Texas Corporation it was said Mr. Holmes was in the West and that no statement could be made in his absence.

The report was circulated yesterday that the recent resignation of Amos L. Beaty as Chairman of the Texas Corporation resulted from a disagreement with other interests in the company over the plans for the acquisition of the California Petroleum Corporation. This report was not confirmed. The directors of the Texas Corporation have not chosen Mr. Beaty's successor.

The Texas Corporation has outstanding $131,060,000 of $25 par capital stock. The stock closed on the Stock Exchange yesterday at 54. The California Petroleum Corporation has outstanding $49,505,175 of $25 par capital stock, the price of which at the close on the Stock Exchange yesterday was 24½ a share. The Texas Corporation has authorized about $68,000,000 of unissued stock, which would be ample, it is believed, for the acquisition of California Petroleum. A consolidation of the two companies would create a unit with a par value capital of more than $230,000,000.

NOVEMBER INCOME OF RAILROADS DOWN

Net operating income of the Class 1 railroads of this country in November, 1927, aggregated $86,424,299, as compared with $114,940,803 in November, 1926, and $106,924,330 in the same month of 1925. The November, 1927, net was an annual rate of return on property investment of 3.71 per cent., as against 5.07 per cent. in November, 1926, and 4.82 per cent. in November, 1925.

Gross revenues for November, 1927, of the Class 1 roads totaled $503,819,802, as against $562,255,818 in November, 1926, and $532,746,600 in November, 1925. Operating expenses during November, 1927, totaled $376,875,841, against $403,586,299 in 1926 and $384,461,770 in 1925.

The Class 1 railroads in November, 1927, paid taxes aggregating $31,237,545, which brought the total tax bill for the first eleven months of 1927 to $356,146,900, a decrease of $8,825,650, or 2.4 per cent. below that of the similar period in 1926.

In the first eleven months of 1927 the roads earned a gross income of $5,739,426,791, against $5,937,601,742 in 1926 and $5,661,646,000 in 1925. Eleven-months net operating income in 1927 aggregated $1,028,542,175, against $1,152,872,690, and $1,041,689,000 in 1925. The 1927 eleven-months net was at the annual rate on property investment of 4.55 per cent., as against 5.23 per cent. in 1926. Operating expenses totaled $4,249,320,864 in 1927, $4,319,707,413 in 1926 and $4,193,065,000 in 1925.

Cancels Increase in Sugar Rail Rate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—Proposed increases in rates to Oklahoma points on sugar imported through New Orleans and through Texas ports were held unjustified today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Railroads which participated in making the schedules last April were ordered to cancel them, but at the same time were given permission to file new proposals for rate changes on the traffic. The schedules canceled today do not affect the movement of domestically produced or refined sugar.

DOHENYS SEEK CHARTER.

Ask Permit to Form $25,000,000 Oil Company in California.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP).—A permit for the organization of the Pacific Petroleum Company, capitalized at $25,000,000, was asked of the State corporation office today by the E. L. Doheny oil interests.

It was indicated that the new concern would provide the vehicle for marketing expansion in the Pacific Northwest and Northern California of the Pan-American Western Petroleum Company, which is controlled by the Doheny family.

The requested permit includes issuance of 1,000,000 shares of $25 par value preferred stock and 5,000,000 shares of no par value common.

E. L. Doheny is listed in the application as Chairman of the Board and E. L. Doheny Jr. as Vice President, while Frank R. Seaver, until recently Vice President and general manager of the Huasteca Petroleum Company, subsidiary of the Pan-American interests, will be President of the new company.

RESERVE BANK ELECTS 2 DEPUTY GOVERNORS

Creates Four Assistants and Drops Title of 'Controller'—McGarrah Redesignated.

Two new Deputy Governors of the Federal Reserve Bank and four Assistant Deputy Governors were elected by the bank's directors yesterday. The bank dropped the title of "Controller," which had been applied to several members of the staff.

The new Deputy Governors are A. W. Gilbart, formerly Controller of Cash and Collections, and L. R. Rounds, formerly Controller of Accounts. The Assistant Deputy Governors, a newly created office, are R. M. Gidney, formerly Controller of Loans; J. W. Jonas, formerly Controller of Administration; J. Er. Crane, formerly manager of the Foreign Department, and W. B. Matteson, formerly manager of the Securities Department. Mr. Crane also was elected Secretary of the bank.

H. V. Rosier, formerly Chief of the Reports Division, was elected manager of the Reports Department, and W. A. Scott, formerly Chief of the Foreign Department, was made manager of the Foreign Department. All other officers of the bank were re-elected.

It was announced also that the Federal Reserve Board had redesignated Gates W. McGarrah as Chairman of the Board and Federal Reserve Agent for the year 1928 and Owen D. Young as Deputy Chairman of the Board, and had reappointed Clarence M. Woolley as Class C Director for a three-year period ending Dec. 31, 1930. The board has also approved the redesignation of W. Randolph Burgess, William H. Dittistin and Herbert S. Downs as Assistant Federal Reserve Agents for the next year.

Jersey Central Schedule Saturday.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey has arranged a supplementary bus service to handle passengers on the Newark branch while the Garfield Avenue Bridge is being rebuilt, on Saturday night from 9:50 P. M. to Sunday morning at 6:30 A. M.

SEVEN STORE CHAINS MAKE TWO RECORDS

Aggregate Sales in December and Also in Full Year 1927 Increased 15 Per Cent.

YEAR'S TOTAL $659,522,270

Sales of seven of leading chain store companies in December amounted to $107,711,326, a record for any month in history. This compared with $93,620,600 in the final month of 1926 and represented a gain of $14,090,726, or 15.05 per cent. It compared also with $64,587,691 in October, 1927, the year's best previous month, showing a gain of $43,123,735, or 66.75 per cent.

For the full year the sales of the seven companies were $659,522,270, against $571,982,116 in 1926, an increase of $87,540,154, or 15.3 per cent. Last year was the best in history for all of the companies concerned.

The sales of the F. W. Woolworth Company in December were 6.16 per cent. greater than in the same month in 1926, an increase of $2,548,280. For the full year the company's sales made a high record of $272,747,430, which was $19,105,181, or 7.53 per cent. greater than in 1926, the best previous year of the company. The old stores yielded $8,561,661, or 3.43 per cent. of the gain.

The S. S. Kresge Company reported for December sales exceeded only by those of Woolworth and a record figure for itself for any month. The increase over December, 1926, was 12.6 per cent., while over October, 1927, best previous month in the year, the increase was $10,959,777, or 90 per cent. Kresge's sales for the full year were the third greatest in the country, however, Penney holding second place, but were a high record for the company.

PRICES LOWERED ON CURB EXCHANGE

The selling wave on the major market was reflected on the New York Curb Exchange yesterday, where prices broke one to three points throughout the general list, only a few of the leading issues escaping from the general depression.

American Rolling Mill advanced to a new high before responding to the heaviness, and closed with a moderate loss. Midland Steel Products was quite heavy, while Campbell Wyant was strong. Newmont Mining, Celanese shares, United States Freight and United Gas Improvement were among the active issues which were depressed, while General Baking shares were slightly stronger and General Bronze rose to a new high.

Empire Power was firm among the utilities, while American Gas and Electric Bond and Share securities were leaders in the downward trend. In the oil group there was much firmness, Standard of Kentucky setting a new high and Standard of Indiana rising moderately. Humble Oil was among the weaker stocks.

CURB SUSPENDS LEICHNER.

Violation of Technicality Laid to Morgenthau & Co. Bond Trader.

Charles Leichner, a bond trader connected with John L. Morgenthau & Co., of 2 Rector Street, was suspended yesterday from membership in the New York Curb Market for one year. The Board of Governors of the Curb Market ordered his suspension after he had been adjudged guilty of a violation of Section 7 of Article 17 of the Constitution.

Under this section the board is authorized to expel or suspend any member of the Curb who is found guilty of any act which is adjudged "detrimental to the interest or welfare of the New York Curb Market." Officials of the Curb and of the Morgenthau firm would not disclose the offense for which Mr. Leichner was suspended beyond saying it resulted from a "technicality of trading."

COUNTER TRADING AGAIN AT NORMAL

Activity Among Industrials, Bank and Trust Company Issues High Point of Day.

MANY CHANGES IN PRICES

But No Definite Trend on Market Develops—Insurance Rises Outnumber the Losses.

In a day marked by a return of normal trading conditions which brought a broad inquiry among the industrials and bank and trust company issues, the over-the-counter market experienced yesterday a large number of price changes without establishing anything approaching a trend. Advances among the insurance stocks outnumbered the losses.

Better quotations appeared in Canadian Celanese preferred, Bullitof-Bethlehem, American Seamless Tube, Lehigh Portland Cement, Woodward Iron, Gemmer, Chrysler, Coal common, Gantzwolf preferred, the Southern Baking issues and United Milk Products common. On the other hand white signs came to Walker Dishwasher, Ecuta, Pantasmotom, Bancroft, Jackson, Automatic Movie, Rolls-Royce preferred, Eastern Dairy common and Newport.

In the insurance group American Alliance, Automobile, Lincoln, Hanover, United States Fidelity and Guaranty, Fidelity and Deposit and United States Merchants and Shippers were higher. Recessions were credited to Home, Franklin Fire, City of New York, St. Paul Fire and Marine and Boston. New Niquero, Fajardo and National Sugar Refining were the soft spots among the sugars.

Port Morris in the bank section was again subject to strong bidding, which sent its quotations forward. Trade Bank, Central Union and Chatham and Phenix were also in better demand. Empire, Liberty, Bankers Trust and Lawyers Title and Mortgage were off a few points.

Swift & Co. Earn $12,202,493 Net.

Swift & Co. yesterday reported a net profit of $12,202,493, after all charges, for the year ended on Nov. 5, 1927, equal to $8.13 a share earned on the capital stock, against $15,645,242, or $10.43 a share, earned in the previous year. The company paid dividends of $12,000,000 last year, leaving a surplus of $202,493, against a surplus of $3,645,242 in 1926. Total sales were $925,000,000, against $950,000,000 the year before.

DEALERS DISCUSS PLAN FOR COUNTER MARKET

Doubt Proposal to Report Sales Is Practicable—Seats Rise on Produce Exchange.

The Attorney General's investigation into methods of dealing in unlisted securities caused renewed discussion yesterday of a plan to publish daily reports of sales over the counter. Such a plan would go far to remove uncertainty as to actual markets for these securities, it was said, but dealers were dubious as to how it could be operated. Frederic H. Hatch, President of the Unlisted Security Dealers' Association, said he knew of no definite move to put the plan into effect.

The chief objection made to the plan was that this form of trading has no definite business hours. Business may begin early in the morning and continue until long after the Stock Exchange has closed. One dealer in unlisted stocks said he sometimes completed a sale as late as 6 o'clock. It would therefore be difficult to select a time for compilation of the list that would include all sales for a given day.

Only records of sales could be obtained in a business carried on between many offices by telephone, instead of on a central floor, was another question that was raised.

Although prices of seats on the Produce Exchange continued to rise yesterday, men who are following the Attorney General's investigation said they doubted that it would cause the unlisted security dealers to transact their business on a trading floor. The dealers themselves would not seem anxious to go on a trading floor, and several pointed out that, whereas profits run by points in these business at present transacted, active trading on an open floor would reduce profits to fractions of points. One member of the Unlisted Security Dealers' Association suggested that some of the buying of Produce Exchange seats might be by speculators.

A seat was sold at $4,000 on the Produce Exchange yesterday, a record for all time, comparing with a previous high of $4,100 on Wednesday. A bid of $4,000 for a seat was posted. Two weeks ago seats were selling between $1,750 and $1,950.

New Gotham Silk Hosiery Stock.

The stockholders of the Gotham Silk Hosiery Company yesterday approved an increase in the authorized voting common stock from 320,000 to 400,000 shares, and an increase in the non-voting common stock from 120,000 to 200,000 shares. The increase provides for the payment of the 4 per cent. stock dividend declared recently by the directors.

Increase in Deposits and Cash Reserves Shown In Weekly Report of Federal Board

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The consolidated statement of condition of the Federal Reserve Banks on Jan. 4, made public by the Federal Reserve Board, shows a decline for the week of $62,800,000 in bill and security holdings and of $52,500,000 in Federal Reserve note circulation, and increases of $83,000,000 in total deposits and of $27,000,000 in cash reserves.

Smaller holdings of discounted bills were reported by seven of the Reserve banks, the largest decreases, $58,700,000 and $21,100,000, being reported by the Federal Reserve Banks of New York and Boston respectively. The San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank reported an increase in discounts of $20,000,000 and the Philadelphia, Chicago, Minneapolis and Dallas banks increases ranging from $1,100,000 at Minneapolis to $2,800,000 at Philadelphia. The system's holdings of acceptances purchased in open market increased $1,600,000, of United States bonds $5,600,000, and of United States Treasury notes $42,100,000, while holdings of certificates of indebtedness declined $23,400,000.

Federal Reserve note circulation was $52,500,000 less than a week ago, all of the Federal Reserve Banks reporting a decrease in circulation, the largest declines being $13,100,000 at Cleveland, $9,700,000 at Philadelphia and $8,600,000 at Chicago.

WHEAT PRICES GAIN, THEN DROP SHARPLY

LOSS IS 1 CENT FOR DAY

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—A bulge in wheat carried prices up around 1 cent early, with local shorts covering on the way up. They were assisted in their operations by some of the leading professionals and commission houses, but the market quickly developed an overbought condition and selling against offers filled buyers up. When increased pressure developed support was limited and the market reacted 2 to 2¼ cents from the top, with buying against bids a factor in checking the decline. The finish was within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of ⅜ to 1 cent.

Primary arrivals today were 709,000 bushels; week ago, 642,000 bushels; last year, 543,000 bushels. Shipments, 359,000 bushels; week ago, 665,000 bushels; last year, 500,000 bushels.

Local bulls and commission houses were on the buying side of corn early, but outside buying failed to follow the upturn, and when wheat started downward corn followed and the finish was ⅜ to ⅝ cent lower with buying against bids a factor in checking the break.

Primary arrivals today 953,000 bushels; week ago, 1,609,000 bushels; last year, 786,000 bushels. Shipments, 668,000 bushels; week ago, 974,000 bushels; last year, 349,000 bushels.

PRESSURE FOLLOWS COTTON RECOVERY

Increased Supply of Contracts Comes Into the Market After the Opening.

The recovery of half a cent in cotton from low levels of the week brought the market under selling pressure yesterday. Though early prices advanced above 19½c for the May delivery, an increased supply of contracts became available and the list set back 30 points or more, ending at a loss of 16 to 22 points on the day. Trade buying had reached substantial proportions during the decline earlier in the week and absence of an active demand from mill quarters left an easier market. Spot sales in Liverpool aggregated 15,000 bales, the largest transaction in several months.

Contracts purchased by professional operators during the previous day's decline began to come on the market soon after the opening. During the first hour houses with trade connections fixed prices to an extent that called for the purchase of several thousand March contracts, which advanced that month to 19.45 at one time. Weakness in the stock market as well as the sharp recovery in cotton diminished the buying and both New Orleans and New York came under weight of cotton as the session advanced. July contracts appeared in larger quantities, carrying that month to a 50-point discount under May. A slowly sagging tendency sent March off 25 points from best figures of the morning before covering the last hour steadied the list under a 10-point recovery in final trading.

SPAIN TO PURCHASE ITS CRUDE OIL HERE

Monopoly Makes Contract With Subsidiary of American Republics Corporation.

OTHER SUPPLIES INCLUDED

One-quarter of Refined Products to Be Furnished—Agreement to Run for Five Years.

J. S. Cullinan, President of the American Republics Corporation, announced yesterday that the Petroleum Export Association, Inc., a subsidiary of American Republics, had entered into a contract to furnish all the crude oil, and not less than 25 per cent. of the refined products required by Spain for five years, commencing on Jan. 1, 1928. This cleared up uncertainty aroused by dispatches indicating that the Spanish oil monopoly had given contracts to Russia for its requirements, and confirmed earlier published reports of the contract obtained by the American Republics subsidiary.

"The contract of the Petroleum Export Association is with a company organized by Spanish bankers and which, under the terms of a royal decree creating an oil monopoly in Spain, will furnish all petroleum and petroleum products for that country," Mr. Cullinan said.

"At the present rate of shipments, it is estimated that the quantities of refined products which will be shipped under the contract will exceed 50 per cent. of the total Spanish requirements.

"This would seem to dispose of reports now current that Russian supplies have contracted to furnish most of these commodities, and to fully confirm the fact that the greater proportion of such will come from the United States."

The Department of Commerce has reported that in 1926 1,143,000 barrels of oil were shipped to Spain. Exports of gasoline to that country were 682,000 barrels, valued at 54,335,000; of lubricating oil, 117,000 barrels, valued at $1,514,000; of kerosene, 143,000 barrels, worth $608,000; of fuel oil, 204,000 barrels, valued at $447,000; of wax, 16,615,000 pounds, of a value of nearly $1,000,000. A requirement of the Spanish market now estimated at 2,100,000 barrels of petroleum and petroleum products annually.

GREATER SUGAR TRADE HERE

At the annual meeting of the Coffee and Sugar Exchange held yesterday afternoon an excess of $661,216 in assets over liabilities was reported by members of the finance committee. The excess was attributed to the fact that the Exchange building was entered at $469,920, and has an assessed valuation of $710,000. In some quarters it is estimated to have a value of $1,000,000.

In reviewing the business done on the Exchange last year, President Frank Lowry said transactions in coffee futures amounted to 8,630,000 bags, or about 2,500,000 bags less than in the year previous.

"It is gratifying to note that transactions in sugar total approximately 14,383,000 tons," said Mr. Lowry, "and show an increase of approximately 2,000,000 tons over 1926. In volume our trading is equivalent to 60 per cent. of the world's total sugar production."

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Excessive receipts of hogs, 80,000, or 13,000 more than estimated, carried prices here off 25 to 40 cents. Arrivals were the largest since February, 1925. Big packers were liberal buyers on the decline. Top was lowered 40 cents to $8.70, while the general average was off a like amount at $8.45. Bulk of the 150 to 200 pound averages sold at $8.25 to $8.50, with 210 to 300 pound butchers at $8.45 to $8.60. Packing sows sold at $7.15 to $7.50. Packers bought 52,000 and shippers 16,000, with 16,000 left over. Estimated for tomorrow, 45,000.

Fed steers and yearlings broke 25 to 50 cents with a slow demand due to increased offerings. Best steers sold at $17, with bulk of sales at $12 to $16. Owing to late arrivals many were carried over unsold. Receipts, 14,000. Fat lambs strong to 25 cents higher with a top of $13.75. Bulk of the 80 to 90 pound averages sold at $12 to $13.50, with 93 to 98 pound kinds $12.25 to $13. Sheep strong at $6.25 to $7. Receipts, 14,000.

$4,000 BID FOR COCOA SEAT.

Price of Membership in Exchange Advances $500 in Week.

Seats on the New York Cocoa Exchange are advancing in price. Yesterday a bid of $4,000 was made for one, comparing with a previous high bid of $3,500 last week. The original price was $300, when the exchange was in process of organization, in October, 1925.

The Cocoa Exchange has started its own building fund. It reported cash on hand amounting to $130,000 at the beginning of the year. Of the 183 original memberships created, 181 have been sold.

Trading on the Cocoa Exchange during 1927 reached a total of 87,900 lots, or nearly 550,000 tons of cocoa beans, with a value in excess of $200,000,000. Yesterday's trading amounted to 126 lots, or 2,040 tons.

State Grants 159 Charters, A Record Day at Albany

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 5.—With 159 new charters granted today the Corporation Bureau of the Secretary of State's office saw its biggest day's business in the history of the bureau.

The reason was that at the end of the year about 280 papers of various kinds were filed and as it takes some time for them to go through the regular procedure, they could not be reached until today. However, attaches of the office today caught up with the rush and from now on the papers will flow along as usual.

CAPPER MOTION CUTS GRAIN FREIGHT RATES

Senator Seeks to Help Growers to Meet Competition by Canadians.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—A resolution intended to bring about a reduction of freight rates on grain and grain products exported from the United States in order that American grain growers and milling interests may be placed in better position to meet Canadian competition was introduced today by Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas.

An immediate investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission is sought of export grain rates of the United States. The commission would be directed to adjust rates to a basis that "will permit grain and grain products produced in the United States to move as freely as grain produced in the Dominion of Canada," to points of export.

According to Senator Capper the resolution has the approval of various farm organizations of the United States.

The wheat growers of the United States are confronted with a serious situation by reason of competition in world markets with Canadian wheat, Senator Capper said. To Canadian wheat recently has been given an advantage of 8 to 10 cents a bushel in lower transportation charges, and the Kansas Senator holds that this handicap menaces the return to prosperity of those States upon which the nation relies for staple foodstuffs.

"Unless wheat and wheat products of the United States can compete on fairly equal terms in world markets with wheat from Canada, we shall have on our hands a surplus of grain that eventually will disastrously depress the domestic price of wheat and again bring ruin to the grain growers of the Middle West," Senator Capper said.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Moving within a narrow range, prices in raw sugar futures on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange continued quiet yesterday. Initial quotations were 1 point lower to 1 point higher and business was largely of a local character. Switching operations furnished the bulk of the day's transactions. Evening up of commitments in the January positions was noticeable. This was attributed to the irregularity in the remainder of the list.

Price ranges for raw sugar futures yesterday were:

Coffee.

Under the influence of scattered liquidation, the raw coffee futures market displayed a sagging tendency yesterday. Opening from 4 to 11 points higher, offerings soon ran out and a steadier tone prevailed. Trading in the new Santos contract, based on Santos 4s and including Santos grades, will be started Jan. 16. Trading in the old contract, which is based on Rio 7s, will also be continued.

Cocoa.

Cocoa futures on the New York Cocoa Exchange yesterday were higher by 8 to 10 points during the early session, but practically all gains were wiped out toward the close. At no time during the day did this market fully reflect the firm Liverpool cables and the reports of fairly large business put through with European interests. Some local houses were fair buyers of futures but other local interests appeared more bearishly inclined and sold many positions.

Iridium Prices Jump.

A suddenly revealed scarcity in iridium, a precious metal used in hardening gold pen points and platinum, has caused a sensational jump in the price of the metal. Quoted at $120 to $130 an ounce two weeks ago, the metal now is $280 to $300 an ounce.

Platinum prices also are firmer, The Engineering and Mining Journal reports.

800 ATTEND BANK'S DINNER.

Seventh National Celebrates Opening of Branch Today.

In celebration of the opening this morning of a branch of the Seventh National Bank at Eighth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, 800 friends of the institution attended a dinner and vaudeville performance last night at the Waldorf. William Collier was toastmaster and among the speakers were "Bugs" Baer, Judge Aaron J. Levy and Owen T. Reeves, Chief National Bank Examiner for the Second Federal Reserve District.

The branch bank, which will be housed in a new four-story building, will be known as "the midnight bank," as it will offer complete banking service during regular banking hours and thereafter without pause until midnight every business day. The main office of the Seventh National is at Seventh Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street. The bank has a branch at Lexington Avenue and 116th Street.

ACCEPTANCE BANK INCREASES DIVIDEND

Raises Annual Rate From $4 to $6—Two Companies Announce Higher Quarterlies.

FIVE EXTRAS ARE DECLARED

5% Stock Payment by Square Deal Investment Corp.—Orpheum Circuit Defers Action.

The International Acceptance Bank, Inc., increased the annual common dividend rate from $4 to $6 a share by declaring a regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 or at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum on paid-in capital. The bank reported total resources on Dec. 31 of $130,591,971, an increase of 23.6 per cent. in one year and acceptances outstanding of $47,117,538, an increase of 39.6 per cent.

The Q. R. S. Music Company declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on common against previous quarterly dividends of 45 cents and also a preferred dividend of 1¾ per cent. The name of the company was changed to Q. R. S. Company.

The Harriman National Bank declared an extra dividend of 5 per cent. in addition to the regular semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent. yesterday, and the Harriman Securities Corporation declared a dividend of 10 per cent., payable to stockholders of the bank who have a beneficial interest in the corporation. The extra dividend has been paid semi-annually since 1921.

The Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company declared a quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on ordinary stock against previous quarterlies of 1½ per cent. Stockholders approved splitting present $100 par shares into four no par shares and the offering of new stock to stockholders at $100 a share in the ratio of one new for each five held.

The National Liberty Insurance Company declared an extra dividend of 20 per cent. and the regular semi-annual dividend of 10 per cent., the Baltimore American Fire Insurance Company an extra dividend of 6 per cent. and the regular semi-annual of 6 per cent. and the People's National Fire Insurance Company an extra dividend of 5 per cent. and the regular semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent.

The Mutual Investment Company announced an extra distribution of one-half of 1 per cent. on Class A certificates of the Mutual Investment Trust, putting these certificates on a 6½ per cent. basis. Earnings for 1927 were 11.5 per cent. on the face value of outstanding certificates. After regular and extra distributions, the trust reported a surplus of 4 per cent. or 40 cents a share.

The Square Deal Investment Corporation of Newark voted a 5 per cent. stock and a 1 per cent. cash dividend.

The Irving Savings Bank declared a quarterly dividend at the rate of 4½ per cent., per annum which will be credited to depositors as of Jan. 1 and will be payable after Jan. 17. Money deposited up to Jan. 13 will draw interest from Jan. 1. The disbursement was the bank's 173rd consecutive dividend.

The Orpheum Circuit, Inc., will defer dividend action on common stock until after merger with the Keith-Albee interests. In future dividends will be declared quarterly instead of monthly.

SUED FOR RUSSIAN POLICY.

New York Life Asks Court to Dismiss Assigned Claim.

Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan in Brooklyn yesterday reserved decision on a motion by attorneys for the New York Life Insurance Company to dismiss an action brought to recover on an endowment policy issued in Russia prior to the revolution and the Soviet régime. It was issued to Myron Yabikoff at Petrograd, to mature in twenty years, and was assigned to C. Frank Daugherty, who is the plaintiff in the present action.

The insurance company told the Court that it was forced to cease business in Russia following the revolution and that the policy was payable in imperial rubles, which are now practically worthless, hence there exists no cause for legal action. The plaintiff's attorney contended that the premiums on the policy had been paid in good faith and that payment of the endowment policy should be made, not in the worthless rubles but in Soviet rubles or $50,000 in American money.

NEW STEEL MERGER VIRTUALLY COMPLETED

Wall Street Hears Deal Between Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Inland Is Nearly Closed.

Further confirmation of reports that the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company is negotiating for the purchase of the Inland Steel Company was given yesterday. James A. Campbell, President of the former company, said that the negotiations had not been completed and, when asked whether he was negotiating for the acquisition of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, replied: "One at a time."

According to information received in Wall Street, the deal between Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Inland Steel has virtually been completed. Mr. Campbell has been in New York for some days conferring with bankers, but has declined to discuss in any detail the plans he has under way.

A number of other companies may be acquired eventually by Youngstown Sheet & Tube, it is believed here. The Jones & Laughlin Company probably will be the second company to be taken over if the two groups can come to terms. The Youngstown company is expected eventually to work out an organization that will rival the Bethlehem Steel Corporation in size. The Youngstown Sheet & Tube is the third largest steel company in the country, being exceeded only by the Bethlehem and the United States Steel Corporation.

SHIPMENTS OF GOLD $12,295,000 IN WEEK

Federal Reserve Bank Reports Imports of $322,000—Canada's $10,500,000 Not Included.

The Federal Reserve Bank announced yesterday that exports of gold through the Port of New York in the week ended on Wednesday totaled $12,295,000, and imports of gold to $322,000. The statement disclosed that a shipment of $1,200,000 had gone to Belgium, following a shipment of more than $1,000,000 to that destination in the previous week. Other exports included $9,000,000 to Argentina, $1,282,000 to India and $700,000 to Venezuela, with the remainder scattering.

The imports of the week came chiefly from Latin America. The statement did not include $10,500,000 of gold sent here from Canada in the week as the Canadian transfers are entered as imports at the point at which they cross the border. Canadian dollars remained yesterday at a discount of 11-64 of 1 per cent., which indicated that additional gold will be sent here from the Dominion, but no further actual engagements have been reported.

New Fire Insurance Co. in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP).—Formation of a $5,000,000 fire insurance company, to be known as the Figo Insurance Company of Chicago, was announced today. Harold W. Letton, Chairman of the Organization Committee, is to be United States manager of the new firm. He is attorney for the Netherlands Insurance Company of The Hague and Vice President and general manager of the Great Lakes Insurance Company of Chicago.

HUGE POWER PLANT FOR SOUTH JERSEY

SIX COUNTIES TO BE SERVED

Atlantic City Electric Company Announces Project—Site Near Deepwater Point Chosen.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 5.—A movement to transform Southern New Jersey into a great industrial centre was announced here today by C. H. Howell, general manager of the Atlantic City Electric Company, when he described plans for a $13,000,000 power plant with a $1,000,000 transmission line to Atlantic City from the Delaware River.

Work on the transmission line will be begun within thirty days. The plant will be at Churchtown near Pennsville. The site consists of a 300-acre tract on Deepwater Canal below the du Pont plant.

The new power plant will serve parts of Atlantic, Cape May, Ocean, Cumberland, Gloucester and Salem Counties. It will give employment to between 750 and 1,200 persons while in course of erection, which work will take more than two years. When it is completed it will employ 300 men. The line to Atlantic City will have a capacity of 232,000 volts. No effort will be made to compete with the Public Service Corporation, whose lines run only as far south as Woodbury.

Dome Mines Increase Output.

Production of Dome Mines, Ltd., in 1927 amounted to $4,029,076, against $3,932,804 in 1926. The output in December was valued at $400,527, against $375,424 in November and $327,609 in December, 1926.

LOAN FOR VERMONT ROAD.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Jan. 5 (AP).—Judge Harland B. Howe of the United States District Court today granted a petition of John W. Redmond and George A. Garton, as receivers of the Central Vermont Railroad, permitting them to negotiate with Dillon, Read & Co., New York bankers, for a loan not to exceed $4,976,500 on receivers' certificates to be issued at a face value of $5,000,000, with interest at 4½ per cent.

The loan is to be payable in instalments four times a year for the next two years, dating from Jan. 15.

Judge Howe also authorized an immediate loan of $500,000 from the same source for construction work. This sum already has been advanced, the receivers reported.

In a statement filed with the Court the receivers estimated that $2,666,000 would be the expense of repairing the damage done to the company's lines by the flood of early November. This amount, it was pointed out, includes the cost of reconstruction that must be made, but does not include the amount expended prior to the receivership.

The receivers also estimated that $5,158,400 would be the gross receipts of the railroad for a period of twelve months from this time, on the basis of the railroad being in operation by early next Summer.

Italy Sets Limit to Foreign Loans.

ROME, Jan. 5 (AP).—A governmental decree today stipulates that all commercial, social and even public institutions must always obtain previous Government authorization to conclude foreign loans.

The decree further limits such loans to productive purposes of general interest, to intensify exports or develop production at home of articles which are now being imported. Authorization, however, is not necessary for ordinary commercial discount operations and for the opening of banking credits.

Little Change In McCallum Hose.

Little change from fall levels is apparent in the spring price list of the McCallum Hosiery Company, but it shows several additions to the line that the company regards important. Many of the established numbers are offered with picot edges for the new season. A picot edge chiffon has been added in the skein-dyed group, to retail at $3. A new dip-dyed all-over-silk number, with picot edge, will retail at $2.35. Eight lace clock numbers, also with picot edges, have been added, to retail at $3, $3.50 and $4. While minor changes in price have been made in a few numbers, quotations are generally the same as those made for Fall.

Fur Offerings to Set Records.

Two quantity records for the United States will be set at the annual Winter fur sale of the New York Auction Company, which will begin here on Jan. 23. The sale will run eight days and may be held in the company's new building. Goods will probably be displayed there, in any event. Silver fox, of which the record total of over 3,000 skins will be offered, will go on show on Jan. 16, and the remaining furs two days later. The other record quantity is on rabbit pelts, of which 454,000 pounds will be put up. According to General Manager J. Gordon Noakes, important offerings of domestic furs will include 32,800 sealskins, 75,600 raccoon, 126,500 opossum, 241,000 Northern muskrat and 125,000 Southern "rat." The shortage in Southern muskrat is attributed to the Mississippi flood.

Rayon Orders Running Heavy.

Rayon orders for the quarter ending April 30 are coming in quite heavily. A statement made yesterday by the Viscose Company said that the bulk of its production for the period is already covered by orders in hand. The probability was expressed that the company will be entirely sold up within the next ten days. Ev V. Peters, Vice President of the Tubize Company, said the bookings for the first quarter were running heavier than last year, owing to realization on the part of buyers that producers carried no stock into the new year.

Discuss Umbrella Promotion.

Sales promotional plans for improving conditions in the umbrella trade were discussed at the annual meeting of the Umbrella Manufacturers' Association of America yesterday at Cavanagh's Restaurant. The aim will be to cut down the effects of price cutting, which seriously affected the business last year. Manufacturers cut prices to gain volume, but the expected increase did not materialize and the entire trade suffered, according to Charles E. Hawks, Secretary of the association. "Trading up" he said, will be strongly emphasized in any effort undertaken. Three members were elected to the Executive Committee yesterday. The committee will meet shortly to choose officers for the coming year.

"Balloon" Tie Offered.

A tie having a "balloon" lining designed to eliminate wrinkles has just been developed here. The lining is a rubber sac, which takes the place of the usual fabric lining, and which is inflated by blowing into a small tube at its end. When the tie is taken off at night the sac is deflated and the overnight stretching of the tie fabric smooths out the creases and gives it a fresh-looking appearance. The lining is not bulky when deflated, the tie having a normal appearance. Use of the lining will be licensed to tie manufacturers and will be featured in ties to retail at $1.

Washable Suede in Handbags.

New Spring handbags in the better grades are featuring washable suede. Buyers are ordering them in all the shades shown, believing that they will enjoy the same popularity as the suede and antelope bags of last season. This leather, however, is used only in pastel shades of the popular Spring colors. Pouch styles are shown exclusively in this line, with variety achieved by the use of different frames. Narrow gold-plated mountings, self-covered frames and shell tops are used. Heavy silk moiré is used for lining with fittings to match. The colors are green, rose, beige, gray, red, blue, orchid, maize and white. Prices range from $72 a dozen and up.

Small Drop in Silk Consumption.

Consumption of raw silk during December, as indicated by warehouse withdrawals, was below that of November, but more than for the same month in 1926, according to figures issued yesterday by the Silk Association of America. The deliveries to the mills comprised 43,357 bales, which compares with 46,947 in November and 39,771 in December, 1926. Imports during the month showed a gain, amounting to 44,828 bales, as against 36,650 in November. Storage stocks on Jan. 1 were 53,540 bales, which contrasts with 52,069 on Dec. 1. In transit between Yokohama and New York at the first of the year were 38,500 bales.

Felt Hats Rank as Staples.

Reorders received by some of the better grade millinery houses during the past week call for the small felt hat. Felt hats are now recognized as staples and included in both Spring and Summer lines. Buyers, however, claim that the late Spring business will be done in straws in turban shapes and in small brimmed models, while the Summer season will see large brims in both straws and felts in the lead. In addition, all styles show a decided trend toward increased ornamentation in the way of pins, fancy bows, bandings and facings. This tendency, it is hoped, will do much toward preventing the cheap manufacturer from copying and popularizing the better models.

Sheetings Lead in Gray Goods.

Gray goods were fairly active yesterday in this market, despite the further slump in cotton. Sheetings sold more freely than the other constructions, sales including January lots of 40-inch 4.25s at 8 cents, 37-inch 48-square, four-yards at 6¾ cents, 31-inch five-yards at 6¾ cents and 36-inch 6.08s at 5¾ cents. Late January business was done in 36-inch 48-square printcloths at 6¼ cents. Among the other printcloth sales were 39-inch 68-72s at 9¼ cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 9¼ cents and 38½-inch 64-60s at 8¾ cents. Not much was done in drills, fine yarn cloths or specialties. In the last named, however, reports were current of business in 72-80 pajama checks at 9¾ cents.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REAL ESTATE

MADISON AV. CORNER IS SOLD TO SCHULTE

August Heckscher Disposes of 25-Story Office Building at 50 East 42d Street.

IT WAS HELD AT $4,600,000

The twenty-five-story store and office building at 50 East Forty-second Street, southeast corner of Madison Avenue, was sold yesterday by the Anahma Realty Corporation, representing August Heckscher, to the Schulte Real Estate Company. The deal represents an investment of about $4,600,000.

The brokers in the transaction were the Charles F. Noyes Company and Clark T. Chambers.

This property, as well as the corner diagonally opposite, formerly the Manhattan Hotel and now in the title of the National City Bank, was acquired by August Heckscher a little more than ten years ago and both properties have easily doubled in value since they were first purchased.

The Anahma Realty Corporation still owns the southwest corner of Forty-seventh Street and Fifth Avenue (the Heckscher Building), the major portion of the Madison Avenue frontage between Forty-third and Forty-fourth Streets on the west side (now the Canadian Pacific Building), 61 Broadway heretofore in the title of Robert E. Dowling and Henry Morgenthau, the Marlin-Rockwell Building at 366 Madison Avenue opposite the Ritz Hotel and several other parcels of valuable uptown and downtown property.

Byrne & Bowman have resold for the Placid Realty Company, Inc., John Katzman, President, to the Gaines-Roberts Company, 4,171-4,177 Broadway, southwest corner of 177th Street, a one-story business building containing nine stores on a plot 90 by 100 feet. The property rents for $29,000 and was held at $375,000.

The history of this property is a striking example of the increasing values on upper Broadway, due in great measure to the approaching completion of the new Washington Heights subway which will traverse Fort Washington Avenue at this point with a station close to the property just sold.

SALES IN YORKVILLE.

More Tenement Houses In Change of Ownership.

McClarey Brothers sold for Cora Levitch 1,614 Second Avenue, adjoining the southeast corner of Eighty-fourth Street, a five-story flat, 25 by 100 feet.

Arthur Lichtner and Samuel Sason sold to a client of David D. Glanz 407 East Eighty-eighth Street, a five-story flat. The same buyer also bought through David D. Glanz 519 East Eighty-eighth Street, a five-story house.

Jerry Sedlacek and Phillip Reilly sold to Joseph Feit 318-320 East Seventy-first Street, a five-story house. The same brokers sold 326 East Seventy-first Street, a five-story flat, for A. Eckstein.

PHILADELPHIA BONDS SOLD.

Bankers' Trust Company Syndicate Gets $15,000,000 Issue.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—A syndicate headed by the Bankers' Trust Company of New York today obtained the $15,000,000 municipal bond issue for which bids were received Wednesday by City Council. The syndicate's offer was 101.6597. Part of the issue came from the 1919 loan, necessitating Councilmanic amendment before the bonds could be awarded.

The bonds include two issues, one $6,000,000 of thirty-year bonds, due Jan. 1, 1958, and the other $9,000,000 of fifty-year securities, due Jan. 1, 1978.

Included in the purchasing syndicate are Biddle & Henry, Bank of North America and Trust Company, West & Co., Harrison Smith & Co., E. H. Rollins & Sons, Hannis, Ballin & Lee, Phelps, Fenn & Co., First National Company, Detroit; Detroit Company, Stone & Webster & Blodget, Arthur Sinclair, Wallace & Co.

HIDE AND LEATHER ELECTS.

Carl F. Danner has been elected President of the American Hide and Leather Company to succeed J. C. Lilly, who has resigned as President but will remain a director of the company. Claude Douthit was elected Chairman of the Board of Directors, a new post.

Mr. Danner resigned a few days ago as President and Treasurer of the Pine Grove Tanning Company, which he reorganized, having previously brought the Continental Leather Company of Philadelphia under control and liquidated it at $160 a share.

The American Hide and Leather Company has likewise elected a new Executive Committee, which includes J. Roy Allen, Edgar M. Williams, Scott McLanahan, Floyd Y. Keeler and Mr. Danner. Samuel Haight was re-elected Vice President.

PEERLESS HEAD RESIGNS.

Announces That Motor Company Is Strong Financially.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 5 (AP).—Edward Verfindes tonight announced his resignation as President of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation. His action, said to have resulted from differences with the directors, followed receipt of a letter signed by the majority of the directors calling a special meeting tomorrow and advising him to make no further commitments involving the company in the meantime.

Mr. Verfindes, in announcing his resignation, said the company was in strong financial condition and asserted that when he became head of the concern three years ago it owed banks $2,500,000. Peerless now has $3,500,000 in cash and receivables, he said. He succeeded the late D. A. Pardee as President.

Metropolitan Makes Loans On 190 Dwelling Mortgages

Loans on bond and mortgage authorized by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company yesterday amounted to $1,704,450. Of this amount $990,400 were city loans and $714,050 farm loans.

The housing loans were for 190 dwellings to accommodate 208 families and for two apartment houses to accommodate 10 families, altogether providing accommodations for 218 families. The principal housing loans were in North Carolina, $50,250; Alabama, $30,850; Ohio, $119,750; Michigan, $208,900; Illinois, $188,600; Missouri, $48,700, and Washington, $69,350. There were three loans on business buildings, amounting to $70,000.

The farm loans were scattered in nineteen States, the principal amounts being in Illinois, $51,500; Iowa, $361,900; Minnesota, $46,800; Missouri, $31,300; Oregon, $35,000; Indiana, $30,600, and South Dakota, $26,000.

THE BROOKLYN MARKET.

Apartments on Clarkson Avenue and Sterling Place Are Sold.

Herman Schafer and Morris Aronson have purchased from the Madison Construction and Improvement Corporation a six-story elevator apartment at 60 Clarkson Avenue, between Bedford and Flatbush Avenues, Brooklyn. The house, on a plot 100 by 200 feet, has space for eighty-three families.

S. & R. Frey sold an eighteen-family tapestry brick apartment house at 428 Sterling Place, on a plot 49 by 128 feet, to an investor. It was held at $85,000.

Francis J. Gaffney, the broker, also sold for J. J. Heffernan a plot 100 by 200 feet on the south side of Terrace Place, running through to Seeley Street, to J. Kruger and S. Rubin, who will erect eight two-family dwellings with garages. The plot was held at $35,000.

OLD HOFBRAU IN DEAL.

The old Hofbrau Haus at the southeast corner of Broadway and Thirtieth Street, sold about a year ago by August Janssen, restaurateur, has been resold by the Ittman Realty Corporation, which took title to it last January.

The property is valued at $600,000 and is known as 1,214-1,216 Broadway and 30-40 West Thirtieth Street. The new owner is the Elgebia Realty and Improvement Company.

Loans on West Bronx Houses.

Temporary building loans approximating $350,000 have been arranged by the Federal Realty Service Corporation and Realty Clearance to cover the erection of thirty-six two-family brick dwellings with garages, on Corlear and Tibbetts Avenues at 234th Street. Each house will contain eleven rooms, with two baths on each floor, and will be sold for approximately $18,500.

Six-Story Flat Is Leased.

Potter, Hamilton & Butler, Inc., have leased 608 and 610 West 150th Street to Realty Two, Inc., for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $450,000. This building fronts 130 feet on 150th Street by 100 feet in depth and consists of a six-story elevator apartment house. Joseph A. Voltter acted as associate broker in this transaction.

Honkie Sells Two Flats.

The Stockton Holding Company, Inc., Emil Levin, President, purchased from the Realty Sureties, Inc., Oscar E. Konkle, President, two six-story elevator apartments, 3,089-3,099 Broadway, on a plot 211 by 100 feet, known as the Buckingham Apartments and the Hazelton Court, held at $650,000.

Property Adjoining Bank Site at North Pelham Traded for Manor Plot—Other Deals.

Alfred Burke Stone has sold a plot 85 by 80 feet on First Street, North Pelham, N. Y., adjoining the Fifth Avenue corner on which the Pelham National Bank plans to erect a three-story bank and office structure. The buyer, Dominic Amato, gave in part payment a vacant plot 200 by 100 feet on Monroe Street, Pelham Manor.

Alexander Werner, the broker, also sold for the Pelham-City Line Holding Corporation, William Birnbaum, President, a business plot, 42 by 125 feet, on Boston Post Road, opposite the entrance to the new Hutchinson River Parkway. The buyer is C. F. Howes of Pelham Manor.

A new Colonial home in Wallace Manor, Mount Vernon, was sold to M. J. Nora by J. M. Valk, who also sold a business plot 100 by 100 feet in Scarsdale for the Farley Organization.

In the Bellecsaire Gardens development at Bayside-Flushing, L. I., the Civic Realty, Inc., sold to Edward Chaffee a business site, 90 by 100 feet, on Nassau Boulevard, at 230th Street. Rosie Shuls bought a five-lot corner plot, 100 feet square, at Sixty-fourth Avenue and 219th Street.

RECORD MORTGAGE SALES.

Sales of guaranteed first mortgages and first mortgage certificates by the New York Title and Mortgage Company to individual and corporate investors during the year 1927 were $209,800,021, according to an announcement yesterday. This is said to be the largest amount of guaranteed mortgages ever sold in this country in one year by a single company. It is an increase of $16,524,808 over the total of the year before.

About two years ago the company, following a merger with the United States Title Guaranty Company, became the largest title company in the world, with capital funds of over $40,000,000. The funds are now $43,359,851.

Harry A. Kahler, President of the company, said yesterday that during 1927 there was a decrease in fee title applications due to a less active real estate market, but that this had been more than offset by an increase in volume of mortgage business.

BANK OPERATORS IN LEASE.

Managing Corporation Takes Four Floors in Court Square Building.

The Beneficial Operating Bureau, a managing corporation for three chains operating 170 industrial banks in twenty-two States, has leased for a long term through the Loring M. Hewen Company, Inc., four floors, aggregating 32,000 square feet, in the Court Square Building at 2 Lafayette Street.

The bureau now occupies 10,000 square feet at 468 Fourth Avenue. According to Charles H. Watts, President, the expansion is necessary because the business of the corporation during 1927 reached an aggregate total of $40,000,000, more than double the 1926 total.

Resale on Water Street.

Charles F. Noyes Company, Inc., has resold for James S. Anderson to H. A. Fogg 249 Water Street, a five-story building, 25 by 88 feet, between Peck Slip and Beekman Street. The purchaser will occupy. The property was valued at $40,000.

DEAL ON VALENTINE AVENUE

Investor Buys Apartment House Near Fordham Road for All Cash—Other Bronx Sales.

A plot of four lots at the northeast corner of Appleton and Roebling Avenues was sold yesterday by Benjamin Tunick to Charles Ell. Rizzo & Fiore were in the deal.

The purchaser also acquired on a resale from the Eroif Realty Corporation two lots adjoining on Appleton Avenue. He has assembled a plot of six lots on which will be erected an apartment house and a taxpayer.

An investing client of Schwab & Co. purchased 2,362 Valentine Avenue, 150 feet south of Fordham Road, a five- and one-half-story apartment house on a plot of 50 by 150 feet. It was an all-cash deal.

Dwyer, Just & Toye purchased the southwest corner of 174th Street and Boone Avenue. This property is directly in front of the new bridge now nearing completion on 174th Street. Frank J. Armstrong & Brothers, Inc., were the brokers.

The same buyers also purchased the plot, 50 by 100 feet, on the north side of 158th Street, 92 feet east of Courtlandt Avenue, O. Gotthelf being the broker.

The Herman A. Acker Corporation has sold for the Fordhof Realty Company, Inc., the property at the northeast corner of 176th Street and Jerome Avenue.

This property, consisting of a plot 26 by 120 feet, was purchased fifteen years ago by J. Harris Jones, who in 1921 erected thereon the present one-story taxpayer containing nine stores. This is the first sale of the building since its erection. The property was held at $135,000.

The Lenjo Realty Corporation, Julius Wielar, President, purchased the five-and-one-half-story apartment at 3,235 Hull Avenue, being the southwest corner of 207th Street. This is the first sale of the property since erected. There are twenty-seven families, and it was held at $130,000. Joseph Leitner was the broker in this transaction.

SAYS OUR OWN SHIPS GROW IN FAVOR HERE

O'Connor Declares Americans Are Realizing More the Benefits of Our Marine.

PRIVATE OPERATION URGED

Shipping Board Head Advocates Congressional Action to This End, or Expansion by Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The year 1927 was distinguished by a growing national sentiment in favor of American ships, T. V. O'Connor, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board and President of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, declared in a summary of conditions prepared today for THE NEW YORK TIMES. His statement follows:

"In the last year we have seen many evidences of a steadily growing national sentiment in favor of American ships.

"Exporters and importers of agricultural products and manufactured articles have observed more clearly than before the benefits to themselves of American ships regularly available in all of our important ports.

"And that we should have our own merchant ships carrying our flag on all the oceans and carrying a substantial part of American exports and American imports is established policy.

"It has been and is our desire to have a merchant marine, but it is also our desire to have that merchant marine owned and operated by American business men using their own capital, supplemented, for a few years at least, by Government aid.

"The United States Shipping Board has sold many ships, but has offered many ships for sale without attracting bids for their purchase.

"Important things to be considered at the present time are:

"1. That under any and all conditions the American flag remains on the ocean.

"2. That the ownership and operation of American ships be placed in private hands as soon as private hands are willing to take these business ventures.

"3. That Congress pass laws which will make easier our problem of getting publicly owned ships into private hands, or make laws permitting further development of American shipping under Government operation.

"4 That the United States Shipping Board, taking advantage of its experience gained in the few years of its existence, should give to American shippers in the current years the best and most economical service possible."

To Change Name of Liner Bremen.

The North German Lloyd Line announced yesterday that when the steamship Bremen reaches this port in April or May her name will be changed to Karlsruhe.

PLEADS FOR SUPPORT OF MERCHANT MARINE

Capt. Tomb, Who Trains Officers for Service, Tells 200 Women It Is Fast Declining.

A strong plea for public support of the United States Merchant Marine was voiced yesterday by Captain J. H. Tomb of the U. S. S. Newport, the training ship for officers of the Merchant Marine, speaking at the regular monthly meeting of the Legislative League of New York, at the Hotel Astor. A majority of the officers now serving on American Merchant Marine vessels were trained under the supervision of Captain Tomb on the Newport, which is stationed at Bedloe's Island.

The American public does not realize the importance of a thriving merchant marine to the nation, and consequently our mercantile shipping activities are declining with an alarming rapidity, said Captain Tomb.

"The day is not far off," he continued, "when American exporters to South America will have to ship their products by way of England or France, unless our merchant marine shows a vast improvement."

Captain Tomb estimated that about 25 or 30 per cent. of our exports and imports were handled by American ships at present, and the remainder by foreign vessels. He predicted that in a few years the ratio would decrease to 10 per cent., if the merchant marine continued to decline as it has recently. He said public interest was needed to save the merchant marine.

Other speakers were Dr. Thomas S. Dietsch, surgeon of the U. S. S. Newport; the Rev. A. Lincoln Moore, chaplain of the Port Society, and Mrs. Thomas Slack, former President of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs, who presided. About 200 women attended.

WANTS COAL-BURNING SHIPS

Shipping Board Committee Would Equip Six Laid-Up Vessels.

Ships that are now in the laid-up fleet of the Shipping Board may enter active service shortly in connection with the Government's efforts to further the use of pulverized coal for marine propulsion, it was learned yesterday. The Fuel Conservation Committee of the board voted yesterday morning to ask the Shipping Board for funds to equip six ships as pulverized coal burners because of success with the Mercer.

Carl Jefferson, who directed the experiments with coal, estimated yesterday that the work of fitting out the Mercer cost about $75,000, but he declared that the next six would not cost so much.

Hudson & Co. Get New Officers.

Five new Vice Presidents were announced yesterday by Clarence Hudson & Co., Inc., as follows: G. J. Springer, Executive Vice President; Joseph DeWitt, in charge of sales; C. J. Hessler, in charge of New England division; T. W. Cullen, in charge of subsidiary stock sales, and E. S. Brockway, in charge of the metropolitan division.

NEW HAVEN GIVES HARRINGTON CLUE

SUSPECT BEING HUNTED

New York Detectives Take Up Trail for Him in the Connecticut City.

A batch of letters uncovered by the police of New Haven, Conn., set local detectives on a trail yesterday which they hoped would result in the capture of the slayer of Mrs. Emma Briswaltors Harrington, divorced wife of Guy Harrington, leading actor in a stock company at Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Mrs. Harrington was slain in her home at 617 West 190th Street about two weeks ago. She occasionally had played minor rôles in stock companies in this city and at Binghamton, N. Y.

Mystery enveloped the circumstances under which the New Haven police came into possession of the letters. A telephone message from New Haven requested that detectives be sent there to view the letters and question the man in whose custody the New Haven police said they had been.

Detectives Winkelman and Roge on their arrival in New Haven set out to trace the suspect, but up to a late hour last night the man appeared to have dropped out of sight. The police of both cities were secretive about whether the letters were taken from the Harrington apartment by the person who had obtained her four diamond rings, a $500 fur coat and about $250, or had been written to the suspect by Mrs. Harrington.

Chief of Police Philip F. Smith of New Haven said last evening that because of the revelation of the finding of the letters, he thought there would be "delay and difficulty in finding the guilty person." He added, however, "there is hope that he will be caught, and his arrest will reveal a criminal new in this country." In explaining this, Smith said that the suspect's counterpart "is more or less a familiar sight in Europe."

ASKS COST DIVISION IN CROSSINGS WORK

New Jersey Utility Commission in Annual Report Objects to Burden on Railroads.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 5.—In its annual report, submitted to Governor Moore today for transmission to the Legislature, the Public Utility Commission recommended that the cost of grade crossing elimination be apportioned among the railroads, the State and the interested counties or municipalities. The burden now falls on the railroad companies in most instances in New Jersey, but the expense is distributed in a number of other States, including New York.

Opposition to Federal regulation of super-power developments through inter-connected companies was emphasized. New Jersey, which would gain much by such developments, is well able, it was said, to handle the situation itself.

In view of the increase of motor traffic, the question of grade crossing elimination has become a matter of concern to more than the railroads, declared the board. Another argument advanced for division of the cost was the avoidance of prolonged litigation, frequently brought by the railroads when ordered to make improvements at their own expense. The State Highway Commission has found it expedient in a number of instances, it was pointed out, to share the necessary outlay.

NEW BAUMES PROGRAM PREPARED AT ALBANY

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 5.—The Baumes Anti-Crime Commission has been in session behind closed doors today, receiving reports from several sub-commissions and considering measures to be included in its 1928 legislative program, including some that will be presented to the Senate and Assembly at the session on Monday night.

One of the measures to be offered then is the so-called "fence" bill which went down to defeat last year by the lack of one vote in the Assembly. It was suggested tonight that it may appear in a somewhat changed form this year, but will still be an effective measure. In its original form it would in every instance have made possible the conviction of a receiver of stolen goods on the sole evidence of the person or persons who stole it and sold it to him.

Among reports received from the subcommissions was one from the body headed by Assemblyman Burton D. Esmond of Saratoga, Vice Chairman of the Baumes Commission, which has been considering the Governor's proposal for the sentencing of convicted criminals by a commission composed of psychiatrists and penologists. The subcommission is said to have discouraged it as impracticable.

Protestants Call Conference.

With the aim of remedying overchurching in certain communities and underchurching in others, a nation-wide conference will be held Jan. 20 to 23 in Cleveland, Ohio, by the Protestant forces of the country. This announcement was made yesterday by the heads of the three bodies calling the conference as follows: The Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, President of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America; the Rev. Dr. Charles L. White, President of the Home Missions Council, and Mrs. John Ferguson, President of the Council of Women for Home Missions.

CITY BREVITIES.

Frederick J. Helbing was elected yesterday Superintendent of the House of Refuge on Randall's Island, replacing Edward C. Barber, who retired after thirty years of service.

The salubrious effect upon the theatrical world of prosecutions he conducted last year against immoral plays was stressed last night by James Garrett Wallace, assistant District Attorney, in a talk at the Cosmos Club, 7,018 Madison Avenue.

The Sydenham Hospital, Manhattan Avenue and 123d Street, will celebrate its first anniversary with a dinner of $100 a plate and a dance at the Hotel Commodore next Sunday.

Turkey to Use Sultans' Gems For Loan to Stabilize Pound

GENEVA, Jan. 5 (AP).—The mystery surrounding a recent appraisal at Constantinople of the jewels of the Sultans of Turkey was cleared today with the announcement in authoritative Turkish circles that the jewels, the value of which is estimated at about $25,000,000, will be used by the Angora Government as a guarantee in connection with the pound sterling plan to stabilize the Turkish pound.

Three Paris experts are now at Constantinople examining the jewels. It is declared that the Angora Government, by having the jewels as a guarantee for a loan or purchases abroad, hopes to advance the pound, which at present is worth 2.70 gold francs to six or seven gold francs.

JAPAN'S ENVOY GUEST AT MRS. REID'S HOME

Significance of Good-Will Dolls From Japanese Children Is Discussed at Luncheon.

A reception in honor of Tsuneo Matsudaira, Ambassador from Japan to the United States, and Mme. Matsudiara, and to R. Sekiya and Consul General Uchiyama, was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, 451 Madison Avenue, by the Committee on World Friendship Among Children, the occasion being the presence in the city of the Japanese "Doll Ambassadors of Good-will." Mr. S. Iye was appointed by the Japanese Government to bring the dolls to this country.

Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, Secretary of the Commission on International Justice and Good-Will of the Federal Council of Churches, explained the significance of the dolls, which are the expression of good-will toward America of more than two and a half million Japanese children. A number of dolls were displayed.

The reception was attended by members of the committee formed to welcome the dolls, including Mrs. S. Parkes Cadman, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Miss Valentine L. Chandor, Mrs. Arthur O. Choate, Miss Marie B. Chapin, Mrs. Dwight H. Day, Mrs. Winchester Fitch, Mrs. John H. Finley, Mrs. George B. Ford, Mrs. Melville E. Fuller, Mrs. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Mrs. Charles K. Gilbert, Miss Virginia Gildersleeve, Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, Mrs. Charles E. Jefferson, Mrs. Thomas Lamont, Mrs. William Pierson Merrill, Mrs. William B. Millar, Mrs. Carl E. Milliken, Mrs. John J. Moorhead, Mrs. Edgerton Parsons, Mrs. Frank Presbrey, Mrs. Howard Chandler Robbins, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, Mrs. Vladimir G. Simkhovitch, Mrs. Robert E. Speer, Mrs. Henry W. Taft, Mrs. Frank Day Tuttle, Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Mrs. Stephen S. Wise and Mrs. Eugene C. Worden.

Ambassador and Mme. Matsudaira will be guests of honor at a luncheon today given by Samuel W. Reyburn, President of Lord & Taylor, where the dolls have been exhibited.

HOBOKEN MAN MARKS HIS 107TH BIRTHDAY

Kupper Bier Is Surrounded by So Many Descendants No One Knows How Many There Are.

Between 125 and 140 children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, no one in the family is quite sure of the number, gathered at Kupper Bier's new home, at 300 Newark Street, Hoboken, yesterday to congratulate him on his 107th birthday.

Mr. Bier, who is said by his sons to be the oldest resident in any of the Eastern States and possibly in the country, received the numerous congratulations gratefully, but followed his day's routine as if the occasion were not unusual. He visited a near-by synagogue twice, read the Jewish newspapers unaided by glasses, took a short walk, smoked a pipe and ate sparingly.

His second wife, Yette, whose age was given as "over 60," stood by his favorite chair and cautioned visitors not to tax his energies.

The celebration yesterday was not as elaborate as on some of Mr. Bier's birthdays in recent years, for the family plans to make Jan. 15 a double holiday. On that day Bertha, daughter of Joseph, one of Mr. Bier's twelve sons, will be married at the Broadway Central Hotel, and Mr. Bier's presence there will be a feature of the event.

Mr. Bier was born in Austria and came to the United States thirty-six years ago. He has lived in Hoboken since and prospered in the butcher business, being active until after his 100th birthday. Most of his sons are in the same or affiliated businesses.

Mr. Bier's 104th birthday was a memorable event for him and he still talks about it. Two of his sons took him to Washington to see President Coolidge. He spent almost an hour exchanging opinions with the President and found him "very well fitted for the job."

MISS WETMORE HEADS CLUB

Miss Maude Wetmore of Rhode Island was elected President of the Women's National Republican Club to succeed Miss Alice Hill Chittenden of New York at the annual meeting yesterday at 8 East Thirty-seventh Street. She is the daughter of George Peabody Wetmore, twice Governor of Rhode Island and United States Senator from that State for three terms.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll, First Vice President; Mrs. William Vanamee, Second Vice President; Mrs. Travis Whitney, Third Vice President; Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim, Treasurer; Mrs. Charlotte Farrar, Corresponding Secretary, and Mrs. Francis A. HOSPITAL RENAMED FOR NATHAN S. JONAS

HE ADDS TO BENEFACTIONS

With His Brother He Gives $250,000 of $700,000 Contributed by the 1,000 Guests.

The name of the Brooklyn Jewish Hospital was changed last night to The Nathan S. Jonas Hospital in honor of its founder, Nathan S. Jonas, President of the Manufacturers' Trust Company, on the occasion of the institution's twenty-fifth anniversary celebrated at a dinner at the Hotel Biltmore. About $700,000 was contributed to the building fund of the hospital by the 1,000 guests.

The largest gift came from Mr. Jonas and his brother, Ralph Jonas, President of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, who together gave $250,000. Two years ago the two brothers gave $100,000 for the new hospital buildings which are being erected at Prospect Place, between Classon and Franklin Avenues, Brooklyn.

Some of the other gifts were: Mrs. Jennie Jonas, $10,000; Julia J. Newberger, $10,000; Jacob and Nathan Levy, $25,000; family of Aaron Levy, $25,000; Joseph Michaels, $25,000; Louis J. Horowitz, $7,500; family of Morris Salman and Benjamin Spitzer, $7,500, and Herman De Bove, $5,000.

High tribute was paid to Joseph J. Baker, President of the hospital, by Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Lewis, who presented a bookcase and set of books to him on behalf of the Board of Directors. Mr. Baker recently recovered from a long illness.

Mr. Jonas in making the appeal for funds said that the completion of the hospital buildings and their proper equipment would call for an expenditure of $1,250,000. In response to the announcement of the change of the name of the hospital he said:

"To feel that my efforts in behalf of our beloved hospital have left an impression in your hearts fills me with exaltation and joy and inspires me, if that is possible, to even greater exertions. It has been a labor of love and I am grateful that I have been permitted to serve."

Supreme Court Justice Edward Lazansky was toastmaster.

Silver Epergne Yields $5,500, Day's Highest Price—Auction Total So Far $98,521.

The second session of the Mrs. William Salomon sale of eighteenth century French art, held yesterday at the American Art Galleries, brought $76,655. The total to date is $98,521.

A quantity of silver was sold yesterday. A George II sterling silver épergne by George Wickes, London, 1742, made by him for the Earl of Milltown, whose arms and crest are engraved on it, brought $5,500, going to James Robinson. It was the sale's highest price. The cartouche-shaped plateau is more than twenty-eight inches long and the épergne is fifteen inches high.

Henry Symons paid $3,300, the next highest price, for a Louis XV period Meissen porcelain clock by Le Loutre, Paris, mounted in cuivre doré, 18½ inches tall by 14 inches wide. The same buyer paid $1,950 for a pair of George II, London, 1755, sterling silver table candelabra with balustered kopped shafts richly embellished. Mr. Symons also paid $1,050 for a George II globular silver skittle-ball kettle and stand, by Wm. Shaw and Wm. Priest, London, 1758, from the George W. Smalley collection.

Mrs. Eliza Walker bought a pair of important George II Irish silver sauceboats by Thomas Williamson, Dublin, 1735, for $1,900. She also bought a pair of George II wrought sterling silver sauceboats by Frederick Kandler, London, 1743. Valerie Langeloth paid $1,900 for two decorated Meissen porcelain groups, America and Africa, mounted in cuivre doré.

LeRoy Frost obtained for $1,800 a George II sterling silver compote by Paul Lamerie, 1746. Arthur Arnold paid $1,300 for two Meissen porcelain vases cuivre doré mounted. Warren Smadbeck paid $1,350 for two seventeenth century Portuguese applique velvet embroidered cloth of gold portiers. Vitali Benguiat paid $1,300 for eight lengths of seventeenth century Genoese velvet with old gold ground and garnet velvet designs. Clapp & Graham paid $1,050 for an English carved mahogany card table.

The next session is this afternoon.

CABARET MAN FINED $50.

Attacked Columbia Student in Row Over Bill—Faces License Charge.

Frank Lewis, 29 years old, manager of the Knickerbocker Club, a cabaret at 180 West Forty-fifth Street, was fined $50 yesterday by Magistrate Thomas F. McAndrews in the West Side Court for an attack on one of two Columbia University students in the place early in the morning. Cyrus E. Warden of 20 Rugby Road, Brooklyn, appeared as complainant against Lewis.

Patrolmen Dolin and Tobin told the Court that they had served a summons on Lewis for operating the cabaret without a license. Lewis was released in $200 for a hearing next Wednesday on this charge.

Warden and a fellow-student, Allen Will of Herkimer, N. Y., who is stopping at 538 West 114th Street, said that a stranger invited them to go to the club "and have some drinks and a good time." Two hostesses joined them as they sat at a table, they said. Two rounds of cocktails were ordered, but Warden said they consisted of water. He refused to pay a bill for $14.50.

Lewis offered to reduce the bill to $10.50, but when the students refused to pay more than $7, Warden testified, Lewis struck Warden, and others in the place helped to throw Warden into the street, while Will was kept there until he paid $10.50.

Detectives early this morning raided the club and arrested the night manager, Mike Bernstein, and a waiter, Thomas Mulhearn, on charges of violating the Volstead act. The detectives said they found a quart of wine in the kitchen on the third floor. The police added that the club also was known as the Baltimore Club.

A waiter of the Golden Gate Club at 103 West Fifty-third Street was taken into custody a short time later by the same detectives for alleged violation of the dry law. He gave his name as John Ruff. This club also is known as the Club Rita, the police said. Leo Miller, the manager, was handed a summons for operating without a cabaret license.
